(This is the second of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

THERE are only a few words comparatively in the English tongue commencing with the letter "u," and of these probably the most used is the word unique. Odd to relate, this word is the most appropriate one which could be applied to the leading club of Philadelphia, the name of which also commences with the same letter—Union League.

The Union League was founded in 1862 and its earlier history is indelibly linked with the stirring times of the Civil War.

During the period of distress and doubt of November, 1862, there was formed in Philadelphia an alliance of fifty gentlemen, who styled themselves the Union Club. One of the articles of association imposed as the condition of membership, "unqualified loyalty to the Government of the United States, and unwavering support of its measures for the suppression of the Rebellion."

A few days more than a month after the Union Club had first met, on the evening of December 27, 1862, a larger organization was proposed and from this proposal was born the Union League. The Union Club continued a separate existence until 1865, when it was mutually agreed that this alliance had fulfilled its mission and its meetings were discontinued.

Meanwhile, however, the Union League with men of unwavering courage and belief accomplished astonishing results within a year. On January 22, 1863, the first home of the club was opened at 1118 Chestnut Street. Within a year the membership grew from sixty odd to nine hundred and sixty-eight!

The first idea of this club was to open a home for loyal men, "where," says the first annual report, "true men might breathe without having their atmosphere contaminated by treason."

The earnest efforts of the Union League brought forth many imitators, and in hamlet, town and city, in neighboring states, a host of "Leagues" sprang up.

Aside from the tremendous power exerted by the "pen of the Union League" in its pamphlets and posters calling for support of the Government, when Governor Curtin issued a call for troops, the League raised $80,000 in a few days and sent three regiments to the front. The literary and military labors of the Union League during the period of strife would fill a book.

Before the close of the war the Union League took a new home at 1216 Chestnut Street. This was opened August 18, 1864.

On May 11, 1865, the present home at Broad and Sansom Streets was opened. Since that time additions have been built and property acquired until now the present home occupies the block bounded by Broad Street, Fifteenth Street, Sansom Street and Moravian Street.

At the close of the war the Union League continued its efforts and entered into the field of reconstruction. It did then, as it does now, take an active interest in all matters of broad domestic and foreign policy. With the assassination of Lincoln, and the succession of Johnson, it became necessary for the League to work for the preservation of the Union party. It has retained its political aspect, which now, of course, is Republican. It has played an important part in the politics of state and country, "fostering and promoting the love of republican government."

As can be readily judged from these facts the Union League is both a political and social organization, but as its political faith is unswerving Republican, in a city like Philadelphia this leads to no discrimination. As a matter of tradition, however, no gentleman is eligible to membership in the League who has ever voted other than the Republican national ticket.

Membership in this club is rated the crowning stamp of dignity in the Quaker City and its roster contains the names of every man, without exception, who figures in the financial and civic affairs of the community.

New members are admitted only when a vacancy occurs, either by death or resignation, and the waiting list numbers up to more than five thousand names.

The club house is situated on Broad Street, at the corner of Sansom, extending through the entire block, with an imposing entrance on Fifteenth Street, and the property is worth several million dollars. Luxury and quiet elegance abounds in every department, one of the most notable features being the superb banquet hall, in which the League has entertained Presidents of the United States, Governors and foreign potentates too many to enumerate.

The membership of the League is limited to 2600 and the club does a tremendous cigar business. As might be expected, the finer grade goods have the call, although the list of brands carried would fill a page of the TOBACCO WORLD.

The buying of the cigars is exclusively in the hands of Frank Whipple and the cigar stand of the club is presided over by Ed Brady.

During the month of June the sampling of new brands offered for sale to the club is scientifically made, and the preliminary orders for the ensuing year are placed with the manufacturers. After this month the club regulations practically prohibit the stocking of any new brands.

All cigars, cigarettes and tobaccos are sold by the club on a basis of ten per cent. profit, so that members get their perfectos from Havana at 20 cents each, and regular 15-cent goods retail at 12 and 13 cents, according to the price paid for the goods.

The club is very punctillious about advertising or pushing any special brand of goods, and no display cards, signs or literature of any character is permitted in the club or about the cigar counter. Each cigar or package of cigarettes served a member is encased in a bag marked "Union League," although the club is sent offers of thousands of bags all the time. By the same token it is against the club policy to accept any free sample boxes. They buy and pay for their samples and will not be put under special obligations to manufacturers.

The club is fortunate in having in its membership men like the Messrs. Otto and Charles Eisenlohr, Percival S. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, and Charles M. Gudeknecht, the veteran Philadelphia jobber of fine cigars, the latter, by the way, is secretary of the Membership Committee, all of whom are capable of judging as to the standard maintained by the cigar department.

In imported Cuban brands their case shows "Carolinas," "Partagas," "Romeo y Julieta," "Punch," "Por Larranagas," "Elite," "Hoyos" and "Las Perlas" specially good sellers. In Tampa made goods "Henry the Fourth," "El Palencia," "Lozano," "Websters" and "Cuesta-Rey's" have a steady sale.

In cigarettes the "Rameses II," Philadelphia's pride, probably have the call in sales; Philip Morris & Co.'s goods go strong, and "Pall Mall" are rated around third. "Moguls" and "Murads," "Melachrinos" and "56," all have their friends.

FREE SMOKES FOR PITTSBURGH MAKERS

PITTSBURGH, PA., September 9.

UNOFFICIALLY the joyous tidings came yesterday to workers in cigar factories of the Pittsburgh district that, by grace of the revenue statutes of the United States and the interpretation thereof by Secretary McAdoo, of the Treasury Department, the cigarmakers who want to do their smoking in this world instead of the next will be allowed to take from the factory twenty-one smokes a week free from tax.

Officially nothing of the sort has been announced at the office of Internal Revenue Collector D. B. Heiner, where the only information given out yesterday regarding the subject was section 3397 of the revised statutes, which is as long as a Wheeling tobie and which in effect declares that any misguided individual who attempts to separate a cigar factory from any smoke without paying the tax is courting a fine of $100 to $1000 and six months to two years behind the bars.

For years there has been in cigar and cigarette factories an unbroken custom of employes getting untaxed supplies from the stock, and this practice led to abuses in which enormous quantities of untaxed smokes reached people other than employes. It was said, however, that these abuses were not found in this district, the Twenty-third Pennsylvania, which embraces twenty-four Western counties.

Commissioner W. H. Isborn's immediate predecessor, Royal E. Cabell, called attention to the erroneous impression among manufacturers that smokes may be given to employes without being stamped, and he issued the decree that "this practice must be discontinued at once," from which edict there is no recourse except by official order, so far as concerns the internal revenue office in Pittsburgh. No advices have come from Washington allowing any untaxed smokes, twenty-one or any number, to cigar employes.

Changes in the Trade

Frank Parcel, of Kokomo, Ind., has recently been looking over Logansport with a view of opening a factory there. He has said that the outlook for locating a cigar business there is satisfactory.

John J. Keifer, of Fargo, N. D., has taken over the interests of the Mahon Cigar Manufacturing Company, and will continue to make the following popular brands: "San Rexo," "Fargo," "Masonic Temple," "White Buffalo" and "Middle West."

Mr. Keifer was formerly in the cigar business in the Eastern States.

Nicholas H. Condes & Co., of Gardiner, Me., have opened a shoe-shining parlor for ladies and gentlemen and will carry a line of cigars and cigarettes for both sexes. On the opening day ladies were presented with flowers and the gentlemen with cigars.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

PHILADELPHIA.

Splendid Display of Havana Goods.

With several new and distinctive features the representatives of Henry Clay and Bock & Co. have been entertaining the trade at the Hotel Walton with their display of goods for the holiday trade. The exhibit included some 8000 of the finest cigars from these well known factories, and the cigars were shown in various sizes and shapes of boxes and humidors.

There was a handsome display case in boite nature, with glass doors, holding on its shelves 500 of the finest "Cabanas" coronas. There was a beautiful mahogany box containing twenty-five of the famous "Bock" sublimes non plus ultra, made for Emperor William. "Menocales" in individual boxes were shown. One mahogany case contained one hundred "Corona" coronas. And another beautiful conception in mahogany held two hundred and fifty "Corona" coronas.

There seemed to be quite a tendency toward boite nature, although there were a number of boxes of mahogany and also bird's-eye maple. A box of twenty-five "Cabanas Pastores" villar colonels were offered in a nature case of Louis XV style.

One could not pass by the special box, really consisting of eight trays, which spread four on a side to the right and left respectively, displaying "Villar Escalas." This package looked for the world like a single box or humidor, but really contains eight pivoted boxes containing twenty-five cigars each.

Octagonal mahogany humidors containing fifty "Coronas" could not fail to be a leader in the holiday trade. These same packages were made up in Cuban cedar. Of mahogany with brass trimmings and name plate was a case holding two hundred and fifty "Corona" coronas. Smaller, but none the less attractive, was a mahogany case with nickel trimmings containing one hundred Intimidad "Odilias de Oros."

The display was quite an education in the development of the cigar box industry, as well as delighting to those who appreciate the best of clear Havana products.

"Quaker Pure" Going Big

T. H. Hart reports that the repeat orders on their new nickel smoke, "Quaker Pure," has exceeded all expectations. This brand has been on the market only a short time, yet the duplications coming in from dealers indicate that it has already made a hit with smokers.

Last week was the biggest week in production that the factory has ever had, and the prospects for a heavy season are said to be bright.

I. A. Mitchell is covering the Western circuit on a six weeks' trip, featuring "Quaker Pure" and "Hartsease."

Boosting "Reynaldos" in the West

W. S. Luckett, of the firm of Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, has started on a trip West in the interests of their leader, "Reynaldo." Mr. Luckett is taking with him samples of the handsome "Library Edition" of that brand, featured in the last issue of the "World," as well as holiday packages.

Mr. Luckett will go as far as Kansas City, his trip taking him away until some time in October. The up-state factories are reported very busy, filling orders on all their brands.

W. L. Klauser, Eastern representative of the firm, is now located in Rochester, N. Y., where he will remain for about a month, assisting the H. B. Brewster Company in the distribution of "Reynaldos."

Another Eisenlohr Factory

It is announced that another Eisenlohr cigar factory will be opened in Littlestown, Pa., in order to assist in taking care of the steadily increasing demand for "Cincos" and "Henriettas." When in full operation the factory will seat two hundred hands.

New Cigarette Factory in West Philadelphia

A cigarette factory has been opened at 131 South Fifty-fifth Street by Benj. Glazer, who is personally introducing his product to the retailers throughout the city.

Mr. Glazer believes he has secured a blend of tobaccos that will prove of exceptional merit, and receive the hearty support of the discriminating smoker.

The statement which appeared in the September 1st issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD, that the cigar store located at Ninth and Walnut Streets, in the old Walnut Street Theatre, was to be discontinued, is erroneous.

Thomas F. Bell, who was advertising manager for this theatre during the past year has secured a lease, and after making alterations and renovations, has opened an up-to-date cigar store.

A complete line of domestic and imported cigars, popular brands of chewing and smoking tobaccos, as well as a fine assortment of pipes and smokers' articles meet the requirements of every class of smokers.

Bayuk Bros. Have Banner Month

"The biggest month of business that we have ever known" is the report of Bayuk Bros. concerning their August sales of "Havana Ribbons." It is stated that reports thus far indicate that September orders will run very high and that everything points to an enormous business during the balance of the year.

J. V. McLeod is carrying on the "Havana Ribbon" campaign in Texas. He is now working in conjunction with the Martin Casey Co., of Fort Worth, who have charge of the distribution in that territory.

Distribution in Oregon is being pushed by W. H. Yochem, who is assisting Mason Ehrman Co., of Portland, in jobbing the famous brand.

Alexis Ehrman, of Ehrman Bros. Co., of San Francisco, was a recent visitor at the factory, and was very enthusiastic over his success with "Havana Ribbon" on the Coast.

D. Harry Maulsdale, general representative of the Sanchez & Haya Company, Tampa, Fla., was in Philadelphia recently looking after the interest of the firm.

"Ben" Wasserman, of Ben Wasserman & Co., New York City, collected a nice bunch of orders during a recent visit to Philadelphia.

New Factory Opens

With a buffet luncheon to their office force, Bobrow Bros., makers of the widely known "Bold" cigar, opened their new factory at 125 South Second Street on September 3.

A pleasing feature of the occasion was a beautiful floral horseshoe, sent over by H. Duys & Co., of New York. A card before the signatures of H. Duys and J. Duys. Ralph Levine, of that firm, was present as personal representative.

A large number of new accounts have been opened for the firm by Henry Riesenberg, who is now covering Indiana and Illinois.

J. C. Hobart, a distributor of Jackson, Mich., for the firm of Jeitles & Blumenthal, paid a visit to the home office the other day. He reports trade as heavy and a big demand for the "Flor de Jeitles."

Mr. Cohn, of the Cohn & Baker Cigar Co., of Bluefields, W. Va., was a recent visitor at the factory of Allen R. Cressman's Sons to place additional orders for the "Counsellor" brand.

The office reports that August was the biggest one in the history of the firm, and that a steady increase in the demand for their leader is continually being evidenced.

Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, of Farmville, N. C. Capital, $25,000. The incorporators are G. A. Jones, E. F. Gerrard, J. T. Siken, J. I. Smith and others.

The humidor room of B. F. Alexander, 206 Broadway, New York, showing the handsome Christmas packages that Mr. Alexander is featuring on his trip through the West. R. H. Davis, salesman, is noted admiring a box of the famous "La Flor de A. Fernandez y Garcia."

JOBBERS & DISTRIBUTORS DEPARTMENT

Hemenway & Moser in Butte.

C. M. Lauer, treasurer and manager of the firm of Hemenway & Moser, has taken charge of the new store at 61 West Galena Street, Butte, Mont. This house is widely known throughout the Northwest and has built up a wonderful business. It is especially strong in Montana and the demands have become so great that they have at last been forced to open a store in Butte.

Among the brands of national reputation which they handle are "Webster," "Henry the Fourth," "Carraba," "Tom Moore," "Robert Burns," "Little Bobbie," "Little Tom," "Henry George," "Owl," "Bank Note," "H. & M. Handmade" and the "Parcel Post."

When interviewed in his Seattle office, U. G. Moser, of the firm of Hemenway & Moser, stated that despite the cry of some jobbers that trade was quiet, he was unable to agree with them.

"We are doing a better business this August than we did a year ago," he said, "collections are better now than they have been since the first of the year, and we have no complaint to make."

Referring to the firm's increase in sales, it was stated that the increase in demand for "Websters" has been very marked, and that "Carabanas" is one of the biggest sellers in Seattle.

Heaney Joins Tinkham Bros.

Robert C. Heaney, whose withdrawal from the management of the Joseph T. Snyder store in Cleveland, was announced in our last issue, has just announced that he has associated himself with Tinkham Brothers, the well-known jobbing house in upper New York State, at Jamestown, and will represent them on the road, covering a territory with which he is thoroughly familiar in all its parts.

New Jobbing House for Texas

Articles of incorporation were filed a few days ago for the Texas Cigar Company, who are located in Houston, and will do a general business in jobbing of cigars and tobacco. The incorporators include H. G. Williams, William J. Cox, and J. A. Setter, all of the city of San Antonio, and they start business with an authorized capital of $35,000.

They have several exclusive accounts for Texas.

Exact duplicates of the handsome display of imported cigars now being shown at the New York office of B. F. Alexander, at 206 Broadway, can also be seen in the following cities: Chicago, at the Hotel Sherman, September 10 to 15; St. Louis, at the Planters' Hotel, September 22, 23 and 24; Kansas City, at the Baltimore Hotel, September 25, 26 and 27; Boston, at the Parker House, October 1, 2 and 3; Philadelphia, at the Bellevue-Stratford, October 6 and 7.

R. T. Serrano, factory manager for Cardenas & Co., manufacturers of "Castanedas," arrived in New York from Havana about ten days since, and has been making the rounds of the New York trade with Dave Echemendia, the United States representative.

Now the Valley Wholesale Company

The H. G. Kaiser Company, who are in the wholesale tobacco, cigar and candy business, East Sixth Avenue, Tarentum, Pa., have changed their firm name to the Valley Wholesale Company. The business is owned by R. C. Peffer and Harry J. Long, who acquired control about six months since, and they have developed it in many directions.

The Goduti-Fanara Company Incorporate

Articles of incorporation have been filed at Albany by the Goduti-Fanara Company, Inc., of Millbrook, N. Y., who will handle tobacco and snuff. They have an authorized capital of $100,000, and those interested include Jard Haughwout, 3 Rector Street; Everett J. Esselstyn, same address, and Romelo Fanara, 464 West Broadway, all of New York City.

All the New York City jobbers report a steady increase of business on "Fifty-six." "Fifty-sixes" may be conspicuously seen, displayed in Charles & Co.'s windows, Forty-third Street and Madison Avenue. There is also a display of "Fifty-sixes" in Pelz' drug store, Seventieth Street and Broadway.

L. Harlem and Wm. Applefield have opened a cigar factory in San Francisco under the name of the Harfield Cigar Company. Mr. Harlem is an experienced salesman, while Mr. Applefield is an expert cigarmaker.

The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau

Havana, Cuba.

DURING the past two weeks the activity in our market has been kept up, or, if we should measure the same by the number of bales sold, it has even outstripped the previous fortnight. The demand for Remedios leaf has nearly doubled during the same period, with a further advance for the lower grades. The quality is certainly far superior to last year's growth, and extremely suitable for the seed and Havana cigar manufacturers, as notwithstanding the higher ruling prices this year it will prove more profitable in mixing with the domestic leaf than last year. Although the leaf is not thoroughly cured yet, as these styles need the drying northern winds of December to give them the final finishing touch, they promise to be workable sooner than we dared to expect at the beginning of the crop.

The good demand for Vuelta Abajo and Semi Vuelta has been fully maintained, only Partido fillers seem to be lagging behind for the present, owing to the flimsier, lighter nature of this class of leaf, although the prices are attractive enough to the buyers. However, as the clear Havana cigar manufacturers can still find enough light Vuelta Abajo fillers, even if the prices are higher, they have naturally preferred in stocking up with them instead. Besides the superior aroma of Vuelta Abajo, this class of tobacco will stay longer in good workable condition than Partido leaf, which certainly is of a material consideration to the manufacturers.

The bulk of the business done in our market was effected by American buyers, while our cigarette manufacturers came next. Our big cigar factories have provided themselves already with their principal requirements for the coming year, although they will not hesitate to invest more still, as soon as they can get hold of suitable leaf for their purposes. The smaller factories, owing to more limited capital, naturally have to be buyers more or less all the time. The Spanish Regie had purchased 1500 bales of Vuelta Abajo colas, which was forwarded by the Spanish mail steamer last month, but it is very doubtful whether it will purchase any more of our tobacco this year, as the ruling prices are above their limits. Germany has restricted her purchases to smaller quantities of Vuelta Abajo and Semi Vuelta, owing to the high prices, but having bought last year sufficiently for a two years' supply, she is in no urgent need of our leaf this year.

Sales during the past fortnight totaled 27,424 bales, or split up into: Vuelta Abajo and Semi Vuelta, 15,337; Partido, 2035, and Remedios, 10,052 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 17,591; exporters to Europe, 2484; shippers to Buenos Aires and Montevideo, 220, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 7129 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana during the two weeks ending August 30 were: To all ports of the United States, 8898 bales; to Spain, 1500; to Bremen and Hamburg, 919; to London, 15; to Algiers, 50, and to Buenos Aires and Montevideo, 245; thus making a total of 11,627 bales.

Cigars.

The month of August has been a severe disappointment in the exports of our cigars from the port of Havana, as per official returns from our customhouse there has been a decrease of over 3,250,000 cigars as compared with the month of August, 1912. We strongly surmise, however, that there must have been a mistake occurred through some clerical error, which may be found upon a revision of the clearances and would be rectified in this month. As this has happened before, such a solution looks to us as very probable. We now submit the figures, as per our customhouse returns, as follows, viz.:

From August 1 to August 31, 1913,	14,679,147	cigars
From August 1 to August 31, 1912,	18,036,467	"
Decrease in the month of August, 1913,	3,357,320	"
Increase in the first eight months of 1913	9,208,648	"

There are twelve countries that show decreases during the month of August, 1913, viz.:

The United States	2,023,376	cigars
Great Britain and Ireland	427,662	"
Australia	240,450	"
Canada	183,385	"
Germany	159,664	"
French Africa	128,213	"
Uruguay	98,644	"
Spanish Africa	84,000	"
Egypt	79,225	"
British West Indies	61,500	"
Russia	45,075	"
Netherlands	40,400	"

Of increases we can only produce four countries that amount to anything:

Italy	66,000	cigars
France	55,489	"
Austria	41,305	"
Canary Islands	36,450	"

"Romeo y Julieta" is averaging over 90,000 cigars daily and is exceedingly busy. "Partagas" reports an increase in the receipts of orders and has augmented the number of its cigarmakers.

H. Upmann & Co. have purchased more tobacco than ever for their H. Upmann factory, which continues to work with full forces.

Henry Clay and Bock & Co., Ltd., are also extremely busy in their principal factories, having a stack of orders.

"Por Larrañaga" is doing very well, and already many orders have been received for its latest creation of cigars, called "Nacionales," which are intended solely for the real connoisseurs of the choicest weed. Don Eustaquio Alonso left New York on the 3d inst. on a flying trip to London, Eng.

"Castañeda" reports good news, as orders are coming in regularly and in larger quantities than formerly.

"Sol" is almost ready now to put its new brand "Menocal" on the market and which will be made solely from the choicest Vuelta Abajo leaf. The delay was caused through the tardiness in the receipts of labels from Paris. The owners, Behrens & Co., have many repeat orders on their brands of "Sol," "Luis Marx" and "Devesa de Murias."

"Flor del Fumar" is doing very well indeed, as the owners, Felipe Rodriguez & Co., have enough orders on hand to keep them busy for the balance of the year.

An Attractive "Stag" Offer

In line with the big campaign which P. Lorillard Company have been pursuing on their widely known "Stag" smoking tobacco, the company have now turned their attention to pushing the pound glass humidors, which proved so attractive, and they are making a special offer through the dealers of a 50-cent selected briar pipe with each package.

Big posters outside of a number of retail shops in New York have led to a heavy busines on this special offer.

M. J. Levi, of the Levi-Kaften Company, the recently organized Porto Rican house, returned to New York on Saturday, after a four days' trip to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, during which he garnered some good orders on their "Averia" and "Rio Porto" brands.

An Elevator Store.

Columbus, Ohio, claims the distinction of having the only "rising and falling" cigar store in the United States. This statement is based on the testimony of hundreds of traveling men, who have seen the store in the elevator of the Central National Bank Building. They say that there is nothing outside of New York like it, and that in that city the man sells only stogies.

Frank Miller, who operates the elevator in the building, has equipped the lift with shelves on which are ranged candy, chocolates and gum for the girls, and cigars, cigarettes and tobacco for the men. Incidentally he sells newspapers and stamps also.

Now if a man wants a smoke he simply rings the elevator bell, and up it comes to the store to his very door. The store is quite an accommodation for both men and women, and the unusual location of the stand has served quite an advertisement for it.

Perhaps the time is approaching when our skyscrapers will have a store lift which will come to any floor for the accommodation of the tenants.

TAMPA, September 11th.

THE first flood of holiday orders has struck our manufacturers during the past ten days, and wherever I go in my rounds, I find the factories running to their fullest capacities already, if the reports they hand out are not tinctured with too much optimism.

Fernando Rodriguez, of the "Charles the Great" factory, after spending seven weeks in Tampa, looking after things in the absence of his father, Salvador Rodriguez, left here last Saturday for Havana, there to meet Salvador Rodriguez, who came directly from New York to Havana by steamer. The Messrs. Rodriguez will stay in Havana for ten days or two weeks buying tobacco for the "Charles the Great" factory.

The manufacturers here are very much elated over the regulations recently sent out by the Treasury Department concerning the "Free Smokers," although some complaint is heard that the daily reports are going to prove annoying.

B. Loewenthal, of the firm of S. Loewenthal & Sons, New York, arrived in this city a few days ago, in the interests of their tobacco business and has picked up some nice orders on "Clover Leaf Shade Grown."

Jerome Regensburg, of E. Regensburg & Son, says that they have no complaint whatever to make about the opening up of business, and that the Christmas trade promises to be quite up to the best standards.

A. J. Jones, of the Morgan Cigar Company, is back at his desk after an extended vacation and says that they have enough orders to keep them busy for some time.

F. P. Arguelles, of Arguelles, Lopez & Bro., is expected home in a few days from Havana, where he has been buying tobacco. Rudolph Lopez, of this firm, has just returned from New York.

Harry C. Maulsdale, of the house, has been sending in some neat orders from Philadelphia, recently, and George W. Meigs, the Far-western man, has done splendidly in Salt Lake City and Butte, from last reports received.

The Anti-Coupon Law will receive its legal test on September 18th at Huntsville, Ala., before Judge D. D. Shelby and Circuit Judge R. M. Call, of Jacksonville, and W. B. Shephard, of Pensacola. The case which is a test one, was brought by the tax collector of the Duval Company, Florida, against Van Deman & Lewis Company, of Jacksonville, who are wholesale tobacco and brokerage merchants of that city.

A. L. Cuesta, head of the Cuesta-Rey Company, is booked to sail from London on the "Lusitania," which is due to arrive in New York on the 25th. He intends to stay a couple of weeks in New York before returning to Tampa for the winter.

Some nice orders have been coming to V. Guerra, Diaz & Co., on "La Megas," and the factory is running full time at present.

T. H. Burt, Southern representative for the Reynolds Tobacco Company, was here during the past ten days with the first samples of his concern's cigarettes. He reports good business.

M. J. Bloom, the New York leaf man, has been here for two or three days on a business trip, doing very well.

That our manufacturers are getting out the goods, is best evidenced by the report of last Tuesday from the Customs House, when the sales of revenue stamps for the day reached the high-water mark of $8,053.29. The average is about $3,500 per day, so it looks as though Tampa is turning out the goods. This day's sale is a record for the office.

PERFECTO.

Schools in Connecticut have not yet received their full quota of pupils. The heavy tobacco crop has kept the children in the fields later than usual and there is still considerable tobacco to be strung.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS — Interesting Items Collected In The State

Tobacco Growers Meet.

Members of the Lancaster County Tobacco Growers' Association met at the experimental station at Landisville on September 6 for the purpose of their monthly meeting and to inspect the various kinds of tobacco.

Addresses were made by Otto Olsen, of the Bureau of Tobacco Investigation, Department of Agriculture, and by Henry Kraybill, of Mount Joy, assistant in the Experimental Agricultural Department of Chemistry. Both speakers claimed that topping high would increase the tobacco yield. It was contended that this year's growth will be about the same as that of 1909.

President Herr, of the association, stated that the growers would be much benefited if the packers would join with them. He said that growers are in the dark as to the rapidity with which their crops are disposed of, and that if the packers were members of the association the farmers might better be able to know the demand.

All members were urged to exhibit at least one or two stalks of tobacco at the Lancaster County Fair, to be held on September 30, October 1, 2 and 3.

Night Work in Dallastown.

Owing to the pressure of orders the factories in Dallastown expect to resort to night work shortly as a means of catching up with their orders. The factory of J. W. Minnich is said to have made more shipments during last month than in any single month in the past seven years.

The factory of the United Cigar Company, which has been operating on a five-day schedule, has been placed on full time, and they were so busy that Labor Day was not observed by them.

Some of the factories are advertising for help, as the orders cannot be filled with the present output.

Johnstown Company Prospers.

The business of the Johnstown Cigar Company, which started operations here last February, occupying the fourth and fifth floors of the spacious building at Pearl and Railroad Streets, have now taken part of the first floor. At present more than one hundred and fifty girls are engaged in learning cigarmaking.

The firm continues to take on all available girls in town, and by January, 1914, expects to have a still larger working force.

Orders Will Keep Herman Co. Busy.

Reports from the John C. Herman Co. at Manchester, Pa., indicate that they will be busy for some time to come. H. Parthe, the factory foreman, states that they have sufficient orders to keep them busy for at least a year. The force will be increased to fifty hands.

Hockett May Remove to Detroit.

Robert Hockett, who for several years has been manager of the Leffingwell & Hockett Co., of Janesville, Wis., has sold out his business on North Main Street to Charles and J. A. Miller and withdrawn from active labor for the present. He still retains his wholesale business, but expects to dispose of that before the first of the year.

Mr. Hockett anticipates removing to Detroit, where he has a splendid opening. Mr. Hockett is well known in Janesville, having been in business on North Main Street for more than twelve years. He is a prominent bowler and has a state reputation.

OPEN TWENTY NEW FACTORIES

August Proves Record Month Since January in Ninth District—Total Employment of 276 Hands—Revenue Receipts Below Same Month a Year Ago.

YORK, PA.

NOT since January has the Ninth District made a record equal to August, when twenty new cigar and tobacco factories were opened, the same number as in January. The factories at Strinestown and Manchester each employ thirty hands. They are owned by John C. Herman & Co., of Harrisburg.

The usual dullness which affects trade more or less at this time of the year has scarcely been felt in the district. Briskness has marked the cigar industry and an unusual fall business is anticipated. Extra hands are being put on in many of the factories, and cigarmakers, packers, strippers and other hands are being sought by advertisement and otherwise, the scarcity of experienced help being as acute here as in other sections.

The revenue receipts collected at the York office of the Ninth Internal Revenue District during the month of August amounted to $108,424.33. The July receipts were $111,747.35. For the month of August, 1912, the sales amounted to $113,990.02.

N. E. Shindler, Red Lion, 5 hands; J. Henry Small & Son, York, 5 hands; W. R. Dougherty & Son, Dallastown, 30 hands; William H. Sechrist, Yoe, 10 hands; Susan E. Snyder, Springvale, No. 2, 5 hands; Rebecca J. Kohler, Springvale, No. 2, 5 hands; Imperial Scrap Company, York, 20 hands; Samuel S. Flinchbaugh, York, 6 hands; C. C. Smeltzer, Bittersville, 2 hands; Minne E. Olewiler, Red Lion, No. 3, 5 hands; John C. Herman & Co., Manchester, 30 hands; John C. Herman & Co., Strinestown, 30 hands; Kurvin W. Brenneman, Windsor, 5 hands; Hattie E. Poff, Red Lion, No. 2, 3 hands; Yoe Leaf Tobacco Company, Yoe, 50 hands; Mary E. Butcher, Dallastown, 5 hands; Aldio Ellis, Red Lion, 5 hands; Ernest C. Smith, Windsor, 10 hands; Jacobs, Holtzinger & Co., Felton, 40 hands; Charles Hoovis, Spry, 5 hands.

Like the Fabled Phoenix.

The store building at the corner of Main Avenue and Jackson Street, Scranton, Pa., which was burned out, is to rise again from its ashes. The building is being put in shape and fixtures are beginning to arrive.

Inquiry as to the business that will occupy this stand has elicited the information that a cigar store and pool room, and a barber shop will operate on the premises when they are in shape.

Dunn Factory Incorporated.

A charter was recently issued to A. S. Valentine & Son, cigar and tobacco manufacturers at Womelsdorf, Berks County, with a capitalization of $5000. The incorporators are Leroy Valentine, Theodore Werner and Frank McCoy.

As announced in the WORLD sometime ago the business of A. S. Valentine & Son has been merged with T. J. Dunn & Co. Some years ago the firm of Theodore Werner & Co. was merged under the Dunn name. Later McCoy & Co. were also absorbed.

Detroit

"Made-in-Detroit" Week Boosts Trade—Edelweiss Cafe Opens—End of Vacation Period Helps Business

DETROIT, MICH., September 8.

WITH 700 manufacturers displaying exhibits worth ten millions of dollars in three thousand downtown show windows, the long-waited "Made-in-Detroit" exposition opened this afternoon at two o'clock, and as a result thousands of people are crowding the streets and will continue to do so for the balance of the week. Manufacturers and business men have left nothing undone to make the affair a huge success and feel confident that considerable good will result therefrom.

There will be no formal program in connection with the exhibition. The displays will be open day and night. While all of the displays are interesting and show what Detroit produces, it is a positive fact that the largest crowds are constantly in front of those windows wherein the cigarmanufacturers are showing how their goods are made. People seem to take more interest where something is actually being produced by real people, rather than simply looking at the finished product. The "Pastora" exhibit, the "Lillies," the "Mazer," the "Banner" and the Swift concerns are all showing "miniature" factories, and if interested crowds for six consecutive days counts for anything, these companies will be well repaid for their trouble in making such exhibition. Each display consists of showing the raw material, the process of manufacture up to the time of the finished product. In addition to these exhibits, the Lillies Cigar Company is making several exhibits of their finished product in other windows, and the same thing can be said of the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company, who make the "Pastora" cigar. In addition, there are displays by the Hemmeter Cigar Manufacturing Company, the Wayne Cigar Company, the Scotten-McHie Tobacco Company and the Bagley Tobacco Company.

Dealers anticipate a big business during Home-Made Week, as it will bring the working and business men out in the evenings and on the main avenues or thoroughfares. In addition to this event, many hundreds of people have returned to the city from their vacations.

A big surprise among local trade was the failure of Frank Smith, who operated a confectionery and candy store, 27 Woodward Avenue, and the cigar stand in connection with the Wolverine Automobile Club in the Springfield Building. In the statement filed for bankruptcy, assets are given at $1,849.71 and liabilities at $5,501.60. Mr. Smith was formerly manager of the cigar department at the Hotel Ponchartrain and is very well known among the cigar manufacturers and salesmen throughout the country. After leaving the Ponchartrain, he engaged in the jobbing business for himself, and his last venture was in July, when he opened the two establishments previously mentioned.

While nothing definite can be learned at the time of writing, it is said on good authority that Mose Eisenberg, cigar manufacturer in Windsor, Ont. (across the river from Detroit), is in a bad way financially. When last seen, Mr. Eisenberg admitted that he was "having trouble," but would not state in just what way or to what extent. Should a petition for bankruptcy be filed, it is not believed that the loss will be a heavy one, as Mr. Eisenberg has always been a conservative business man and did not carry a very large stock. He was for a number of years engaged in the leaf tobacco business in the city of New York.

On September 10th the new Edelweiss cafe will be opened for the first time. It is located at the corner of Broadway and John R. Streets, in a building especially constructed for the purpose by Oscar Rosenberger, of the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company. A cigar department will be maintained, the fixtures already being installed. They are opal onyx and high-class in every respect. Bishop & Babcock Company, of Cleveland, made the installation of these fixtures. The stand is in charge of E. M. Goodwin, who was formerly connected with the Berghoff cigar stand. He has put in a complete line of popular brands, but says he will keep only such lines as seem to be called for. He hopes to specialize on one or two brands, but has not fully decided just what they will be. Among the leading brands he has put in are: "Robert Burn," "Partagas," "Rock," "El Planco," "Romeo and Juliet," "Webster," "Sanchez y Haya," "Smokecraft" and "Pastora." The cafe will cater to high-class trade. There will be private dining rooms, banquet rooms, grill rooms, beefsteak rooms and a high-class buffet. Mr. Glaser, the proprietor, looks for a large trade as soon as people get acquainted with the location and the regular season starts. Seats for the opening night sold at $3 per, and there are none left.

A. J. McBlair, salesman for Marcelina Perez & Co., accompanied by Mr. Perez, spent several days in Detroit. This concern makes the "Tuval" cigar, handled here by Bert Johnson; also the "Count Ponchartrain" for the Hotel Ponchartrain, which is proving an enormous seller.

Albert Worch and Charles Spietz, of the Wayne Cigar Company, are back in Detroit, after a week in New York City, where they placed an order for tobacco with Jules Marquzee, said to be one of the largest ever placed by a single manufacturer.

One of the big improvements noted at the West Michigan State Fair, held in Grand Rapids the first week in September, was a new stand built by the G. J. Johnson Cigar Company on the same spot that they have occupied for a number of years. The new stand is a credit to both the company and the fair. This year "Dutch Masters" and "El Portana" cigars were featured with great success. The downtown store was headquarters for the sale of admission tickets to the fair, which had a good effect on business, on account of so many people calling there.

Detroit will enjoy its "state fair week," starting September 15th and lasting six days. It will be bigger and better than ever. A number of cigar manufacturers will have exhibits at the Administration Building. The Michigan State Fair is known as one of the best fairs given in the United States and people are drawn to Detroit from all parts of Michigan and nearby states.

The biggest event for September is the American Good Roads Congress, which starts on the twenty-ninth and lasts for a week. It will bring to Detroit no less than 5,000 prominent men and thousands of others interested in good roads. All hotels are now booked solid during that week. Cigar dealers hope to reap a harvest while this convention is in town. Many will take pains to trim up their windows very attractively.

Joe Snyder was in town early in the month. He expressed himself well satisfied with the way everything was progressing. From here he went to Cleveland.

Mr. Reynolds, connected with the real estate department of the United Cigar Stores, was a recent visitor in Detroit. This concern has the lease on the building at the corner of Monroe Avenue and the Campus Martius, one of the finest spots in town, and by December 1st work will start on the remodelling of same. A "United" store will be put in, and the balance of the space released. Later on several stories will be added to the building.

Negotiations are pending for another hotel and high-class restaurant, on the order of the Cafe Martin in New York. It is to be located across from the Hotel Ponchartrain, on Cadillac Square, and directly adjoining the Family Theatre. These negotiations have been pending for some time, and it is reported that everything was closed last week and that the new structure will actually become a reality within a very short while.

It is definitely announced that the Seidenberg Company, who operate the cigar privileges in connection with the Statler Hotels in Cleveland and Buffalo, will have the same privileges in the new Statler Hotel, now in course of erection in Detroit, and which will be completed by July 1st of next year.

The Martz-Oakman Cigar Company has been incorporated with an authorized capital stock of $10,000, which has been subscribed and $1,000 paid in cash. The leading stockholders are Bill Martz and Robert J. Oakman, both prominent politicians. Mr. Martz is now State Senator from Detroit, and Mr. Oakman sheriff of this county.

Ray Reynolds has opened a billiard parlor and cigar store at 116 South Washington Street, Owosso. This business will be run in connection with the cigar store known as the Wallingford on West Main Street.

H. L. Bettis has purchased the cigar stock of R. C. Merrick in Whitehall, Mich., and will continue the business.

Thousands of former residents visited Lansing, Mich., during home-coming week, from September 1 to 6. The Hotel Downey was headquarters, and Harry Elsey, in charge of the cigar stand, said he had a very large business.

Frank Jones has purchased the interests of Charles P. Baker in the Baker-Jones Drug Co., of Battle Creek, and will hereafter run the store as The Owl. A good line of cigars and smoking articles is carried in stock.

The Anti-Cigarette Committee of the Twentieth Century Club is actively on work to bring about a change in the Michigan anti-cigarette law, so as to make it unlawful for a minor to smoke the "weeds" even on private property. This movement is brought about by the failure of a judge in Grand Rapids to punish a lad who was arrested for smoking cigarettes on his guardian's property. "We have long realized the defect in the law," said the chairman of the committee, "and it is time that it was changed. In general it is a good law, but the government is robbed of full power to prevent cigarette smoking by minors because section four of the law provides that "nothing in this act shall be construed to interfere with the authority of parents or guardians over children."

Jay Hobart, of the Otsego Hotel cigar stand at Jackson, has returned from New York, where he attended the convention of fire chiefs. Mr. Hobart is fire commissioner in his city.

John T. Woodhouse, of the J. T. Woodhouse Company, wholesale tobacconists, Detroit, has returned from Europe, and with his new bride has taken temporary quarters at the Country Club, until his new home in Grosse Pointe is completed, which is expected will be some time in October.

C. Fink, of Hubbell, Mich., has sold his stock of cigars to Chester Sampson, who will continue the business.

Nick Ruffen, who has been conducting a campaign in Michigan on "Royal Nestor" cigarettes, has succeeded Mr. Casey, as manager of Michigan territory for the Melachrino Company.

Business at the cigar stand of the Ponchartrain Hotel cannot fail to take a forward jump when the new Normandy Cafe in the basement is opened on September 15th. Already reservations are being made, and Mr. Woolley looks for the new department to become very popular.

Drake Brothers, of Jackson, have sold their stock of cigars to H. A. Vandercook, who will continue the business. The store is located at the corner of Main and Milwaukee Streets.

Al Thornburg has returned from a brief visit to Marion, Ind., his former home.

The Grand Hotel at Mackinac, which closed its season the first of September, reports the biggest business in its history. In fact, there was hardly a day that everyone could be accommodated. The management anticipates another splendid season in 1914, and preparations are already being made.

While we don't hear much these days in the way of window displays and newspaper advertising on "Piper Heidsieck" chewing tobacco, it is surprising how well the sale on this product holds up. "We have a steady patronage on this chewing tobacco," said one leading dealer, "and we can usually rely on a certain amount of business every month among them. They come in for a package as regular as clock work."

Some of the recent visitors in the leaf tobacco field were: Abe Hirsh; Mr. Penner, of E. Rosenwald; Fred Singer, of S. Rossin & Sons; Mr. Levison, of Bernheim & Co., and Henry Levy, of Teodore Perez & Co. Mr. Levy went to Washington from Detroit, and from there back to New York City.

Mort Hammer, with Mr. Corrall and Mr. Wodiska, of the firm of Corral, Wodiska & Co., makers of the "Julia Marlowe" and "Lucius" cigars, were recent visitors to Detroit. Mort certainly proved to the members of his firm that he was popular among the dealers here, and that he has a host of loyal friends. His time is given to the "Lucius" brand, while his brother pushes the "Julia Marlowe." The "Lucius" is a big seller at the Ponchartrain and the Soper cigar store.

The Regensburg line of cigars is heavily featured in Detroit by the various stores of the Central Cigar Company, and are growing very much in popularity with the public.

Two More Reynolds' Cigarette Brands.

In addition to their brands of "Reyno" and "Osman," notice of which appeared in our last issue, the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C., are shortly to place on the market two other brands to round out the general product, which have been named "Turkois" and "Camel." The latter will be a 5-cent package of domestic and Turkisk blend, belonging in the same class as "Meccas," "Omegas" and the like, and the "Turkois" it is stated, will be a medium price straight Turkish cigarette.

The portrait herewith gives an excellent idea of the neat package in which the new "Reyno" domestic cigarettes are being put out.

The Reynolds Company state that these new goods have attracted a vast amount of attention from the outset and that the sales are astonishingly heavy.

Another "William Penn" Factory.

The Slater cigar factory building on Columbia Avenue, Lancaster, has been secured by the Theobald & Oppenheimer Co., makers of the well-known "William Penn" cigar, and will be opened as their sixteenth factory.

John N. Kolb, president and manager of the firm, will take personal charge of the new factory.

Key West

Summer Season Featured by Call for Fine Cigars—Prospects for Big Year Are Bright—Department Will Enforce Old Bond Statute

KEY WEST, FLA., September 9.

Summer, the dullest period of the year, is over and everybody seems glad. While the season of 1913 has not been any duller than that of former years, in fact being brisker than the summer of 1912, it will go down in history as the season of calls for fine sizes and shapes. This has acted as a great disadvantage to both manufacturer and the workman who are not of the regalia class. To the manufacturer, because he could have worked his stock to better advantage had the orders been made up of calls for all grades. To the workman, because if he was not fortunate enough to be of the regalia class he could not secure employment. As a consequence during the summer of 1913 there has been much misery among the cigarmakers of the inferior grades, the Cuban Government, the officials of Monroe County and the city aldermen having been called on for aid to relieve the situation. This is something never before known in the history of Key West. This might lead many to believe that the cigar industry in this city during the past summer was in a bad way, but such was not the case, as the shipping statistics will prove that the output of our factories was way ahead of that of the summer of 1912.

It will readily be seen that this state of affairs places the manufacturer in a better position to handle the fall and winter trade, as they all have a full compliment of regalia workmen enrolled and there will be no scarcity as in former years in this grade of cigarmaker. If large orders for other classes of goods are heavy there will also be no difficulty in securing sufficient help, as there is always an abundance of this class of labor. It is safe to say that all the shops will show up a good record when the business of 1913 is wound up.

The Peninsula and Occidental S. S. Company as usual is ahead of the times. The marine journals have for a long time been filled with descriptions of some very fine steamers being built by the Cramps. These steamships are 400 feet long and nineteen knotters; magnificently furnished, equipped with all the latest appliances for comfort and safety. Many have been the inquiries as to the ownership of these palatial ships and at last rumor has connected them with the Peninsula and Occidental S. S. Company, and that they will ply between Key West and Colon, Panama.

Manager Arturo Artolozago and Harry Nichols, of George W. Nichols & Co., got back during the month from a leaf purchasing jaunt to the Havana leaf market, where they made heavy investments in choice stock of wrappers and fillers. After spending a day at the factory, Mr. Nichols sailed for New York, where upon his arrival he will find a fine line of samples of his firm's "Solace" brand made up of the new crop tobacco awaiting him for distribution to the company's salesmen.

Francisco B. Ginto, of F. B. Ginto & Co., paid a flying visit to his tobacco farms and the Havana leaf market during the month.

District Manager Robert S. Tatum and Southern Representative Clifford Copening, of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., were visitors to the city during the month. While here Mr. Copening talked "Piedmont" cigarettes from away back and booked a nice batch of orders for his firm.

Hilacio Perez Presmanes, a tobacco grower and dealer of Pinar del Rio, Cuba, was a visitor to the city during the month.

Among the cigar manufacturers who passed through the city during the month en route to the Havana leaf market were: B. Balbin, of Balbin Bros.; Jose Irango, of the Havana-American Company.; Francisco R. Diaz, of Burtillo Bros. & Diaz; Celestino and Manuel Carrall, of Carrall, Wodeska & Co.; Manuel Sanchez, of Berriman Bros.; Jose Bolano, of Jose Bolano & Co.; Manuel Menendez, of Fernandez & Co., all of the above of Tampa, Fla., where their factories are located.

President John Wardlow, of the Ruy Lopez Ca., got back during the month from a leaf purchasing trip to Havana. He brought with him 135 bales of very choice leaf, a small part of that which he bought. At the factory orders are coming to hand at a lively rate and recruiting on the cigarmakers' floor is going steadily on.

Vice-President Fernando H. Gato, E. H. Gato Cigar Co., spent a few days at the factory during the month before leaving for New York. On his trip North he was accompanied by his family. The company reports the receipt of heavy orders from S. Bachman & Co., of San Francisco, Cal., for immediate and holiday delivery. A large force of workmen are still being carried at the factory.

Chief Deputy Collector of Customs Max. N. Ohemdorfer and U. S. Marshall John F. Horr, of Jacksonville, Fla., were in town during the month in connection with the sale of the cargo of the wrecked British S. S. "Lugano."

Vivian Myers, Lee Roy Myers Cigar Co., of Savannah, Ga., passed through the city recently en route to the Havana leaf markets. During his stay in the city he called at the office of the Cortez Cigar Co.

Francisco Fleetas, S. & F. Fleetas, left recently on the "Mallory" steamer for New York. He will put in several weeks in the East and North drumming trade for his firm's famous "Hamerica" brand.

M. F. McLeod, Southern advertising manager of the American Tobacco Company, has been in the city in the interest of the "Sovereign" cigarette.

The Martinez Havana Co. has forwarded to Vice-President Marshall a handsomely polished cedar cabinet, silver lined and containing 100 of ten different sizes of the "Flor de Luis Martinez" brand. The cigars are of the very best material and of the finest Cuban workmanship, and was forwarded to Mr. Marshall on account of his expressed preference for the Martinez smoke.

Simon Ruppin, of S. Ruppin, Inc., the New York leaf dealer, accompanied by his wife, were through passengers to Havana recently.

Sr. P. Desvernines, Minister Plenipotentiary from Cuba to the United States, passed through the city recently, being en route to Washington, D. C.

Claude H. Roberts, Miss Agatha Roberts and Floyd Roberts, wife and children of Manager Claude H. Roberts, of the Cortez Cigar Co., who have been spending a few weeks in Tampa, returned to this city during the month.

The new Panama Hotel, under the management of Pierce Bros., will be open for business on November 1. This hostelry is well located and will no doubt receive a good patronage during the tourists' seasons.

A treasury department law, which has not been in operation for many years, was ordered enforced recently. The statute makes it obligatory on the importers of Havana leaf tobacco to have their stock bonded upon its arrival at the dock before removal to a government warehouse. Thus immediately upon the arrival of leaf tobacco the manufacturer can have same examined at the wharf and withdraw same for consumption without having to pay a month's storage fees. The only difficulty encountered will be where the consular invoices are tardy in arrival, then this law will cause a little inconvenience. But taken as a whole it is a very good ruling and should have been in force long ago, and will save the manufacturer both time and money.

On the afternoon of August 29, Mrs. George Robinson, wife of George Robinson, of the Key West Cigar Factory, while out taking a ride on a bicycle was seriously injured in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. James H. Tait, wife of the office manager of the Cortez Cigar Co. I am glad to say that she is improving.

Labor Day was observed here on Monday by the closing of schools and banks. This holiday did not affect any of our factories, as they all worked on full time.

William Bayard Hale, Special Commissioner to Mexico of William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, passed through town during the month, being en route to Washington, where he will make his report.

Births during the month among members of the local trade were: September 3, a boy to Joseph Marucci, Principe de Golfo Cigar Co., and on the same date a girl was born to John R. Delaney, Martinez Havana Co.

During the past week it has been raining almost continually, but has not affected our factories to any great extent, as they were all well supplied with booked fillers.

Fernando Rodriguez, a son of Salvador Rodriguez, of the "Charles the Great" factory, of Tampa, passed through the city recently en route to Havana, where he will join his father.

Jerome Waller, of Max Gans & Sons, the Water Street, New York, leaf dealers, spent a few days in the city recently drumming up trade for his house.

Charles R. Wolf, head of the firm of S. Wolf's Sons, is back from a very successful business trip to Eastern and Northern sections.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Co.'s factory is still as busy as ever. Edwardo H. and Frank H. Gato, sons of Edwardo H. Gato, Jr., have left for Atlanta, where they will attend the Georgia Military Academy. The firm received during the past week another heavy invoice of leaf tobacco of the new crop.

"Nofos—14 Seconds from Main Street"

Trade visitors to Buffalo will quickly recognize the portrait above as the establishment of the "Noah-Foster Co., 14 East Eagle Street, Buffalo, N. Y. The slogan of the house is "Nofos—14 seconds from Main Street," and rare indeed is the visitor who fails to drop in and sign his name on the trade register which this company has for years maintained.

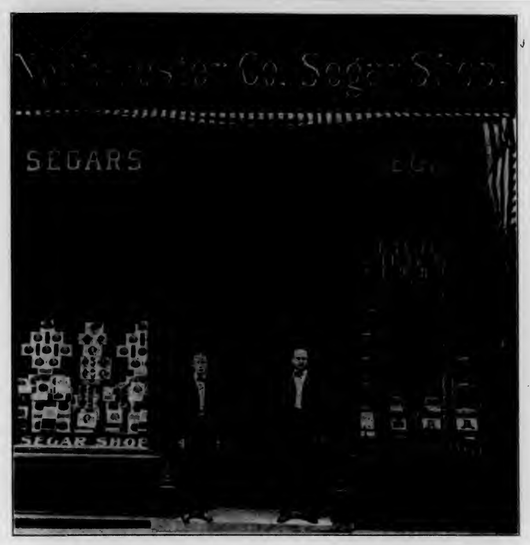
It will be noted that the windows are dressed with a special display of "Baron DeKalb" cigars, made by John W. Merriam & Co., New York.



Pittsburgh

Labor Day Parade Brings Trade—"John Ruskins" Feature Picnic—Many Cigar Men in Town

PITTSBURGH, PA., September 9.

BUSINESS in Pittsburgh, for the last two weeks, has been very good on account of Labor Day. Many people were in town watching the parade.

A. E. Deskau, of the Products Company, New York, is selling "Royal Nestor" cigarettes. He arrived in town this morning.

H. J. Harper, of the Melachrino Company, reports big business on that brand.

J. E. Beck just came in from an Eastern trip and reports a successful tour. Beck represents the R. A. Bachia Company, New York.

James J. Shannon, of Pittsburgh, is now the sole agent of the "El Idilio" clear Havana cigar for Pennsylvania. This cigar is made by B. Castellano & Co., of New York. Mr. Shannon formerly had the cigar stand at Goettman's Cafe.

The Jos. T. Snyder stores are featuring Sanchez & Haya in several sizes, and also Manila cigars.

Reymer Brothers this week have two very nice window displays on "Solace" and "Tadema" clear Havana cigars. "Solace" cigars are made by G. W. Nichols & Co., Key West, and "Tadema" cigars are made by Arguelles Lopez, Tampa.

H. Lewis, of I. Lewis & Co., Newark, N. J., is in town this week. He claims they cannot supply the demand in all of their brands, principally "John Ruskin" cigars.

Haworth & Dewhurst's cigar and grocery salesmen had a picnic and corn roast, Saturday, September 6th. The boys were furnished with "John Ruskin" cigars, which enabled them to enjoy the singing of Mr. Darragh, of the cigar department.

J. S. Kerns, of Liberty and Smithfield Streets, has some very nice window displays. He says business is very good.

Leo J. Spuhler, who has two stores, one on Smithfield Street and one on Liberty Avenue, carries a full line of imported and domestic cigars. Has a big run of the "El Verso" cigars, made by the Deisel-Wemmer Company, of Lima, O. He also carries a full line of novelties.

The Bock-Stauffer Company have taken on the "Counsellor" cigar of Allen R. Cressman Sons, Philadelphia, Pa. They are doing very nicely on this brand.

J. R. Murphy, of the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco Company, has placed very fine electrical display signs on "Richmond Straight Cuts" in the following downtown stands: McCullough Drug Company, Heck's Pharmacy, the House Building and Antler Hotel cigar stand.

The cigar stand in Piatt's Cafe, Fifth Avenue, is going very nicely. It has a good sale on "La Theresa" cigars, made by Krauss & Co., Baltimore. This stand is owned by Lindsay & Co.

H. V. Merriman, of the Bock-Stauffer Company, is having a great run on the "Jenkinson's Best" stogies. He is also selling a big number of "Webster" and "Van Dyck" clear Havana cigars.

The Seventh Avenue Hotel cigar stands are very busy these days, as vacations are near over and business is better than ever before.

The following were in town this week in the interest of the cigar business: A. N. Lennox, of Garcia Pando & Co.; R. E. Lane & Son, "Partagas" cigars; Major F. C. Witsell, of G. W. Nichols & Co., interest of "Solace" cigars; Mr. E. H. Broidy, of S. R. Moss & Co.; Sam M. Frank, of S. M. Frank & Co., New York, pipes; Stacey P. Koeneman, of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company (the Gilmore Drug Company handles the E. H. Gato line); I. M. Cuyar, of A. Diaz & Co., Tampa, Fla.; Geo. Becker, of Arguelles Lopez & Hyno, Tampa; Ben. J. Strauss and Raymond Ray, of the Ray-Strauss Company, Tampa; Mr. Herbert, of Havana-American Company; Sol. Rosner, of E. M. Schwartz & Co., New York.

M. Y. Sugar, of H. Upmann & Co., Havana, was here this week.

A. J. F.

Harrison Johnson En Route From Europe.

Word has been received in New York from Harrison Johnson, who is the vice-president and Porto Rican manager of the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company, that he sailed on last Saturday from England on the "Lusitania" and is expected in New York on Friday of this week.

Mr. Johnson has been abroad since August 1 on a vacation. He will spend a week in New York and then away for Cayey to get after the big stack of orders for "Savarona" which have been piling up during his absence.

President F. R. Hoisington is particularly elated over their crop of tobacco grown this year and the character of the goods which are now coming up from the island. Savarona-sublime perfectos expresses forcibly his opinion of the new goods.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Storms Injure Pennsylvania Crops—Connecticut Tobacco Said to be the Best in Many Years—Banner Season for Carolinas' Markets

PENNSYLVANIA.

YORK, PA.

The tobacco cut in this vicinity is running irregular. Some fields show splendidly, while others have made slow progress from the start. The recent rains have been favorable to the crop, but they seem to have come too late to do much good. Some of the backward crops have been plowed under, as the growers seem to realize that they would not amount to anything. Some of the storms have been accompanied by hail, and this has resulted in damage to the leaf to a considerable extent.

Early tobacco is being taken from the fields and placed in the sheds. It seems that the early yield will be the more successful crop, but comparatively that does not mean much. The worms have not done as much damage as usual, but many of the plants for one reason or another have not acquired more than half their growth.

LANCASTER, PA., September 8.

The heaviest storm of many seasons swept over this county last night. It was accompanied by a downpour of hail, which did much damage to the tobacco crops. Some of the stones are said to have been as large as walnuts.

The rains of the previous week have helped the crops considerably, but they came too late to be of any benefit to the late planting.

The tobacco that has been harvested seems to be of average quality. Some of the packers have offered the criticism that some of the leaf cut is far from maturity. The bulk of that cut has been Havana, most of which was planted as an experiment. It has been cut for the purpose of making wrapper goods. In its present state the leaf should cure thin and light weight, but in color it will not be what is desired. If it fails to fulfill the demands of a wrapper, it would have to go as filler, and its light weight would make it of little value.

From the present outlook the crop will be the least profitable one that the growers have had in years. It seems probable that many fields will not mature, regardless of frost, for many acres can be found where the plants are not over a foot high, and will never reach the topping point.

Really good tobacco will not run more than fifty per cent. of the crop and the sharp cigar manufacturers, noting the shortage, have not waited to buy the 1913 crop, but have quietly been getting 1911 packings. It is said that it has been purchased in sufficient quantities to supply the manufacturers until the 1914 crop is ready for harvest.

CONNECTICUT.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

The tobacco conditions in Connecticut, and especially along the Housatonic Valley, are said to be the best in many years. The crops are apparently large and of excellent quality. The prices are ranging above average and much tobacco has already been sold. The growers seem well satisfied with results up to the present time and many say that they have not harvested so fine a crop in years. There has been a larger acreage throughout the state; broad leaf is, of course, supreme, but there is an increasing tendency toward Havana.

There has been an absence of the priming method of harvesting owing to the cost, as the cutting method averages about $50 an acre less.

The town has been swarmed with buyers and they have been hustling about the countryside in automobiles. There appears to be no limit to the prices, which are averaging higher than last year. The crop may lack a bit in weight, but in quality it is said to be one of the finest ever raised. Each year there seems to be more tobacco grown and this statement is backed up by the rapid increase in tobacco barns.

The hailstorm of two weeks ago, although only quarter of a mile wide, did considerable damage and the crops in its path are considered a fifty per cent. loss. The storm was peculiar in that it visited only this section, crops in nearby localities being unharmed.

Tobacco buyers have been after the crops early this year and the farmers are rejoicing over the early sales. The harvest has been a good one, the quality has been very good and the weight fair. Good prices have prevailed and every one seems satisfied. The crop has not been as heavy as usual owing to the drought, but the texture of the leaf is all that could be desired.

WINDSOR, CONN.

Rains in this vicinity have evidently done much good to the late tobacco crops, but it was too late to save the early plantings from inferiority to last year's harvest. The first crop is practically cut and both in weight and quality it seems to be below the standard of last season. Prices are fair and the growers seem satisfied as the checks have averaged more than the most sanguine expected early in the season.

The harvested shade grown tobacco has been cured and is being taken down to make room for the present picking. The gathering of the crops is being pushed at full speed, as the cold mornings of the past weeks have warned the growers of the nearness of frost.

There are many buyers hereabouts, but comparatively few sales have been heard of, as most of them have been private.

More tobacco has been raised in this vicinity than ever before and during the last year thirty new barns have been built.

THE CAROLINAS.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

During the month of August more tobacco was sold on the markets here than ever before in a corresponding month. Good prices have been maintained and the growers are well satisfied.

The market sold during August more than 100 per cent. more than was sold during August, 1912. The packers, dealers and buyers have been very busy and activity is noticeable in all sections. The season's increase in sales in North Carolina over the previous season is nearly 30,009,000 pounds. Tobacco is proving a very profitable investment for the farmers in this section.

FLORENCE, S. C.

The greater part of the 1913 crop seems to have been marketed and the sales for August were ahead of the same month last year, but not much is expected for September.

The farmers have hurried their crops to the market and received good prices, but the weed seems to be lighter this year than usual. Last year the yield per acre was about 1000 pounds, but this season's averages show it to be not more than 700 pounds per acre.

The growers are anticipating a much larger crop next year, as the encouragement offered by high prices this season cannot but influence larger acreage with tobacco next year.

KENTUCKY.

LEXINGTON, KY.

While a large part of the early planting in many sections has fared badly, local showers have done much good. However, they have been rather sparingly distributed and unless they are followed by more and heavier rains only the late plantings will benefit. With the outlook for more rain, many of the growers have ceased cutting, hoping that additional rainfall will produce a fuller development.

There are but few farmers who expect a yield per acre as heavy as last year, but the late crops should move forward rapidly with the rains. Some sections have suffered all the season from lack of rain, and as statistics show that the rainfall for July and August was only forty-two per cent. of last year over the same period, the crop of good tobacco will be small.

It is very evident that the prices will go soaring, as state statistics show that the acreage this year is only eighty per cent. of last year, and the 1912 crop was the smallest cut in a long period.

There seems to be little signs of rain and a short crop of uneven quality is a foregone conclusion. It is hoped that weather conditions will improve, as all the available tobacco that can be produced will be needed.

A conviction seems to exist that the 1913 crop will sell higher than any Burley crop has ever sold, and one warehouse has sent notices to growers advising them to market their tobacco over loose leaf floors, so that they may reap the fullest financial benefit from the sales.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON, WIS.

Despite the presence of a number of buyers there is no disposition to start field buying yet. Many of the big operators have a number of men here ready to start buying, but the concensus of opinion seems to be that it should not be undertaken for at least two weeks.

The harvesting of crops has started, and the rains and warm weather have been productive of heavy growth, which, according to reports, lends a most favorable outlook to the situation. The northern sections present as favorable indications for a good crop as do the southern sections. Some damage to the plants is evident, but indications are that the crops will be among the best experienced by the growers.

No transactions in cured tobacco worthy of note have taken place. Most of the packers are busy sampling, but as yet little has gotten on the outside markets.

At Deerfield, Mr. Ellingson, state representative of Eisenlohrs, has been sampling last season's packing, and is said to have found it in excellent condition.

Heard Among Leaf Men

A tourist recently returned from Connecticut, reports that while motoring through that state he was very much impressed with the remarkable tobacco crop. He stated that barns were going up on every side, while crops were going to seed in some places for lack of storage.

According to a report it is the plan of several men to locate fifty to seventy-five families in Hoke County, N. C., for the purpose of cultivating 1000 acres of tobacco land. The soil of the section is favorable to the production of a leaf that is of splendid color, of mild flavor and of good body. This tobacco is finding favor in China, where the abolition of opium has turned their attention to other products.

Complaint is made that certain kinds of dark tobacco used for export to foreign governments, where the governments have control of the tobacco business, are bringing very low prices. Outside of this particular type, tobacco seems to be bringing good prices in most sections.

There is a possibility of Raleigh again becoming a leaf tobacco market. Tobacco was first sold there in 1885, and continued to be marketed at that place until 1907. In those days there was not one-tenth of the tobacco grown that there is now in the vicinity.

From present indication the opening premium sale to be held at Petersburg, Va., in October, will also mark the opening of that city as a permanent bright leaf tobacco market.

James N. Reynolds, of Hazardville, Conn., has bought thirty-seven acres of land from the Shaker settlement here. This ground is excellent for farming purposes and is especially favorable to tobacco.

An estimate on the tobacco crop in Warren County, Ky., places the production at about 2,000,000 pounds. This is about thirty-five per cent. of what is figured as a whole crop.

In Connecticut, in order to supply the tobacco growers with wagons, the wheelwrights and blacksmiths have been working nights.

In the Cincinnati market very little first-class leaf has been offered. Low and medium grades which appeared have been immediately taken, and there have been very few complaints.

The damp weather of the past few days has caused the Connecticut farmers to start charcoal fires in the tobacco sheds in order to save the crops from spoiling.

A show window in Belfast, Me., has an interesting exhibit of tobacco grown from Havana seed. In the display are three tobacco plants in bloom, enough cured tobacco to make 100,000 cigars, and boxes of manufactured cigars.

Good Tobacco in Texas.

J. Thomas Hall, of Nacogdoches, Tex., has just finished cutting his tobacco and believes that he will be able to get a good sucker crop about the last of September.

On his irrigated soil he expects to get a yield of about 1,300 pounds per acre, while his unirrigated fields are not expected to produce more than 700 pounds per acre.

The class of tobacco grown in this country is what is known as the Big Cuban, a hybrid or cross of the straight Cuban seed with the Sumatra, and the leaf is largely used for wrapper tobacco, though the smaller leaves make a delightfully mild filler. The straight Sumatra wrapper tobacco was first tried in this county, but had to be grown under shade, so the experiment was made in crossing it, and the result is that a tobacco adapted to this section and one which can be grown in the open. The leaf is large and long, sometimes twenty inches, and is a smooth, soft leaf suitable for cigar wrappers. The small leaves at the top of the stalk, which are too small for wrappers, make a splendid filler.

L. G. Haeussermann & Sons to Continue.

According to a statement made to a WORLD representative by Carl Haeussermann, of the firm of L. G. Haeussermann & Sons, despite the fact that they have suspended payment, they expect to settle their difficulties without much trouble and the firm will continue.

Regarding their suspension, figures have appeared in print giving their liabilities as about $30,000, with assets of $20,000.

Mr. Haeussermann said that the public appeared to know more about the affairs of the firm than he did himself, but that such figures as had been printed were incorrect. He further stated that any creditor could have a full statement of the standing of the firm, but that at present he did not care to make them public. He said that in due time a statement would be issued.

Mr. Haeussermann declined to make public, at present, the basis of settlement, but said that as far as they had gone the creditors seemed willing to accept the terms they offered.

To Introduce Tobacco Binder.

It is announced by the Tobacco Products Company that Joseph Rosenberg, well known to the trade as a tobacco and cigar expert, will shortly be sent to a number of leading factories to introduce the Standard pure tobacco binder.

Mr. Rosenberg expects to call upon the leading manufacturers of medium and low-priced cigars to explain in detail the best methods for procuring maximum efficiency and the most satisfactory results from the Standard pure tobacco binder. As much time as necessary will be devoted to each manufacturer in order to thoroughly educate and enlighten their workmen in the use of the special binder over the ordinary grown variety.

Standard pure tobacco binders have already been adopted by a number of leading manufacturers. After several days of experimentation in each factory the binder has come to be appreciated by the workmen as a long-felt want, in that it minimizes waste, simplifies handling, produces a more uniform cigar and a better product in every respect. In nearly every case the workmen are most enthusiastic over the Standard binder because of the above conditions. Being easy to handle and quick to apply, the individual cigar production of every workman has naturally increased.

The introduction of the Standard binder has enjoyed quick appreciation and instantaneous success. It is safe to say that before long almost every manufacturer with an adequate production will be using this binder in preference to the ordinary grown leaf. The economy amounts to more than one hundred per cent., while the blend of the cigar is greatly improved and its smoking qualities unquestionably enhanced.

Cigarettes in China

In a report on the trade of the Chinese Interior, Consul E. Carlton Baker, of Chungking, calls attention to the rapid growth of trade in cigarettes. He says:

The value of cigarettes imported last year was not only much greater than in 1911, but far in excess of the average figures for the past five years, as shown by the accompanying table. This has been chiefly due to two reasons. With the suppression of opium an increased demand for cigarettes has arisen. It appears that many of the Chinese find this an agreeable substitute. Practically all of the foreign cigarettes consumed in this district are handled by a British-American company, and this firm has spared no effort to increase the business. It advertises extensively in the Chinese language and sends personal representatives to even the remotest districts, a policy that has been amply justified by results. The most carefully study has been made of the market, and prices are fixed so that foreign cigarettes can successfully compete with the native tobacco. The campaign conducted by this tobacco company could be studied with profit by a great many American manufacturers in their lines.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff. All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 236 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

☞ Positively no responsibility assumed for errors, duplications or any controversies which might arise. We will not under any circumstances act in a legal capacity in cases concerning disputed titles. We maintain a bureau of records only.

Crop Increase in South Carolina

ONE of the most noteworthy agricultural trends is the rapid extension of tobacco growing in South Carolina, especially Eastern South Carolina. Until recent years little or no tobacco has been grown commercially in that section. Now, however, each year sees a steady growth. It may be worth noting that last year there were thirteen towns in South Carolina doing business as tobacco markets, with thirty-three warehouses. Even this early in the season of 1913, the State Commissioner of Agriculture has received reports from eighteen towns with forty-one warehouses.

South Carolina is rapidly assuming a place in the tobacco industry, and it is estimated that $5,000,000 is the amount that the Government received from this source last year. While at present this money is credited to the revenues of North Carolina, a large part of it comes from factories producing smoking materials made from South Carolina grown tobaccos.

Col. E. J. Watson, State Commissioner of Agriculture, said the other day that the increase in the production of tobacco in the State this season, presages the interest that the farmers, are taking in the diversification of crops. Based on authentic information which he has received, Col. Watson places the increase in production of tobacco at about 12 per cent.

All the South Carolina tobacco markets report their expectations for the season more than fulfilled.

Marion Firm Increases Capacity.

Selby & Bogardus, cigar and tobacco dealers and jobbers of Marion, O., are fitting up rooms in the rear of their wholesale office on East Center Street to be used as store rooms for their increased jobbing business. The firm is considering the purchase of a cigar store and pool room at Urbana, but the deal has not yet been closed.

Quantity or Quality--Which?

WHEN you are considering the advisability of taking on a new cigar, Mr. Dealer, what do you take to be of most importance, quantity or quality?

If quality cuts a large part in the selection of your stock, get in touch with us. We have something in common with you, a medium-sized, hand-made, clear Havana filled, nickel cigar, which contains nothing but the best imported tobacco.

This cigar, the 20TH CENTURY, has been on the market for 28 years, sufficient proof that it has stood the test of time.

For full particulars and samples communicate with

C. H. PLITT CIGAR CO., Manufacturers, York, Pa.

Also manufacturers of the "Liar" and "La Altoona" five cent brands and "Altoona Perfecto" and "Casilda" ten cent cigars.

It is made of the best, old, rich leaf tobacco. The Snuff Process retains the good of the tobacco and expels the bitter and acid of natural leaf tobacco, making Copenhagen the World's Best Tobacco for Both Chewing and Snuffing.

Whenever a dealer has any difficulty in obtaining his supply of Copenhagen Chewing Snuff satisfactorily, we will help him if he will write us.

WEYMAN-BRUTON COMPANY
50 Union Square North New York, N. Y.

Every manufacturer of low-priced cigars should read and heed this announcement

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS

Grown binder is all tobacco, but it has to be cased, stripped and cut before it is all binder. STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER is all tobacco, and all binder. This reduction of waste reduces the cost 100%.

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER is made for just one purpose—that of binding cigars. Real tobacco leaves are designed by nature to do the breathing for tobacco plants, so they have stems and veins not there for purposes of cigar binding. But they have flavor and aroma we can't improve on, so we preserve it in a tissue made exclusively for binding cigars.

Casing, stripping and cutting, the costly incidentals to grown binder, are done away with by STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS, which are ready for use after lying overnight in damp cuttings. The defects in the grown leaf are corrected in a soft, pliable tissue, absolutely uniform in texture, burning evenly and completely, making the wrapper do likewise.

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS are scientifically made from the stems of tobacco leaf cuttings and clippings, and have a flavor beyond that of any grown binder used for low-priced cigars.

By an intricate, patented process, all the volatile, aromatic oils of the high grade leaf are imparted to the stem fiber, making for a mild, fragrant smoke where a raw filler is employed.

The flavor of filler and wrapper are merged through the soft, absorbent tissue of this binder, causing a unit blend, evenly mellow.

"Tobacco in process of manufacture" is how the U. S. Internal Revenue Department classes STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER.

No adulterations, no artificial flavoring, no ingredients that are not in the original leaf enter into STANDARD binders.

As a pointer on what it means to buy binders that are all binders, note that two pounds of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS will cover 1,000 cigars, where six or seven pounds of the grown binder is required. 40c. a thousand, as against $1.00 a thousand for the cheapest grown product, is another side-light on the STANDARD way. Here is a saving of at least 60% in material. There is a further saving of at least 40% in doing away with the time, space and labor involved in casing, stripping and cutting the grown leaf.

There are six sizes of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS accommodating 30 sizes of cigars. Also, two stogie sizes. STANDARD binders are something new. As is usual with new improvements, the profits go to those who see them first. Let us send you some samples covering YOUR LINE. You are under no obligation except to examine them.

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Department as "Tobacco in process of manufacture".

U. S. Patents issued February 6th, 1912, proclaim the STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER to be manufactured only of tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps.

LILLY, DUNGAN & CO. DISSOLVE

R. B. Dungan Withdraws—In Need of Long Rest—Mr. Lilly Will Continue Without Change

(Special to the "Tobacco World.")

BALTIMORE, September 29.

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from the big jobbing house of Lilly, Dungan & Company, of this city, that the partnership heretofore existing between Messrs. R. B. Dungan and William D. Lilly, has been dissolved by mutual consent and that in future, the business will be conducted along exactly the same lines as at present by William D. Lilly under the same firm name.

The firm of Lilly, Dungan & Company was organized in 1900 and for thirteen years have been one of the most important cigar importing and distributing houses in this section, with a big triangular store at the corner of Baltimore and Liberty streets and warehouse at 207 East Baltimore Street.

They have one of the most interesting cigar vaults in the city, with a capacity of over 1,000,000 cigars and carry an enormous stock. The firm imports such brands as "Romeo Y Julieta," "Por Larrangas," "Partagas," "Upmanns," "Hoyos," "Edens," "Bocks" and "Carolinas," are heavy distributors for "Sanchez & Hayas" and "Cortez," and also handle largely "Savaronas," "Reynaldos," as well as their private brands and the "Melachrino," "Philip Morris" and "Rameses" cigarettes.

In discussing Mr. Dungan's withdrawal, his partner, Mr. Lilly, stated that he left the firm with the kindest feelings and no friction of any kind. Mr. Dungan has been anxious to retire from active business for some months and at the present states that he has no idea of going into any other line of business, but has been so closely confined that he feels that a rest is imperative.

During the past year, the firm have been meeting with particular success on the "Reynaldo" cigars, made by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, of Philadelphia, and they are also now, featuring "Webster" and the "C. H. S." brands in addition to the others enumerated.

Cigar Man on Millionaire Jury

Coroner I. L. Feinberg, of New York, has summoned by mail a panel of jurors to hold the autopsy on the body of the young woman who was murdered in New York recently by the priest Hans Schmidt. The jury for this inquest is to meet next Friday morning at 10 o'clock and the list of names embraced thereon, reads more like a directory of the Millionaires' Club than anything of the kind which New York has ever seen heretofore. Vincent Astor heads the list. August Belmont, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Lewis Cass Ledyard, Harry Payne Whitney, T. P. Shontz, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mortimer Regensburg are some of the leaders in New York financial and commercial life which have been included. J. P. Morgan was also on the list, but Coroner Feinberg excused him because he is in Europe.

BRITISH-AMERICAN CHAIN BREAKS

Company Insolvent—Receiver Appointed—Will Continue Temporarily—Two Stores in Sheriff's Hands

NEW YORK, September 29th.

AFTER a strenuous existence of almost a year, the British-American Cigar Stores Company, which was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, to operate a chain of retail cigar stores in New York City, were last Saturday, the 27th ult., thrown into bankruptcy upon a petition of creditors.

Attorney William Henkel, Jr., acting for the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, with a claim of $159, F. Villar & Co., cigar manufacturers, of 172 Water Street, whose claim is $230, and Lincoln & Ulmer, 75 Warren Street, with a claim of $170, filed the petition in the United States District Court, Second District of New York.

Allegations were made in the application for a receiver, that the corporation through its treasurer had written creditors admitting their inability to pay their debts.

Judge Hough granted the petition of the creditors and named Clifford G. Ludvigh, an attorney with offices at 31 Nassau Street, as receiver of the assets of the corporation. Mr. Ludvigh is under bond of $3000, and Judge Hough empowered him to continue the business for ten days at least.

Several suits against the company recently resulted in judgments being executed against them, and on Thursday last a city marshal took possession of the company's stand in the Grand Central Station, and the store in the St. Andrews at Seventy-second Street and Broadway was also in the hands of the sheriff under two attachments when the receiver arrived there.

Internal dissensions, lack of ready capital and loose management added to the terrific retail competition in New York is given for the reason of the failure.

About sixty days ago W. W. St. John, who was the promoter of the company and who was elected president and general manager at the beginning of the business, resigned his office and was succeeded by Mr. Dows. Charles F. Murphy, Jr., a nephew of the Tammany leader, is the vice-president and treasurer of the company.

The British-American Cigar Stores Company's main offices are located at 480 Lexington Avenue, and their six stores are: 50 East Forty-second Street, 225 Fifth Avenue, 400 Madison Avenue, Grand Central Station, Broadway and Seventy-second Street, and Park Avenue and Fortieth Street.

In an interview with Attorney Ludvigh, yesterday, he told a WORLD man that he had retaken the Grand Central stand from the marshal, and would gain possession of the Seventy-second Street store today. He further added that it looked to him like the assets of the company would not aggregate over $10,000, if that much. Mr. Ludvigh has had many years' experience in tobacco failures, and says that the British-American stores bookkeeping methods were out of the ordinary. When he asked the manager of the Seventy-second Street store at what figure he appraised the value of the stock in that store, the manager gave him $7000 as the figures. This estimate was on the selling price of the goods, not the cost. As a matter of fact Mr. Ludvigh thinks $3000 a liberal figure.

Mr. Johnson Leaves for Porto Rico

HARRISON JOHNSON, Vice-President of the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company and general manager of their interests in Porto Rico, sailed for New York last Saturday, homeward bound. Mr. Johnson arrived here from Europe on the "Lusitania" last week and has been in conference with F. R. Hoisington and other officials of the Company in New York, for several days past. He is most optimistic as to the outlook for their business and stated that the Porto Rican crop for this year promised to make amends for several years of anxiety and mediocre results to which the manufacturers had been subjected. There are some heavy batches of orders for "Savaronas" down in Cayey which are awaiting Mr. Johnson's attention when he gets home, and he expressed an eagerness to get back to the island.

"Fifth Avenues" Going Good

I. B. Krinsky reports a rapidly growing business with his "Fifth Avenue" brand of cigarettes, the orders for these cork-tipped smokes keeping his factory rushed to capacity. From Boston comes the news that "Egyptian Heroes" and "Fifth Avenues" are having the call among discriminating smokers.

W. I. Pixley, the western representative of the firm, writes his employers that the Coast is taking to "Egyptian Heroes" far beyond expectations and that the orders are coming fast.

Cayey Caguas Refurbishing Their Offices

Visitors to the warerooms of the Cayey Caguas Tobacco Company, of Water Street, during the past week, have found the home of the "Savarona" in the hands of paperhangers and painters who are giving the offices and counting room a thorough Fall overhauling.

Henry Levi, President of the Levi-Kaften Company, was reported in Chicago last Saturday and doing well on their new brand of Porto Rico cigars. Mr. Kaften will return to New York in a few days.

Duys & Company Secure 400 Bales

Last Friday, witnessed the last of the Fall inscriptions in Amsterdam for the sale of Sumatra tobacco, and proceedings over there are now closed until Spring. H. Duys & Company, of 170 Water Street, New York, whose purchases were of such a heavy and sensational character during this current year, garnered in several hundred more bales of light tobacco at the September inscriptions to replenish their stock and meet all winter needs on the part of their customers.

This has been a red-letter year in the history of the Duys' business and their purchases for stock purposes were easily in excess of any other individual concern who attended the inscriptions.

American Sumatra's Banner Crop

JULIUS LICHTENSTEIN, President of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, arrived back in New Work from a ten days' visit to the Company's plantations, Quincy, Fla., and Amsterdam, Ga., last Thursday, and his enthusiasm over the new crop of Florida shade-grown was unbounded.

Mr. Lichtenstein says that the fruition of years of hard and intelligent work seems to be at hand, in the output which they have this year. The various farms almost without exception have yielded, not only abundantly, but the most beautiful quality of soft, desirable shaded leaves and users of shade-grown wrappers have the finest opportunity possible to turn out extraordinary goods insofar as the raw materials are concerned.

New Vice-Presidents of American Tobacco Company

To succeed P. J. Hanlon, who has recently retired, Benjamin B. Hampton has been elected a director and vice-president of the American Tobacco Company.

W. H. O'Brien has also been elected a vice-president, succeeding M. C. Patterson. Mr. Patterson resigned from the American Tobacco Company the first of this year, and is now the head of the Patterson Tobacco Company, an independent concern.

Mr. Hanlon has retired from the tobacco business.

The election of Mr. Hampton gives the American Tobacco Company a full board of directors once more.

Mr. Hampton has only been directly affiliated with the American Tobacco Company for about a year and a half. However, away back in 1900 he was in charge of the American Tobacco Company's business for a large advertising agency. He acted in that capacity for some six years, and then entered the magazine field, starting the magazine bearing his name. He was in that business for about five years.

As vice-president of the American Tobacco Company, Mr. Hampton will be the actual head of the smoking tobacco department, although he has been virtually acting in this capacity for some months.

John Wardlow in New York

President John Wardlow, of the Ruy Lopez Company, left New York on Saturday last, after a very pleasant trip of recuperation and business. He goes back to Key West weighing some eleven more pounds than he did when he started on his Northern trip, despite a strenuous social time in Providence, Philadelphia and elsewhere. He states that their factory is running full up now, and that the general outlook is better than it has been for many months. During the past six months, since Mr. Jockel took hold of the New York and sales end of the Ruy Lopez factory, a marked improvement has been made in the distribution of their goods.

During his stay North, Mr. Wardlow spent several days in Philadelphia as the guest of his warm personal friend, Godfrey S. Mann.

Lozano-O'Keefe Nuptials

ONE of the smartest of the Fall weddings was that of Faustino Cornelius Lozano and Miss Marguerite Marie O'Keefe, which took place in St. John's Chapel, Brooklyn, N. Y., on September 24th.

Mr. Lozano is the well-known head of the clear Havana house of F. Lozano, Son & Company, and has been rated by his friends as a confirmed and lifelong member of the Bachelors' Club, so that the announcement of his wedding came as a distinct surprise to hosts of friends.

The bride is a most charming woman who has been socially prominent in her home town, and is possessed of many accomplishments.

Cigar Clerk Held as Thirty-Cent Thief

After losing a great deal of money through overleniency, the United Cigar Stores Company have determined to break up petty peculations on the part of their clerks and have served notice that in future they will prosecute thefts, however small. On Sunday last, Paul Derman, a clerk in a United Cigar Store at 1050 West Chester Avenue, was held in $500 bail for court, charged with stealing thirty cents.

A fellow clerk testified that he saw Derman sell two packages of cigarettes and failed to ring up the sales on the cash register.

The United Company claim that they pay their clerks excellent wages and that rigid honesty is demanded.

Darius Cigarette Store on Fire

The recently-opened cigarette store of the Darius Cigarette Company, at 1488 Broadway, on the first floor of the big twelve-story building at the corner of Forty-third Street, was visited by a fire at 3 o'clock last Sunday morning which was probably caused by the crossing of electric wires.

The store was fitted up in strictly Oriental style, divans, pillows and expensive hangings imported from Turkey, and these were damaged to the extent of about $1500.

Ed. Wodiska, of Corral, Wodiska & Company, Tampa, Fla., the manufacturers of the "Julia Marlowe" brand, has been in New York for ten days past, a guest at the Hotel Astor. Mr. Wodiska made a oneday trip to Philadelphia last Saturday and stated that they were loaded up with orders enough to keep the factory running full until the new year.

He states that he will continue to conduct those of the stores that show any profit until a trustee is appointed. It is stated that the receipts of the stand in the Grand Central Station have dropped from a total of $175 to $200 per day to as low as $50, owing to the scanty stock carried.

This is a fine stand and should, under proper conditions, be an immense money maker.

Mr. Ludvigh will be remembered as the attorney for the receiver who straightened out the affairs of the L. W. Coon failure several months ago.

The British-American Cigar Stores Company spent large sums in defending a suit brought against them by the British-American Tobacco Company, for an infringement of firm name. The bankrupt company won the first skirmish, but the case is now on appeal.

AMERICAN TRADE INFLUENCES IN LONDON

Interchange of Selling Methods Beneficial—Foreign Office to Break Into Exclusive Stands—Want Bonus to Handle Products

E. S. LUCEY, of the Philip Morris & Company, Limited, arrived home from his annual trip to the London headquarters, about the first of last month and a few days since, talked most entertainingly to a "World" man about the steady injection into the British commercial life, of the best selling methods characteristic of American trade.

During the past year, several of the prominent attaches of the Philip Morris Company, Limited, in London, have visited the New York headquarters and several of the best of the New York force have been in England, and this interchange of ideas and visits has proven most beneficial.

Mr. Lucey stated that the pleasure of his trip to London was largely enhanced by going around with the various salesmen there and giving them hints as to how the American distributor gets his goods into clubs, cafes and hotels which seem almost impregnable.

"It may seem odd to the American manufacturer," said Mr. Lucey, "but in London, certain hotels, especially the older ones, will not handle a brand of goods unless they receive a direct cash consideration, in amount as high as a thousand dollars for stocking a certain brand of cigarettes, and this is no guarantee on their part that they will even attempt to push the sales."

The idea of getting assistance in the selling end from the girl behind the counter, or the waiters in the cafes and clubs, is gradually being introduced into London, but is a novelty at that. Mr. Lucey cited an instance in which he called for a package of Philip Morris cigarettes in a prominent cafe in London, and when the waiter brought two packages, he made him a present of one to note the effect. The day following, in company with one of their salesmen, he visited the same cafe and was astonished to learn that his action had been heralded all around the place and that a most friendly feeling had been created by a little courtesy which is practically a custom in the United States.

The new hotels in London are not clinging to the old idea of demanding a cash bonus for stocking goods and it is probable that ere long this gouge will pass out of existence. Nevertheless, it is an open question as to whether it would not be better for a manufacturer to be able to walk into a place, pay his money, and positively know that his goods were on sale, rather than to submit to the continued purchase of the favor of a lordly head waiter and his subordinates, as is the case in America, and especially in New York. Many an alert salesman in New York City, has seen months of hard work go by the board when a head waiter or a cigar clerk in one of the leading hotels or cafes has been discharged.

Of course, Mr. Lucey concluded, many of the methods, in constant use in the States for the distribution of goods, would be considered impracticable in London, but nevertheless, each succeeding year, he finds that some seed thought planted on a previous visit, has blossomed into a full-grown action and good results have accrued therefrom.

IRREGULAR PAGINATION

I WAS asked by an observant citizen the other day if manufacturers who had adopted unique or curious names for their cigars, had met with any marked success in pushing their product and the man was astonished when I told him that the "Liar" cigar, made by the C. H. Plitt Cigar Company, York, Pa., and the "Rotten" brand, made by D. M. Frank & Company, New York, had both proven big successes for their makers.

The family by the name of Damn is probably the best advertised one in the United States, but a new claimant has arisen in this field in the shape of a family named "Hell," who are located in the little town of Farrell, Pa. The head of the house, Conrad Hell, is a wideawake citizen in every sense of the word, and in addition to being a manufacturer of ice cream, also runs a cigar counter in his store. He has a quaint sense of humor also, and emblazoned over the front of his shop reads one sign: "Ice Cream from Hell is Guaranteed Pure and Cooling." Still another sign bears the inscription: "Have you Been to Hell? It's the Coolest Place in Town." A stranger entering the main street of the little village is confronted by a big bill board reading: "Hell is Here. Hell is Always Open. Don't Miss the Place."

The piece de resistance is a sign representing a young couple eating ice cream and the young woman saying to her sweetheart: "Hell for Mine, Always."

Several stogies have been named after his Satannic Majesty, notably the "Red Devils," "Black Demons," and likewise, but we have never yet encountered a cigar named "Hell," though Herr Conrad may decide to make them before long.

* * *

A horse that chews "fine cut" was the latest tale that a Western jobber handed me the other day. He says he knows the man that owns it, and that the horse is now an habitual user.

"Bill," a seven-year-old horse, who is supposed to have his home in Kansas, makes several trips a week to town with his boss. Tobacco is an acquired taste with "Bill," due to his curiosity over a bundle of six packages of "fine cut" which his owner laid down by the hitching post one day when "Bill's check-rein was loose.

Attracted by the glittering cover of the packages, "Bill" leaned over and sniffed, and then took the whole bundle in his teeth. Just at that moment his owner appeared at the door of the store and with a yell started to rescue his "smokin'." "Bill" gave a shake of his head, the string broke, but two packages remained in his teeth, and before the owner could interfere they disappeared, paper and all, in the horse's mouth.

For a while the owner was worried, but "Bill" showed no ill effects of his indulgence. The story spread about town and the next time the horse showed up several of the "loungers" tempted him with more tobacco. "Bill" did not refuse, and soon he was chewing cut plug. Now when he comes to town he refuses to leave the hitching post until he has been bribed with at least one package of "fine cut."

The owner thinks that tobacco chewing is keeping the horse healthy, and for that reason "Bill" gets his "fine cut" regularly.

* * *

We, in Philadelphia, are still privileged to enjoy our perfectos on certain of the street car lines, and I was enjoying both the fresh air and my cigar recently when a fellow smoker seated himself beside me and critically examined a splendid looking Havana.

As we were both of right good heft, I unconsciously edged over a trifle to allow him to secure the match, which I assumed would be in his left hand pocket, from the fact that my own supply is carried there.

Imagine my surprise then when he coolly lifted his cane, snapped a nickel slide up toward the handle, and behold there was a lighter concealed underneath.

Securing the desired light, the nickel was snapped back into position, the cane resumed its natural appearance, and the lighter was ready for use again.

I doubt very much if the average cigar merchant appreciates as he should the extraordinary range of smokers' novelties which are made in the United States and which could be handled in any retail shop quickly and with profit.

I walked into the beautiful store of the International Silver Company, on Maiden Lane, in New York, the other day, and was amazed to see that three counters were entirely devoted to the exhibition of beautiful articles in silver, gold and glass for the use of the smoker and the luxurious furnishing of a smoking room. Ash trays, from ten cents to $250, give some idea of the range of this simple little article and yet one always indispensable, if neatness is to be considered.

A particularly beautiful smoking set in bronze and glass was marked $95 at retail and the courteous clerk assured me that many of them were readily sold over their counter.

In cigarette cases, alone, I counted something like seventy-five patterns in cheap silver, and these are also made up into the finest combinations of gold and precious stones.

It impressed me as rather odd, that even in the best shops of the country in which I have called, I have never seen any assortment which would be calculated to attract the attention and dollars of men who invest annually, hundreds of dollars in the most seductive of all luxuries.

I would like to see some alert dealer put in a stock similar to this and find out how he made out with the goods.

As indicated in our last issue, the Conference Committee of the House and Senate both agreed last week that the provision of the Underwood Bill, concerning the manufacture of imported tobacco in bond, should remain in the measure, practically as originally drafted. The only changes made were at the suggestion of the delegation of Tampa manufacturers acting through their Congressmen and the Treasury Department. These changes make more explicit the intent of the bill and specifically state that the duty which the manufacturer must pay will be on the leaf tobacco used in the making of cigars in bond, at the rates prescribed in the tobacco schedule and not on the finished goods themselves. The much-desired special stamp feature remains intact.

In Bond Proviso Stands

This radical innovation in the production of Havana cigars in the United States is regarded by many intelligent manufacturers as a coming panacea for much of the distress to which they have hitherto been subjected, but nevertheless, the actual operation of the law will be necessary to determine results.

Sure it is, that an honest manufacturer who sends his goods out from Tampa or wherever it may be, with a Government stamp affixed thereon, mutely testifying to the honesty of the goods contained in the box, is in much better shape ethically to fight for his business against the man who guarantees his goods by word of mouth to be all-Havana and who is cheating his trade.

The mere fact that if a manufacturer does make his goods in bond, and does use clear Havana tobacco through and through, that he will be able to back his products with a Government guarantee and stamp, will likely tend toward the discouragement of the practice of introducing domestic tobacco into so-called clear Havana cigars, and thus lead to larger importations of Havana tobacco and, ergo, more duty.

There is no question that several of our Tampa factories will at once take up the privilege accorded them when the new law becomes effective and it will be practically up to these pioneers to work out for the Treasury Department and themselves regulations which will be equitable and effective for the proper carrying out of the new legislation.

If the law proves the boon which its sponsors fondly believe it will, a great step forward will have been accomplished in the cigar manufacturing industry and vast credit should accrue to men like E. C. Berriman and others, who have devoted so many days of labor and large sums of money towards securing the privilege. If it fails, then at least, no serious damage has been done and manufacturers can look to some other source to relieve their ills.

Following close upon the announcement from London, that the big chain stores of Baker & Company had passed their regular dividend at the last meeting of the Board of Directors, comes the announcement elsewhere in this issue, of the failure of the British-American Stores Company, which was organized to operate a chain of retail cigar stores in New York City and elsewhere.

Chain Stores as Money-makers

It seems quite apparent that the conduct of a number of retail shops is not the simplest matter in the world, and when the present terrific state of competition is considered, the lot of the chain store owners is not as enviable as some people might believe.

The success of the United Cigar Stores Company has been due as far as can be judged as much to the superlative genius shown by its officers in real estate matters, as to the actual merchandising of cigars and tobacco, and we believe that if the inside facts were brought to the surface, it would be found that this company would have been wholly unable to have made the strides which it has, were it not for the profits which have been at their command from the leasing of valuable corner sites all over the country, rearrangement of the stores, and sub-letting in many cases at a tremendous profit, in addition to getting their store rentals free.

Sure it is, that only a few seem to be born to the mantle of running chain stores successfully, it is a question as to whether the introduction of further competition in this line of business will not lead to a heavy reduction in the volume of profits of everybody concerned.

In England, the chain stores have been having a hard time, from all that is reported, and the bitter warfare which has been carried on in several of the large cities recently between two or three of our chain concerns, has undoubtedly cut into the profits to an amazing extent.

The action of the United Stores in adding confectionery, soda water and stationery to their tobacco stock, indicates plainly that the pace is very stiff.

"Opportunity takes very little rest. You can meet her every morning most any time after daybreak." You shut your eyes to her when you fail to advertise your brands in "The Tobacco World."

PHILADELPHIA.

Liggett and Myers Close Plant

THE plant of Liggett & Myers, located on Vandever Avenue, near Market Street, Wilmington, Del., has been closed and the machinery shipped to Philadelphia, where it will be utilized in the company's large plant at Third and Ontario Streets. More hands will be taken on in Philadelphia, and the Wilmington factory will be permanently closed.

The factory of Liggett and Myers adjoined, in Wilmington, the plant of P. Lorillard & Co. It is understood that the latter company will take over the vacated property and increase their own capacity. The Liggett and Myers factory is said to have employed 300 hands, most of whom were girls.

Mr. H. F. Jeffries, of the Philadelphia office of Liggett and Myers, when queried as to the cause of the removal of the Wilmington plant to this city, declared that it was for economic reasons only, and that the Third and Ontario Streets factory would receive the benefit of increased capacity.

Steady Work on "44's"

The business of the "44" Cigar Company this year is, so far, much in excess of the same period during 1912. The factories are running to full capacity to take care of the increased demand for "44's" and "Adlons." The way in which orders are piling in bid fair to make 1913 a banner year.

M. A. Funk, secretary and sales manager of the "44" Cigar Company, is in Chicago for a short visit, arranging with the Henry Horner Company, Western distributors, to care for the large volume of business that is developing in Chicago on "44's" and "Adlons."

M. Zander and son, G. Zander, continue to have exceptional results on the "44" through the work they are doing with the Southwest distributors.

F. D. Crawford, who has been ill at his home in Binghamton, N. Y., is convalescing and expects to be on his territory again in a short time.

W. H. Nicholson, Middle South representative, has been visiting the factory, bringing with him on the trip a heavy list of "Repeat" orders from his distributors.

Heavy Orders on "Havana Ribbons"

William Deiches & Company, Baltimore distributors for Bayuk Brothers, have been forced to increase their orders on "Havana Ribbons," owing to the heavy duplicating on that brand by their tributary houses.

In the interest of William Deiches & Company, J. C. Revercomb and his assistant, Mr. Creech, are conducting a campaign on "Havana Ribbons," throughout North and South Carolina.

Link & Company, distributors for Buffalo territory for Bayuk Brothers, are receiving the benefit of a strenuous campaign in their behalf conducted by Dave S. Achenbach and Joseph McFetridge. Mr. McFetridge has recently finished a successful campaign for Lewis Killeen, distributor for Schenectady and the vicinity.

McGreenery & Manning, who sell "Havana Ribbons" for Boston territory, report heavily increasing sales on that brand. The orders from the retailers to that house have been augmented by the excellent work of M. M. Wilson, the representative in the New England States for the manufacturers.

"Counsellor," the well-known cigar manufactured by the house of Allen R. Cressman's Sons, is receiving an introduction into Indiana territory through W. A. McIlwain, the wide-awake representative of that firm.

The line of "La Flor de Portuondo," is proving its quality and selling merit in the South if the heavy orders coming to the office offer any indication of the demand. W. E. Gumpert, who is now hitting the trail through Pensacola and Jacksonville, is sending in plenty of repeat orders and the factory is working to its capacity. The strength of this line of smokes is being proven in Chicago by the pleasing order sheets that Warner Searles is mailing to the house.

"Stratford" in New Shape

The El Draco Cigar Manufacturing Company are just putting out a new size in their "Stratford" which has met with instantaneous success. This is the "Oetit Coronoa" shape which retails at three for a quarter, and the goods are equally attractive when compared with the other sizes of "Stratfords."

William L. Crook, the well-known Atlantic City jobber, has been doing a rushing business on this brand during the past few weeks.

"Havana Ribbon" Boosters at the Seashore

Bayuk Bros., makers of the famous "Havana Ribbon" cigars, recently gave their officers, office heads and city salesmen a week-end visit to the seashore mecca, Atlantic City, where all were splendidly entertained and in addition banqueted at a well known beach front hotel.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the house had a souvenir photograph made. The members of the party are as follows: Reading from left to right (top row)—John Hill, city salesman; J. E. Jenkins, city salesman; P. C. Wasleski, city salesman; (second row)—Max Bayuk, vice-president; George Pruit, city salesman; James McMann, city salesman; Meyer Bayuk, treasurer; E. D. Koerwer, traffic manager; (sitting)—Harvey L. Hirst, office manager; J. J. Shea, sales manager; Elwin Geipel, city salesman; Samuel Bayuk, president; Max Gartman, general superintendent; Maurice Leonard, advertising manager.

New Store for Godfrey S. Mahn

GODFREY S. MAHN, the prominent importer and retailer of New York and Philadelphia, has just leased the splendid big store at the southwest corner of Second and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, and after extensive alterations are made therein, will open another store there about November first. This gives Mr. Mahn three of the most desirable sites in Philadelphia for the conduct of his retail business, and the new store will be particularly well located to handle seashore and suburban trade of a high class from which he draws the principal part of his business.

New territory is being invaded in the interests of the "Bold" cigar when L. M. Walters strikes Kentucky. This capable salesman will follow his route through Virginia and West Virginia upon finishing his missionary tour in the "Blue Grass" State.

Mr. Staples, of the Park & Tilford sales force, has been in Philadelphia during the past week and gathered in his usual assortment of heavy orders on "Hoyos," "Nightingales" and "Mi Favoritas."

Robert Boltz, of Boltz, Clymer & Company, left last week, for his regular Fall trip on "El Palencias," which will take him as far west as the Pacific Coast, where his goods enjoy special popularity.

Henry Reisenberg has been in New York for the last few days seeing his family off for Europe. Before returning to his territory to boost the "Bold" and "Discriminator" brands he will stop off in Philadelphia and visit the factory.

W. R. Taylor has been in Philadelphia during the past week in the interest of the Anglo-Egyptian Cigarette Company, which he owns.

While on his way to Memphis, Tenn., F. H. Beltz, of Schwenksville, Pa., manufacturer of the popular "Autocrat" cigar, stopped off to pay a visit to the Philadelphia trade. He reports business good and looks forward to an encouraging holiday season.

The well-known Detroit jobber, J. L. Marcero, is informing the trade with neat and attractive cards, of his success in securing the exclusive right to distribute "Bold" cigars in the State of Michigan.

Ben Straus, of Rey, Straus Company, and W. W. Rosebro, of the Morgan Cigar Company, are two representatives of Tampa factories who have been in Philadelphia during the past week.

OBITVARY

L. P. Bissell Dead

BEAVITTE POMEROY BISSELL, head of the Bissell-Graves Company; and proprietor of the tobacco growing concern, and proprietor of W. G. Drake & Company, the cigar factory in Suffield, Conn., died suddenly in Buffalo, N. Y., on September 24th, aged forty-eight years. Mr. Bissell had been away from his home on an automobile trip for some time past and on his return, contracted a severe cold which rapidly grew worse and finally compelled him to stop at Buffalo for medical treatment, where the end came.

He was born in Suffield, April 18th, 1865. In 1888 he married Miss Mary Weston Gilbert, of Suffield, who survives him with two children, Arthur G. and Mary W. Bissell. He is also survived by his mother and a brother, Hon. Charles C. Bissell, who was the Republican candidate for Congress in this district last Fall. He was well known in fraternal circles, being a member of Torrington Lodge of Elks, Apollo Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Suffield, Washington Chapter, R. A. M., of Suffield, Washington Commandery, K. T., of Hartford, Sphinx Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Hartford, and Gideon Granger Lodge, K. of P., of Suffield.

Lyndon W. Powers

A stroke of paralysis caused the death of Lyndon W. Powers, at his home, 1229 East Fifty-third Street, Chicago, Ill., on September 20th. For many years Mr. Powers was associated with Berriman Brothers in the cigar business, and later became president of the National Cigar Store Company.

Mr. Powers is survived by a widow, a son and a daughter. The deceased was fifty-nine years of age.

Henry Bruns

Henry Bruns, cigar manufacturer and merchant of Concord, N. H., died suddenly this week.

Henry Bruns was a native of Cincinanti, O., aged fifty-three years, and leaves a brother and sister, Mrs. Mary Klaus, of Oakland, and Benjamin Bruns, of San Francisco. His sister was a heavy loser in the recent floods in Ohio and when he learned of her plight Bruns and his brother forwarded funds to bring her to California and she arrived a few days ago. Bruns came to Concord several years ago and opened a tobacco store.

Max Tischler.

Max Tischler, a cigar manufacturer, died in one of the local hospitals of Norfolk, Va., on September 8.

The deceased was a native of Prussia and was in his fiftieth year. He had lived in Norfolk for thirty years, was well known and highly esteemed.

Mr. Tischler is survived by one son and three daughters. He was a Mason and a member of the Owls.

Samuel Prince

After a brief illness, Samuel Prince a retired cigar manufacturer, died at his home, 1942 Lexington Avenue, New York, of diabetes. The deceased was seventy-eight years old, and for fifty years had been active in politics and in Jewish charitable affairs.

Mr. Prince is survived by two sons and three daughters.

Ralph A. Ladd

Ralph A. Ladd, for many years associated with Lorillard & Co., in St. Louis, died in that city on September 17th.

Mr. Ladd was a brother of Captain John Ladd of the Confederate troops who fired on the German troops at St. Louis, at the outbreak of the Civil War.

The deceased was 66 years old.

Maurice Schlesinger.

After an illness of eleven weeks, Maurice Schlesinger, for thirty years wholesale tobacco dealer of Worcester, Mass., died of cancer of the intestines, on September 9, at his home, 4 West Street.

Mr. Schlesinger was born in Jassi, Roumania, and spent his younger days there, coming to this country when he was about thirty years old. His first venture was to sell rubber stamps, but within a year he had saved enough money to start in the wholesale tobacco business. The deceased was sixty-one years old and a Mason.

Mr. Schlesinger is survived by a widow, one son and one daughter.

Francis M. Sprewenburg

D. A. Rawley.

D. A. Rawley, for more than fifteen years a manufacturer of tobacco in Mt. Airy, N. C., died at the home of his son, J. P. Rawley, in Greensboro, N. C., on September 7.

Acute indigestion was the immediate cause of Mr. Rawley's death, but he has been in failing health for some time and has been traveling from state to state seeking relief.

The deceased is survived by a widow, five sons and one daughter. Two brothers are also living.

Henry C. Lester

Henry C. Lester, seventy-six years old, died of asthma in Martinsville, Va., on September 18th. Mr. Lester was for many years an active business man and was engaged in the manufacture of tobacco. At the time of his death he was second vice-president of the Danville and Western Railroad. Mr. Lester was a director of the leading banks and one of Henry County's wealthiest citizens.

The deceased is survived by a widow and one sister.

Jackson H. Kelley, of Salomon Brothers & Stern, is on his way West to Omaha and is sending in some excellent holiday orders on "Aplomos."

S. Rolfe, Tallahassee, Fla., having disposed of his cigar business to H. Wahnish and H. Ball, has moved with his family to Savannah, Ga., where he intends to continue in the same line.

New Factory for Fleck Cigar Co.

The Fleck Cigar Company, with main factory located on Orange, near Chestnut Street, Reading, Pa., filed a bond in the sum of $3000 with Deputy Revenue Collector F. W. Cranston for the purpose of operating an additional factory, which will be located at Fritztown.

This is the only village in Western Berks in close proximity to the city, where available help can be procured, all other towns in Western Berks having large cigar factories. The Fritztown plant will start with forty hands.

CLUBDOM SMOKING No. 3

THE CITY CLUB, 315 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

(This is the third of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

DOWN on Plymouth Court, in Chicago, is a six-story clubhouse sheltering one of the more unique organizations in clubdom. The building is the home of the City Club of Chicago, an organization devoted to the best civic interests of the city. The clubhouse is a center for civic work, and its halls are devoted to exhibits of all sorts which bear on the interests of Chicago. The club has done notable work along lines of housing, civic planning and general improvement of municipal affairs.

The clubhouse provides complete facilities for its work. Large halls devoted to exhibits, rooms for conferences and committee meetings, dining rooms and banquet halls, make up an equipment unique and complete for the work of the organization. The main dining room has been constructed especially for such purposes, being free from columns and designed to reduce noise to a minimum. A balcony has been built to afford those who desire to do so, an opportunity to hear the after-dinner speeches without attending the banquet.

The club membership is recruited among the men deeply interested in civic affairs. A review of the names of the standing committees would show as members men prominently identified with all phases of work looking toward the betterment of conditions in Chicago. And affiliation with the affairs of the club insures one's standing in Chicago in any branch of the work.

The club was organized in 1903, to "bring together in informal association as many as possible of those men—who sincerely desire to meet the full measure of their responsibility as citizens—" according to the circular issued at that time. J. V. Farwell presided at the meeting of organization December 5, 1903, at which the club was launched.

The first quarters of the club were taken immediately after the organization, and sheltered the organization until 1905. They consisted of a suite of rooms at 178-180 West Madison Street. In 1905 the club moved to more commodious quarters at 218 South Clark Street, and in December, 1911, moved into the present clubhouse, which at that time had hardly been completed. The property is held on a ninety-one year lease.

The membership numbers such old warhorses as George C. Sikes, one of the leading fighters in the long battle which cleaned up the Chicago City Council, shook loose the grip of one of the most pernicious traction rings that ever existed and made of a body, once a by-word for corruption, one that now compares favorably with any in the land. Among the younger figures in the same fight, who is prominently identified with the club is Professor Charles E. Merriam, the "professor-alderman" who waged such a spectacular campaign for the mayoralty two years ago, and who is still a prominent figure in local Progressive circles. The secretary of the club, George Hooker, also is a big figure in these stirring battles.

A name formerly almost synonymous with the work of cleaning up Councils is that of Walter L. Fisher, formerly a president of the club, and nationally known for his work of investigation of the Alaskan coal and mineral lands problem. Another man in a somewhat different line of work is former vice-president Julian W. Mack, now a judge of the Commerce Court. Victor Elting, Alfred L. Baker and Henry Baird Favill are other widely known former officers. And included in the list is the name of the famous philanthropist and worker, Raymond Robins.

The list of addresses, conferences and studies given and held by the club is an imposing one. Typical subjects are "The Draft Franchise Ordinance for the Chicago City Railway Company," by the counsel for the city; "Municipal Conditions in New York City," by William Travers Jerome; "The Need of a New Primary Election Law," by ex-Governor Charles S. Deneen; "The Proposed Solution of the (Chicago) Railway Terminal Problem," by Frederic A. Delano, Isham Randolph, Jarvis Hunt and Dwight H. Perkins, and "Municipal Home Rule," by the late Tom Johnson, indicate not only the character and scope of the club's work, but also the standing it enjoys among the leaders of the nation.

The cigar counter occupies a recess off the main entrance corridor. The front of the counter is hidden by a heavy oak screen, the stand and space it occupies being trimmed exclusively in dark oak. It is equipped with a capacious humidor, large enough to hold a big stock for a considerable period. The buying is done by the club manager, J. R. Eignan. Edward McCarthy is in charge of the counter.

The trade at the counter is unique in many respects. The club is not a residence club, and this makes toward a more transient custom. Another peculiar feature is the light trade in cigarettes. Most of the trade is in "after-dinner smokes," and tends largely to cigars of the heavier sort.

TAMPA TIPS

Gratifying Increase in Fall Orders—Salesmen Motorists Catch a Fine—Ives Daylight Producer to Receive Demonstration Before Manufacturers—Customs House Collections Show Gain

TAMPA, FLA., September 26th.

OUR factories here report a continuous increase in the volume of orders received daily and, almost without exception, all of them have their tables entirely filled with cigarmakers, and wherever possible are snapping up additional hands to take care of present needs.

Announcement card received in the city today, detailed the wedding of "Tino" Lozano, head of the Lozano factory here, and congratulations have been wired North in large numbers.

Salvador Rodriguez, the efficient head of the "Charles the Great" factory, has been busy the past week inspecting the first shipments of the tobacco which he purchased in Havana on his recent trip. Mr. Rodriguez bought about 2,000 bales, including some of the finest vegas of Vuelta Abajo, which he has had in a long time.

The friends of Samuel Bennett, the capable city salesman for Eli Witt, and John M. Carlisle, who has been pushing the "Polo" cigarette for Liggett & Myers in Tampa recently, have been giving them a quiet chuckle on their arrest in West Tampa last week for outraging the dignity of that city by driving their auto through it, too fast. The pair of eminent hustlers were taken in custody near the West Tampa Golf Club, and the Mayor of West Tampa plastered a $7 fine on Mr. Bennett.

Manager Parker, of the "Julia Marlowe" factory, states that they are loaded to the limit with orders. Manuel Corral, of the firm, is at present in Atlantic City.

A. L. Cuesta, of Cuesta, Rey & Co., is expected here in a day or so, being at present in New York, where he is making a short stop after his European trip.

The manufacturers of this city are to be given a demonstration by Manager Roscoe Nettles, of the Tampa Gas Company, of the recently invented Ives Daylight Producer, which is an invention of Professor Ives, of Philadelphia, whereby a simple arrangement of gas lamps over colored glasses produces a perfect white light, under which the most delicate variance of shades can be detected. The use of this invention in cigar factories would prove a wonderful boon, especially in rush times.

L. B. Gunst, manager of the Gunst plant here, who has already inspected the Ives device, says that it does the work perfectly, and that cigars can be matched under the light equally as well as in daytime.

Celestino Vega, who recently returned from Europe, is absent in Havana on a flying trip to secure some much-needed tobacco. He is expected home next Monday.

Jerome Regensburg, of E. Regensburg & Sons, returned to Tampa last week from a short trip to New York, and is busy at their big factory shaping up the flood of holiday orders which they have on hand.

The baseball nine of the Romeo y Juliette factory, of Havana, has been in Tampa for ten days past, and has won several creditable victories over strong teams here.

William Solomon, who covers this city for the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company, left last Wednesday after a few days' stay here, during which he landed some good orders.

The custom collections for last week totalled $48,803.64, a gain of over $10,000 of the preceding week and of over $7,000 for the same week of last year, which indicates that our manufacturers are importing quite a lot of tobacco from Havana, the principal source of the income of this office.

C. Corral, of Corral & Wodiska, left here last Sunday for a quick trip to Havana.

Guy Marvin, who has been travelling Tampa for the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company for some time past, left here last Monday and stated at that time that it was probably his last trip over this territory, as he was shortly to be transferred to another section.

Ernest Berger, of the Tampa-Cuba Cigar Company, and E. Pons sailed for Havana last Sunday to purchase tobacco.

PERFECTO.

Cigar Man for Mayor

The allied forces of Democratic and Progressive parties in Rochester, N. Y., have recently fused and named George S. C. Staud, a cigar manufacturer of Rochester, as the fusion candidate for the Mayor of the city. Mr. Staud has been a prominent Democrat for years and the fusion forces think he has a fine chance for election.

"September Morn" as a Premium

This fall the general tendency in the tobacco trade seems to be to give something away. Bluebird pins have been given away with several band brands of cigarettes, scarf pins and watch charms have gone with "Bull Durham" to purchasers, pipes have been the offering with certain smoking tobaccos, and in fact premiums and novelties of every sort are rapidly coming into use as trade boosters.

A Western firm advertised the other day that they would give a copy of "September Morn" with every purchase amounting to two dollars. Many married men never realized what a low supply of tobacco they kept on hand until they saw that ad, then there were explanations at home as to why so much tobacco had been purchased that day, and even the picture failed to appease the wrath of some of the good wives.

Making Good for Klauber-Wangenheim

One of the Los Angeles cigar salesmen who has been making good from the start is A. Mussatti, who has successfully handled the entire foreign trade in and about Los Angeles, Cal., for the Klauber - Wangenheim Company.

A. Mussatti.

Mr. Mussatti is of Italian parentage and has quite a reputation as a linguist, speaking six different languages. This accomplishment gives him quite an advantage over other salesmen in meeting the foreign trade, as he does not feel the disadvantage of being unable to intelligently converse with the customer.

Mr. Mussatti has been connected with the Klauber-Wangenheim Company for a number of years and has met with success from the beginning. In addition to his work as a salesman, with a partner he conducts a retail store at 600 Fernando Street, where he is enjoying enviable trade.

Clubdom Smoking

The club's own line of cigars, ranging from ten cents straight to three for fifty cents, has the call on the other lines. Another popular feature in the stock is the line of imported Havanas. The "Partagas," twenty cents straight, is a leading favorite, and the "Hoyo de Monterey" is a close second. The Bock y Ca line has quite a following. "Jose Vila," "Balano" and "El Accepto" in the fifteen and ten-cent lines, seem to enjoy the greatest favor.

As in cigars, the club cigarette at twenty cents is the leader among the "paper pipes." "Philip Morris," of the standard lines, is the greatest favorite, easily outselling the other brands in its class. "Melachrino No. 9" is the fifteen-cent leader. The counter carries some stock of the Virginia-Turkish variety, but the cheap cigarettes have practically no sale.

The transient character of the trade results in the absence of "cigar fans." There are practically none among the members who will hold forth on the merits of their favorite smoke. The trade is largely of the sort that is up to the counter man, being of the "I want a cigar" sort.

Business Again on Its Feet—Morris Burke Ventures Into Retail Business for Twenty-seventh Time—Attractive Displays of "Naida" Cigarettes

LOS ANGELES, CAL., September 20, 1913.

YOU hear no kicks these days relative to "bum" business. Mr. Business is walking with his head up, having taken a brace since the vacationists settled down to real business again.

J. A. Neides, representing the firm of Frank Gerdts & Co., of San Francisco, Cal., is at the present writing working the San Diego territory in the interests of the "Naida" cigarettes. While working in this city, Mr. Neides has reaped much praise for his efforts to place this cigarette with the rest of the "sellers," he having placed "Naidas" cigarettes in not less than 580 retail stores in this city. No telling what the number of placements will be for his outside work; enormous, without a doubt.

Harry Havel reports one of the best months of his career, just passed. Mr. Havel is connected with the Klauber-Wangenheim Company, of this city. "Luxello," "Picadura," "Pippins," "Chancellors" and "Post Dispatch" are well worked by him, and he tells me his business in the past month has doubled over any other previous month he has experienced. The above cigars are handled by Klauber-Wangenheim in this territory.

Cameron C. Trau, manager of the cigar department of Haas-Baruch & Co., Los Angeles, informs me of a campaign just inaugurated on the "Charles Denby" 5-cent cigar. The factory has broached a contest with premiums attached for the salesmen of this firm. Mr. Heywood, calling on the city trade for this firm, leads all competitors by the scant margin of 28,000 cigars. This contest proves that Haas-Baruch has no "bunch of slouchers" in their salesmen, as they are all exerting their best efforts to get the premiums offered them for their work.

Morris Burke has once more ventured into the retail cigar business. He has bought from the Los Angeles Board of Trade the cigar stand and barber-shop formerly owned by Harry F. Gadeky, at 108 West Third Street, this city. Immediately upon taking possession Mr. Burke set to work to remodel the entire place, including the barber-shop. He has spared no expense in making this store come up to the wants of his customers, and many of his friends have become attracted to it by his generousness. He says the retail store will serve more for the purpose of advertising his cigars in this territory. Proof of this is readily seen by his attractive window displays of "Luxello," "Picadura Import," "Sylvania," and many other cigars for which he is sole agent in this section. He also carries a full line of clear Havana and seed and Havana, etc. It is an up-to-date cigar store he has charge of this time. This store Mr. Burke has named No. 27, he having taken hold of that many retail cigar stores in the past fourteen years. Saturday, September 20th, the opening day, he gave away one thousand "Rosa del Valle" and "Sylvania" cigars to the trade as an advertising proposition.

Woodward, Jones & Johnson are in the midst of a strenuous campaign on the clear Havana cigar of F. Garcia Brothers. Good results are being obtained as the fight goes on.

The "Optimo" cigar is holding its own and the Klauber-Wangenheim Company is feeling downcast that the factory cannot supply them in the amount desired. Their force of salesmen is sure giving the factory a great run.

E. E. Klauber, of the firm of the Klauber-Wangenheim Company, Los Angeles and San Diego, is at the present time at Lake Tahoe, in Northern California, with Mrs. Klauber, both enjoying a delightful vacation. They are spending their time chiefly in fishing, and judging from the reports Mr. Klauber is no piker when it comes to hooking the finny denizens of the deep.

Isie Klingenstein, of the Klingenstein Company, will leave for the mountains in a few days, for a much needed rest, after a successful business year.

R. A. Holt, of Holtville, Cal., was a visitor in this city a few days. He left for San Diego today.

The A. B. Greenwald Cigar Company is offering to the trade a 10 per cent. free deal on the "Mi Rey" clear Havana cigar. Mr. Reynaldo, of this firm, will look after the interests of this campaign.

The Max Roth Cigar Company received one hundred thousand "Bachelor" cigars, and the entire lot was immediately shipped out to fill back orders. The "El Wadora" cigar is proving a good seller for this house.

Arthur Meyer, of Bustillo Brothers & Diaz, is due here Monday, in the interests of the "Henry the Fourth" line. These goods have been on the market here but a short time, but are fast becoming quite a factor in the Havana line hereabouts.

Anthony Schwam is in San Diego this week in the interests of the "Rosa del Valle" cigar. These goods are being given the benefit of Mr. Schwam's ability to introduce new brands and is already showing its heels to other brands in the Southern city.

M. H. Bessan is sojourning up the Coast, together with E. B. Haryman, of the American Cigar Company, where they are showing excellent results on the Densmore seed and Havana line.

E. D. Marshall, Jr., is giving "La Mazellas" away this week instead of selling them. This unusual extravagance is due to the recent arrival of a 10½ pound boy at his home. "La Mazellas" are going nice at present with Mr. Marshall.

The Klingenstein Company is putting on the market a new 15-cent cigarette, "Duke of York," manufactured by the Surbrug Company. The Klingenstein Company is sole agent for this territory. This firm recently received large shipments of "American Kings," and Mr. Klingenstein reports the finest workmanship he has ever seen turned out by the manufacturers, E. Regensburg & Sons.

C. N. McCormick, representing y Pendas & Alvarez Company, called on the Klingenstein Company this week and received a very large order for "Websters." Mac will be back in about three weeks.

The Klingenstein Company is building up a large business on "Admiration" cigars, and have placed a large number of window displays about town which are very showy.

H. H. Manley, representing the Havana-American, called on the Klingenstein Company in the interests of "Preferencia," and was very much elated to hear of the enormous increase shown on this cigar.

Changes in the Trade

A. G. Philbrick and George H. Flynn, of Aberdeen, Wash., have united under the firm name of the P. & F. Co., and the Fairmount cigar store has been purchased from Boettiger Bros. The store in the Savoy block will be continued as it is for the present.

George J. Kuhn, Sr., of New Brunswick, N. J., who has been in the tobacco business on George Street for thirty years, has built a new structure at 355 George Street, occupied by the New Brunswick Trust Company. After their lease expires Mr. Kuhn will occupy part of the building.

Nathan L. Sobel, the well-known cigar manufacturer, who is making important changes in his factory, will add this important industry to the rapidly growing list of those of Lafayette, Ind.

The cigar store in the M. & F. Building at Glen Falls, N. Y., conducted for so long a time by Joseph Schmerhorn, has been purchased by George H. Gifford, who will take charge at once.

The cigar store of A. J. Dune, Washington Street, Marquette, Mich., has been taken over by James La Plante.

Sussman Bros., the well-known St. Louis Grocers and wholesalers in tobacco, recently disposed of their entire stock of tobacco to a Belleville purchaser. Dave Sussman stated that $8000 had been the price obtained, though he was not at liberty to divulge the customer's name.

Having been thoroughly renovated, the Butterworth Cigar Emporium, South Lansdowne Avenue, Chester, Pa., now presents a very attractive appearance. Miss Florence Butterworth is manager.

Thomas F. Dumont has taken over the Arcade Cigar Store, located in the Miller Block, Springfield, Mass., formerly operated by B. A. Stewart. Mr. Dumont is experienced in the business, having been associated for several years with Arthur Blain, a cigar dealer of Springfield.

Irving Smoke Shop, Waterloo, Iowa

THE Middle West is unique in having a goodly number of first class cigar stores today, which have been developed without the serious handicaps of competing with the chain stores, so prevalent in other sections. Wherever the merchant is given a sway, good results are sure to follow, and this is well exemplified in the Irving Smoke Shop, which is located in the Irving Hotel Block, at Waterloo, Ia. John J. De Jaeger and Art A. Stitz compose the firm who operate this store, and a glance at their portraits above, quickly shows that they are thoroughly alert business men. They opened their store on July 10th, 1912, and since that time their business has tripled in its volume, so that today, they are really crammed for space to properly take care of their interests. The firm features "Charles the Great," "La Verdad," "La Venga," "Roma Garcias," "Lucius," as well as "Partagas" and "Carolinas," and all of the leading five-cent brands.

J. J. DeJaeger

A. A. Stitz

They have an excellently equipped pipe repairing department and do the principal business of the community in attending to the ills of sick pipes. A stationery and magazine department is also included and a full line of all periodicals is shown.

More Hands on "Courtellos"

Beginning business with about 40 hands, some two years ago, D. F. Fleck, of Reading, maker of the well-known "Courtello," and "Leandro" cigars has just built an addition to his factory whereby he can accommodate 25 more cigarmakers, which will bring his force up to 140 employees.

Mr. Fleck expects to pass the five million mark in his output for 1913, and hopes before another year rolls by to be employing about 250 hands. Mr. Fleck's products go to the leading jobbers in the country, south to Texas and north to Canada.

Newark Cigarmakers Want More Money

NEWARK, N. J., September 20.

At a meeting of the Essex Trades Council, held here last night, Secretary H. F. Hilfers announced that on September 29th, the cigarmakers will demand an increase in wages. The proposed advance to be asked for will be fifty cents to one dollar a thousand on all grades. This demand will affect about five hundred cigarmakers who are receiving from $9 to $18 a thousand.

"We do not expect any serious trouble, for we believe we will get our increase," said Hilfers. "Our local will insist on the advance, and we want the moral support of this council."

Slater Factory to Move

Theobald and Oppenheim having taken possession of the Slater factory on Columbia Avenue, Lancaster, the occupants have been forced to find new quarters, and they expect to locate without difficulty on Prince Street.

Theobald and Oppenheim are so busy with their orders that they could not wait, and so took possession of the factory almost as soon as the lease was signed. This was rather sooner than was at first anticipated by the Slater Co.

News of the Trade

Those tobacco dealers located in New Bedford, Mass., who saw fit, recently, to offer as a premium with "Piccadilly Little Cigars" a safety razor, did a wise thing inasmuch as the sales on this brand showed a big increase during the time allotted for the offer.

The cigar and tobacco stand in the building at 714-16 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., was recently leased to Nathan Preminger at a rental of $1800 a year. Mr. Preminger will continue the business along the same lines as before.

Chief Glover, Wilson, N. C., has tendered his resignation as chief of police at that place, to again enter the tobacco business in which he was engaged before having aspired to municipal honors.

Action was recently brought in the Superior Court by James L. Whittey, president of the Worcester, Mass., Cigar Makers' Union, to recover $15,000 from the Smith-Green Company, for personal injuries alleged to have been received as the result of having been struck by the motor car of the defendant company.

Work is now progressing on a one-story brick structure, including basement, at Framingham, Mass., which when completed will be occupied by Arthur W. Roberts as a cigar and candy store. Mr. Roberts will be remembered as having been associated with his father in the manufacture of "Class A," "Temple Club" and other cigars.

Walter H. Stone, president of the Demanoia Cigar Co., Chicago, Ill., was recently attacked by two men with revolvers and robbed of diamonds valued at $1650 and $52 in cash. The robbery occurred just as Mr. Stone was about to enter his home, 232 East Forty-seventh Street. The highwaymen made their escape.

As the result of a very largely attended meeting of retail cigar dealers, who came from all sections of the state, held at the American House, Boston, Mass., a short time ago, the Massachusetts Retail Cigar Dealers' Association has come into existence. The object of the association is to protect and regulate conditions in the trade, in order to successfully combat competition by cut rates. John A. O'Connor, South Boston, was elected president, and Bernard Shattuck, of Boston, vice-president.

October 6 is planned as the opening day for the new store of E. V. Schnoor & Co., wholesale and retail cigar dealers, at 113 East Douglas Avenue, Wichita, Kas. The place which was formerly occupied by the McClees Hardware Company will be thoroughly overhauled and renovated, a new front and modern fixtures being among the many improvements. This will make the sixth store of the Schnoor Company in Wichita. This one is to be used for the wholesale department now located at 409 East Douglas Avenue.

At a banquet held in his honor in the grill room of the United States Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal., recently, at which more than one hundred and fifty guests were present, "Tony" Schwamm, president of the Tobacco Dealers' Association of Southern California, was presented by the members of the association with a solid gold, diamond-studded watch, as a testimonial of their appreciation of the good work done by Mr. Schwamm on behalf of the association.

Pittsburgh

Anniversary Week Brings Out Many Cigar and Tobacco Window Displays—Petty Thefts Annoy Cigar Stores.

WE are having a great time in Pittsburgh this week, on account of the city and county celebrating the 125th Anniversary of the county. All the buildings and cigar stores have their windows decorated with the colors of the city, and Pittsburgh goods are prominently displayed wherever you go.

L. A. Young, representing the Manhattan Pipe Company, is in town showing the Manhattan pipes, especially the "Gladstone," "Stetson" and "Parker" shapes.

Jos. Zimmermann, one of the oldest cigar dealers in the city, has some very nice window displays.

The Hotel Liberty cigar stand shows an increase on "Plantista" cigars. They have them in several sizes.

Mr. Sprague, of the cigar department of the Shipley-Massingham Drug Company, has been out of town for a few days seeing the trade. He is having great success on the "New Bachelor" and "Cuesta-Rey" cigars.

C. A. Gibbs Company, Wood Street, have a very nice display of "Tuval" clear Havana cigars.

E. J. Webb, who has just returned from Cleveland, reports that "Afros," Stephano Brothers' new 15-cent cigarette, is selling big there.

Forbes Street Quality Shop has a very nice display on "Fatima" cigarettes, showing the new baseball inserts in a large 6 x 4 frame. This stand is opposite the Pittsburgh Baseball Park.

The Hotel Lafayette cigar stands are featuring "Cuesta-Rey" in clear Havana cigars, and "El Versos" in broadleaf cigars. They carry a full line of imported and domestic cigars.

R. J. Boltz, of the Boltz-Clymer Company, was in town this week. Mr. Thompson, of the Gilmore Drug Company, was showing him around to the trade in the interest of the "El Palencia" cigars. The Gilmore Drug Company are distributors for this brand.

W. A. Andreuss, representing the Cado & Co. "56" cigarettes, is in town this week. The Seventh Avenue Hotel cigar stands report big sales on the brand.

Mr. C. S. Harvey, representing the Bock-Stauffer Company in Western Pennsylvania, is showing big business on "Duquesne Clubs" and "Jenkinson's Best." Mr. Harvey was formerly with S. Anargyros.

The R. Russell stores are featuring "Van Dyck" clear Havana cigars, made by the M. A. Gunst Company. The Bock-Stauffer Company are distributors for this brand.

Fred W. Bailey, representing the M. Perez Company, Key West, was in town this week in the interest of "Pinzon" clear Havana cigars.

C. J. Moye & Co. have a very nice window display on "El Planco" cigars. They are showing a new cabinet of "El Plancos," in which 100 cigars are packed. They are now taking orders for the holidays.

Mr. J. C. Clear, representing the Bock-Stauffer Company, just returned from a trip through Ohio. He had a most successful trip and sold quite a few "Duquesne Club" cigars.

J. J. Murray, of Warren, O., is featuring "Duquesne Clubs."

A. Guarencia, of Warren, O., is featuring a stogie called "115," made by the Bock-Stauffer Company, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Val. Keogh, of J. W. Merriam Company, has just finished a campaign with Mr. Sharples, of the Stallings Company, McKeesport, "Baron de Kalbs" have been giving quite a boost and are selling well in Pittsburgh.

Mose Balsamo, who owns the cigar stand in Ward's Cafe, Braddock, Pa., has just returned from a visit to the "La Saramita" factory at Cleveland, O. Wherever you see "Saramitas" in Pittsburgh you see a box or two of Crown chocolates. Mr. Stallings, of the Sharples Company, thinks that they go hand in hand.

The Seventh Avenue Hotel cigar stands are displaying "Nuevas Fumas Bull Dogs," in tin cans, made by J. W. Merriam Company.

"Saramitas Fives" and "Chas. Denby" are having quite a sale at Thompson's Restaurant.

Bob Roberts has artistically trimmed his grill with neat "Saramita" pictures. Bob claims there is only one cigar made.

Mr. Driesbach, of the P. & L. E. Restaurant, claims they have a large sale on "Baron de Kalbs" in the new Calidad shape.

The McKee Drug Company, of Homestead, are having quite an excellent run on "El Trendo" in all shapes. Stallings & Co., McKeesport, Pa., are distributors for this brand. When Stallings' truck pulled into Braddock the other day, loaded to the guards with "Olaga" cigars, it seems that this brand pleased the Braddockites.

The Gilmore Drug Company just received several new sizes on the "Girard" cigars, made by A. Roig & Langsdorf, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Thompson will be around to show them to the trade in a few days.

The parties that had an option on the church property at Smithfield Street and Sixth Avenue, have secured another option to January 10th. Therefore Leo. J. Spuhler, who has one of his stores at this location, will not have to vacate until May 1, 1914.

C. A. Gibbs Company furnished the cigars for the banquet of the Illuminating Engineers Society, at the Hotel Schenley. The cigars were three in a bundle, tied with the society's colors, which are blue and old gold, and made a very attractive package. "Tuval Infanites" and "Seville" were the brands used. "Tuval" cigars are going better than ever in the best stands in the city.

M. J. Powers, who has been here several weeks selling "Plantista" cigars from 5c. to 15c. is making a wonderful success, as the Compeer Cigar Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., are making all their cigars now long filler. Crump Brothers, of Chicago, who are the owners of the Compeer Cigar Company, have been in the leaf tobacco business for a number of years. They report the heaviest and finest crop of Havana tobacco of their long experience. It is due to the fact that this crop of Havana tobacco is so large that they are enabled to make the 5-cent "Plantista" a long filler and also make them of high-grade Havana tobacco.

Jack Sheridan is in town visiting among his many friends.

There have been several robberies among the cigar trade in the last few days. Among the stores were the following:

L. J. Spuhler, 925 Liberty Avenue. They got into his place through a transom above the door. They got $10 in small change, which was left in the register, and $4 or $5 in merchandise.

United cigar store, at 946 Liberty Avenue. They broke a plate-glass window, but the clerk in charge reports that they did not get anything.

Mr. J. S. Kerns, at Liberty and Smithfield Street, was also robbed of $8 in small change and several boxes of cigars. These three stores are all within a block and the police think the robberies were committed by boys.

Petition in Bankruptcy

Alleging that the Midwest Cigar Co., located at Omaha, Neb., had confessed insolvency, a petition in involuntary bankruptcy was recently filed against that concern by the creditors of the company. The complainants are E. L. Nissly & Sons, Florin, Pa., with claims amounting to $1994.98; John H. Meyer & Son, Chicago, claims amounting to $689.13, and Rothchild Sons & Co., Chicago, with claims aggregating $1171.20.

New Jacksonville Factory

According to reports, C. C. Symonett will incorporate a $10,000 cigar company in Jacksonville, Fla. The company is to be known as the Symonett Cigar Company, and considerable stock is said to have been already subscribed in the new corporation.

C. C. Symonett started in business four months ago and from the jump has had a good trade on his nickel leader, "Symonett Blunt," a high-grade cigar at a low price. Orders have been repeating to such an extent that Mr. Symonett has felt justified in putting his business on a larger basis at once.

Recent Incorporations

The J. Hessnauer Company, of Delaware, O. Capital $10,000. The incorporators are J. Hessnauer, F. M. Marriott, C. A. Wing, Frank Hessnauer and J. M. Earth. Cigars and tobacco.

S. Calandra, of Manhattan. Capital $10,000. The incorporators are Biaggin Calandra, Erasmo Riccobono and Paolo Castiglico. Fruits, wines, cigars, etc.

Bernhardt, Hoppe & Doering, Chicago, Ill. Capital $25,000. The incorporators are William F. Bernhardt, E. H. Tillson and M. M. Quinn. Liquors, mineral waters, cigars, tobacco, restaurant, etc.

The Dixie Cigar Company, of Winston-Salem, N. C. Capital $25,000. Subscribed $1500 and paid in by G. D. Carter, W. E. Landreth, and John D. Bailey, of Mount Pleasant, Fla.

An "El Roi-Tan" Window in Duluth

The accompanying illustration gives an excellent view of a big display of "El Roi-Tan" and "Flor de Stone" cigars which was made last month in the store of Gus Mackyol, Fifth Avenue, West and Superior Streets, Duluth, Minn.

Mr. Mackyol is one of the most progressive dealers in the city, carrying a wide variety of goods and he showed a signal compliment to Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, who control these brands in the city of Duluth and contiguous territory, in this beautiful display.

San Francisco

September Orders Coming Good—Portola Week Promises Big Business—Many Changes in the Trade—Collections Normal

SAN FRANCISCO, September 20, 1913.

THIS has been the hottest week of the year in San Francisco, and in a number of other places in California; and the cigar men report the weather has had a little reactionary effect on sales, though the first half of September as a whole shows up considerably ahead of other like periods in recent months. Local jobbers report an improved demand from the interior; and the average traveling man is doing better than he was, though there are still one or two bad spots where crop failures or other special causes have left buyers in bad shape. Money seems to be coming into Northern and Central California in big development works to a larger extent than for several years past; and the outlook is for a fairly brisk season in the territory tributary to this city. Collections are nearly normal, this being due more, perhaps, to the conservative policy of San Francisco houses in extending credit and in forcing sales, than to an abundance of money.

Oakland and San Francisco retailers did so well on the occasion of the Admission Day Celebration in Oakland, a couple of weeks ago, that San Francisco dealers are looking forward to the coming Portola Celebration in this city with unusual interest. The Portola Festival will run through nearly a week and as no effort is being spared to make it the grand autumn holiday for Northern and Central California, it is expected that big crowds will be on hand. Stores on the leading streets will be specially decorated in honor of the occasion, and some record sales are expected. Some of the city salesmen for the jobbing houses are getting in some preliminary work in getting the retailers well stocked up.

L. M. Gillam, of the John Bollman cigarette factory, has returned from a trip to the Turkish tobacco section of the San Joaquin Valley. He brings confirmation of the good reports previously sent out. His estimate is that the acreage is at least double that of last year, and that the quality of the crop runs considerably better than that of 1912.

H. T. Spencer, who recently returned from a stay in Oregon and Washington in the interest of the Pixley lines of tobacco and cigarettes, has abandoned the trade and is now working the city for a candy manufacturing company.

Tom DeVitt, Western representative of Phillip Morris & Co., who has been at the Eastern headquarters for a couple of weeks, is expected to return to San Francisco early in October.

Bier, Saalburg & Co., California street jobbers, have gone out of business, having turned over their stock to Horn & Co., of this city, to be closed out for the benefit of creditors.

Charles Poer, who was for many years in the jobbing and retail business in San Francisco, but who has in recent years acted as Seattle manager for M. A. Gunst & Co., arrived in this city last week from the North. He will spend some time visiting friends in and out of the trade.

Major Burrows, the well-known Hansford Building cigar broker, who has for a number of years acted as the Western representative of the Lovera line of cigars, has now added another cigar line to his list. This is the "Mascarilla," a cigar that is well known in the Middle West, but is new on the Pacific Coast. Like Mr. Burrows' other line, it will be distributed in Northern and Central California by Wellman, Peck & Co., wholesale grocers and cigar dealers of this city. The new cigar has a shade-grown Porto Rico wrapper and a Havana filler, and is expected to make a place for itself in the California trade. In the meantime, the Major is making larger placements of the "Lovera" than for a long time past. He has a new and successful city salesman in the person of Lewis Cohen.

Since his return from his three months' trip South from this city, W. I. Pixley has been picking up the loose ends of the business here, where he found the trade running low on Dill's tobaccos. In Los Angeles and in the Seattle territory he finds that the I. B. Krinsky cigarettes are taking well. In this city there is some business, but Mr. Pixley thinks that San Francisco cigarette smokers have been educated to look rather for silk rugs than for quality in cigarettes, and he is disposed to let the rug vogue have its run and then trust to the Krinsky quality to build up sales.

M. A. Gunst & Co.'s "Alhambra" Manila cigar has been moving rapidly, so that notwithstanding the heavy monthly importations, stocks are kept constantly at a low figure.

With the resumption of activity in the trade, a number of changes of more or less importance are reported from various points along the Coast. There have been on the whole surprisingly few failures, due largely to the conservative policy pursued by the wholesale trade, which has chosen rather to do a smaller business than to fill up customers with cigars beyond their needs. In Los Angeles a number of transfers of minor importance are reported. These include the sale of E. M. Vallens to H. H. Leming; of J. W. Freese to J. S. Crawford; of G. M. Hurley to Price & Rasmussen; of E. E. Ray to Wm. McKeane, and the filing of articles of co-partnership by L. J. Zimmerman and Edward J. Erickson, under the firm name of Zimmerman & Erickson.

F. Fliedler has succeeded to the wholesale cigar business of Fliedler Brothers at Bremerton, Wash.

J. J. Hoffman, of the Hoffman-Moore Company, wholesale cigar dealers of this city, is back at headquarters again after a stay of several weeks in the East. He reports that the fall business is opening up well.

Since the opening of the fall season of activity, the salesmen of Frankel, Gerdts & Co. have kept on the go. Carl Koenig has covered the Sacramento and Stockton territory pretty thoroughly, and is now working the Coast counties north of San Francisco. J. C. Chuck put in the early part of September with his Humboldt County friends, and is now in Nevada, which promises well so far. Mr. Gerdts is back from his vacation in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, while Mr. Frankel was last reported in Havana.

T. A. Howeth has bought out the Palace cigar stand at Porterville, Cal.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS — Interesting Items Collected In The State

Plitt Factory Busy

THE proof of quality is in the demand for the product, and the C. H. Plitt Cigar Company, of York, Pa., is at present experiencing a demand that is keeping the factory pushed to fill orders.

The call for their well-known brands, such as "Twentieth Century," "La Altoona" Conchas, "My Frau," "Plitt 1909," "Liar" Londres and "Liar" Puritanos is an expression of the consumers' appreciation of nickel quality smokes.

Reading Notes

W. H. Yocum, of Yocum Brothers, makers of the well known "Y-B" cigar, has left for Havana, Cuba, where he will spend three or four weeks in the leaf markets.

D. F. Fleck, maker of the "Courtello" cigar, is making arrangements to increase the capacity of his factory in order to care for his rapidly growing business.

F. A. Steber who has recently opened his factory here, at Front and Washington Streets, is kept busy filling his orders for the "Steber." The factory is now running well over a hundred hands and should prosperous conditions keep up, he will probably be seating 250 hands within another year. Lack of cigarmakers forced Mr. Steber to leave Warren, Pa., and come to Reading.

D. D. Sulkis, representative for the Fleck Cigar Co., Ltd., has started on a Western trip to be gone some weeks. The factory is working to capacity, turning out the "Rose-O-Cuba."

John G. Spatz, of John G. Spatz & Co., makers of the popular "Heidelberg" cigar, is now on his fall Western trip. He will cover the circuit as far as Denver, Colorado.

State Tobacco for Government Laboratories

EPHRATA, PA.

All tobacco on State tobacco experimental plots of York, Clinton and Lancaster Counties, after being harvested, will be sweated in or near this borough. This is a total of 6000 pounds, which is about half Havana. The Havana crop at the Clinton County station is said to be very creditable. The crop will be bulk sweated and assorted in qualities and lengths. Samples will be taken of each plot put out and will be sent to the government laboratories for tests. A few cigars will be made from the tobacco from each plot. Two hundred different strains are included in the combined crop. Fertilizer treatment and other differences account for so many strains and types.

Gilbert Weiss, the Fourth Street tobacconist of Altoona, Pa., has on display in his window a panorama photograph of the field meet and ball game of the Pennsylvania Railroad Clerks' League, held at the Cricket Club recently.

A Tobacconist's Novel Move

Paul F. Leewitz, the well-known tobacconist of Erie, Pa., whose store is located at No. 9 West Eighth Street, has recently been appointed one of the directors of the Business Men's Exchange of that city by President Theodore Landsberg. Although in the tobacco business, Mr. Leewitz is strongly opposed to the use of tobacco by schoolboys and through his efforts the Business Men's Exchange is conducting a campaign to stamp out the abuse of the weed by minors.

NINTH DISTRICT FACTORIES BUSY

Demand for Holiday Goods Keeps Manufacturers Going to Capacity—Extra Working Schedule and More Hands Help to Solve Supply Problem

YORK, PA.

HALLASTOWN, Manchester, Yoe and Red Lion, together with this city, find their cigar factories working to capacity trying to supply the demand for holiday goods, which seems to be heavier than ever before. Many of the factories have booked more orders than they can fill and extra hours and more hands are the only solution they have for preventing disappointment.

Already night work has begun, together with extra time schedules, and it seems very likely that this will continue right up to the holiday season. Where they can be procured, new hands are being added constantly.

Fisher Brothers, leaf tobacco dealers, have given out the contract for the erection of a warehouse to be built at Spruce Street and the Northern Central Railroad. It will be 220 x 60 feet, of brick. Work to be started at once.

William Sechrist, of this city, has opened a cigar factory in the building formerly occupied by the James Snyder Cigar Company.

The factory of the United Cigar Company, which has been operating on a five-day schedule, has been placed on full time.

A new cigar factory with a force of twelve hands has been started in Red Lion. The factory is operated by Moses S. Heindel and occupies the W. A. Lahr building.

Otto Eisenlohr & Brothers, makers of the "Cinco" cigars, have rented a building in Littlestown and will start work October 1. The company will employ from 100 to 200 hands in its new factory.

Owing to the pressure of orders the factories in Dallastown expect to resort to night work shortly as a means of catching up with their orders. The factory of J. W. Minnich is said to have made more shipments during the last month than in any single month in the past seven years.

Purchase Carload of Leaf

WRIGHTSVILLE, September 25.

The Iona Tobacco Company, of Lancaster, has purchased a large lot of last year's tobacco from farmers through the lower end of the county and today they received one carload at the local depot and shipped it to Lancaster. The price paid was from five to six cents a pound.

New Location for J. U. Fehr & Son

The trade will be interested to know that the well-known leaf house of J. U. Fehr & Son, of Reading, Pa., have removed from their former location at 700 Franklin Street, Reading, to 135-141 Maple Street, where they are occupying more commodious quarters. The removal is necessitated by increasing requirements for more room, and the step will also enable them to give their customers better service than ever before.

FRENCH TOBACCO MONOPLY

United States Leads as a Supplier of Leaf Tobacco—Imports of Leaf Show Big Increase in 1912

VICE-CONSUL GENERAL PAUL H. CRAM, located at Marseilles, France, has recently furnished the "Daily Consular and Trade Reports" with an interesting article regarding the French tobacco monopoly, which we print in full.

"The United States leads as a supplier of leaf tobacco to France, followed by Algeria and Germany, although it is probable that much of the tobacco credited to the last-mentioned country is grown elsewhere.

Leaf tobacco imports for consumption into France during 1912 increased by 9,261,175 pounds in quantity and by $924,275 in value when compared with the totals for the preceding year, as will appear from the following summary taken from the official French import statistics:

Imported From—

	1910	1911	1912
United States	29,584,705	29,537,530	31,385,220
Algeria	6,189,035	7,558,090	7,071,035
All other countries	25,492,490	24,070,945	31,072,385
Total value	$6,020,055	$5,867,780	$6,792,055

Cigars imported for consumption have declined during the last three years from 13,433,200 in 1910 to 11,358,200 in 1911, and 11,124,900 in 1912, with respective values of $587,105, $501,415, and $490,990. Cigarette imports, on the other hand, advanced from 146,385 pounds (value $84,340) in 1910 to 169,315 pounds (value $97,080) in 1911, and to 169,755 pounds (value $101,325) in 1912. Other manufactures of tobacco were entered for consumption to the extent of 6835 pounds (value $2125) in 1910, 12,125 pounds (value $3665) in 1911, and 14,090 pounds (value $3860) in 1912.

Growers	number..	48,395	47,283	47,520
Planted area	acres..	37,156	36,282	36,595
Deliveries for payment	pounds..	51,002,647	46,373,521	41,904,634
	value....	$4,462,669	$4,262,551	$3,973,430
Average purchase price per pound		$0.0875	$0.0919	$0.0948
	pounds..	1,372	1,278	1,145

Of the foreign tobacco purchased by the monopoly in 1911, 23,471,108 pounds, valued at $3,610,862, were bought abroad through the French consulates.

Data covering the transactions of the tobacco regie for 1912 are not yet available; but the annual report of the director of the State Tobacco Monopoly for 1911 shows that in that year the receipts of every nature amounted to $98,601,030, an increase of $2,193,619 over those of 1910, and the expenses aggregated $18,414,896, or $622,333 more than in the preceding year. The sales to the public during 1910 and 1911 were as follows:

Kinds of Tobacco.

Cigars	$10,583,003	$10,600,100
Cigarettes	18,170,482	19,732,986
Scaferlatis (cut packet tobacco)	54,014,371	54,091,210
Roll and chewing	2,671,758	2,672,834
Snuff	10,464,963	10,154,123
Total	95,904,577	98,661,343

The receipts for the first eleven months of 1912 show an increase of $4,722,903 over those of 1911.

The average rate of individual consumption was 37.45 ounces, of which 4.12 ounces represented tobacco in powder and 33.33 ounces smoking and chewing tobacco."

Japan's Tobacco Monopoly Law

According to the manufactured tobacco monopoly law of Japan, private individuals may cultivate leaf tobacco only on permission of the government. The leaf tobacco gathered by these individuals is taken over by the government, and a compensation decided upon by the government experts is paid the grower. The tobacco is manufactured at a government plant, and the manufactured article is sold at fixed prices by dealers licensed by the government.

Foreign tobacco cannot be imported except by the government or persons appointed for that purpose by the government, while tobacco can be exported only by persons specially permitted to do so by the government.

Increase in South Carolina Production

Recent reports from Columbia, S. C., for the season just ended, show an increase in the tobacco receipts in that locality of 6,666,753 pounds over the same period of 1912, with the quality being well maintained. Prices also have been good. As an instance of the success of the 1913 crop, it is stated that thus far the farmers have been netted over $1,500,000, which is an increase over the receipts received the previous year for the same period. Such rapid strides, it is believed, will place South Carolina on record as having broken all records in tobacco production.

Reports from nineteen markets and forty-two warehouses show that 19,208,179 pounds went to the market in August for $2,780,850. In 1910 during August 8,544,824 pounds went to the market for $728,590; in 1911, 5,154,931 pounds sold for $659,857; in 1912, 16,209,130 pounds sold for $1,906,995.

The average price for tobacco this year is 14.48 cents per pound, as compared with 11.76 in 1912, 12.80 in 1911 and 8.52 in 1910. Total sales were 27,939,968 pounds, valued at $3,875,271, for August and July of 1913, as compared with 21,273,215, valued at $2,288,600, in 1912.

It is reported that Tredway & Mangum, proprietors and owners of the Farmers' Warehouse, Timmonsville, S. C., which is said to be one of the finest built warehouses in South Carolina, are planning an addition to their already large building, which will give them increased facilities for the proper handling of their business.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

No. 11655. Groceries, provisions, hardware, glassware, novelties, etc.—A report from an American consular officer in South Africa states that a business man in his district who has been connected with a local firm for 21 years is about to engage in business on his own account as South African representative of English, American and Continental manufacturing houses. He desires to be put in communication with any American house desirous of introducing its lines into South Africa. He is open to consider representation of the following classes of goods: Grocers' appliances, household hardware, china, glassware, silver and electroplated goods, fancy goods, and novelties. He furnishes references.

No. 11661. Tobacco.—An American consular officer in France reports that a local commission firm has informed him that it has good connections with the French Regie, or Tobacco Monopoly, and that it is prepared to undertake the introduction of American tobacco or smoking mixtures to the Regie officials, with a view to getting it accepted for sale in France and placed on the French official list.

Irving Stern Goes to New Orleans

IRVING STERN, who was formerly a member of the cigar manufacturing firm of Salomon Brothers & Stern, makers of the "Aplomo" cigar, at Seventeenth Street and Burling Slip, New York, has sold his interest in that firm to the Salomon Brothers and withdrawn from the business entirely.

Mr. Stern left a few days ago for New Orleans, where he will be connected with the American Tobacco Company in their branch at that place. Salomon Brothers announce that Mr. Stern's withdrawal will not affect their business in the least.

G. H. Martin Expanding

ROCK ISLAND, September 29.

George H. Martin, the well-known wholesale and retail tobacconist, of this city, on Saturday last, opened a handsome new stand in the new Colonial Hotel, which has just been built here. This makes the sixth retail stand which Mr. Martin owns in this place, including the Davenport and Colonial Hotel, and his original store at Second and Brady Streets.

His general offices and wholesale quarters are on Brady Street, between Second and Third Streets.

Dixie Cigar Company Incorporate

A charter has been granted to the Dixie Cigar Company, of Winston-Salem, N. C., who intend to do a jobbing and retail business in cigars and tobacco in that city. The corporation starts out with an authorized capital of $25,000, and those interested include E. D. Carter, Madison, N. C., W. E. Landredth, of Winston-Salem, and John D. Bailey, of Mt. Pleasant, Fla.

"Savaronas" in St. Paul

The prominent jobbing house of W. S. Conrad Company, St. Paul, Minn., have just added the popular "Savaronas" Porto Rica cigars of the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company to the other select lines in which they specialize over this district.

While "Savaronas" have had a broad distribution in the twin cities and vicinity for a number of years, the addition of a fine account like the Conrad Company is particularly gratifying to the manufacturers.

T. J. Bannigan Goes to Boston

T. J. Bannigan, who has been with the George L. Storm Company in New York City for some years, has just been appointed as the new manager of the Boston branch of the George L. Storm & Company, which is the wholesale distributing house of the United Cigar Manufacturers Company, in that city. Mr. Bannigan succeeds A. H. Hall and the first work under his management will be the removal of the present offices on Federal Street to larger quarters downtown. The Storm retail department has been closed out entirely.

Donahue & Eaton Dissolve

From Indianapolis comes the news that the long-established distributing and jobbing house of Donahue & Eaton has been dissolved. E. L. Donahue and W. E. Eaton composed the firm, but because of the desire of Mr. Eaton to remain exclusively in the retail business, he withdrew.

Mr. Donahue will devote his entire efforts toward the expansion of the jobbing business, and V. G. Sheller, of Indianapolis, will succeed Mr. Eaton as city representative.

The dissolution was by mutual consent and has been accomplished without the existence of any unfriendly feeling.

S. Bachman Cigar Company New Manager

LOS ANGELES, CAL., September 23.

As the first move in the conduct of their recently-acquired jobbing business in this city, the S. Bachman Cigar Company announce that they have just secured the services of Charles B. Poar, who will act as general manager of their business.

Mr. Poar was for eight years manager of the Seattle branch of M. A. Gunst Cigar Company, and is one of the best known tobacco men on the Coast.

As detailed in the last issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD, the S. Bachman Cigar Company bought out the wholesale business of Emil Frank in this city.

The Johnson and Evans cigar store, in West Main Street, Canton, Ill., is now the property of R. A. Johnson, who recently purchased Mr. Evans' interest in the business.

Cigar manufacturers of Spring Grove, Pa., and vicinity are enjoying a boom in business, following a period of dullness. The revival, which is attributed to the approach of the holiday season, is especially welcome at the cigar factories of D. W. Fry and D. E. Woodmansee, both of whom employ a large force of cigarmakers and packers.

(I Should Worry)

Is the Exclamation of the Smoker using Our Famous 10 Cent Brand

The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau

THE past fortnight has been still on the rising tide, as the sales of our leaf have outstripped the previous one again by over 5500 bales. American buyers were again the leaders in our market by a big majority, and it seems they will continue so for the next few months to come. In fact, the former rule, before the enactment of the McKinley bill in the year 1890, that Cuba used to manufacture half of her crop, and only exported the other half, does not hold good any longer. At the present time the United States alone takes over half of our crop, not counting the other countries. Last year Germany, with her 80,000 bales of our leaf, took the second place after the United States, but this year it seems she is suffering from indigestion, although the unsuitableness (of Remedios) and the higher ruling prices for our leaf have certainly contributed to lessen her demand for the Cuban tobacco, with the only exception of Puntillas.

The South American republics have been rather slow this year in calling for our leaf in large quantities. Whether this is due to the failure of some of her crops, or whether they might wake up later on yet, remains to be seen. While we stated in our last, that we thought Spain this year might not require any more of our tobacco, owing to the high prices, which were claimed to be above her limits, it seems however that we were mistaken, as the last Spanish mail steamer "Reina Maria Cristina" that left here on the 20th inst. carried 3500 bales to the consignment of the Compañia Arrendataria, the company that holds the privilege to control the tobacco trade in the kingdom of Spain. So it seems after all that the term limit is elastic, or that the Spaniards cannot do without some part of our leaf for mixing purposes, and therefore have to pay whatever the market figures should be.

If the present demand should continue, and it almost looks that way, judging by the numbers of Americans that are still here, and the way they are flocking to our shores, there is not alone the least probability of seeing any lower prices later on but on the contrary they may go up yet. The next crop is in a state of embryo, has to be born yet, and being subject to as many illnesses as new born babies, there is no telling how many will survive. Under these circumstances nobody bothers about it, and it does not exercise any influence whatsoever. Let us wait at least until our cyclone season is out of the way before saying another word about the coming crop. This means November 1, although there are cases on record that we have had a cyclone during the first half of November. Furthermore we must not forget the memorable season December, 1905, and January, 1906, when torrential rains in both months destroyed and washed the remaining part of the crop, so that they proved to be the smallest in this century.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Sales from September 1 to September 15 totaled 33,085 bales, or, which divided, represented: Vuelta Abajo and Semi Vuelta, 15,115; Partido, 3127, and Remedios, 14,843 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 23,442; exporters to Europe, 1514; shippers to South America, 306, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 7823 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana for the two weeks ending September 15 were: To all ports of the United States, 5522; to Europe, 1514; to South America, 306; to the Canary Islands, 5 bales; thus making the total exports, 7347 bales.

Cigars.

Business in our principal factories is rushing, as they are working with full forces and have plenty of orders on hand, not alone for the coming holidays, but also for immediate shipment. There are some, however, that claim they have not got their full share yet. Good cigarmakers on the fine sizes are very scarce, therefore the execution of such orders can only be effected by giving our manufacturers sufficient time. England continues to be our best customer, and while the United States comes next, she ought to be at the top of all the countries. Orders from Germany are a little slower at the moment, owing to the scarcity of money in Europe.

Our manufacturers are waiting to see now what the Cuban Government is going to do in respect of concocting a new reciprocity with the United States, as there is no longer any doubt but that Cuba will denounce the present one, owing to the free sugar clause in 1915 in the Simmons-Underwood tariff bill. Unless we should be able to get a correspondingly larger percentage on our cigars, cigarettes and leaf tobacco there is no reason why we should not try to make reciprocity treaties with other countries that would favor us on our chief production. Our manufacturers claim a flat rate of two dollars per pound on cigars and cigarettes, without any ad valorem duty at all, and which as proven by figures will not reduce the income of the United States Treasury; on the contrary will amount to more in the end.

Romeo y Julieta is already working in the adjoining building, although the interior fixings are not all complete. The owners added enough cigarmakers to fill up the big additional gallery, and business is booming.

H. Upmann & Co. are working a full pressure of steam.

Partagas is doing finely now, as orders are coming in big bunches.

Detroit

Good Roads Congress Helps Cigar Trade—Philip Morris Vice-President in Town—Internal Revenue Report Shows Decrease in August Production—"Foremost" Cigars Find Favor

DETROIT, MICH., September 26.

THE biggest gathering of the year starts Monday, September 29, and will be the American Congress of Good Roads. Delegates are expected here from every part of the world, and there will be in the neighborhood of 5000 of them. They come as "paid" delegates and that means each will have a "bank-roll" to get rid of while in the "City of the Straits." Cigar dealers know this, and as a result are fixing up their stores, cleaning the cases and putting in the finest and best grades of cigars and cigarettes. Hotels will be crowded and the cigar stores cannot fail to get considerable of the business. Headquarters will be at the Ponchartrain. Already many orders have been received for boxes of cigars, which will be distributed by the concrete manufacturers, who will have their representatives here to meet the delegates. The convention will last a week.

After an appraisal of the Gustav Moebs cigar factory by William Lichtig and Alfred Rothschild it has been decided to sell the plant. Several negotiations are pending, but as yet there has been nothing definitely done in the matter. Mr. Moebs, formerly with this factory, has purchased the J. C. Sullivan cigar factory and will continue to manufacture cigars.

Alexander Herbert, vice-president of the Philip Morris Co., was in town for a few days recently going over local conditions, calling on the leading retailers and getting better acquainted with the growth of Detroit, which he says is noticeable on every visit.

Letters from headquarters are being received to the effect that Allan G. Lutt, of the Pendas y Alvarez, will be here on October 4 in the interests of the "Webster" cigar. We will be glad to see "friend Lutt" and can assure him in advance of a hearty welcome.

Dealers are receiving sample packages of the "Webster Carona" size, which looks "like a good bet" and one that promises to be a winner here. Orders are already being placed in good quantities.

Frank Forrest, with E. M. Harris & Co., after months of work on the proposition, has finally registered the "Pop Geer" label and will put this brand on the market very shortly. He has not decided yet whether it will be a broad leaf or seed and Havana, but as soon as he does arrangements will be made with a local manufacturer to turn them out for him. As "Pop Geer" is the peer of horse drivers, having won more races than any other man connected with the game; the name alone should prove a winner, particularly among the followers of high-class racing. Frank says that it will not be a cheap cigar, but will sell at ten cents and two for a quarter. In fact, it was an understanding made with Mr. Geer that the cigar was to be a good one in case his consent was given. The label contains an excellent likeness of Mr. Geer and his autograph.

Sandy Stuart, of the Superior Cigar Mfg. Co., says that he is constantly putting on more help, but even this is not sufficient to keep up with his orders. He says he is having the biggest business in the history of the company.

Eddie Dickson, formerly at the Alt Heidelberg cigar stand, has been made manager of the cigar department of the Edelweiss Cafe, replacing Mr. Goodwin, who resigned. The Edelweiss is proving a very popular eating place, and the cigar department is doing very nicely. Mr. Dickson will handle all the leading brands.

At the banquet of the Cement Manufacturers of America, held at the Hotel Ponchartrain on September 24, the following "smokes" were used "Romeo and Juliet," "Carona Caronas," "Larranaga Perfectos" and "Sanitas" and "Bremning's Own" cigarettes. There were only a hundred at the banquet and the cigar bill alone amounted to more than $100.

Statistics given out by the Internal Revenue Department in Detroit show that for the First District of Michigan 26,593,310 cigars were made during the month of August as compared with 26,880,590 in 1912. Indications are, however, that the month of September will show an enormous increase owing to "Home-Made Week," when so many extra cigars were made during the down-town exhibitions.

Because of increased business, the Mazer Cigar Co. has found it necessary to have more room, so contracts are about to be let for a third-story addition 30 by 100 feet. In the spring it is very likely that an entire new building will be added should the business continue to show such big gains as has been the case in the past six months. The leading brands of this firm are "La Caverlie" and "Miss Detroit," which are big sellers in the West, where they maintain a sales manager.

A new cigar store has been opened up recently in Joliet, Ill., by Harry Oppenheimer, of Saginaw, who now has a chain of cigar stores. Mr. Oppenheimer attended the opening and on his way back visited in Chicago for several days.

The Soper Cigar Co. have added two new lines in the past few weeks, the "Juan de Fuca," made by the Morgan Cigar Co., of Tampa, and the "Bouquet de la Ada," made by S. H. Furgatch & Co. Of each brand he has put in over a dozen different sizes; he will try them out to see which are the most popular. He feels highly pleased with these two lines and looks for them to be big winners with the trade.

The Acme Cigar Co., of Detroit, has dissolved. The company was incorporated only a few months ago for the purpose of cigar manufacturing. It was found that too much capital was required to carry on the business.

The La Fond Co. continued the window display showing how the "San Etta" cigar was made after "Home-Made Week." It was felt that it was a splendid advertisement and that the cigars could just as well be made in their own windows as at the factory. The cigar, which retails at five cents, is selling very satisfactorily.

The factory at 11 Seldon Avenue, which was formerly occupied by the Detroit Cigar Manufacturing Co., has been leased to the Lagora Fee Cigar Co., who have already taken possession and began the manufacture of their cigars at that place.

A recent prominent visitor here was Joseph T. Snyder, who now operates two stores in Detroit. From reports the store on lower Woodward Avenue is doing better than the other one at Churchills.

Bert Johnson, of G. & R. McMillan, is the proud possessor of a motor car. Bert tried to keep away from the habit, but he couldn't resist the temptation, so drew out about $2000 and got a brand new Cadillac. Already he can talk about spark plugs and engines as if he had made a life study of them.

Frank Miller, who operates an elevator in one of the office buildings of Columbus, O. (the writer visited there recently), claims to have the only "come-up and go-down" store in the United States. He carries candies, cigars and tobacco, papers and stamps in a corner of the elevator and in this way makes considerable money on the side.

A. J. Dube, of Marquette, has sold his cigar and confectioner store on Washington Street to James La Plante, change having taken place September 1.

Ed Mulvy, cigar manufacturer in Cadillac, Mich., is doing nicely with his latest ten-cent brand, "El Prevato," the trade being local and in the surrounding cities.

From advices received from Cleveland we are informed that Edward Lichtig, Michigan salesman for the Philip Morris cigarettes, will be married the latter part of October. The wedding will take place in Cleveland, the home of the bride.

"Foremost" cigars, made by Jeitles & Blumenthal, of Philadelphia, are growing very much in favor with patrons of the Soper Cigar Co., where a number of window displays have been in evidence recently on this brand.

The new Normandy Cafe, opened two weeks ago in the basement of the Hotel Ponchartrain, is helping materially to increase the sales of the cigar department.

Floyd Richter, manager of the cigar department at the Wenonah Hotel, Bay City, reports that he had a very prosperous summer and looks for a good fall business. He recently added a line of "Unis" cigarettes through his friend, Ed Lichtig.

Eugene Watson, of the firm of the Harry W. Watson Co., cigar jobbers, has returned from a fishing and hunting trip in Northern Michigan. Mr. Watson is a member of the Roscommon Club and spends a week or so in the fall of each year with other members of the club following his favorite pastime.

Clarence J. Sweet, cigar and tobacco jobber in Ann Arbor, Mich., says that the season which opens up September 29 should be the biggest since he has been established. This is a college city, and a larger number of registrations have already been made than any previous year. At the very least 5000 students will attend the University.

E. E. Emery, cigar manufacturer, of Battle Creek, Mich., boasts that he has in the past few weeks brought seven new families to that city through the manufacture of cigars. This is how he did it. He needed cigarmakers, so he advertised in New York, Cincinnati and Canadian newspapers for them, and got the desired results. The force at the Emery plant has increased from seven to twenty-eight employes in the past year.

Visitors: H. S. Michael, selling "Savaronas"; Mr. May, of the West Indies Cigar Co.; Leo Schoeneman (and wife), selling "La Vengas"; Eugene Beck, of R. A. Bachia Co.; Harold McCay, of Park & Tilford, and Mr. Taylor, with "Romeo and Juliet" cigars.

AL U. THORNBURG.

It is announced from St. Petersburg that an important combination connected with the tobacco business in Russia has just been completed. An English company has been formed with $12,000,000 capital, in which Russian, French and English capital is interested. The Russian interests are represented by the Banque Russo-Asiatique and the English group by Haes & Sons.

Los Angeles Register for Salesmen

Morris Burk, the well-known Los Angeles broker, has notified the World that traveling cigar salesmen will be welcomed at his place of business, 108 West Third Street, Los Angeles, and that they can make their headquarters at his place when in the city. He will keep a register open for them.

Premiums and Novelties Spokes in the Wheels of Business

THE rapidly-growing struggle among the manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, for the supremacy of their respective brands, has led to the use of novelties and premiums in quantities, and to an extent, never before known in the history of the trade.

The retailer has found the use of smokers' articles a most productive method of popularizing his shop and boosting his brands.

Competition is stronger than ever before and the use of alluring articles for the "den" or smoking room, given as premiums or as advertising novelties, is proving a most healthy way of encouraging trade and making new friends for the store.

We believe that our readers will be specially interested in a series of brief descriptions of articles that may be used in the tobacco trade in one way or another. We have secured the co-operation of many of the manufacturers in giving their products an introduction to the tobacco manufacturers and retailers, who desire to stimulate the sale of their goods.

There are some articles that may prove too expensive for premium use, but they will be found to be popular with the consumer if offered over the counter at retail. No "smokeshop," today, is complete without a good line of smokers' accessories.

Full information as to prices and quantities may be secured from the manufacturers, whose addresses are given in every case. We will consider it a favor if, when writing, you mention that your attention has been directed to the articles by THE TOBACCO WORLD.

There is a manufacturing firm in Pennsylvania that is producing turned rustic wood articles of particular interest to the tobacco trade. They are turning out rustic ink stands, clocks, tobacco jars and boxes, smoking sets, tabourettes, pipe racks and match holders, steins, umbrella holders, and smoking tables of a quality that cannot help but appeal to the retail trade.

All these articles are artistically finished and make attractive and unique decorations for a den, office or living room.

A pleasing product that will appeal to the smoker, is the rustic smoking table. Stretched out in a morris chair with this smoking set at one's elbow, what could be more comfortable or convenient for the weary bachelor or benedict, who, after a day of strenuous mental or physical exertion desires to enjoy his pipe or cigar in ease.

But this is only one of many useful and decorative articles that this company is making.

Cigar dealers handling lines of smokers' articles will find it to their advantage to procure the catalogue of the Tobyhanna Souvenir and Novelty Manufacturing Company, Tobyhanna, Pa.

A very attractive novelty for igniting cigars and cigarettes is found in the watch cigar lighter, which fits any vest pocket and has no complicated mechanism to get out of order.

It is a very simple device like a thin model watch, and has all the appearances of being one. Gold-plated watch chains may be procured to go with the lighter.

Cigar stores and jobbers will find this article very attractive for use as a premium, an advertising novelty or to retail over the counter.

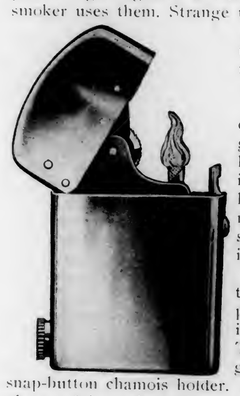
Abroad where the high tax on matches has made the pocket cigar lighters a welcome economy, almost every smoker uses them. Strange to say, however, the smoking American that carries one is the exception rather than the rule, despite the multiplicity of types now on the market.



The lighter shown in the cut carries with it an absolute guarantee of being perfect as long as it lasts. Every dealer is authorized to give a new lighter in exchange for one returned by the purchaser should it prove to be mechanically defective.

The body is a thin model taking up less room in a pocket than a match safe, and is as neat as a piece of jewelry. This lighter is put up with guaranteed gold plate and a snap-button chamois holder. It is also put up in a nickel plate and is made up in quantities as an advertising souvenir.

The cut herewith shows an attractive Safety Ash Tray and Match Holder, suitable as an advertising novelty for any manufacturer or retailer. Distribution of these trays can be made in hotels, cafes and restaurants, and may be marked with the name of the retailer or a brand of cigars. They can be given out to consumers and will prove a permanent advertisement in the best homes and offices, as well.

Retailers may complain that the expense item must be considered, but it will be found that the dealer can also sell the consumer the matches for the tray, and the profit from these alone will soon cover the cost of the souvenir.

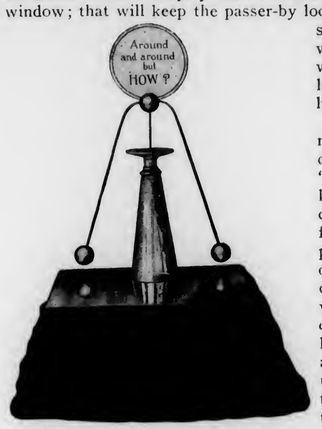
There is nothing so valuable to the cigar dealer as an attractive window display that will draw attention to the window; that will keep the passer-by looking until he sees something in the window that he wants; that finally lands him inside his door.



Among the many novelties for window display, is the "Whirling Ball Illusion." This article, as can be seen from the cut, apparently consists of a square box carelessly covered with a piece of cloth on which is laid a mirror with an inverted glass, upon which hangs the gilded balls that whirl and whirl.

The average man who stops to look, wonders how under the sun the exhibitor gets away with this demonstration of apparent perpetual motion; and not one in a thousand will guess that under the box there is a spring motor that will run for ten hours without re-winding.

The company which has just put this article on the market manufactures all sorts and descriptions of wonderful window displays that are just the thing to draw trade and cause comment. It will be worth the while of live retailers to get acquainted with the products of the Attracto Company, Tenth and Diamond Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Something that advertises your goods and sells them at the same time is found in the punch board, so popular in the small shops and cigar stores. It is a method of increasing sales and at the same time boosting a particular line of goods.

The use of this new method of producing trade is one of the most rapidly growing schemes in the country, and it is embracing all branches; it is particularly popular in the cigar store when one stops to spend an idle moment or longer.

Dealers not acquainted with this line can secure information from the Michigan City Paper Box Company, Michigan City, Ind.

Gives Factory to Foreman

By the will of Mrs. Bartscher, widow of William Bartscher, the well-known cigar manufacturer of St. Louis, the cigar factory, for more than forty years the possession of the Bartschers, together with $2000, has been bequeathed to the foreman of the plant.

In addition to this gift each cigarmaker in the factory is to receive $1000.

The Bartschers had accumulated a large fortune in the cigar business, and were widely known in the State. Mrs. Bartscher, who just died at the age of 76, was popular with her employees and much beloved by her many friends.

Gold Watches With "Omars"

The big demand on the Coast for "Omar" cigarettes has been augmented by the announcement that with each carton of 200 cigarettes there will be enclosed a watch certificate. Fifty of these coupons will entitle the holder to a good high-class, gold-filled seven-jewel gentlemen's watch. These certificates will be redeemed in that section by the Tobacco Company of California, at 1 South Park, San Francisco.

William H. Graubner, of Jacksonville, Ill., has purchased the cigar factory on East Morgan Street, formerly owned by John Erickson. The new management will take over the brands of the former owner, including the well-known "Olceola" and "Thomas Dale."

August Gustafson, an expert tobacconist and snuff manufacturer, of Rockford, Ill., and at one time interested in the Fay Lewis snuff factory, has opened a snuff factory in the basement of a building located on Woodruff Avenue, that place. The brand of snuff produced will be from a recipe brought by Mr. Gustafson from Sweden.

Many and numerous were the expressions of pleasure from the patrons of certain cigar dealers located in Lynn, Mass., fortunate enough to secure one of the "Missouri Meerschaum" pipes given away with each package of Mayo's cut plug tobacco. The "Missouri Meerschaum" is stated to be the corn cob pipe de luxe, being splendidly made and fitted up with a stem of imported German weichsel wood, which is aromatic and adds to the fragrance of the smoke.

Quincy Sumatra Company Sale

The real estate and personal property of the Quincy Sumatra Company, located four miles west of Quincy, Fla., will be offered for sale at 2.30 P. M. on October 23rd, at public auction. Detailed notice is given elsewhere in this issue of the real and personal property. The land lies all together and is considered one of the best tobacco plantations in Gadsen County.

satisfactory nature as regards their English connections. He ought to be back here early in October.

Buying and Selling.

The principal buyers during the past fortnight were: Maximilian Stern, 8783; Victor K. Ettlinger, for Emanuel Hoffman & Sons, 2500; Sucesores de Juan Lopez, 2100; Calixto Lopez & Co., 2000; Salvador Rodriguez, of the "Charles the Great" factory, 1995; David Frankel, of San Francisco, 600 additional, thus making his total purchases also 1995; H. Upmann & Co., for their factory and for export, 1400; E. A. Calves, of Philadelphia, 1200, but he has not completed his purchases, but expects to leave here on the 27th inst.; Partagas, 1075; Morris Rosenberg & Co., 1000; Fred Meyer, for John H. Meyer & Co., 917; Ben Rothschild and Julius Fernbach, 824; Leslie Pantin, for some of his customers not in town, 818; Sol Salomon, 813; E. J. Vetterlein, 800; J. F. Berndes & Co., 699; Felix Eckerson, 673, but still in treaty on some large lots; Harry Landfield, 639; Harry Roberts, 605; Facundo Argüelles, 556; Walter Sutter & Co., 465 bales, and some smaller buyers.

The principal sellers were: Gonzalez & Benitez, 4200; Herrera, Calmet & Co., 3100; Rodriguez, Menendez & Co., 2100; Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez, 1622; J. F. Rocha & Co., 1500; José C. LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Pennsylvania Crops not up to Standard—Quality and Good Prices Mark Conclusion of Connecticut Harvest—Carolinas Have Banner Crop—Reports of Burley Most Discouraging

LANCASTER, PA.

The crops in and about this city at present do not appear to verify the prediction of even half a crop; many of the fields are very ragged looking in appearance, their growth is immature and it is not to be wondered that some of the farmers, becoming discouraged, have run the plough through the crop.

After the big hailstorm of a fortnight ago many of the growers began to cut, with a result that much of the gathered crop is too green. Some of the farmers have adopted the "cutting-out" plan this season, harvesting only matured stalks and letting the others stand for a later cutting. Most of the gathered crop has been Havana, although there has been some Pennsylvania broadleaf harvested.

One-fifteenth of the crop is Havana, but that cut so far is not up to standard. The leaves are too narrow and much lighter in weight.

The broadleaf that has been cut, in fear of hail or frost, is not yet ripe, which will hurt its price.

The shortage of the crops this year is bound to help those who have old leaf on hand. One leaf grower said the other day that he had some 1909 leaf he had held for three years, waiting to get a price, and if he could keep it three he could keep it four. The result of the apparently poor crop has been to bring in a call for 1911 goods. There is also some demand for 1912 leaf, but the packers do not seem particularly anxious to put a price on that yet.

YORK, PA.

Due to the late planting and backward spring, present indications are that the tobacco production in this part of the country will fall below the average of the past ten years. As the farmers in this section have planted only about half the acreage of last year, at the best, the production will not be more than half of the 1912 amount. The low prices of last year discouraged many growers from putting in their usual acreage of tobacco. The planting of Havana leaf in this vicinity has for the past ten years been very small. This year, however, the planting exceeds that of any other. Green worms and cut worms have damaged the leaves to some extent.

CONNECTICUT.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

The tobacco crop in this vicinity is now practically harvested, although there was some two hundred acres still standing when the first frost came. Farmers who had tobacco out were hustling to get it housed before another frost could damage it. The first frost fortunately did not injure the crop that was still standing, and by the time the WORLD goes to press every pound of tobacco should be under cover.

At the finish of the harvest of the shade-grown tobacco of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, the plantation manager, Myron E. Potter, was presented by the employees with a handsome oak roll-top desk; James Sweeney, foreman, received a token in the form of a shaving set; Luther Potter, timekeeper, was remembered with a set of gold cuff links.

The lowest prices that have been paid so far is 15 cents a pound in the bundle. Other prices have ranged from 17 cents to 20 cents in the bundle. Two-thirds of the crop is said to have been bought or bargained for at fairly good figures.

The first frost of the season has come to worry the tobacco growers, but there is little tobacco out now and every energy is being devoted to getting that under cover. The harvest this year has been longer drawn out than usual and the growers have been harassed by the drought which held back the growth of the plants.

Except for the hailstorm of August 27, which damaged a few acres, the weed has been found free from injury. Some of the farmers have begun to deliver their primed tobacco to the packing houses. In a few weeks the packing season will be on, and the hands that have worked in the fields will now find employment in assorting the tobacco.

The yield has been very good and most of the growers will realize a profit.

THOMPSONVILLE, CONN.

The tobacco growers have practically completed their harvest here, as is indicated by the return to school of a large number of pupils. Notwithstanding the drought of late June and early July, the crop is considered good, and the prices are expected to be as high as last year. Many of the growers set out a larger acreage this year, and they are rejoicing to think that they got the crop in before it was nipped by the frost.

Although the crop is somewhat light in weight, it is of excellent quality and the buyers are offering good prices.

KENTUCKY.

LEXINGTON, KY.

Estimates by various crop reporters in the state show the outlook to be anything but encouraging and rainfalls would not help conditions. Firing of the crops has become quite general and has added to the hardening of the stock. There is no other hope or remedy save to cut and house the weed as soon as possible.

Owing to the scarcity of help, owners have been unable to get the needed hands for the cutting and many crops have already turned yellow. As a whole the crop is one of the smallest and poorest in quality ever raised.

Estimates based on the 1912 crop, the smallest in many years, show this year's crop not up to that even. Most of the tobacco is small, never having reached maturity, and yellow from firing rather than ripeness. In many cases it is burned by the sun and cured in the fields. There are very few good crops.

At present it looks like a shortage of at least 50,000,000 pounds, and this means that prices will certainly soar. While Burley tobacco remains at the sixty-five per cent. mark, it looks as if the field for speculation this year is a big one.

A large part of the crop has fired at the bottom up four or five leaves. In the top of most of the plants are small unmatured leaves. The stunted growth, and the necessarily low topping, has left but a few leaves to be depended upon for the yield.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON, WIS.

The drought that has been stunting the growth of the plants has come to an end and cooler weather and moisture should do something for the late crops. The harvested tobacco has been benefited by the wet spell, as during the hot weather it was curing entirely too fast to secure good color.

Almost every farm has some late tobacco on it, but it is impossible to tell yet whether the rains have done it much good. This will cause much uncertainty in the late fields, and as is already indicated, the crop at the best will be an uneven one. While there has been a general increase in the acreage of 1913, bad weather and other causes will probably keep the crop down to average yield.

So far the new law seems to be accomplishing its purpose in preventing field buying of the tobacco crop. The large operators are watching one another closely with their men ready to invade the fields should a break occur, but none care to take the initiative or assume the consequences should they bump against the penalties prescribed by contracting for future delivery. Taking it all around the buyers are generally better satisfied with the law than many of the growers who are cordially condemning its provisions. Most dealers think it a pretty good year to stay out of an early market.

THE CAROLINAS.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

The consensus of opinion in these parts is that the 1913 crop is not only of increased acreage but excellent quality as compared with the harvest of 1912. It appears to be the finest and largest in this State in recent years.

Farmers are now busy cutting and curing. One-half the crop has been cut; cures are especially good and particularly those of the primings. Tobacco has come to the warehouses rapidly; it is fine in quality and color and the prices are good.

FLORENCE, S. C.

From all accounts the tobacco season in this State has been an exceptionally good one. The farmers seem pleased with the prices, which have averaged about 15 cents. Considering that the weed is marketed ungraded, this means practically another cent a pound to the grower. Prices have so encouraged the farmers that no doubt there will be a large increase in 1914 acreage. It is understood that more markets are being contemplated.

Most of the warehouses will be closed, if not all, by the time the next issue of the WORLD is off press. The Florence market has done better than last year, but at that it has lost by reason of the opening of two new markets in the territory that this city has drawn from.

Heard Among Leaf Men

Will County, Ill., is said to have proven rich in tobacco soils. Attention has been drawn to this fact by the experiments in tobacco culture by Prof. W. N. Clute.

A man in Wenatchee, Wash., reports that he raised his smoking tobacco in his own back yard. It is said to have attained a height of more than four feet, and to have thrived wonderfully. The man now wants to make Washington a tobacco-growing State.

At a mass meeting held in Sumter, S. C., it was unanimously decided to make Sumter a tobacco market in 1914. A committee was appointed to secure funds for building a warehouse, while many of the farmers present signified their intention of raising tobacco next year.

J. D. Noel, a representative of the American Tobacco Company, who has returned to Lexington, Ky., after a trip through the Burley belt, says that the condition of the tobacco is not so bad as has been reported.

Reports from Tennessee indicate a poor crop. Cutting began before the crop was ripe, which will make a poor quality. Buyers have been riding about the country, but have made no offers. It is thought that the market will open at seven or eight cents.

The tobacco warehouse owned by Samuel Rothenberg, of Dayton, O., suffered a loss of about $1200 from fire on the 12th. The warehouse contained about $60,000 of tobacco, and only the prompt work of the firemen saved the owner from a heavy loss.

The prosperity in the leaf tobacco trade has influenced East Texas growers to again try their hand at this product. Nacogdoches and Montgomery Counties report a revival of the industry and it looks as if other Texas counties might be induced to give tobacco a trial as a diversified crop. One thing about it is that it solves its own marketing problem by selling for cash.

The election of officers for the Burley Tobacco Society will probably be postponed from October 7 to November 1, pending a decision in a case now in the Court of Appeals.

Stuart, Va., is preparing to give a royal welcome to the buyers and growers who attend the first opening of the People's Tobacco Warehouse at that place on October 1. A special train will be run between Danville to Stuart on that date to enable buyers to make connection for Richmond, Danville and Winston-Salem.

To J. Henry Privett, of Darlington County, assisted by W. E. Lea, goes the honor of having sold recently at the Banner Warehouse, Timmonsville, S. C., one curing of tobacco which netted $731.80. This was followed by another from the same house later, which brought $877.10.

At the tobacco sale recently held in the warehouse of the Planters' Protective Association, Second and Jefferson Streets, Paducah, Ky., more than 200 hogsheads of tobacco were sold. The American Snuff Co. and V. J. O'Bryan are named as the principal buyers, having purchased almost the entire stock. Considering the low grade of tobacco offered, the prices obtained were excellent.

McHie-Scotten Company Now Controls "Worthy Scrap"

Having purchased from the Krummel Tobacco Company, of Cincinnati, O., their brand and good will of "Worthy Scrap," the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Company, of Detroit, Mich., will now feature this scrap as a control brand for jobbers.

However, in exploiting this brand in the respective jobbing territories, it is the intention of the McHie-Scotten Tobacco Company not to conflict in any way with the special work they are doing on "Union Scout Scrap," and brands they have made their leaders.

Fred Ohm of Fond du Lac Gets New Home

Fred J. Ohm, the well-known cigar and tobacco man of Fond du Lac, Wisc., who has been operating a shop and factory at 349 Armory Street, that city, recently purchased the wholesale cigar and tobacco business of Theodore Laudolf, located 35 North Main Street, and will hereafter be located at the latter address, having combined his own with the new business. The new acquisition is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, of its kind in the city of Fond du Lac, having originally been started by George Settler and C. A. Wilkie in 1878 under the firm name of Settler & Wilkie. Upon the death of Mr. Settler, the business was carried on by Mr. Wilkie until taken over by Mr. Laudolf sixteen years ago. He has been the sole owner until recent acquirement by Mr. Ohm.

Key West

Indications for Fall Business Good—E. H. Gato Cigar Company Working to Capacity—New Hotel Promised Soon

KEY WEST, FLA., September 27, 1913.

THE busy fall season has opened up auspiciously with the cigar trade of this city. Nearly all of our cigar factories have on file a heavy batch of immediate and future delivery orders, and they are taking on "Regalia" workmen as fast as they can be had. Heavy invoices of leaf tobacco are being brought in by every steamer from Cuba. Withdrawals from the bonded warehouses also show a decided improvement. Shipping figures are also excellent. Taking everything into consideration the fall business is going to be very large.

A very large percentage of the cigars manufactured in Tampa, Fla., for the Pacific Coast trade, are shipped through Key West, via the Mallory Steamship Line to Galveston, Tex., thence on to their destination by rail. This is clear proof that the shipping facilities of Key West are now the best and cheapest in the State.

Business is on the hustle at the big factories of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company. They have now about 550 cigarmakers enrolled on the manufacturing floor, and are carrying pretty near 200 strippers in the stemming department. Large shipments of fall goods to the company's territory throughout the United States are going forward by every available route. Their shipments to S. Bachman & Co., San Francisco, Cal., are especially very heavy.

S. M. & M. J. Gans, prominent leaf men of New York, were callers on the local trade recently.

Sam J. Wolf, of S. Wolf's Sons, has received his promotion from Major to Lieutenant-Colonel from the Governor of Florida.

Juan Gonzalez (El Nino), of J. W. Roberts & Son, Tampa cigar manufacturers, passed through the city recently, being en route to the Havana leaf markets.

The Cortez Cigar Company has showed its fall colors by filling up their main building and annex with skilled cigarmakers. "Maxine Elliott" and "Herman Cortez," in their many different sizes, are enjoying a good demand, and are being shipped in large quantities to all parts of the country.

Jaime Pendas, manager of Moreda & Co., paid a short business visit to Tampa recently. Jose Lozano, M. A. Gunst & Co.'s Havana leaf buyer, was a visitor at the office a few days ago, while en route to Cuba.

Things are on the hum at the Havana-American Company's factory. Their building, one of the largest in the State, is filled to its capacity on the cigarmaking floor. The company received about 500 bales of tobacco from Cuba a few days ago.

Viciente Martinez, who sold out his cigar factory a month ago to the Principe de Golfo Cigar Company and left for Cuba to do business and reside in the future, after having been a citizen of Key West for about twenty years, has returned and has filed his application for a cigar-manufacturer's license. He states that while Cuba is his native land that there is no place like "Cayo Hueso."

President Eduardo H. Gato and Vice-President Fernando H. Gato, of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, returned this week from a pleasure trip to the North. Fernando H. Gato was accompanied by his wife and daugthers, Miss Lozario and Miss Mercedes. President Gato was in conference during the week with Mr. Ware, representative of the Forbs Hotel interests in regard to the proposed erection of a hotel here in the very near future.

Ignacio Casteneda, of Jorge & P. Casteneda, the leaf dealers of Havana, spent a few days in town this week.

Jose Aixala, of the house of Aixala & Co., of Havana, and M. J. Bloom, the New York leaf dealer, were callers on the local trade this week. Both of them did a nice business.

V. Diaz, F. Lozano Sons & Co., passed through the city this week while en route to Tampa.

Emilio Pons and Ernest Bergen, of the Tampa-Cuba Cigar Company, were through passengers to Cuba during the week.

J. Newton Curry, office manager of the Cortez Cigar Company, returned this week from a pleasure trip through the West. Vivian Myers, of the Lee Roy Myers Cigar Company, of Savannah, Ga., is speding a few days in the city this week. During his stay here he is making his headquarters at the Cortez Cigar Company's office.

INGLACITA.

A recent ordinance introduced by Mayor Schnepp, of Springfield, Ill., makes it necessary for all dealers in tobacco and cigars to take out a license and give bond in the sum of $500. The license fee, which amounts to one dollar, is to be paid to the city clerk. Penalty for violation of the ordinance is fixed at a fine of from $25 to $100 and $25 per day for persisting in such violation.

"Omars" by Express

Many cigar and tobacco dealers would do well to pattern after the Tobacco Company of California, Incorporated, San Francisco, when it comes to a question of serving the customers' needs. Being big distributors of the "Omar" cigarette in that territory, which by the way has been on the market only about six months, and having entirely exhausted their supply, they found it necessary to immediately stock up, and quickly, so great was the demand for "Omars." They, therefore, ordered a consignment of 2,000,000 "Omar" cigarettes, comprising a solid carload, and at a cost of $2000, the entire lot was transported by a well-known express company from New York City, leaving there September first, to San Francisco, the journey being accomplished in exactly four days, sixteen hours and four minutes, the shipment having been closely timed. When it is understood that the value of the carload was $12,000, it will be seen that the Tobacco Company of California places a high premium on service.

Owing to the unusual dry conditions that exist in Lansing, Mich., smokers have been warned not to throw butts or lighted matches in the grass along the city streets. Nearly a dozen fires have been started in the last few days by the careless throwing of lighted matches, etc., into the dry grass.

The Arcade City store on North Street, Pittsfield, Mass., has been purchased from Burdick A. Stewart by Thomas F. Dumont. Mr. Dumont was for several years in partnership with Arthur Blain in the cigar business.

Quantity or Quality--Which?

WHEN you are considering the advisability of taking on a new cigar, Mr. Dealer, what do you take to be of most importance, quantity or quality?

If quality cuts a large part in the selection of your stock, get in touch with us. We have something in common with you, a medium-sized, hand-made, clear Havana filled, nickel cigar, which contains nothing but the best imported tobacco.

This cigar, the 20TH CENTURY, has been on the market for 28 years, sufficient proof that it has stood the test of time.

For full particulars and samples communicate with

Concerning Binders

And How They Affect the Success or Failure of the Cigars You Make

The best-made smoke sells the best—eventually. But you don't have to wait till the smoker discovers you make a better cigar to profit by Standard Pure Tobacco Binders. Besides being a standard pure product, all binder and no waste, it effects a 100% saving over the cheapest grown binder. The good points of the grown article, the flavor and aroma of the natural leaf, are coupled with a uniformity of texture obtainable only in our Standard Binders.

The costly waste of time, space and material in casing, stripping and cutting is the difference between the old way and the new. Standard Pure Tobacco Binders come all ready for use. Lay them in damp clippings overnight, and they are fit for duty.

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS

The soft, absorbent tissue of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS mingles the flavor of filler and wrapper, causing a unit blend, reducing the strength of a raw filler.

Inequalities in the grown binder cause a ragged, irregular burn which smokers regard as characteristic of cheap cigars. The perfect uniformity of texture of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS insures an even burn to a clear, white ash, even when the wrapper is heavy and oily.

These binders contain no adulteration of any kind. Being sterilized in the making, they are purer, sweeter and more hygienic than the grown leaf.

Two pounds of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS will cover 1,000 cigars, where six or seven pounds of grown binders are needed. STANDARD binders cost 40c. a thousand, as against $1.00 a thousand for the cheapest grown binders—a saving of at least 60% in material. Knocking out the expense of casing, stripping and cutting means a further saving of at least 40%.

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS can be had in 6 standard sizes, to accommodate 30 sizes of cigars. Also two stogie sizes. These binders are a new idea, but the principle that prompted their invention—constructive economy—is an old friend of yours. Tell us your needs, and our FREE SAMPLES WILL TELL YOU HOW TO MEET THEM.

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Department as "Tobacco in process of manufacture."

U. S. Patents issued February 6th, 1912, proclaim the STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER to be manufactured only of tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps.

cigars are wrapped with the recognized highest grade of Sumatra known as Deli My/A. THE REPRESENTATIVE LINE

It is a great achievement in these days of big business to be the representative concern of any line.

The Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company occupies this position in the realm of Porto Rican cigars, by virtue of a deliberate purpose to produce cigars of such quality, and to conduct its business on such a plane and thru such representative dealers as would naturally give it first rank in its field.

Clearly no other cigar company has been in a position to contribute so much to the actual improvement of Porto Rican cigar quality as has this company. With the facilities and experiences of our large organization to draw upon, it has been possible to evolve a cigar of such fine quality and such uniform goodness as to practically establish a new era in Porto Rican cigar making.

Our best efforts, our finest tobacco and most expert workmanship have been given to our main factory brand.

LARGE DAYTON CONCERN FAILS

Bucher Cigar Company Files Voluntary Petition in Bankruptcy—Liabilities of More Than $38,000, While Assets Are Listed at $31,660.08—Philo G. Burnham Appointed Custodian of Assets

DAYTON, O., October 4, 1913.

ONE of the largest cigar manufacturing firms in Central Ohio, the W. L. Bucher Cigar Company, has filed, through its attorney, John C. Shea, a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the local United States District Court.

Its schedules sworn to by W. L. Bucher, president and treasurer, list the liabilities at $38,294.37, while assets aggregate $31,660.08. There are but few creditors holding claims for merchandise which total but $375.31.

The assets of the company consist chiefly of leaf tobacco, most of which is stored at the warehouse of the American Cigar Company, at Lancaster, Pa., and in Philadelphia warehouses.

The stock in trade and fixtures of the company at its factory, 1409 East Fifth Street, Dayton, is valued as follows:

Fixtures, $700; manufactured cigars, $5,400; stemmed tobacco, $950; unstemmed tobacco, $5,360, and labels, $150. Tobacco valued at $3,450 is held at Lancaster, subject to the order of B. Labe & Sons, of Philadelphia, and Sumatra to the value of $1,571.20 and primed and Georgia valued at $486 is held at Philadelphia, also subject to the order of Labe & Sons. Besides the twenty-five cases of seed leaf upon which they claim a lien, Wolf & Lukaswitz have stored in warehouse seventy cases of Connecticut binder valued at $4,200, owned by the bankrupt company.

Other assets of the company are debts due on open accounts aggregating $7,435.48; cash on hand, $155.70, and bills receivable, $348.

The only secured creditor of the bankrupt company is the firm of Wolf & Lukaswitz, of Dayton, which claims a lien upon twenty-five cases of Ohio seed leaf of an estimated value of $950, as security for a note of $1,041.59. Unsecured promissory notes of the bankrupt company aggregating $36,877.47, are held as follows:

Wolf & Lukaswitz, $1,041.59; Sunny Brooke Tobacco Company, New York, $300; Allen & Wheeler Company, Troy, O., $400; Merchants' National Bank, Bangor, Pa., $1,175.32; Guardian Trust Company, York, Pa., $2,502.84; First National Bank, Hanover, Pa., $1,824.16; Franklin National Bank, Philadelphia, Pa., $1,751.42; Farmers' Bank, McSherrystown, Pa., $217.10; Bank of North America, Philadelphia, Pa., $1,029.82; Girard National Bank, Philadelphia, Pa., $6,885.88; Fulton National Bank, Lancaster, Pa., $6,169.27; Farmers' State Bank, Hanover, Pa., $4,965.84; Farmers' National Bank, Pennsburg, Pa., $3,326.22; Lancaster Trust Company, Lancaster, Pa., $2,662, and the Manufacturers' National Bank, of Philadelphia, Pa., $2,625.66.

Upon application the court appointed Philo G. Burnham of Dayton, as custodian of the assets of the bankrupt company and fixed his bond in the sum of $5,000. He is to have charge of the bankrupt's business pending the appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy.

CIGAR RULES FOR MAKING IN BOND

First Instructions Regarding New Law Given Out—Assistant Secretary of Treasury Conservative in His Interpretation—Strictly Legal Ruling Issued

Washington, D. C., October 11, 1913.

FOLLOWING close on the passage of the Underwood Tariff Bill last week, a number of cigar manufacturers, immediately applied to the Treasury Department for specific information concerning the regulation which the department would make for the manufacture of cigars in bond. Today, the Treasury Department, through Assistant Secretary Hamlin, has given out the first instructions concerning the new law.

The department has been very conservative in its interpretation and does not attempt to enlarge upon the wording of the act in the least.

Anticipating the immediate use of this law, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin has issued the following instructions to collectors of customs:

"Section V, paragraph M, of the tariff act of October 3, 1913, provides in part 'That cigars manufactured in whole of tobacco imported from any one country, made and manufactured in such bonded manufacturing warehouses, may be withdrawn for home consumption upon the payment of the duties on such tobacco in its condition as imported, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, and the payment of the internal revenue tax accruing on such cigars in their condition as withdrawn, and the boxes or packages containing such cigars shall be stamped to indicate their character, origin of tobacco from which made and place of manufacture.

"The provisions of articles 506 to 513, inclusive, articles 514 to 524 inclusive, only so far as applicable, and articles 525 to 538, inclusive, of the customs regulations of 1908, are hereby extended to the bonding and operation of warehouses for the manufacture of cigars.

"Only tobacco imported from one country may be taken into premises bonded for the manufacture of cigars, for use in making cigars. Cigars manufactured from such

Watertown Tobacco Company Enlarges

The Watertown Tobacco Company, of Watertown, N. Y., occupying the building on the north side of the public square, are renovating their place of business and adding a four-story addition.

The company, of which G. L. Traver and I. L. Traver are the controlling factors, has decided to increase its capitalization from $20,000 to $40,000, for the purpose of making these improvements and a possible further extension of the business.

The plans call for a new plate glass front to the building, in addition to other changes. When finished the wholesale department of the company will be moved from the second story to the basement, and the upper stories rented for offices.

The retail department will also be greatly enlarged and will occupy the entire ground floor of the extended store, with the offices in the rear.

Schinasi Brothers Win

SUPREME Justice Nathan Bijur, of New York, last week granted a permanent injunction against A. Schinasi & Brothers, to prevent the use of the name "Schinasi" in the manufacture of cigarettes.

As is well known, Schinasi Brothers have been for years leading manufacturers of Turkish cigarettes in New York City, producing the "Natural" and "Prettiest" brands.

Recently a new corporation was formed by Albert Schinasi, who came to the United States in June last and the company was known as A. Schinasi & Brothers, Incorporated.

They opened offices in the Fitzgerald Building, 1482 Broadway, and established a factory on Canal Street, placing on the market a brand of cigarettes known as "Schinasi's Natural Aromatic."

The pioneer firm Schinasi Brothers, through their attorneys, Horwitz & Rosenstein, applied for a temporary injunction and by the opinion of the court, last week, this was made permanent.

A "World" man then called at the offices of A. Schinasi & Brothers on several occasions, but found them closed. It was stated, however, by one of the members of the company, that they would continue the manufacture of cigarettes under new and different arrangements.

Pixley to Represent Pera Company

An interesting item of news from the West is to the effect that W. I. Pixley, whose fame as a cigarette salesman is well known, has come to an agreement with the Pera Cigarette Company, and that he will represent this firm on the Pacific Coast.

"Scenes in Savarona Land"

F. R. Hoisington, President of the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company, has gotten out a most attractive booklet entitled "Scenes in Savarona Land." Mr. Hoisington's idea, as stated to the Tobacco World correspondent, was to give the cigar clerks, salesmen both of jobbers and retailers, first hand information with reference to the origin and manufacture of "Savarona" cigars, and the booklet will be mailed to any one who wants to see this beautiful set of tropical views. The booklet begins with Mr. Johnson, as that is the way the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company began.

It was founded by a man who knew how to make cigars, and he has made at least as good cigars as any one else on the Island. It shows Mr. Johnson's residence with the factories in the background, and carries the reader along by pictures and reading matter through the plantations, warehouses, shade tobacco, curing, sorting, up to the finished product. Altogether the book is a most interesting and attractive and instructive bit of cigar literature. The pictures alone make it attractive and many of these books will find their way into the homes on account of the interesting pictures.

The Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company expects also to put these booklets on the retailers' counters wherever "Savarona" cigars are handled, so they may be distributed to smokers.

Perez & Co. Make an Assignment

TEODORO PEREZ and Samuel J. Janover, who compose the firm of Teodoro Perez & Co., importers of leaf tobacco, at 212 Pearl Street, New York City, and a business at Marianao, Cuba, as the Monroe Commercial Company, have made an assignment to Leonard D. Greenhall. The firm was formed on January 1, 1909. Mr. Perez had previously been president of the West Indies Cigar Company.

Charles L. Greenhall, representing the assignee, said that the liabilities were $72,000, of which $22,000 were secured and assets are probably $40,000, consisting of equity in pledged merchandise and accounts and customers' notes. Nearly all the liabilities are to creditors in Cuba.

President Hill Goes Abroad

P. S. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, sailed for Europe on the seventh inst., for a ten days' stay in London. He is visiting the other side on a strictly business matter and will return to New York about the first of next month, planning after that for a quick trip to Havana.

"Milo" in Melachrino's Hands

Announcement came from the Tobacco Products Corporation a few days ago that on and after October 1, the exclusive sales of the "Milo" cigarettes had been placed in the hands of M. Melachrino & Company, a subsidiary of the Tobacco Products Corporation.

This change, according to Vice-President Ellis, has no significance other than that for the better balancing of the firm's business.

J. W. Merriam Optimistic

Genial "Jack" Merriam, as his host of friends know him, returned home a week ago, from a three weeks' trip out West and expressed himself in the most optimistic terms concerning the business which he had personally done and the general outlook for future trade. The tariff bill seems to have been thoroughly discounted according to Merriam and business will not be at all interrupted.

Opening of New Gunst Store

Several thousand people visited the newly-opened smoke shop of M. A. Gunst & Company, at Broadway and John Street, on Monday and carried away as a souvenir of the opening a cigar or cigarette holder or a leather purse. Visitors also received gifts of dainty rosebuds as long as they lasted.

This new store represents the latest and most modern in interior fittings and lighting effects. The wall cases and counters are of solid mahogany, the fittings are in excellent keeping with the other appointments of the store and the whole equipment is sure to meet the hearty approval of the customers.

FREE SMOKES ONLY FOR DAYS ACTUALLY EMPLOYED

No Twenty-one Cigars a Week—Will Be Allowed Only Three Per Day When Working—Internal Revenue Commissioner Explains Position.

Washington, D. C., October 11, 1913.

COMMISSIONER of Internal Revenue Osbourn holds, under the free smokers law, that each employee of a manufacturer of cigars who works less than a full week, is held to be entitled to only three cigars per day for each full day actually employed.

"This office is in receipt of your letter of the 19th instant in which, referring to Treasury Decision No. 1875, you state that the question has arisen whether a manufacturer of cigars, if he chooses, would be allowed to furnish an employee with twenty-one cigars in any one week should the employee be actually employed a portion of the week only, that is, one, two or three days, or less than six days, as, you state, is often the case. You ask, also, in case tax free cigars are not furnished employees nor employees allowed to take them, whether the manufacturer is required to make daily report on Form 72 of the number of cigars 'manufactured,' 'removed tax paid,' and 'total number of cigarmakers employed.'

"You are advised in answer to your first question that while the law reads 'Each employee of a manufacturer of cigars shall be permitted to use for personal consumption and for experimental purposes, not to exceed twenty-one cigars per week,' it is contemplated that to be entitled to the twenty-one cigars per week, the employee shall have been at work each day of the week and if he is employd for a less period than a full week, it is held that he shall be entitled to only a proportionate number of tax free cigars, or three cigars per day, for each full day actually employed by the manufacturer. Where an employee is engaged on piece-work or is paid so much per hundred cigars and such employee does not work a full week, he shall be entitled only to tax free cigars for personal consumption and for experimental purposes at the rate of three cigars for each full day employed.

"Relative to your second inquiry, you are advised that no report of the number of cigars 'manufactured,' 'removed tax-paid' or 'total number of cigarmakers employed' each day need be made on present Form 72 if no tax free cigars are furnished to or taken by employees. Monthly return Form 72, however, should contain a statement to that effect which must, without fail, be made with the understanding that it applies to cigars consumed within as well as off the bonded factory premises.

"Each cigar or 'smoker' manufactured and consumed by an employee, either within or off the bonded factory premises, must be reported as having been manufactured and its disposition accounted for, in accordance with the law and Treasury Decision referred to."

When the Board of Charities and Correction, at Butte, Mont., recently met for the purpose of awarding the contracts for supplies to Montevue and the jail, H. J. D. Hagan was given the contract to supply tobacco for the three months' period.

TAMPA, October 11, 1913.

THE factories here are fully as well engaged as they were two weeks ago when I last reported, and if anything, orders are increasing more rapidly than even the most sanguine expected.

The Clear Havana Manufacturers' Association are awaiting definite news from Washington concerning the interpretation of the new "Made in Bond" provisions of the Tariff Bill which has just been passed, and three manufacturers who do not care to give out their names just yet, have already assured me that they intend to commence the making of goods in bond immediately.

Vice-President E. J. Stachelberg, of the Sanchez & Haya factory, is up to his capacity with orders all along the line and told me that they have had some phenomenal orders from Chicago during the past ten days, and that the sales of "Sanchez & Hayas" in Denver, Salt Lake, and all along the Pacific Coast, are heavier than ever. Mr. Stachelberg received a clipping a few days ago from a New York paper, showing him that his sister, who resides in Paris, had an old balance of several hundred dollars in a New York bank, which had stood for a number of years and the fact was advertised according to law.

The San Martin & Leon Company have been in receipt of some excellent orders from Philadelphia, where C. J. Castillo, and President Jorge Leon have been visiting during the last three or four days.

Many friends will regret to hear of the untimely death of R. R. Windhorst, who was for some years with the Rey-Strauss Company and represented them on the road until a year ago, who died in this city a few days since, a victim of consumption. Mr. Windhorst gave up the road about a year ago and had been endeavoring to regain his health since that time.

A. L. Cuesta, of Cuesta-Rey factory, reached home last Sunday and his return was overshadowed by the fact that his son and namesake was down with typhoid fever, in the Halcyon Hospital.

The reports on the young man, at this writing, are favorable, and the physicians say that he will pull through all right.

T. H. Burt, the district manager for the Reynolds Tobacco Company, in this city, will start on Monday to market his company's new brands of cigarettes here, the "Reyno" and the "Osman."

Benjamin Cosio, the efficient manager of the Jose Lovera & Company factory in this city, is out of town for a few days on a business trip through Jacksonville. He expects to return on Monday.

Members of the trade will be glad to hear that an expert hotel man in the person of W. F. Adams, has been engaged to run the Tampa Bay Hotel for the coming year. He expects to open the house on September 15, after it has received a thorough overhauling. Mr. Adams was for seven years manager of the Senate restaurant in the capital at Washington.

During the week ending Saturday, October 4, 1123 cases of cigars containing 5,615,000 cigars were shipped out of this city, the product of Tampa cigar factories for that week.

Up to date this year 40,423 cases for the same time last year.

This means that 202,115,000 cigars have been shipped out as compared with 187,745,000 last year, or a gain of 14,370,000 cigars in this year over last.

Up to October 4 this year there were 238 working days, so that Tampa has made and shipped an average of 849,000 cigars every working day during 1913.

It surely is the clear Havana cigar city of the world, and we are proud of it.

PERFECTO.

Important Auction

Elsewhere in this issue appears a notice from a prominent tobacco company in Florida, relative to an auction sale of all their real estate and personal property, and of which they are desirous of disposing. Manufacturers looking for new equipment would do well to write and ascertain concerning the effects to be offered, or better still, might make a visit to the town in question, and find it worth their while.

B. W. Thornsburg, a cigar dealer of Cedar Rapids, Ia., was a recent visitor to Waterloo, Ia.

IRREGULAR PAGINATION

FRANK OLDHAM, who is a clever tobacconist out in Wisconsin, has struck upon a useful idea to stimulate trade among his farmer friends and those whose homes are located some distance from his shop. Once every week he sends out small boys with handbills numbered consecutively and stating thereon in bold-face type that fifty of the handbills call for a free gift at his store on Saturdays.

On the appointed days he takes fifty pipes, packages of cigarettes, small bundles of cigars, smoking novelties, and arranges them on the gift shelf with the numbers conspicuously displayed.

During the two months that he has used this scheme, he has distributed as high as five thousand handbills, numbered from one to five thousand and out of this list, picked the fifty gift numbers and thus far he reports not one number has been overlooked on any Saturday.

It means that he gets a sure several thousand callers on the designated day and even our conservative farmer friends who come in with handbills calling for a free pipe, hesitates to walk out of the store without buying at least a tin of tobacco to smoke in it.

Mr. Oldham has caught a few getting away, but a kindly word turned them back toward the counter and enabled him to separate them from a dime at least.

The scheme is not a lottery, for there is absolutely no money exchanged for the gifts which he hands out.

A new phase of the fair sex's rapidly increasing prerogative of smoking, has developed on the West Coast, and unless something is done forthwith, the beautiful Hotel Oakland, will shortly have to get a new manager for the Broom Squad. It seems that Tom Num, house-cleaning expert at the hotel, is peeved. Tom works all night with a corps of assistants, and the more he works the more he has to do. This is because ladies smoke in the hotel occasionally. At the smart afternoon teas silver cigarette cases are opened and Turkish cigarettes are smoked.

According to Tom, the ladies smoke differently from the sterner sex. The men drop their ashes into ash-trays or cuspidors. The fair smokers at society teas drop their fluffy cigarette ashes on the carpets. For some time Tom has had much ado to clean them up, and recently he rebelled. Approaching Maitre d' Hotel Petersen, he demanded that notices, calling women's attention to ash-trays in the lobby, be printed and displayed.

"Nothing doing," said Petersen. "The ladies can smoke how and where they please in this hotel, and if they spoil your carpets get new ones. We must please the ladies."

Wherefore Tom still goes over the carpet three times with the vacuum cleaner to remove the ashes, and mutters strange Chinese oaths.

I see that the retail handlers of cigars and tobacco in France have finally banded into an association to try and force the French government to treat them something like right in the manufacture of goods which they must sell. At a meeting last month, the dealers had representatives of the French Regie present, and laid the law down to them in strong terms, and adopted three resolutions which are worthy of being printed herewith, and I give them to you merely to show how lucky our American smokers are.

I. That the manufacture of "Levant elegantes" cigarettes at fifteen cents a pack be increased so as to supply the public demand. The State, it may be explained, manufactures "Levant Gauloises" cigarettes at twenty cents a pack, for which there is no demand, while the other size, the "Levant elegantes," are in great favor. The State, however, has a large stock of the unpopular article on hand and refuses to supply the popular one until this stock is exhausted.

II. That the scarcity in the supply of flat packs of Maryland cigarettes be remedied. Everybody who has been in France remembers the cylindrical packs of cigarettes. Of late years, however, an oblong packet has been introduced which has met with great favor, but the retailers cannot get a proper supply. They order the flat oblong packet, but the State persists in supplying the old round form.

As I have stated on several occasions, before, if you have ever been so unfortunate as to have to depend upon French cigarettes or cigars for your smoking comfort, you can at least understand that the blame rests upon the shoulders of the government.

I was very much impressed with the cleverness of the idea displayed by the Chicago manufacturers of the "La Bona" cigar, in the shape of their premium offer to dealers of a talking cigar cutter, which device embodies a combination cigar clipper and a phonograph. The Victor Talking Machine Company tell a most romantic tale concerning the adoption of their most remarkable and world-famous trade mark, "His Master's Voice," which depicts the intelligent dog in front of the horn of the phonograph recognizing the beloved voice of his master coming from a record.

This idea has been turned to good account in the cigar-cutter device and when a customer places his cigar therein, and clips off the tip, there issues from the cutter this plaintive appeal: "Try 'La Bona,' a one-half pure Havana long filler, so blended as to produce a mild, smooth smoke." The machine is guaranteed to make its announcements correctly for six months, and is being given free to dealers with each purchase of 1000 cigars.

A novelty like this, it seems to me, is sure to make the cigars talked about to an unusual degree, and publicity always means distribution.

Tampa's Big Gains

The official figures as published in our Tampa letter this issue, show that the marvelous little producing city of clear Havana cigars, has shipped out this year, up to date over 200,000,000 cigars in nine months, being an increase of some 15,000,000 over the same period of last year. The next three months easily promise to be the heaviest producing months in the history of the industry, and we should not be surprised if the product for the coming period would total 150,000,000 additional cigars, which would bring the year's output up to 350,000,000.

These figures are stupendous in their aggregate and give a faint idea of why the marvelous little metropolis of southern Florida has made such wonderful headway along all lines of progress, financial, commercial and otherwise.

It is well that our legislators at Washington should pay careful heed to everything which has the endorsement of the association of cigar manufacturers in Tampa for the industry as represented by them there, is powerful indeed.

Busy Factories and Advertising

Philadelphia and the vicinity seem constantly searching for cigarmakers. Reading claims that at the present time it could use at least five hundred more. Lancaster and York are both looking for good workmen, and everywhere there seems to be a demand for cigarmakers. Lack of them, and lack of places to put them to work, is putting many of the big manufacturers way back on their holiday goods.

A scheme, which is not a new one by any means, has been tried by several manufacturers and is working out all right for them in more ways than one. They have opened their own apprentice shops and are teaching the pupils how to make their brands of cigars, and the result is that when these apprentices are ready to go to work on the bench, they are fairly good on that particular line of smokes. In addition that line is the only one they do know, and for that reason it will be hard for them to desert that factory and go to another.

Advertising is the power that is turning the factory wheels and increasing the demand for cigarmakers, and advertising now will prevent the "dull" season that non-advertisers are always crying about. Many of the factories in Philadelphia that have been consistent advertisers have experienced the biggest summer season in their history. For several factories August was the biggest month they have ever known.

"Speedy execution is the mother of good fortune." The determination to start advertising, today, in "The Tobacco World" is a guide-post on the pathway to greater success.

Good Work at Washington

Manufacturers, whatever their political creed may be, are agreed that the officials connected with the present administration at Washington are taking prompt measures to give the trade at large the benefit of whatever information they have, so that business can pursue its calm, even course.

As will be seen elsewhere, not more than a week had elapsed after the passage of the Underwood Tariff Bill before Assistant Secretary Hamlin, recognizing the importance of the "made in bond" proviso, issued definite instructions so that any manufacturers who were desirous of inaugurating the new system, could have a foundation upon which to lay their plans.

The definite regulations concerning free smokers, which have been issued from the Treasury Department within the past ten days, while they may not accord with the views of manufacturers generally, at least, settle a much mooted question, and put everyone upon an equal basis in each revenue district.

Generally speaking, the tobacco industry seems to be thoroughly appreciated by the Wilson administration, and the spirit shown at Washington, thus far, appears to be an eminently fair one.

* * *

"There is greater wealth in the time men waste than in all the gold mines of the world." There is greater loss to those who do not advertise than there is profit to those who do. Don't be a loser! Try "The Tobacco World."

PHILADELPHIA.

Terry & Duncan Dissolve

A. W. Terry, Jr., and W. D. Duncan, comprising the well-known cigar firm of Terry & Duncan, located at Tenth and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, have dissolved partnership.

Mr. Duncan has, it is understood, allied himself with the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and Mr. Terry will continue the business under his own management.

The same high grade of goods will be carried as heretofore, and the Sanchez & Haya Company will distribute their goods through Mr. Terry.

Other well-known brands handled by the firm are "Cortez," "Lozano" and "Luxello," the latter brand being made by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, of Philadelphia.

City Notes

Juan F. Portuondo report a heavy business on holiday goods. The line of "La Flor de Portuondo" is going especially well and the factory is busy caring for the demand for special Christmas packings in boxes of twenty-five.

Jorge Leon and Chas. Castillo, representatives of the San Martin & Leon Company, Tampa, Fla., paid a visit to the Quaker City trade last week.

C. E. Turner, representing Salvador Rodriguez, manufacturer of the well-known "Charles the Great" cigar, closed a trip in Philadelphia recently with a well-filled order book.

Before he took the train for Cedar Rapids, Henry Reisenberg put in a good stroke for his factory when he arranged with Morrison, Plummer & Co., of Chicago, to become the agency in that city for the "Bold" cigar. Then, at his next stop, this energetic salesman lined up the Churchill Drug Company, of Cedar Rapids and Burlington, as jobbers for the "Bold" brand in those territories. Mr. Reisenberg is now in Minneapolis, where it is expected that he will put over another good stroke for his fast selling brand.

Labe Creditors to Meet

George E. Shaw recently sent out a notice for the meeting of the creditors of Benjamin Labe & Sons, to be held at the Girard National Bank, Philadelphia, on Friday, October 17, the meeting to be called at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In his communication, Mr. Shaw stated that it was very important that all creditors be represented.

"Bonair" Cigar a New Comer

The cigar department of the Mitchell, Fletcher & Co. stores have just placed a new brand on sale in their various stores under the title of "Bonair."

The new product is a seed Havana, packed in londres, Rothschilds and regalia, selling for $4.50 per hundred. Perfectos and especials are banded and sell for five cents straight or $5.00 per hundred.

These new goods are from the factory of a well-known Philadelphia manufacturer, who claims to have secured a pleasing blend of choice tobaccos.

With the "44" Salesmen

M. A. Funk, secretary and sales manager of the "44" Cigar Company, has been in Chicago recently, directing G. T. Loker and his son in their distribution of "44's" and "Adlons," through the Thorwart & Rhoeling Company. This firm is now doing a tremendous duplicating business on these brands, proving that the new distributors are doing their share in interesting the smoking public in these popular cigars.

Success is smiling upon the efforts of Tillman Funk and his specialty men, C. F. Clark and E. H. Busbee, in their work on the house brands in South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee.

James F. Cormany, Western representative, is working with the Omaha Tobacco Company in Nebraska, assisting them in their efforts to care for the unusual number of "repeat" orders that are piling in upon them.

M. Zander, with his son, G. W. Zander, is building up a fine line of business in the Southwest for the "44" cigar.

W. H. Nicholson is now lending his aid to the work of the Flat Top Grocery Company, who are the West Virginia distributors in that territory. Mr. Nicholson's specialty man, I. N. Rayfield, is assisting him in the successful campaign which they are now carrying on.

F. W. Crawford, New York and Middle West representative, has been spending a few days in Buffalo and the vicinity. He reports heavy runs on "44's" and "Adlons."

The factory reports show that the advance business this season exceeds by far that of other years, and that the demand for "44's" is constantly increasing.

C. W. Saunders, of the Cortez Cigar Company, Key West, Fla., collected an attractive bunch of orders while in Philadelphia.

"Solace" Cigars in Pittsburgh

THE Fifth Avenue Arcade Cigar Store in Pittsburgh, has recently had a splendid display on "Solace" cigars. This well-known brand of clear Havana cigars is made by George W. Nichols & Company.

The cigar stand which is shown in the illustration is operated by Joseph Maher, who secured Howard Peel, of Reymer Brothers, to put up the "Solace" display for him. It has proven a big hit with smokers in the "Smoky City," and has added quite a bit to Mr. Maher's sales on the brand.

tobacco may be withdrawn for consumption in the United States upon the filing of an entry in the form provided by article 257 of the customs regulations of 1908 for the withdrawal of merchandise from bond for consumption, such form of entry to be modified to correspond to the facts.

"The entry must specify in detail the quality of tobacco from which the cigars were made and duty shall be paid on the tobacco used, in its condition as imported, at the rates provided in the appropriate paragraphs of the tariff act of October 3, 1913.

"In order to comply with the requirement that duty shall be paid on the tobacco used, in its condition as imported, collectors will require the weighing and examination and proper records to be kept of all tobacco taken directly into the bonded manufacturing warehouse from the import vessel. In the case of tobacco transferred from bonded warehouse into a bonded manufactuing warehouse. from which to make cigars, the records of the examination and weights at the time of the importation and entry of such tobacco will be used in arriving at the correct amount of duties due on the tobacco.

"The collector will require, before the removal of the cigars from the bonded premises under a withdrawal for consumption, that internal revenue stamps shall be affixed to the boxes containing the cigars and that the boxes shall be stamped to indicate the character of the cigars, the origin of the tobacco from which made, and the place of manufacture."

OBITVARY

Martin Kinsport Dead

MARTIN KINSPORT, one of the largest employers of labor in Lancaster County, died suddenly at his home on North State Street, Ephrata, Pa. Mr. Kinsport had been to Philadelphia and had returned home in time for dinner. Following the meal he was taken with a hemorrhage which resulted in his death.

Mr. Kinsport was born in Manheim Township on March 8, 1850. About thirty-two years ago Mr. Kinsport engaged in the cigar manufacturing business on a small scale. A year later he built a factory in Ephrata.

For the past thirteen years Mr. Kinsport had been connected with the United Cigar Manufacturing Company and conducted the cigar business at Ephrata, Hopeland, Rothsville, Schoeneck, Lititz, Brownstown and Reinhold's. In company with his son he operated a cigar factory at Reamstown in his own name.

Beside these interests Mr. Kinsport had a box factory and printing office at Ephrata, as well as a stripping plant; also two sawmills, one at Benton and one at Ephrata. He owned the factories and the equipment of the above factories with the exception of those at Brownstown and Reinhold's.

Mr. Kinsport was probably the largest employer of cigarmakers in the county.

He was one of the organizers and at the time of his death a director in the Ephrata and Lebanon Street Railway Company. He was a Republican in politics and served as burgess of Ephrata in 1892, being the borough's second burgess. He was widely read and took an active interest in current affairs.

Mr. Kinsport was a member of the Hamilton Club, of this city, and of Lancaster Lodge, No. 134, B. P. O. of E. He was also a member of the Lancaster Automobile Club and formerly one of its officers.

Besides his wife, the deceased is survived by a son, Horace R. Kinsport, of Ephrata. A brother, Harry, of Boston, also survives. On the day of the funeral every factory under his management was closed.

Ignatz A. Freund

Business worries and ill-health are said to have been the reasons which caused Ignatz A. Freund to commit suicide. Mr. Freund, who owned the Freund Cigar Company, at 78 Grand River Avenue, Cleveland O., and who also manufactured the "Carnation" cigar, shot himself in the bathroom of his home on October 6, and died immediately. He was sixty-two years old and had been a resident of Detroit for over forty years. According to a friend, Mr. Freund had been unusually depressed of late from anxiety over business affairs. His health, too, had been poor, as he suffered keenly from neuralgia. Mrs. Freund was not at home when the shooting occurred. She had come downtown to her husband's office, by appointment, to meet him and talk over business affairs. As she sat in the office awaiting him, the telephone rang and she was told to come home at once, where the news was told her.

Henry Hoffman

Henry Hoffman, for more than twenty-four years in the employ of the Weyman Tobacco Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., died after an illness of three months, at his home.

The deceased is survived by a wife, three daughters and two sons.

Homer B. DeLong

Homer B. DeLong, a veteran of the Civil War and up until a few years ago engaged in the wholesale tobacco business in Chicago, died at his residence, 611 East Forty-fourth Street, Chicago, Ill. He was born in Watertown, N. Y., in 1829, and was a member of the Grant Post, G. A. R.

Mr. DeLong is survived by a widow, two daughters and a son.

Edward Bleuer

Edward Bleuer, a well-known cigar manufacturer of Davenport, Ia., died of heart trouble on October 1, after an illness of ten days. Mr. Bleuer had been ailing for some time, but not seriously until a short time ago.

The deceased was a widely known business man of the city, an excellent musician, and was manager and director of Bleuer's Band for a number of years.

Mr. Bleuer is survived by a widow and one son. Besides these, eight brothers and two sisters are living.

Reuben R. Engle

Reuben R. Engle, Berks County's first revenue assessor, and for the past fifty years proprietor of a cigar factory at Boyertown, died suddenly at his home in Morysville, on October 3. The deceased was seventy-eight years old. His death was due to paralysis of the heart.

The deceased was born at Englesville and moved to Morysville in 1857. For the past thirty-six years he conducted a general store and also a cigar factory, being in the latter business for fifty years Several years ago he turned the business over to his son, Alman, who recently retired and moved to Reading He was revenue assessor during the Civil War. His wife, Rebecca Gresh, died eighteen years ago.

Mr. Engle was a member of the Boyertown Reformed Church of the Good Shepherd, and belonged to Selah Castle, No. 46, A. O. K. of M. C.

The deceased is survived by two sons and two daughters. One brother and two sisters are also living.

John M. G. Brace

As a result of heart failure, John M. G. Brace, a well-known citizen of West Hartford, Conn., died at his residence, 61 South Main Street, on October 8. Mr. Brace had been failing in health for some time.

John Mason Goode Brace was a descendant of two of the oldest families in the town, and during the past twenty-five years had been actively engaged in the tobacco business.

Mr. Mason was with the firm of John Hay & Company, of Philadelphia, who have a branch warehouse on State Street, Hartford. The deceased was considered one of the most expert tobacco judges in the Connecticut Valley.

Mr. Brace was born in West Hartford, February 16, 1864. He is survived by a granddaughter and a grandson.

George Cox

George Cox, a tobacco grower of Portland, Conn., died on October 6, from diabetes, at the age of sixty-eight.

Mr. Cox, who conducted a large milling business, succeeded his father, George Cox, in the business.

He is survived by a widow.

CLUBDOM SMOKING No. 4

OLYMPIC CLUB, San Francisco, California

(This is the fourth of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

No. 1—Lambs' Club, New York.
No. 2—Union League, Philadelphia.
No. 3—City Club, Chicago.

THE Olympic Club, one of the old-time institutions of San Francisco, has for many years been intimately connected with the commercial, as well as the athletic life of the Western metropolis. Organized May 6, 1860, originally as an athletic club, its scope has steadily widened until it is now one of the most popular organizations of the kind in the country, including among its members many of the leading business men of the city. In addition to the athletic department, the club now has an excellent library, over seventy sleeping rooms, and furnishes luncheon daily to over five hundred people. There is also a well-appointed bar, which at present handles the cigars and cigarettes.

In conformity with its original purpose, the club still takes greatest pride in its athletic department, which produced James J. Corbett and many other athletes of high standing; and the great majority of the members avail themselves of the gymnasium and magnificent bathing accommodations. An event of annual interest, both to members and to the city at large, is the New Year's Day race through the city and Golden Gate Park to the Cliff House, with a plunge in the icy surf; an event in which business men and athletes alike take part. The striking feature of the club building is the swimming pool, said to be the finest in the world—a pool 30 by 100 feet, lined with white tile, with plate glass covering electric lights on the bottom. The tank is filled thrice weekly, with filtered salt water, piped from the Pacific Ocean south of the Cliff House. Accessory to the pool are rooms equipped for all manner of baths, hydrotherapy, etc., with dressing rooms, lockers, etc.

In its accommodations the club has had a varied career. Starting in the back yard of H. W. A. and Charles Nahl, it occupied successively the quarters of the LaFayette Hook and Ladder Company, the St. Francis Hook and Ladder Company, Clay and Kearny Streets, the site of the old Grand Hotel, the Metropolitan Market Building, a site on Montgomery Street, the Morton House on Post Street, the Alcazar Building, and finally the site of its present home, where a fine building was erected. This building was destroyed in the fire of 1906, and the corner stone of the new building was laid May 6, 1911, the opening taking place June 15, 1912. The building covers a large ground area, rising six stories, and in design and decorative treatment has a high place among Pacific Coast club buildings.

The membership now amounts to 2800. The president is Wm. F. Humphreys, a prominent lawyer, and L. M. Hoeffler, also a member of the bar, is vice-president; the secretary being F. M. Fenwick, a well-known lumberman. Among the directors are Dr. E. G. McCullough, Andrew Carrigan, a wholesale hardware merchant; Frank G. Drumm, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company; Wm. H. Crocker, head of the Crocker National Bank; S. N. Rucker, an office furniture dealer; R. H. Postlethwaite, a prominent land owner, and F. I. Fitzpatrick, a lawyer. One of the life members was the late Charles DeYoung, publisher of the San Francisco "Chronicle."

Mr. Barker, manager of the club, states that the intention is to put in a regular cigar counter in the near

The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau

Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, October 8, 1913

BUSINESS has not alone fully kept up to the previous magnitude, but the sales even outstripped the former record by a few hundred bales, during the past fortnight. American buyers, as usual, were our best customers, manufacturers and dealers participating actively in laying in their supplies at the ruling figures, although our packers and dealers did not stretch their pretensions for still higher prices at the moment.

What the future may have in store for us nobody can tell, but having goods to sell, it is always the best policy to do so, when there is a good demand for them. The farmers had the best end of it this year, as they sold their crops readily at high figures, while the packers and dealers were fearful in the beginning that they might lose money on their operations, which fortunately has not been the case, although the sales have not left them any great margin to speak of. If it had not been for the high prices which they obtained for their lower grades, they surely would have lost money, as they sold the upper classes at cost.

Remedios leaf has been the kind which has been principally in demand, particularly first and second capaduras, although Vuelta Abajo has also commanded enough attention, in factory vegas, as well as heavy quality goods. There is still a good call for Partido wrappers, which are becoming exceedingly scarce, while fillers, or defective leaf could be easily found at prices favoring buyers.

In our local market the cigarette manufacturers have not stopped to purchase the low grades suitable for their trade, and some cigar factories have likewise continued to pick up all the vegas of merit. The Spanish Regie, instead of having purchased 3500 bales, as we stated in our last communication, had only acquired 2500 bales of low grades. Among the exports to Bremen and Hamburg, we surmise, that 1356 bales are destined for the Hungarian Regie, thus leaving only a small quantity in reality for the German market. The demand for the South American republics has not improved worth mentioning.

The receipts from the country are beginning to fall off, as this time we have reported the ones for the past three weeks, while in the previous letter we only gave the figures for the past two weeks. Most of the escogidas will close this month.

The weather up to now has been favorable for the seed beds, and there will be enough seedlings for planting after the 20th of this month, barring, of course, any unforeseen accidents, caused by Nature. As usual, we hear reports now, that in some places there have been washouts, or in others dry, scorching weather, but all such news has to be taken with a grain of salt.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Sales from September 16 to September 30, amounted to 33,884 bales in all, or which split up into its different kinds were: Vuelta Abajo, 13,137; Partido, 2,994, and Remedios, 17,753 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 20,302; exporters to Europe, 4661; shippers to South America, 666; and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 8255 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco, from the port of Havana, for the three weeks ending October 4, were:

To all ports of the United States,	12,893	bales
To Bremen and Hamburg,	4,189	"
To Spain,	2,500	"

Cigars.

According to our official custom house returns the export figures of September, 1913, and 1912 were, as follows, viz.:

From the port of Havana from September 1, to September 30, 1913,	13,761,421	cigars
From the port of Havana from September 1, to September 30, 1912,	20,506,159	"
Decrease during the month of September, 1913,	6,744,738	"

This is an awful bad showing at this season of the year, and it is exceedingly hard to find the correct explanation, although there are some rumors, which we do not wish to publish, however. In looking over the different countries, we find the following shrinkages in the month of September, 1913, as compared with the same period of 1912, viz.:

1. Great Britain and Ireland	4,379,922	cigars
2. The United States	1,238,669	"
3. Canada	364,583	"
4. Germany	343,207	"
5. Argentine Republic	315,279	"
6. Chile	110,609	"
7. Brazil	98,050	"
8. Portugal	62,300	"
9. Uruguay	49,127	"

There are only three countries that show any increases of importance, viz.:

1. Spain	137,650	cigars
2. Egypt	93,875	"
3. Belgium	64,830	"

The figures for the first nine months of this and the preceding year are now, as follows, viz.:

Fram January 1, to September 30, 1913,	130,240,156	cigars
From January 1, to September 30, 1912,	127,776,246	"

Don Francisco Arango, who has been the general manager of all the factories of the Henry Clay & Bock & Company, Limited, here, and also of the factories belonging to the American Cigar Company in Tampa and Key West, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted. When we saw Mr. Allie Sylvester, the Chairman and President, respectively, he stated, upon our question who would be the successor, that this position had been suppressed, consequently there would be no successor. The foremen of the different factories would continue to do their work as heretofore, and he himself would look after the final supervision. He also said that business was good, as they were ahead of last year.

Romeo y Julieta are certainly not caught by the receding wave of the tide, as on the contrary, they have advanced and have been making as high as 100,000 cigars per day.

H. Upmann & Company are also not aware of any shrinkage in orders, as they have enough on hand to keep them working under a full head of steam.

Partagas, instead of decreasing the number of their cigarmakers, have on the contrary filled up all the available space in their factory here and in Güines.

Hija de José Gener, or better nown by her brand, "Hoyo de Monterey," is also crowded with a full order slate for the United States.

Por Larrañaga can neither complain, as its factory is filled with cigarmakers, and Don Eustaquio Alonso has been very successful on his trips to Europe and the United States. He is at present still in the United States, but expected here soon.

Sol states that business is satisfactory, and Behrens & Company say they are receiving continuously fresh orders.

Castañeda reports that business with them is ahead of last year, particularly for the United States.

Flor del Fumar is chiefly busy on fine regalia sizes, at high prices, and as only the most expert cigarmakers can produce this kind of artistic work it takes a long time to execute such orders.

Other factories such as Punch, Belinda, La Flor de A. Fernandez Garcia, Allones Limited, La Flor de José Otero and C. E. Beck & Company all claim to be satisfied with the orders that they have on hand not alone, but which they are deceiving right along.

Selling, Buying and Shipping.

The principal sellers during the past fortnight were: Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez, 4403 bales; Gutierrez & Diehl, 2557; Rodriguez, Menendez & Company, 2200; Aixala & Company, 1941; Herrera, Calmet & Company, 1400; Perez Hermanos, 1325; José Puente & Company, 1067; F. Rocha & Company, 1028; Manuel Herrera, 1000; Selgas & Company, 824; José Menendez, 664; Viuda de Luis Muñiz & Company, 560; Basarrate e Higuera, 500; Nuñez & Company, 399; Camejo y La Paz, 363; I. Kaffenburgh & Sons, 300; H. H. Strater, 300; and Diaz, Herrera & Company, 103 bales.

The principal buyers were: Mark A. Pollack, 3715 bales, independent of his customers in town; Maximilian Stern, 2600; Mendelsohn, Bornemann & Company, 1975; Leslie Pantin, 1547, upon direct orders by cable from his American customers, not in the city here; Felix Eckerson & Company, 1324; Boltz, Clymer & Company, 1200; Michaelsen & Prasse, 1200; Hinsdale, Smith & Company, 1200; E. H. Gato Cigar Company, 1057; Morris Rosenberg & Company, 957 additional, making a total of 1957; Wedeles Brothers, 897; Cifuentes, Fernandez & Company, 822; Celestino Vega & Company, 800; H. Upmann & Company, 782; J. F. Berndes & Company, 713; Diego Montero, 666; Corral, Wodiska & Company, 630; José Lovera, 600 additional, making a total of 2550; Cuesta Rey & Company, 600; Bustillo Brothers, 600; B. Rosenblüth, 575; Por Larrañaga, 371; Adolfo Moeller, 364; Randell-Landfield Company, 325; Sanchez & Haya, 300; and E. A. Calves & Company, 300 additional, making a total of 1500 bales. Besides we have learned that Mr. Bernhard Lichtenstein had purchased 1200 bales of very choice vegas for his customers.

Green River Pool Out

In a public statement recently issued, the Green River Tobacco Growers' Association declared that it will not go into the proposed consolidation of tobacco organizations in the state. It further states that the plans of the new organization show that it proposes to handle only about 35,000,000 pounds at a cost approaching $70,000. The association points out that it annually handles about 25,000,000 pounds with a cost not exceeding $13,000.

W. G. Riney, president of the Green River Tobacco Growers' Association, has resigned and Hiram Marksberry elected to his office. Mr. Riney's reason for withdrawing is believed to have been because he favored consolidation.

News of the Trade

George Bennethum and James Adams, two well-known young men of Freeport, Ill., have purchased the cigar business of B. K. Heisler in the Cronkrite Building. The store will continue under Mr. Heisler's management for the present.

It is stated that the Ferguson Brothers, of Canton, Ill., will open a new cigar factory in Farmington. The factory is to be located in the rooms over Propp's clothing store. The Ferguson firm has been very successful and no doubt their new operation will prove a good venture.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Staples, of Nowata, Okla., have purchased the cigar stand at the Hotel Campbell from Bud Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Staples have taken charge.

James Whitney, a cigar dealer of Bennington, Vt., is now located in the Dewey Building, alterations to that building having recently been completed.

Samuel F. Taylor, having resigned his position as manager of the Poughkeepsie branch of the United States Cigar Company, William McElrath has been installed to continue in the same capacity.

It is rumored that William McCarthy, a cigarmaker employed by U. J. Hedrich, Bangor, Me., is about to open a cigar store in that place, it being his intention to combine retailing with manufacturing, which is to form a principal part of the enterprise.

The Neudecker Tobacco Company, of Baltimore, Md., has purchased from Margaret A. Drexel and Anna M. A. Smith and others, the building lot at 104 South Street. The purchase price was recorded as $7500, the sale being in fee simple.

Nathaniel Johnson, of 33 Cedar Street, Augusta, Me., is experimenting on a small scale with the cultivation of tobacco. He has a few plants of the Connecticut brand in his garden, which are doing fine. This is the second year that he has devoted to the cultivation of tobacco.

Huber Brothers, of Stirling, Ill., are making a number of changes in the interior of their cigar factory, in order to add to the space facilities. By the change they are able to seat several more workmen.

At Rock Island, Ia., recently, was opened the sixth store of the Martin Cigar Co., George Martin, proprietor. Of these four are in Davenport and the other in Moline. The new store is well stocked and is handsomely furnished. The policy which has made for success in Mr. Martin's previous ventures in the cigar field is to be carried on in his latest acquisition.

Key West

Heavy Demand for Fine Sizes and Shapes—Factories Seek Cigarmakers of the Regalia Class—New Sizes in the "Solace" Brand—$250,000 Hotel Project Deferred Until First of Year

KEY WEST, FLA., October 9, 1913.

SINCE the advent of fall the weather has been much cooler and this has had a stimulating effect on everybody and every line of business, but especially the cigar trade. At the factories a very heavy demand for fine sizes and shapes has set in and recruiting of forces is the order of the day.

While all of the shops have been carrying large forces of "Regalia" cigarmakers throughout the summer, orders for fine sizes have assumed such large proportions during the past two weeks that now at many of our factories from fifty to one hundred additional workmen of this grade can readily find employment. Long hours and seven days to the week have been inaugurated by many of our factories in order to relieve this congestion to some extent. Large shipments are being made by every available route and on every hand there are indications that trade is going to be on the rush through the fall and winter seasons.

S. and F. Fleitas are enjoying an increased demand for "Homerica" in its fine sizes, and no high-grade workman who applies for a job is refused. Don Francisco Fleitas made a flying trip to the leaf markets of Havana recently.

"Belvideres" and "Regalia Reina Extra Fina" are two new sizes of the "Solace" brand of George W. Nichols & Company, recently introduced to the trade.

Charles Gwynn, resident manager of Gwynn, Strauss & Company, left recently for a run to Jacksonville and other points through Florida. At the factory business is on the up grade and a healthy demand has set in for "Bouquet de Martin."

Southern Manager M. F. McLeod and bill-poster captain George Upchurch, of the American Tobacco Company, were in the city recently in the interest of "Sovereign" cigarettes. The dealers now are offering their trade one package of "Sovereign" cigarettes, one package of gum and two half-cent coupons for five cents. It seems as if there will never be an end to the price-cutting war among the large cigarette manufacturers.

Santiago Verona, a leaf dealer of Cuba, passed through the city recently en route to Tampa, on business.

The Jewish population of this city closed their places of business on the 2nd inst., for two days in order to celebrate their New Year.

Dr. Pablo Desvernines, Cuban Minister to Washington, accompanied by his wife and three daughters, passed through the city recently en route to Havana.

President E. H. Gato and Vice-President E. H. Gato, Jr., of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, left recently for Havana and the latter has since returned to the factory. The firm has added to their already large force since the advent of fall and the shop is now in full blast.

In his letter of thanks to the Martinez-Havana Company, for the box of excellent smokes recently presented to him, Vice-President Marshall says: "The brand which makes me forget the cares that infest the day." At the factory business is on the up-grade.

President A. W. Arnold, of the Mi Favorita Cigar Company, recently paid a brief business trip to the Havana leaf marts. The company is getting out a new packing of Park & Tilford's "Ideals" for their holiday trade. The smokes are packed five in a cardboard box, which are inclosed in a cedar cabinet containing from ten to twenty packages each. The box of five fits nicely into the coat pocket of the consumer and will no doubt be appreciated.

The office force at all of our factories have been busy the past week preparing statistics for the Department of Commerce as to the quantity of various tobaccos on hand October first. All the shops must have their reports filed by noon on October 10th.

President A. L. Sylvester, of the Havana-American Company, was a visitor at the office in this city recently, being en route from New York to Havana. At the factory business is in excellent shape and every table is manned. John M. Warren, of picking and packing department, last week took the oath of office of Deputy United States Marshal for this district, having recently been appointed.

The Free Smoker Law went into effect on the 1st instant, the cigarmakers now being allowed twenty-one smokes per week. Before the law became effective the workmen were given five cigars, or material to make that number, each day before knocking-off time. Both employer and employee appear to be satisfied with the provisions of the new law.

Ex-Mayor George L. Babcock is getting ready a large residence next to the Kress Building on Duval Street, for hotel purposes, which will be opened to guests about November 15. This is one of the best locations in the city and as he intends to set a good table he will no doubt enjoy a large patronage.

C. B. Ware, representing Foor's Hotel Syndicate, was in the city recently conferring with our business men in regard to the proposed $250,000 hotel project. He has returned to Jacksonville headquarters, having secured $40,000 of the $50,000 asked of our citizens. Nothing will be done in this matter, however, until the first of the year.

Trade is in very fine shape at the factory of the Cortez Cigar Company and orders by mail and wire are pouring in for "Maxine Elliott" and "Hernan Cortez" in the fine sizes and shapes. A very attractive line of samples of the company's various brands have been forwarded to Eugene Stoltz, recently appointed Pacific Coast representative. James H. Fort, head of the picking and packing department, is back from a brief vacation to the East Coast of Florida.

Everything is on the jump at the La Diligencia factory of Moreda & Company and they are using every available route to rush forward goods intended for the Holiday trade. Manager Jaime Pendas is back from Cuba, where he spent a few days recently attending to leaf purchases for his concern.

The M. Perez Company reports a lively demand for "Perla de Oro" and "Pinzon" in their fine sizes and shapes from old patrons and also the booking of several new accounts. Manager Rafael Menendez says from now on to December 15 the cigarmaking floor of the factory will put in seven days to the week.

Free samples of the "George Washington" brand of smoking and chewing tobacco are being distributed this week by our local dealers. This brand sells for five cents per package and is manufactured by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

A cablegram received in this city on Saturday conveyed the sad intelligence of the death of Col. T. J. L. Brown, at Englewood, N. J. Col. Brown has represented Key West at the national capital for several years and his place will be hard to fill. The whole State and city extends sympathy to his family.

President John Wardlow, of the Ruy Lopez Company, got back this week from a combined business and pleasure trip to New York City. At the company's factory everything is on the move and the foreman is open for fifty to seventy-five applications from workmen of the regalia type.

During the past several days about one hundred cigarmakers of the regalia grade came in from Cuba and readily found employment. It is said that another batch will come in this week.

Vice-President Eduardo H. Gato, Jr., of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, is back from Cuba, where he went a few days ago to attend the celebration of the sixty-sixth birthday of the venerable E. H. Gato, the great cigar manufacturer and the founder of the industry in Key West.

Roy Voght has superseded LeRoy Roberts as office manager of the M. Perez Company. At the factory business is in excellent shape and Manager Rafael Menendez says he now has on file orders running into 1914.

Pancho Arango, of the Havana-American Company's Tampa branch, passed through town today, being en route to New York.

En route to Tampa, Francisco Bolano, of F. Bolano & Company.

En route to Havana, Jose Escalate, of Jose Escalate & Company; Max Schwatz, the New York cigar manufacturer.

Francisco B. Guito & Company received a batch of orders this week and have strippers at work preparing stock and will on Wednesday next seat a few cigarmakers.

United States Marine Tobacco has a good run in this market and if the manufacturers of it would offer some inducement with each package its sales could largely be increased, as it is a good smoke and an excellent chew.

Leaf Men at York Fair

About forty members of the Leaf Tobacco Association of Baltimore visited the York County fair in a special car, traveling via the Northern Central Railroad. During their stay in York they were registered at the Colonial Hotel.

Francis Cigar Company Elects Officers

Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, CAL., October 7, 1913.

IKE WENTWORTH, of Jose Lovera Company, Tampa, Fla., is undertaking a special campaign on the "Lovera" cigar and is meeting with unbounded success.

H. H. Manley, Coast representative for the American Cigar Company, has just returned to San Francisco after a four days' stay in this city. He has been shown a royal time while here by his friends and he, in return, has shown his appreciation to the sales force of Klauber-Wangenheim Company, this city, by tendering a banquet to them at the Blue Room in the Hotel Alexandra, for their efforts put forward on his cigars, of which he is representative. "Flor de Mendel" cigars were smoked profusely at this banquet.

Ed. Campbell, formerly with the American Cigar Company, has taken over a position with George W. Walker Cigar Company, covering their territory with "Counsellor" and "La Mazella" cigars. As Mr. Campbell has been in the cigar game for the past fifteen years, he knows the business to perfection and should surprise his followers with some mighty good work now that he has a new start with a hustling house.

I. Teitelbaum is in this city for two weeks doing some special work on the "Sarzedas" cigar, handled by J. J. Gans & Brothers, in this city, and manufactured by the firm of which he is manager. He is surely showing them how to "do it" when it comes to giving a new cigar a start.

The "Golden" cigar, jobbed through the A. B. Greenwald Cigar Company with the assistance of F. Jack Dominguez, is getting a wide distribution with fine results as is shown by the heavy demand for this cigar. Several attractive window displays are shown about the city.

I. I. Hess, known as "Optimo" Hess, is expected here by Klauber-Wangenheim Company in a few days, whereby he will put up a strong campaign on his favorite "Optimo." This cigar has always been the stand-by of the retailers and the most fashionable clubs in this city and territory.

J. B. Bonhaus, representing Klauber-Wangenheim Company, this city, left for Bakersfield for a week of business. While on this trip he will take orders for holiday package goods, but in the meanwhile will not overlook the other cigars, such as "Picadura Import," "Luxello," "Post Dispatch" and others. The above cigars are running well in this section.

The "Luxello" cigar, manufactured by Luckett, Luehs & Lipscomb, of Philadelphia, Pa., is being given a very wide distribution by the firm of Klauber-Wangenheim Company, of this city. Morris Burke, representative for this factory, says that this cigar will "beat 'em all" with the good work continued by the force of salesmen representing Klauber-Wangenheim Company. They are sure a hustling bunch.

The "Picadura Import" cigar, manufactured by L. Newberger & Brothers, of Cincinnati, O., is moving nicely. Klauber-Wertheim Company, who handle this splendid five-cent cigar in this section, have never had a better seller in a long while.

The Klingenstein Company reports their brands as moving to the satisfaction of all, namely their "Cinco" cigar, which is breaking all records for totals of sales. Their "Webster" cigar and "Milo" cigarettes are being given the widest distribution their salesmen are capable of exerting.

ALKALI.

Arthur H. Shirley, of 70 Munroe Street, Lynn, Mass., has increased his force to seven hands and they are now turning out ten thousand cigars a week. The factory turns out only hand-made goods; the ten-cent brand being named with the owner's initials, "A. H. S.," and the nickel smoke is designated by a combination of the street and room number of Shirley's first location, room 15, 7 Willow Street. The five-cent cigar is called the "7-35."

Sues for Lost Tobacco Shipment

An answer has been filed by the C. H. & D. Railway Co. in the suit brought by Samuel I. and Charles H. Rosenthal and B. C. Stein, trading as the National Leaf Tobacco Co., of Dayton, O., for $4024 damages for tobacco lost by the defendant company in shipment.

The tobacco was lost last March and dismissal of the suit is prayed for by the defendant company on the grounds that the railroad company had no control over the unexpected situation encountered at the time of the loss, and that the flood which is held responsible for the railroad's inability to deliver the lost shipment was "an act of God."

MILWAUKEE, WIS., October 19, 1913.

BUSINESS in the Cream City among the retailers has been quite good during the past month, none making any complaint.

The Wright Drug Company are again giving their private brand, the "Lovita," a boost with a demonstration of how it is made. Sol. A. Eckstein, president of the company, celebrated his fifty-fifth birthday anniversary recently.

The Fay Lewis & Brother Company report a very good business at all retail stores and an active demand in the wholesale department.

The Pabst Building store is featuring the "Harvester," a cigar manufactured by the firm, which is rapidly becoming the best-known in this section. Among other well-known brands on display are the "Tom Moore," "El Sidelo," "Webster," "Savarina" and "Rio Vista."

The new stand in the Hotel Wisconsin was ready for the opening of that new million-dollar hotel. The display cases are over forty feet long, are of fumed oak, to match the interior woodwork of the lobby. All the well-known brands handled by the firm are displayed in the various sizes. The stand promises to do the biggest business of any in the city.

The Allanson Company continue to enjoy a good business at the Planinton Hotel. It is again reported that building operations will be commenced early in 1914 which will affect the firm to some extent. The "Alcazar," a home product, is being featured with a display.

Leo Abraham is doing his usual good business. The Third Street store continuing very active.

The "M. A. C.," "Jose Lovera," "Rosa de Mayo," "Emseco" and "Charter" continue actively in demand.

The stock of C. L. Culton in the El Insito Cigar Company has been taken over by R. B. Earle and L. C. Whittet. Earle has been elected president, Whittet treasurer, G. W. Blanchard vice-president, and W. G. Atwell, secretary.

Tobacconist Claims Funds Found on Robber

WILMINGTON, DEL.

When the body of the dead bandit, Homer Wiggins, was examined there was found on it money to the sum of $560. Several weeks ago the cigar store of John Jones at Sixth and Market Streets was robbed of $567, and the owner of the store has put in a claim for the money found on Wiggins.

Several hundred dollars were found buried in the yard of the robber's home, and the Wilmington and Philadelphia Traction Company put in a claim for that, as they had recently been robbed of a considerable sum. Mr. Jones asserts that he has as much right to the money found on the robber's person as the Traction Company has to the loot found in the yard.

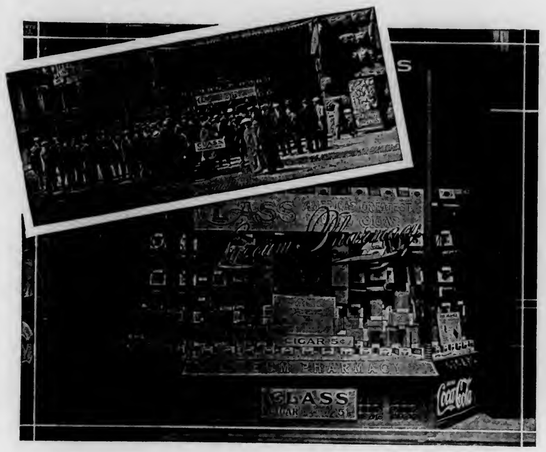
"Pearl Brooks" From a Larger Factory

The large building at the foot of Main Street, Belfast, Me., has been leased with an option to buy, by Maitland B. Smith, of Hartford, Conn., proprietor of the Pearl Brook Farm, in Belfast, and will be used as a cigar factory.

Mr. Smith is said to have demonstrated that high-grade tobacco can be grown in the Belfast locality, and this year he has begun the manufacture of "Pearl Brook" cigars from the home-grown tobacco. The cigars, which sell at a nickel, have found favor with many of the smokers and is pronounced a splendid piece of goods for the money. The demand for them has been so great that Mr. Smith has decided to manufacture them upon a larger scale.

F. M. Bailey, who has been manufacturing the "Seth Bullock" cigars at Citypoint, will be the superintendent of the factory, which will manufacture both brands. Mr. Bailey is now advertising for cigarmakers and apprentices.

13,502 "Class" Cigars in Duluth Display



The display of "Class" cigars shown in this photograph was recently made by the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, distributors for this brand, in the window of the Lyceum Pharmacy, Fifth Avenue, West, and Superior Street, the principal corner in the city of Duluth, Minn.

A card in the window announced a prize of one box of "Class" cigars to the person guessing nearest to the number of cigars used in the display. The explanation card also stated that one or more boxes might not be full. In one box there were only two cigars.

The first instance on record in the city where the police arrived on time, was noted by the guess of police officer James Wood, who won the box. His guess was 13,550, and the number in the window was 13,502—which, speaking by and large, is not a bad guess for a policeman.

This display was given a ten day showing by the Lyceum, and resulted not only in a big sales on "Class" within the store, but also in greatly stimulating the sales of the brand all over the city.

The "Class" cigar has made a wonderful hit throughout Stone-Ordean-Wells Company territory, which extends from the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to the State of Idaho. There are eight branches in this territory, and the aggregate sales of the company on "Class" are now running about 180,000 per week, which is going some for a brand only four months on the market in this territory.

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., October 10, 1913.

THE business of Cleveland is intending to be exceedingly bright. Retail business men are enjoying exceedingly good business, due to the extremely fine weather.

Joe Klein, of the Lazarus Company, has been spending the past few days in Cleveland, boosting "Edgeworth" and "Q-Boid" tobacco. Previous to this, Mr. Klein made a trip through the state and is sending many substantial orders to the firm. This is a new venture with Mr. Klein, and many friends wish him much success.

George Bassatts, of 826 Prospect Avenue, has sold out his interests in the barber shop and will devote his efforts to his cigar and tobacco business. Mr. Bassatt is remodeling his store and will have one of the finest stores in this locality.

Fred Gollmar, of the Gollmar Cigar Company, in the Arcade, reports the September business is far exceeding any that he has enjoyed since being in business. Among the cigars that he is featuring are "Saramitas," "Somellos," "Lalitas" and "El Modelos."

The Mendelsohn Company, who manufacture "Rigoletto" and "El Symfonies" cigars, are enjoying an exceedingly fine business on all these brands, and are away over sold, having not been able to catch up with back orders for the past six months.

Mr. Seideman, of the Central Cigar Company, is opening up a new pool room and billiard parlor at West Ninth Street and Superior Avenue. This is an up-to-date establishment, and has started off exceedingly well. Sydney Amster is in charge of same, and his genial personality is winning many good customers in the store.

The Standard Drug Company, located in the Leader-News Building, have just opened up with a full line of cigars and smokers' articles.

Pyle & Allen have secured a lease on the corner of East Ninth Street and Vincent Street. This location formerly belonged to the Louis Cigar Company, but the building was remodeled and Pyle & Allen will take possession about the fifteenth of the month.

Fred Singer, of S. Rossin & Son, called on the trade the past week. Regards business conditions exceedingly good all over his territory and looks for the biggest year of his career.

Joe Leverance, of the Shields-Wertheim Company, is in the Western territory and is sending in many nice orders for "Saramitas" and "Saramitas Fives." The Shields-Wertheim Company are away over sold on all their cigars and are experiencing exceeding difficulty in securing suitable labor. This problem has been the worst to face of any time in the history of the cigar business in Cleveland. Orders are piling up on this firm and they are doing everything in their power to increase their capacity.

F. P. Shields is in the Eastern territory and is sending in more than his usual quota of orders.

Mr. Bill Blaskey and L. B. Shields, of the Shields-Wertheim Company, are already securing many substantial orders for holiday boxes on "Saramitas" and "Saramitas Fives."

The I. Teitelbaum Company are hoping for big business on the "Zarzidas," and are enjoying an exceedingly nice trade on same. This concern is steadily growing and is ranked among the foremost of this section.

El Baton and Judge Wright are enjoying an exceedingly good business. They are constantly adding new jobbers which are keeping them extremely busy in turning out their merchandise.

The London-Whiff Cigar Company reports business very good, and "London Whiff" and "Panamas" are among the foremost merchandise of their grade in the city. The new factory is in good working order and sanitary conditions are among the finest of any factory in this section.

Joseph Snyder, of the Snyder Cigar Company, was in town the past week, looking over his Cleveland interests. Up to this time, Mr. Snyder has not selected a manager for his several stores to take the place of Mr. Heaney, who resigned to take up a position in the East.

George Scrambling, of the George Scrambling Company, is re-elected captain of the Cleveland Grays. This has been conferred on Mr. Scrambling for the past few years.

JERRY.

Mayor Will Enter Cigar Business

Mayor J. C. Faulstich, of Alton, Ill., has decided to re-enter the cigar field and will establish a store and factory in the Temple Building.

The cigar industry is one in which the Mayor has been deeply interested and his former venture is said to have been a prosperous one. The cigar business in Alton, is said to be booming at this time, and it seems to be a propitious moment for the Mayor.

Pittsburgh

World Series Attract Trade to Score Boards—Business Very Good—"Bold" Cigars Making Friends—Change in Cigar Department of Duquesne Club

PITTSBURGH, PA., October 9, 1913.

The base ball fans are all seeking the score boards and watching the World's Championship Series. Also the inter-city series between Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

A rumor has gone out downtown that Acker, Merrill & Condit, of New York, are going to take over the cigar department of the Duquesne Club. They will take possession October 15. The Duquesne Club is one of the high-class downtown clubs. I saw O. J. Handwright, manager of the Fort Pitt Hotel cigar stand, which is also controlled by the Acker, Merrill & Condit Company, but he claims he has heard nothing of this rumor.

J. P. Klemans, of Broad and Collins Avenue, will, about the 15th, enlarge his dining room, which will mean more space for his many friends who patronize his cigar department. His cigar department will also be made larger. He carries a full line of imported and domestic cigars.

"Tarrytown" tobacco and "Tarrytown" cigarettes have a very good sale among the high-class stands. Reymer Brothers are distributors for this brand. Have a very good sale on them at their Wood Street store.

H. A. Lundberg, representing the "Mecca" cigarettes department, was in town this week. "Mecca" cigarettes are being placed in Pittsburgh in the new size, twenty for ten cents, two large rugs in each package. The brand is proving a big success in all parts of the city.

H. J. Harper, of the Products Company, just got back from a trip to the northern part of the State. He has been selling a deal consisting of a fifty-cent rebate with "M. Melachrino No. 9" and 250 "Royal Nestors."

Reymer Brothers have taken over the cigar stand in the Farmers Bank Building. Thomas lees is in charge. This stand was formerly owned by the Havana-Tampa Company.

Henry Riesenberg, representing Bobrow Brothers, Philadelphia, manufacturers of the "Bold" Cigar, dropped into Pittsburgh and made a few social calls among his many friends. Of course, he spoke about the "Bold" cigar.

J. Goodman, of the Phillip Morris Company, just got in from a trip to Youngstown, O. He was at Joseph T. Snyder's opening at the new hotel in Youngstown.

Joseph T. Snyder, of Buffalo, has taken five of his Pittsburgh clerks to Buffalo for a meeting and social trip.

The Gilmore Drug Company reports the biggest year ever on "El Versos Broadleaf" cigar.

Reymer Brothers have a very fine display on "Charles the Great" clear Havana cigars, made by Salvador Rodriguez. In one of their windows they have a very fine display of meerschaum pipes and they show quite a few of them color-set.

Benjamin S. Dripps, salesman for the I. Lewis Cigar Manufacturing Company, recently returned from a trip through West Virginia with a nice bunch of orders for Haworth & Dewhurst, who are distributors for this concern.

T. H. Minton, salesman for Haworth & Dewhurst, accompanied by Mr. Dripps, visited the trade in Homestead, Braddock and McKeesport this week and report very satisfactory results. G. W. Kutcher, the Rexall druggist of Braddock, and other dealers in this territory, are featuring the "John Ruskin" cigars.

Mr. Mayerfield, of the San Telmo Cigar Company, Detroit, Mich., makers of the "Pastora" cigars, was in town this week. Haworth & Dewhurst are distributors for this brand.

D. S. Lamb, of the Makaroff Company, Boston, Mass., is in town and he says: "Our coupons are creating a big sensation. Money prizes seem to appeal more strongly than rugs."

This week they are giving away a fifty-cent briar pipe with every half pound "Tuxedo" tobacco in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Blackmore, of the McKee House, Station Street, celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday anniversary on Tuesday of last week.

The Smith Drug Company's Wilkinsburg cigar stand, under the management of Mr. Crist, reports business is good on "Tuval Infanetos," "Webster" and "Jenkinson Best" stogies.

The following visitors were in town this week in the interest of the tobacco business: George P. Becker, of Arguellis Lopez & Company, Tampa; Ed. Wodizco, of Carl Wodizco Company, Tampa; Leo Schoenemann, of Calestino Vega & Company, Tampa; Benjamin N. Heine, of Louis Ash & Company, New York; Albert Calish, of Cortez & Company; W. H. Bissinger, of the United Cigar Manufacturing Company; W. M. Ruff, Jr., of the Melachrino Company; G. H. Gregg, Vice-President of the G. W. Faber Company; Mr. Fierst, of M. Stachelberg Company.

Chicago

Slight Let-Down in Trade—Soda Fountains for "United" Stores—J. J. Dolan Making Big Pipe Displays—Banuet Season Boosts Cigar Trade

CHICAGO, ILL., October 11, 1913.

THERE has been a slight let-down in the general tobacco trade in this market, unaccounted for except by the possible fact that some smokers are waiting for the inevitable smoking material that is given as a holiday gift. The retail trade, as a whole, has kept a fairly even form, although tobacconists here and there complain of a share in the general retail dullness that is affecting nearly all lines of business. Some of this can be attributed to the general uncertainty as to the ultimate effect of the new tariff schedules and some of it to the smallness of crop returns in Western states that are in the Chicago trade territory. No new goods of special note have found their way into the market, although new cigar brands, mostly in five-cent sizes, are in evidence every once in a while. 'One tobacconist summed up the situation in saying: "I have known trade to be much better and have also known it to be much worse."

Sometimes the city learns from the country and, by the same token, it could be done oftener with profit. Combined cigar stands and soda fountains are familiar to travelers in small towns of the Middle West, but the city has adopted the idea only recently. The United Cigar Stores Company has experimented in some places in the South, with success, and contemplates installing fountains in its larger stores during the coming summer. If the plan is successful in the smaller stores it will be expanded gradually so as to include all the stores in the company's list. The United is noted for doing what it sets out to do and it may not be long before Chicago drug stores and confectionery shops will have to hustle to hold their "summer drinks" trade.

Jacob Spector, of Spector Brothers, Havana cigarmakers, is dead. The business will be carried on without interruption under the old firm name.

The 1913 crop of Havana is of exceptional quality and Chicago manufacturers have laid in heavy stocks. The production of clear Havana cigars is a big industry here and represents a large investment of talent and money. Manufacturers say their products will be better than ever this year.

John J. Dolan is going after the pipe business in earnest. He has fourteen stores and at each of them a window has been given to the display of pipes. Pipe weather is coming on. It will soon be slipper, log fire and Morris chair nights, when the reading lamp above the eyes, the book in the hand and the pipe between the teeth will mean comfort and pleasure. Dolan knows this and says he proposes to cinch the pipe business while the manufacturers are in a mood to do extensive advertising in the national weeklies.

The stands in all the big hotels report good business, with prospects better. Now that the parade season is ended, the banquet season is about to begin and banqueters smoke more cigars and cigarettes than paraders do, anyway. A number of large banquets have been held lately, at all of which there was a large consumption of smokes. The La Salle, Blackstone, Auditorium "Annex," Sherman Hotel and Auditorium have all profited from the opening of the banquet season and many of the smaller hotels and restaurants have done equally well.

Albert Breitung scored first under the new Underwood tariff law and has been the recipient of all kinds of invitations from admiring friends to divide his savings. He cleared a shipment of Comoy London pipes at the Custom House just in time to obtain advantage of the new duty, which saved his bank account ten per cent. on the shipment.

Speaking of Breitung, one is reminded that it was just twenty-five years ago and a few days over, that he entered the retail cigar business on his own account in Chicago, opening his store in the then sky-towering Rookery, which was, for a time, one of the most famous and widely-known buildings in the world, it being the world's original skyscraper. He still owns the store, which is one of the important ones in his chain. He now has ten stores, all handsomely furnished and strategically situated. Mr. Breitung is still counted among the young men in Chicago's retail trade and it is probable his chain of stores will be much increased before he is ready to retire from active participation in business affairs.

"Mose" Gunst—no one on the Pacific Coast knows him as anything else—was in the city a day or two ago, en route to his home in San Francisco from New York, where he was an interested spectator at the opening exercises of his new store at Broadway and John Streets. Of course, the firm name is M. A. Gunst & Company, the "House of Staples," but Mose is the big noise and the managing head of the firm. What with Gunst, of San Francisco, in the tobacco field, and Considine & Cort, of Seattle, in the theatrical field, New York is being furnished a lot of amusement and pleasure by strong business men from "the wild and woolly."

Carl Gach, of the leaf firm of Newmann & Gach, is almost recovered from a slight attack of blood poisoning, due to a small wound on one of his fingers that became infected. The firm has had a very heavy business this fall.

There has been a cessation in the outcry against the "26" game. It is still being played in places, although most tobacco shops have given up the game until they learn the outcome of the test cases.

PENNSYLVANIA TRADE NEWS — Interesting Items Collected In The State

WANT TWELFTH DISTRICT RESTORED

Delegation Calls on Secretary McAdoo—Headquarters to Be Located at Scranton—Belief That Ninth District Will Not Be Disturbed

LEADED by Congressmen Palmer and Farr, a large delegation from Northeastern Pennsylvania, called upon Secretary McAdoo at the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of having the old twelfth revenue district re-established in the state with headquarters at Scranton. During the Taft administration the twelfth district was merged with the ninth, with headquarters in York. So confident do those feel who are back of the movement for the re-establishment of the district, that the name of the probable collector of the re-established district has been mentioned.

Internal revenue officials are eagerly awaiting the outcome, as cigar manufacturers of the old twelfth district are said to be urging Secretary McAdoo to remove the headquarters of the ninth district to Scranton, in event of his failing to restore the old district.

Opinion is divided as to what the outcome will be, but it is stated on very good authority that the possibilities are that there will be no changes whatever in the district.

If the twelfth district is not restored by action of the Secretary of the Treasury, it is probable that a bill will be introduced in Congress to increase the number of revenue districts in the country.

York Cigar Box Factories Busy

One of the important industries of York is the cigar box business, and the large volume of orders now on hand indicates that all the factories will be running full time until Christmas in order to supply the heavy demands for the product. Extra time is being made in some of the factories and additional hands are being employed in several of the departments.

The manufacture of cigar boxes is rather an important industry for York, hundreds of workers being employed in the four large establishments—H. W. Heffener & Son, A. Kauffman & Bro., T. A. Myers & Co. and Wallick & Gohn. These plants practically supply all the boxes for the cigars manufactured in this section of the ninth internal revenue district. Hundreds of thousands of boxes are supplied for the trade annually.

Charles Beck, of 254 West Philadelphia Street, York, Pa., has recently been appointed deputy city controller to fill a vacancy caused by death. Mr. Beck has been engaged as a broker in the cigar business.

Tobacco Firm Buys Property

LEBANON, PA.

J. C. Hauer Sons, wholesale tobacco dealers of this city, have purchased the Dr. Guilford property on Ninth Street. This property extends from Ninth Street to Doe Alley. The Shenk Building and the Hauer Building will be extended at once. For the present the Hauer firm will retain possession of the entire Guilford plot, except the portion sold for the Talbot store.

LARGEST SALESHOUSE IN STATE

Lancaster to Have Tobacco Building With 25,000 Square Feet of Floor Space—Jacob G. Shirk & Sons Erecting Big Establishment

LANCASTER, PA.

THE largest wholesale tobacco saleshouse in Pennsylvania is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by January 1, 1914. It will be located at 323 and 325 North Queen Street, Lancaster, and will be the property of Jacob G. Shirk & Sons, whose business has grown so rapidly that they have been forced to arrange for larger quarters. The firm is now located at 19 West Chestnut Street.

The building will be four stories high, all to be used by the firm mentioned, of terra cotta construction with glass front.

The building will be arranged so that there will be provision for every department. There will be over 25,000 square feet of floor space. The offices will be on a mezzanine floor. The city shipping room, the out-of-town shipping room, the stock, freight rooms and garage for the storage of twelve machines at the rear of the buildings separate from the main building by a heavy brick wall, comprise the first floor. On the second floor there will be a monster humidor, which will hold a half million cigars. A large space has been provided for the pipe department. The other floors will also be utilized in the business.

The work of tearing the old building down is nearing completion and the building will then start. By January 1 the new building is expected to be completed. The site and building will cost $35,000.

Jeitles & Blumenthal Busy

SINKING SPRINGS, PA.

Irwin H. Bright, superintendent of the Jeitles & Blumenthal factory in this city, reports that they are turning out from 20,000 to 25,000 cigars a day. Business is brisk and the finished stock is being rushed to Philadelphia to the firm's jobbing house to fill "at once" orders.

James Spohn, of 416 South Seventeenth Street, Reading, has filed a bond of $500 for the manufacture of cigars with Internal Revenue Collector Cranston.

Smoking Machine at the York Fair

A particularly interesting feature of the York Fair is the exhibit of an apparatus designed by the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture for testing the burning qualities of tobacco.

Cigars made of leaf produced by different means of fertilization are scientifically "smoked" by the apparatus and the result noted. This is a matter of special interest in York County, where the "burn" of the tobacco produced by local soil, which is said to be faulty, is being experimented upon.

This exhibit is a part of the Pennsylvania State College exhibit, which deals largely with tobacco growing. There are displayed growing specimens of the Pennsylvania broadleaf, and Maryland mammoth varieties of tobacco.

Detroit

Convention Season Over and Business Settles Down—Watson Company to Take Berman Store—Wayne Cigar Company Making One Million Cigars a Week—Mazer Cigar Company Adds to Factory

DETROIT, MICH., October 9, 1913.

THE convention season in Detroit, and in fact throughout Michigan, is practically ended for this year. On the whole, retail cigar business has been splendid and everybody says "better than last year." Those dealers who have handled the right kind of merchandise and given their patrons legitimate values surely have not failed to make money, whereas, on the other hand, those who have tried to pawn off, so to speak, an inferior product have not been very successful. Cigar stores are not a necessity, even though the downtown district is crowded with them, and the public will only patronize those places where they have implicit faith in the men behind the counter. It used to be that you could sell a man a "long shot" or anything that looked like a cigar, but those were in the days gone by; this is 1913 and people are a little wiser.

There are two things that spell success for a cigar store: the right kind of merchandise and the personality of the sales people. Trying to do business on any other principle is sure to spell failure within a very short while. So, as before stated, those dealers who have been awake to the demands of their patrons, and the general public, must have a nice profit on their balance sheets. Business will settle down to a normal basis for the next two months and will revive again at the holiday time.

There is no further doubt as to the Harry W. Watson Company taking the Berman store at 120 Woodward Avenue, the change to take place the 1st of January. The amount paid for the six-year lease is $23,000, and the annual rental is said to be no less than $12,000, which includes the entire building. The Watson Company will alter the structure and have a cigar department on the main floor, fixing the upper floors to rent out. It will make no less than ten cigar stores in the one block, which is no doubt a record, and equalled in very few, if any, cities of the United States. Think of it, ten cigar stores in one short block; paying annual rentals of from $1800 to $10,000.

Following are the figures for September as given out by the Internal Revenue Department for the First District of Michigan:

One factory alone, that of the Wayne Cigar Company are now making an average of 175,000 cigars daily, which is over one million per week, and the number is increasing every day as additional cigar-makers are secured. All the other factories likewise report an increase in their output each week.

F. S. McAllister and J. E. Smith, for two years connected with the sales department of the John T. Woodhouse Company, have gone into business for themselves under the name of McAllister-Smith Company, at 31 Woodword Avenue, where they will carry on a general jobbing business of cigars, cigarettes, tobaccos and snuff. According to Mr. McAllister, business has already started out splendidly. Both members of the firm are very popular among the retailers, and if the excellent start is any criterion, then their success is already assured.

The engagement is announced of Sam Goldberg, Jr., to Miss Florence Wolf, also of Detroit. The young people will be married the first week in December. Mr. Goldberg is connected with the Lillies Cigar Company and is assistant to the president, Sam T. Goldberg, and is very popular among the cigar trade.

Ted Snowhook, recently manager of the cigar department of the Victory Annex and previous to that time for several years with the John T. Woodhouse Company, has again taken a position with the latter concern in the capacity of city salesman, and will devote his "selling arguments" in pushing the "Roi Tan" cigar, which has always been a favorite with Ted. As a matter of fact, Ted is greatly responsible for the big sale which there is now in this city on the "Roi Tan."

Two men, prominent among retailers, in town last week were Mr. Ackerman, general representative for the "Webster" cigar, accompanied by his live-wire salesman, Mr. Lutt. Needless to say some nice orders were placed on the "Webster" brands before these gentlemen left the city, as well as new accounts opened. It is not exaggerating in the least to say that the "Webster" cigars are growing very much in favor in the city of Detroit, and are being smoked by the very best judges of good cigars. All of the leading dealers are now carrying them.

The "San Etta" cigar, manufactured by the San Etta Cigar Company, taken over some months ago by C. A. and M. A. LaFond, will hereafter be distributed through Detroit and Michigan by the Woodhouse Company. Of course, they will be the big feature at all of the retail stores operated by the LaFonds, but the new arrangement with Woodhouse will also find them on sale at other stands, so that the factory will be able to put on more help and increase the output.

J. J. Gilmore, who has been salesman with the Kellog Company, of Battle Creek, has taken a position under George A. Farmer, general representative in Michigan for the Tobacco Products Company. Mr. Gilmore will sell "Royal Nestors," "Milos" and "Melachrinos."

Increase of business of the Maser Cigar Company has necessitated the building of an additional story on their factory at 443 Grandy Avenue, which will practically double their capacity. The makers of "Miss Detroit" and "La Cavalerie" have a factory that is modern in every detail, being well lighted and sanitary. The Mazer Company is becoming one of the leaders in the cigar industry of Detroit.

Frank Jacques, proprietor of the Auburn Cigar store, 77 South Saginaw Street, Pontiac, has been having a big sale on pipes.

The John J. Bagley Company provided free smoking material in connection with the annual baseball smoker given by Friendship Lodge in the Masonic Temple on September 29, at which the Detroit Baseball Club members were guests. Each person present that evening—and there were close to a thousand—was given a pipe and all the tobacco he could use.

Frank Smith, formerly manager of the Hotel Ponchartrain cigar department, and more recently in business for himself, has taken a position with the E. M. Harris cigar store. Frank is city salesman. The combination of Frank and the Harris store should prove highly profitable to both.

Bert Johnson furnished "Tadema" cigars and "Philip Morris" cigarettes to the Detroit credit men at their banquet this week. By the way, Bert has a new cigar called the "McMilla," which he will shortly feature. It is manufactured by Marcelina Perez & Company.

The board of directors of the Wolverine Automobile Club are now operating their own cigar department.

After a successful trip through the State, Mark Hymes, of Schinasi Brothers, has returned to Detroit, where he is now looking after local trade.

E. Vanderlip, of the Juan de Portuondo Company, of Philadelphia, was a recent visitor to Detroit for the purpose of making dealers more familiar with his company's brand. That he succeeded is proven by the fact that he went away with some nice orders.

A. C. Dietsche, on Woodward Avenue, is offering a "Judge Durand" cigar free with every fifth purchase in the cigar department.

The Board of Commerce is now in its elegant new building at the corner of Lafayette and Wayne Streets, which is said to be one of the finest structures of its kind in the country. The opening was held Tuesday evening, October 7, and fully five thousand people participated in the event. The association has its own cigar department, the buying for which is done by Steward Harry Brennan. Cigars in the case when the writer called were: "Partagas," "La Carolina," Hoyo de Monterrey," "Aploma," "El Rey del Mundo," "El Planco," "Tuval," "Principe de Gales," "First Consul," "Pastora," "Roi Tan," and "Royal Banner." Most of the stock was furnished through Bert Johnson and John T. Woodhouse.

Phil Verplanck was in town last week looking after the interests of the Preferred Havana Company, which concern has a big local distribution of such well-known brands as "Henry the Fourth" and "Les Reyes des Espana."

J. C. Clasen, cigar manufacturer, at 523 South Saginaw Street, Flint, is pushing the "Senator Curtes" cigar in two sizes, five and ten, and they are selling very nicely in the Vehicle City.

John Sibley, of Benton Harbor, has sold his stock of cigars to C. M. Devine and Mike Havelin, who have formed a copartnership under the name of Devine & Havelin, and will continue the business.

Drake Brothers, of Jackson, have sold their stock of cigars to H. A. Vandercook, who will continue the business at the corner of Main and Milwaukee Avenues.

Seidenberg & Company, who operate the cigar departments in the Statler Hotels in Cleveland and Buffalo, will also have the cigar privileges in the new Statler Hotel, being erected in Detroit, which will not be completed until April, 1915.

Oscar Rosenberger, of the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Company, is back from a ten weeks' European trip and is looking fine physically.

John P. Hemmeter, of the Hemmeter Cigar Company, is expected back in the city some time this month.

John T. Woodhouse has returned from a brief motor trip to Jackson and Battle Creek.

Local dealers were very much interested to know that Mortimer Regensberg, manufacturer of the Regensberg line of cigars, was one of the jurymen that tried the notorious Hans Schmidt in New York City.

Over seven hundred dollars' worth of cigars and tobacco were stolen from the wagon of John Fitzgerald, while left at the corner of Bates and Woodbridge Streets. Mr. Fitzgerald has a small jobbing business of his own. The stock was later recovered.

P. C. Payette, head of the Woodhouse Company, in Grand Rapids, accompanied the Grand Rapids Wholesalers and Jobbers on their fall trade trip, October 7 to 10, taking in the cities of Jackson, Lansing, and intermediate points.

Ambrose M. Minty, cigar manufacturer in Battle Creek, was one of the committee in charge of the elaborate banquet tendered to C. W. Post on September 30, in the Post Tavern. It was attended by two hundred and fifty business men of the city and is said to have been one of the most elaborate affairs of its kind ever given in Battle Creek. The banquet was to celebrate the opening of the new annex to the Post Tavern, which is ten stories high and is as modern as any hotel in the United States.

One of Detroit's growing jobbers is the J. L. Marcero Company, who handle the G. J. Johnson cigars, of Grand Rapids. This concern opened Detroit offices about four years ago, coming here from Pontiac, where it still maintains a store. Two salesmen were on the staff when they started; now the company has ten men, the last one being George Whitman, who has been in the office for some time. Mr. Moreland is the Detroit manager.

San Francisco

Chain Stores Hurting City Jobbers—Manila Trade Now Booming—Local Buyers Interested in California-Grown Turkish Tobacco

SAN FRANCISCO, October 4, 1913.

THE general business situation on the Pacific Coast is distinctly on the mend, with a better circulation of money, more consuming demand, and a more optimistic feeling all around. The cigar men, however, feel that they have peculiar difficulties of their own. This time it is the jobbers who are complaining, and from present indications it is possible that some well-known houses may get practically out of the jobbing business before long. In fact, there has already been some reduction of the number of jobbers, and there are very few still doing business along the old conservative lines.

This situation has been brought about largely through the development of the chain-store idea, which has brought the majority of important city cigar stands under concentrated control. There are, it is true, quite a number of different chains, but most of them are pulling for special brands, and in many cases are able to get goods on practically an equal basis with the jobbers. Some of the old jobbing houses have taken up the chain-store idea, and have gained actual, if not open, control of a considerable number of stands. Other concerns have grown up through the expansion of retail houses, and altogether the local field for firms doing a strictly wholesale business is becoming very limited.

Complaint is also made of the fact that Eastern agents come out to place new lines and, being unable to induce jobbers to take up their goods, sell direct to retailers at factory prices. Under such circumstances, those who do a strictly wholesale business find less and less inducement to carry stock, and some are said to be figuring on placing their business on a commission basis, disposing of their jobbing stocks and selling only for shipment from the factories.

The Manila business is coming ahead again, and now seems to be the really big thing from the wholesalers' point of view. Supplies which have been neglected are now moving off well, and importers report a large run of inquiries from places which have taken very few Manila cigars in the past.

The retailers in the downtown district are getting ready for the Portola Festival, to take place in the latter part of the month, and expect to do an altogether unusual business at that time, as the event is being exploited on a larger scale than ever before, and is expected to draw great crowds from all over Northern California. All the dealers are planning elaborate window and store decorations, and factory agents who are conducting window display campaigns expect to get in a lot of effective work.

Emil Judell, of H. L. Judell & Co., has just returned from a two weeks' trip in Southern Oregon, bringing a large bunch of orders for his leading lines, the "Elisardo," "Flor de Moss" and "Watt." This company has placed about fifty window displays of the "Elisardo" cigar at various prominent stands around town, and as a result are doing a very nice city business.

Herman Moss, of the S. R. Moss Cigar Company, of Lancaster, Pa., is again in the city, after spending most of September at Portland, Ore.

Henry W. Peabody & Co., importers of Manila goods, have this week been entertaining P. K. A. Meerkamp von Embden, proprietor of the "Maria Cristina" cigar factory at Manila, and consul for the Netherlands at that place, who is now on his way to the Islands after a visit to Europe. Mr. Von Embden left on the "Nippon Maru," intending to stop in Japan before returning to Manila. He took with him several good-sized orders for Manila cigars, made by his factory and handled here by local jobbers. He predicts that this year's crop of leaf in the Philippines will be of better quality than last year's.

Henry W. Peabody & Co. recently got in a large lot of Manila goods under the "Asingas" and "Intal" brands, most of which were destined for distributing houses in the Middle West.

The harvesting of the crop of Turkish tobacco around Fresno and Dinuba, Cal., has been in progress for the last two weeks, and the returns are said to be excellent. The season has been particularly favorable for the growth of the plants, and the quality is turning out the best since tobacco culture was introduced in the State. Local buyers are taking an interest in the output, and the John Bollman Company, a leading cigarette manufacturer, has sent L. N. Umstead to Fresno to look over the crops.

S. Bachman & Co., of this city, are preparing to open a branch at Los Angeles, and will take over the wholesale department of Emil Frank in that city. The branch, under the name of the S. Bachman Cigar Company, will be managed by C. B. Poar, who has in the past occupied a prominent position in the trade at Seattle, Wash.

Harry Bercovich, of the Bercovich Company, returned a few days ago from a trip to Sacramento, where he says things are livelier than in most parts of the State. The Bercovich Company has made some improvements in its stand at Market and Front Streets, and is now improving the store at Market and Powell Streets, intending to get the work done before the Portola Festival.

Frank Lopez, who has been well known in the local trade as chief assistant to Herman Kieser, the jobber, is now associated with Chas. Besthorn, a jobber of 2695 Mission Street.

C. O. Schneider, of the M. Valle Company, New York, was here a few days ago, and is now on his way East, having gone to Los Angeles in company with H. H. Manley, Coast representative of the American Cigar Company. Mr. Manley reports a fine business on the "Belmont" cigar, with more inquiries for special holiday packs than he can handle.

L. and A. Samuels, cigar dealers of Sacramento and Fresno, Cal., are in San Francisco this week.

Wm. Fitzpatrick, a prominent cigar man of the Hawaiian Islands, has just left after a week's visit in this city.

E. D. Marshall, traveling for the "Rey Oma" cigar of Sig. C. Mayer, of Philadelphia, passed through last week en route to Los Angeles to see his first grandchild.

Robert E. Lane, American representative of the Partagas line, was in the city a few days ago.

R. V. Morrison, traveling for the "Savarona" cigar, is visiting the local agents, Chas. Mattheas & Co., after a trip through the South. Mr. Mattheas has just returned from his vacation.

J. D. Waterman, the well-known Coast traveler for Boltz, Clymer & Co., has given up road work and returned to an orchard near Santa Cruz. His former place on the road will be taken up by R. L. Estes.

ALLEN.

Urbana Cigar Factory Sold

Colonel Nat Cohen, who established a cigar business in Urbana, Ill., in 1878, has decided to retire from active business life and has sold his interests to J. C. Grubbs, who will continue to manufacture the brands made famous by the colonel. "Bouquet" cigars, one of the first brands that this factory produced, still retains its popularity despite the fact that the factory has since that time put many other brands on the market.

All the men employed by Colonel Cohen will be retained by Mr. Grubbs, the only change being a new location for the factory. The Cohens have had a number of offers for the business, but in disposing of it they decided to favor Mr. Grubbs because of his business ability and his other interests, which would enable him to maintain the reputation of the old firm that has been built up by years of effort.

Made Cigars for "Mark Twain"

Harry Romberg, who while a member of the Hannibal, Mo., police force earned the title of "The Little Giant," has returned to his old trade of cigar manufacturing. For many years he was engaged in that occupation, being a member of the firm of Kettering & Romberg, whose brands of cigars were widely known.

Mr. Romberg has opened up his factory on North Main Street and has fitted up one of the neatest cigar plants in Hannibal. While it is not generally known, Mr. Romberg made most of the cigars that Samuel Clemens ("Mark Twain") smoked during the last twenty years of his life. It is said that Mr. Clemens used to send Mr. Romberg an order for cigars every month.

A large new display light has been placed over the entrance of the Cleenewerck cigar store, on North Jefferson Avenue, Battle Creek. George Longwell, the manager, will have a large globe of different colors to make it more attractive.

Nick Ruffen has completed a campaign on "Royal Nestors" in Toledo and has moved his crew to Cleveland.

A crew has been working in Toledo with a full line of American Tobacco Company cigarettes.

After having been in business for eight years, Niese & Speas, of Toledo, have sold their smokehouse and bowling alleys at 207 North Main Street, to Elmer E. Moses.

Toledo has eighty-four cigar stores, according to recent statistics given out by the Toledo Commerce Association.

Out-of-town visitors: Emil Auerbach, of the Sunnybrook Tobacco Company; Max Schwab, Montreal representative for A. Blumlein & Company, leaf tobacco dealers; Harry Simon, of H. Simon Sons, cigar manufacturers, Montreal; James Kirk, leaf tobacco dealer in Hamilton; G. B. Hirsch, of L. Schmidt & Company; Alfred Schmidt, of L. Schmidt & Company; J. N. Falk, of G. Falk & Brother; Hi Hammer, selling "Julia Marlowe" cigars; Joe Carlisle, with "Optimo" cigars.

Premiums and Novelties Spokes in the Wheels of Business

THE rapidly-growing struggle among the manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, for the supremacy of their respective brands, has led to the use of novelties and premiums in quantities, and to an extent, never before known in the history of the trade.

The retailer has found the use of smokers' articles a most productive method of popularizing his shop and boosting his brands.

Competition is stronger than ever before and the use of alluring articles for the "den" or smoking room, given as premiums or as advertising novelties, is proving a most healthy way of encouraging trade and making new friends for the store.

We believe that our readers will be specially interested in a series of brief descriptions of articles that may be used in the tobacco trade in one way or another. We have secured the co-operation of many of the manufacturers in giving their products an introduction to the tobacco manufacturers and retailers, who desire to stimulate the sale of their goods.

There are some articles that may prove too expensive for premium use, but they will be found to be popular with the consumer if offered over the counter at retail. No "smokeshop," today, is complete without a good line of smokers' accessories.

Full information as to prices and quantities may be secured from the manufacturers, whose addresses are given in every case. We will consider it a favor if, when writing, you mention that your attention has been directed to the articles by THE TOBACCO WORLD.

An ingenious and novel device that has won favor with hundreds of smokers, is the combination ash tray and automatic lighter. It has the economical feature of furnishing one thousand lights at the cost of one cent, and in addition keeps the tray from becoming littered with burnt matches. With the doing away of matches on the tray there also comes to an end the annoyance of black smudges on

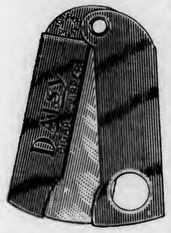
A feature of this ash receiver is that the lighter can be lifted from its socket and handed around. The lighter and tray are made of solid brass, and is an ornament to any desk, den or table.

You simply press the lever—Flash!—and you have a large steady flame. The lighter has a large gasoline capacity, and is equipped with a non-evaporating cap, which prevents smell or odor, an objection in many devices of this nature.

The ash tray and automatic lighter is made in several sizes, and in addition the firm which manufactures the article also has other novelties of interest to offer the cigar trade. Further information will be furnished by addressing the Victor M. Grab Company, Ashland Block, Chicago, Ill.

A neat and handy thing to have about one's person is a cigar cutter that will cut. The accompanying cut of the "Daisy" cigar cutter gives an idea of the neat appearance and size of the article. It is finished in gilt, nickel, oxidized silver, copper and gun metal. It contains a genuine safety razor blade that will stay sharp for years. The edge is safely encased and cannot become exposed in the pocket.



It should prove a very handy article for advertising or souvenir use. The firm manufacturing the cutter also makes a number of other attractive articles suitable for premium, advertising and retail use in a cigar store.

Full information will be supplied by Traut & Hine, 1 Union Square, New York City, makers of the cutter.

The cigar manufacturer, jobber and retailer are often at loss as to the best methods to pursue in attracting and concentrating attention on special brands that they desire to popularize. Among the several methods resorted to, felt mats, pennants and bannerettes continue to have the call.

There is a firm making these novelties up in sets, that are unusually attractive; each set consists of different forms, and each form tells the story in a different way, thereby strengthening the hold of the mind upon the line advertised. The cut used in this article shows a pennant used by a well-known Philadelphia firm to further the demand for their popular cigar.

This same company offers among its premium innovations felt doilies and centre pieces, watch fobs, pillow covers, cuff links, scarf pins, college pennants, and a host of articles that are in great demand today for use in promoting the sale of brands.

Special designs, samples and layouts suitable for the use of the advertising novelty and premium departments of the cigar and cigarette industry, will be submitted on request. Such requests should be addressed to Langrock Brothers Company, 35 Ormond Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

One of the most useful novelties in the line of smokers' articles is the combination light and lighter. This little lighter contains an electric light, a device for lighting the gas and a little wick from which to light your cigar.

The article is heralded as the "Three-In-One" lighter and apparently has been readily accepted by those who have seen it. This lighter is furnished in assorted colors, with metal parts heavily nickeled. It embodies the best mechanical construction and the best materials. For the electric light, one of the best three-cell batteries made is used. It fits the pocket without inconvenience and will prove itself one of the handiest little lighters ever offered to the smoker.

For sale over the retail counter it should prove very profitable. Those interested in this brand new lighter should communicate with the Hoevet Manufacturing Company, Incorporated, 105 Hudson Street, New York, N. Y.

The cigar and cigarette lighters made abroad offer many and varied shapes for the convenience and fancy of the user. There are cigarette lighters shaped like cigarettes; there are cigar lighters like match safes; tiny lighters for the ladies, and scores of others.

The imported lighters are said to be of excellent construction, and it is claimed for them that they are very efficient.

Full information regarding this line of articles may be secured by addressing Henry Glass, 108 Worth Street, New York City.

Decrease of Tobacco Imports in Bombay

Consul E. J. Norton, of Bombay, India, sends the following report to the "Daily Consular and Trade Journal," regarding tobacco conditions:

"Imports of unmanufactured tobacco, despite an increase in quantity, have not been maintained at the level of the previous year, and a decrease is also observed in the arrivals of cigars. Cigarettes, which form the largest item in this group, have not maintained the recovery which they exhibited in 1911-12. The decline is most marked in imports of cigarettes from the United Kingdom, which decreased in value by over a lakh and in quantity by 20,909 pounds. Egyptian cigarettes, which return the highest average value per pound, have increased and are well above the average of the imports in the two years immediately preceding the enhancement of the duty, and a recovery, though small, is also noticed in the imports of cheap American cigarettes, which were returned at 2210 pounds of an average value per pound of 26 cents."

Store Replete With Smokers' Articles

H. H. Engelbert, who started in business in Richmond, Ind., in 1883, has his business up to a point where he is turning out a thousand hand-made cigars a week for his store trade.

The business was started at 13 North Eighth Street, and a few years ago Mr. Engelbert opened another store at the corner of Main and Eighth Streets, which is considered the best cigar store location in Richmond.

One of the features of the new store is its splendid display of smokers' articles. The smoker today is always looking for some novelty for his office or den, and the live and up-to-the-minute retailers are stocking up with such articles, more and more.

Canada Smoking Up, Too!

The Anti-cigarette Leagues need not spend all their time condemning men and women of the United States for cigarette smoking, for they can cast their glances across the border and find our Canadian friends also indulging in that pleasant pastime.

During the year just past Canadian records show that their cigarette output increased 195,000,000, while the manufacture of domestic cigars increased 48,834,531.

As the increases noted cannot be accounted for in increased population, it looks as if Canadians were also indulging their inclinations. This would seem to indicate that the cost of high living and the high cost of living were not habits peculiar to the United States alone.

J. J. Grossheim has bought out Harry Ashlock's interest in the Grossheim & Ashlock cigar factory, at Alton, Ill., and hereafter will be sole owner. The two men built up a splendid business and Mr. Grossheim states that he intends to keep the products of the factory up to the standard they have already set.

Letters to the Editor

Who Makes Cut Filler Bunching Machines?

PITTSBURGH, PA., October 4, 1913.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly inform us where we may purchase the latest improved cut filler bunching machine for making cut filler bunches and also rolling machines, such as are in use in Eastern cigar factories?

Respectfully yours,
EAGLE CIGAR COMPANY.

Paper Cigar Mouthpieces

October 6, 1913.

Editor THE TOBACCO WORLD:

Dear Sir,—Can you furnish me with the address of a firm that manufactures a paper mouthpiece for holding a cigar? I saw them in use some years ago. They were made of heavy oiled paper.

Yours very truly,
E. SCHURMAN,

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Pennsylvania Crops Run Far Short—Carolinas Have Larger Yield and Get Good Prices—No Buying in Wisconsin Fields—Burley Crop More Than 50,000,000 Pounds Short

PENNSYLVANIA.

LANCASTER, PA.

At least 75 per cent. of the crop has now been cut and housed. Half of the crop has been cut in fear of frost and some of it green. At the most there will not be more than half a crop, although most of it will be very desirable leaf according to experts.

The crop is less by at least two thousand acres and thousands of acres have been cut in fear of frost, although last year there were no frosts really damaging to tobacco until October 14th. If that should be the case this year, there will be considerable backward leaf that should make a fair yield. Nevertheless the growers who are letting their crops stand are taking big chances of losing everything if a good healthy frost should strike the section.

The early cutting of the 1913 tobacco crop has now cured down to the rib and packers are able to get a line on its quality. One of our largest packers, to whom a sample of the new leaf was submitted, pronounced it of excellent quality and volunteered the opinion that the crop as a whole would be desirable.

The tobacco in the sheds seems to be curing all right. The process is a little different this year from what it usually is. Generally, the first step is the turning yellow of the leaves, which is followed inward toward the rib by the brown color. This year there is little of the yellow tint, the leaf going almost directly into the final brown from its green state.

Normally, the extensive purchase of old tobacco from the small packers, coupled with the shortage in this year's crop, should mean brisk trading with a tendency toward advancing prices, when buying of the 1913 opens up. The packers who have sold out, however, have made little if any profit on their holdings and will not be as eager to stock up as they would had they made a fat profit. The reduction in the number of cases grown this year will do little more than relieve the stress of accumulation of several seasons, so from present indications, growers who think there is going to be an exciting scramble for the 1913, with rapidly advancing prices, are likely to be disappointed.

THE CAROLINAS.

WILSON, N. C.

Tobacco sales at the warehouses are still in progress and from midnight until late morning wagons can be seen wending their way to the markets loaded with leaf. The tobacco as a whole has been of the best ever seen. The receipts are far beyond expectations, and all figures point to a 20,000,000 market this season.

While the tobacco is lighter in weight than last year, the acreage is larger. The yield is about one hundred pounds to the acre less than in 1912.

It is estimated that within a month there will be very little leaf in the hands of the farmers. Some seem to think that the tobacco is being marketed too fast, but the prices remain good, and it seems probable that they will continue so. There has not been a slack day since the market opened.

The growers who have brought their products to this market seem well pleased with the prices.

FLORENCE, S. C.

This market sent out ten carloads of tobacco in one day last week, and it is believed that this is the largest single shipment of any market. The buyers have had to ship very fast this year.

The tobacco yield has been unusually heavy this year in this section of the state, where especial attention has been given to its cultivation. This has also been one reason why the market has been so good. This season has brought real prosperity to the growers.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON, WIS.

Despite the indications of heavy frost many of the experienced growers prefer to take their chances rather than cut their tobacco green. The first frost, which occurred on the 22d, caught fully ten per cent. of the crop standing. Though the leaf is slightly scarred, it is thought that it will prove to be good stemming stock.

Many trials have beset the farmer during the season just closed and the result is a smaller acreage. The yield appears to figure about between 1000 and 1100 pounds to the acre. With the scarcity of Wisconsin filler and binder leaf on the market, it seems apparent that the grower will be well paid for his season's work.

No general movement has been started yet by the large operators and the Holmes law, recently passed by the State Legislature, seems to have brought about an end to the buying of tobacco in the field. Very few of the packers have their 1912 samples ready for inspection and sales of old leaf seem to be very few.

VIRGINIA.

LYNCHBURG, VA.

The greater part of the primings on this market seem to have been sold and the receipts have been small. There has been a feeling among buyers, however, that this market will see a larger amount of bright tobacco offerings than there has been in many seasons.

Prices have been practically unchanged, although there has been a better general average. The grade of the leaf is better and there seems to be a tendency among the growers to go after quality.

Petersburg, which is now fighting to become a bright tobacco market again, seems assured of success. The amount of bright leaf being offered there is on the increase and the farmers seem well satisfied with the prices. Some of the farmers have averaged from $25 to $35 a hundred pounds.

KENTUCKY.

LEXINGTON, KY.

That the Burley crop this year will run from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 pounds short of actual annual requirements is the prediction made by experts in the field here. In view of the fact that there is no old tobacco and that the manufacturers have only a comparatively small supply, it looks is if prices were going to soar.

Most of the uncut tobacco is of late planting and indications of frost have caused considerable of this to be cut green. It seems improbable that all of the late crop can reach the sheds before the frost catches it, and much serious damage to this tobacco would be little short of a calamity.

An attempt to gather in all available tobacco is sure to meet with keen competition and no doubt high prices will result. They will be very welcome to the growers, as their losses this year have been heavy on tobacco and they will need to get good prices.

The sales season for the local houses will begin between November 15 and December 1.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

A very large proportion of the tobacco crop hereabouts has been housed and thus far weather has been favorable to curing. Additional housing has been going on and this has been hastened with the late crop by light frosts. The crop has been later than usual and has been much retarded in growth by the drouth, and risk is now being taken to add weight before a ruinous frost arrives.

The market has been firm and active, with a noticeable increase in the inquiry for tobacco of good length, suitable to the rehandling trade.

CONNECTICUT.

SUFFIELD, CONN.

Practically all the tobacco crop has been bought up and packers are now sampling that of Wisconsin. Considerable rust has been reported but there has been little, if any, of black rot. The manufacturers are buying binder for present needs but the supply is scarce.

The crop in northern Connecticut has proven to be an exceptionally good one and has sold at a good price. Some worry has been caused by the recent rains and it is evident that the crop was harvested just in time to save considerable damage. A good many had been burning charcoal in their sheds to save the leaf. It is hoped that the farmers will be able to get it down and delivered in good condition.

The best exhibits of Connecticut tobacco at the Berlin Fair, comprising all classes and grades, resulted in the following classification of exhibitors: First, W. A. Foster; East Granby; second, H. T. Case, East Granby; third, J. E. Eno, Simsbury.

Prof. A. D. Shamel, of the Department of Agriculture, who conducted the tobacco experiments in this place five years ago, has just been appointed a member of the commission to go to Brazil, where an investigation of crops will be made by the Government. The party will be gone four months.

40,000 Acres of Wisconsin Tobacco

Estimates this year of the acreage of Wisconsin tobacco place the figures at 40,000 acres with 15,000 of this in Dane County. While a number of excellent crops will be harvested, the general average of yield will not be as high as was earlier expected, but James Johnson, tobacco expert for the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, terms the yield "medium to good."

Tobacco Men Choose Officers

The directors of the Lexington Tobacco Board of Trade which has taken over the business of the old Lexington Tobacco Association, held a meeting to elect officers for the ensuing year with the following result:

President—J. D. Noel. Vice-president—F. W. Clare. Secretary-Treasurer—G. Clay Goodloe.

The new board of directors consist of F. W. Clare, W. L. Petty, Dr. S. H. Halley, Thomas H. Gray, J. D. Clark and M. H. Irvine. The board did not elect a sales manager.

Attorney Baily D. Berry has prepared the articles of incorporation for the new company.

Heard Among Leaf Men

Practically 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco were sold on the Fuquay Springs, N. C., market last year at an average price of twenty-four cents a pound. This seems to be a record so far as is known.

The tobacco crop belonging to the Florida Sumatra Tobacco Co. has been sold to the Fraleigh-Hardee Tobacco Co., who will pack it and market it.

The Shippers' Tobacco Warehouse Co. has recently been organized at Louisville, Ky. This firm, which has been formed for the purpose of selling tobacco, will occupy the building formerly used by the Owen Tobacco Warehouse Co.

According to A. J. Campbell, who has operated a loose leaf warehouse at Paducah, Ky., for two seasons, there will be none there this year. Mr. Campbell states that his reason for abandoning the floor this year is due to the short crop.

Tobacco growers in the Maimi Valley have been hard hit by frosts, and estimates seem to indicate that the farmers will do well if they secure half a crop. The floods, too, have had something to do with the situation.

Leaf growers of the Miami Valley assembled at the Algonquin Hotel in Dayton on Monday to consider important questions relative to the production and marketing of the crops. The attendance numbered nearly one hundred.

By a rearrangement of the offices of the Planters' Protective Association of Tennessee and Kentucky, the sum of $4700 will be saved annually.

While the tobacco acreage in Kansas this year is about the same as last year, reports indicate that the yield is exceedingly light and will probably not run more than 25 per cent. of the 1912 crop.

The annual report of John M. Taylor, president of the Richmond Tobacco Trade, shows that during the past twelve months there was manufactured or rehandled in that city, 150,788,000 pounds of tobacco.

The Turkish tobacco crop of the San Joaquin Valley has been harvested and sold at an average price of 65 cents a pound. Owing to a shortage and the ravages of worms the 1912 production brought $1.25 a pound.

Standard Binders Popular

FOREIGN regies, as well as foreign individual manufacturers of cigars, are showing a healthy interest in the merits of the Standard Binder, made by the Tobacco Production Co. Already plans are under way for an investigation by these foreign interests and there seems to be little doubt but what its merits will be as quickly appreciated by those abroad as they have been in this country.

Demonstration has proven that the only constituent of the Standard Binder is pure tobacco and this, coupled together with its cheapness, availability and economic features, has made its American debut an auspicious one. Progressive manufacturers here have taken up the Standard Binder and there is little doubt but what the same success will be achieved abroad.

Heavy Frost Hurts Tobacco

In the district known as the Big Flats section, embracing five counties in New York and Pennsylvania, the tobacco crop is reported to have been seriously injured by the recent frosts which are said to have destroyed at least five hundred acres. This loss, coming as it does on the matured leaf, works a financial hardship on those who have specialized in tobacco. From year to year the tobacco acreage in this section has continually decreased and this year's failure will result in further curtailment.

The loss should approximate $100,000. Fifteen years ago the Big Flats section produced tobacco from 5000 acres, while the total acreage this year is less than 2000 acres.

Cincinnatian to Control Kentucky Warehouse

The purchase by M. L. Kirkpatrick, president of the Farmers and Shippers' Tobacco Warehouse Company, of Cincinnati, of the controlling interest in the Farmers' Loose Leaf Tobacco Company's warehouse in Augusta, Ky., it is said will result in a substantial increase in the volume of tobacco shipments to Cincinnati.

By this deal it is said that fully 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco will be placed upon the Cincinnati market, and that this will also bring the manufacturer and grower into closer touch with each other.

The crop in the section which embraces Augusta is about 10 per cent. short of last season's crop, and the taking hold by local interests will help to bring a fancy tobacco to this market, as that section produces fine grades of tobacco.

Big Warehouse Wiped Out

Fire completely destroyed the large tobacco warehouse of A. Friedberg & Bro., at Greenville, O., on September 30, and tobacco valued at upwards of $80,000. The building was valued at $7000.

The warehouse will be rebuilt.

Planters' Association Elects Officers

The annual election of the officers of the Planters' Protective Association of Tennessee and Kentucky has resulted in the following being chosen for the ensuing year: Dr. W. W. Scott, president; J. B. Jackson, vice-president; F. G. Ewing, general manager; D. C. McGregor, secretary and treasurer; H. Crutchfield, auditor; W. W. Radford, general inspector; J. M. Couts, James West and J. H. Keys, district managers respectively for the Clarksville, Hopkinsville and western district; A. B. Killebrew, salesman for Clarksville; B. L. Moore, salesman at Springfield; M. M. Tucker, salesman at Paducah, and Frank McMurry, floterial salesman. The law firms of Savage & Fort, W. T. Fowler and Robbins & Robbins were elected general counsel for Tennessee and Kentucky.

CROP REPORT ON TOBACCO

The Crop Reporting Board of the Bureau of Statistics (Bureau of Agricultural Forecasts) of the United States Department of Agriculture estimates, in its latest report, that the 1913 yield of tobacco is slightly under that of 1912. The yield per acre at this date appears to be somewhat under the final average of 1912.

Of ten States the condition on October 1, shows only North and South Carolina and Virginia with an increase in acreage over 1912. Pennsylvania has apparently fallen off 15 per cent. over last year; Ohio appears to be 23 per cent. lower than in 1912, while Kentucky is 19 per cent. under the figures of the previous year. The statistics on tobacco, according to the latest report, are as follows:

For the United States.	Condition Oct. 1, or at the time of Harvest 1913.	1912.	10-yr. av.	Condition Sept. 1. 1913.	1912.	Acreage, 1913 Perc. of 1912.	Acres.

Clubdom Smoking

future, though all smokes are at present handled at the bar, and as yet no cigar has been put in under the club's special brand. A line of cigarettes, however, is handled under the club brand, being of Benson & Hedges make. All goods are bought in the local market, cigars commonly in lots of one thousand and often more, and cigarettes in comparatively large quantities. In cigars there is no call for anything cheaper than 12½ cents, and no cigars of domestic leaf are handled, though in cigarettes the taste of the members covers a wider field, all prominent brands from 10 cents up being carried. Key West goods appear to be most popular, some of them having a blend of Porto Rico leaf, though clear Havana goods have always had the greatest demand. The imported brands handled, for the most part, are "Garcia," "Cabanas," "Partagas," "Romeo y Julieta," and "Adelina Patti." Of other lines the following brands are found most popular: "Flor del Mundo," "Optimo," "Gato," "Cabanas," "Garcia," "Lovera," "El Sidelo," "Van Dyck," "Corina," "Lozano," "La Natividad (a clear Havana, made in San Francisco), "Sanchez & Haya," "Luis Martinez," "Cervantes," "El Palencia" and "La Amita." The following lines of cigarettes are carried: "Melachrino," "Pall Mall," "Egyptian Deities," "Egyptian Luxury," "Brennig's Own," "Mogul," "Benson & Hedges," "Sultan," "Fatima," "La Marquise," "Imperiales," "Grand Duke," "Rameses," "Milo," "Lorenz," and the cigarette sold under the club brand.

NOTICE

The Quincy Sumatra Company of Quincy, Florida, will offer for sale at public auction on the premises, located about four miles west of Quincy, Florida, on the Mt. Pleasant Road, on the 23d day of October, 1913, at 2.30 o'clock p. m., all of its Real Estate and Personal Property, as follows:

320 acres of land (more or less) on which are the following improvements:
12 frame tobacco barns
2 two-story frame dwellings, one of 6 rooms and the other of 4 rooms
40 negro houses
1 brick packing house and equipments
6 mules
2 horses
1 irrigated plant bed, 2 acres
1 gas engine and pumping station
1 stock barn
40 acres of shade, all as good as new
16 acres with posts and stringers, but not lathed
Feed, (corn, oats, hay, etc.)
Numerous farm implements, consisting of plows harrows, wagons and other tobacco tools

Terms and conditions of sale to be made known by the auctioneer at time of sale. The land lies all together in one plat, and this is one of the best equipped tobacco plantations in Gadsen County, Florida, and is within two miles of railroad.

Short talks to Dealers

It is just as essential to use good cigarettes in order to build up a substantial cigarette business as to use good building material for a home. With you have a good, dependable foundation. Good, because the mild, mellow Turkish flavor of Fatimas is the flavor most desired by cigarette smokers. Dependable, because our process of manufacture insures the same uniform quality in each cigarette in every package.

And to increase the already enormous sale of Fatimas and to make it easy for you to build up a big, substantial trade with them, we are advertising them very heavily during 1913. More Fatima cigarettes are sold than any other brand in this country.

In fact, the 1913 Fatima advertising campaign will be one of the very biggest ever known for cigarettes.

And back of every ad—every cigarette and every dealer—stands the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Quantity or Quality--Which?

WHEN you are considering the advisability of taking on a new cigar, Mr. Dealer, what do you take to be of most importance, quantity or quality?

If quality cuts a large part in the selection of your stock, get in touch with us. We have something in common with you, a medium-sized, hand-made, clear Havana filled, nickel cigar, which contains nothing but the best imported tobacco.

This cigar, the 20TH CENTURY, has been on the market for 28 years, sufficient proof that it has stood the test of time.

For full particulars and samples communicate with

How to Get Best Results at a Saving of More Than 100% By Using the STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Dept. as "Tobacco in Process of Manufacture." U. S. Patents issued February 6, 1912, proclaim the Standard Pure Tobacco Binder to be manufactured only of tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps. Made in 6 Standard Sizes to accommodate 30 sizes of cigars; also appropriate stogie sizes. Ready to use after lying for about 24 hours in damp cuttings. No casing, stripping or waste.

The Standard Pure Tobacco Binder

Cheapest Because BEST — Makes a Better Cigar—Saves You Over 100

The Standard Pure Tobacco Binder while only lately introduced to the makers of low priced cigars, has proved its remarkable merits through countless tests and experiments extending over a long period. We, the makers, therefore, offer you in the following text a few suggestions for working the BINDERS that, if followed conscientiously, will materially assist you in procuring most satisfactory results. These suggestions are based on our own experience and that of those manufacturers who were first to use STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER.

1. Being a new proposition to you, the Standard Pure Tobacco Binder cannot be expected to produce the hoped for results by a limited test, such as with a few leaves. Manufacturers who are now successfully working the BINDERS to tremendous advantage have ordered at the start case lots so as to give them an opportunity to work out the mechanical problems to perfection.

2. Therefore, we suggest that instead of testing a few, you order enough Binders so as to learn by experience just how to overcome your own mechanical conditions. You will be more than delighted with final results, not alone in the saving but in the splendid free burning, unit-blend Cigars produced.

3. That Cigars made with Standard Pure Tobacco BINDERS are ready sellers has been proven. Manufacturers now using them are loud in their praise of the ease and simplicity of handling and the complete satisfaction produced by the Cigars.

4. Bunches need not lie in moulds as long as is necessary where ordinary grown Binders are used, therefore you use fewer moulds and can handle bunches quicker.

5. The best way to prepare the BINDERS to work is to stand the BINDERS upright on layer of damp cuttings with more damp cuttings on top. Cuttings should be sprinkled the day before BINDERS are placed in them in order to insure proper and uniform moisture to the cuttings.

6. It is best only to prepare enough Binders for one day's work. Bunch makers should be given boxes in which to hold sufficient BINDERS for the day, and no damp cloths should be used but damp cuttings instead.

7. Remember that the quality of BINDERS is only effected in combination with filler and wrapper. The Standard BINDER is sure to absorb the flavor (or blend) of both filler and wrapper, thus forming a unit blend.

8. If you use flavoring, simply flavor the cuttings in which the BINDERS are placed, and the latter will absorb it because they are manufactured neutral. Do not forget to sprinkle the cuttings in which the BINDERS are prepared a day before they are used and remember to place the BINDERS in an upright position between a lower and upper layer of damp cuttings.

9. If our BINDERS are properly worked you will find that the finished Cigar will draw more freely, burn more evenly, produce a clear, white ash, taste better and give a more satisfactory smoke.

10. A saving of 20% in labor is effected on the bunch machines, as well as hand work, our binders running always exactly the same size, being already booked and ready for instant use does away with the unevenness and irregular size of the grown binder which necessitates the operator to spread the same. This item alone would enable an operator to make 200 bunches more per thousand in the same time, thus effecting a saving of 20% in labor for bunch-making.

CRESSMAN'S COUNSELLOR 5¢ CIGAR

Countless Consumers Confidently Consume Cressman's "Counsellor"

or, in other words, "they appreciate the 'real thing' in a cigar when they strike it." Quality considered, they know they are smoking the best. Knowing this, Mr. Dealer, can you afford to ignore a brand with the reputation and selling quality embodied in the "Counsellor"? Are you getting your share of that business?

Not until you stock up on this cigar in the right way and push it by "putting your shoulder to the wheel", will you realize to the full what a prolific source of profit it is.

BIG MERGER UNDER FIRE

"United-Riker" Deal Not Yet Consummated—Purchase, If Made, Claimed to Be a Personal One by G. J. Whelan—Independents Want Price-Cutting Stopped—McReynolds Looks Into Proposed Merger

NEW YORK, October 29th.

BOTH the retail and the wholesale tobacco trade have been on tip toe for the past ten days concerning the reported sale of the Riker-Hegeman-Jaynes Drug Stores to the United Cigar Stores Co. This merger followed a most terrific price-cutting war from a retail standpoint, which the trade has ever known; a war which became so virulent in Boston, that the services of the mayor were enlisted to finally arbitrate it. Eventually the storm struck New York and, as reported in THE TOBACCO WORLD of some weeks past, the prices on cigarettes, imported cigars and other staple goods, were cut way below the original cost to the retailer. In New York City alone, the losses, taken on cigarettes by the price-cutting warfare were estimated away up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The battle of these two giant concerns necessarily resulted in a tremendous reduction of the business of the independent shops in New York, and the Independent Retail Tobacco Dealers' Association, several weeks ago, sent a committee to the heads of the big concerns asking them if some legal arrangement could not be made whereby the war could be stopped and a fair profit once again obtained on merchandise. The work of the Independent Association was not successful, as the heads of both of the companies refused to be bound by any agreement concerning prices at which goods should be sold.

Several press interviews have been given out, the general purport of which is that the purchase of the Riker-Hegeman corporation was not being made by the United Cigar Stores Company itself, but as an individual proposition by George J. Whelan, the president of the company, and his associates.

Meanwhile, no definite specific statement of the consummation of the merger of the two big companies has been issued from an authoritative source, and a reporter of THE TOBACCO WORLD was informed that nothing was yet ready to be given out.

McReynolds Looks Into Merger.

A press despatch from Washington, D. C., yesterday, stated that orders had been issued from the Department of Justice by Attorney-General McReynolds, to the United States District Attorney in New York City, to set about an investigation immediately of the proposed merger of the Riker-Hegeman Drug Co. and the United Cigar Stores Co., and report back immediately what the conditions were learned to be.

Since taking office, the Attorney-General has been receiving from time to time, numerous complaints from independent manufacturers and retailers, but this is the first time that he has made a definite move toward any investigation from a legal standpoint.

Damaging Rains in Cuba

HAVANA, October 30th.

Excessive rain storms during the past ten days and several cloudbursts have caused great damage to the tobacco crop in the Vuelta Abajo district.

The farmers will be much delayed in setting out the new crop as the result of these heavy rains.

"MADE IN BOND" IN STATU QUO

Cannot Use Tobacco Already Out of Bonded Warehouses—Separate Building May Be Necessary for Manufacture—Controversy Over Design of Stamp

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 31.

VERY little information of a definite character has been handed out by the officials of the Treasury Department concerning the direct regulations which will govern the factories to be bonded under the recent Tariff Act for the manufacture of cigars. The instructions issued two weeks ago, by Assistant Secretary Hamlin of the Treasury Department, have not been augmented by any official statements and it is not likely that manufacturers will be able to proceed definitely for several weeks yet.

I learned from one of the minor officials of this department that the question of just how a manufacturer will go about the organization of a bonded factory, has been seriously discussed and that a difference of opinion exists among the heads of the department, as to the interpretation of the law as passed.

Several phases of the case have been submitted to the Attorney General's Office and an early opinion requested.

The first of these questions concerns the importation of tobacco which have already come into the country and been withdrawn from the bonded warehouses. The Attorney General held that such tobacco having passed from under Government supervision could not be utilized in the manufacture of cigars under the newly organized bonded factories, for the reason that the customs officials had no method of identifying the bales which had been taken out.

This ruling is calculated to work a material hardship on manufacturers who have made the practice in years past to buy their Cuban tobacco, pay the duty on it when it arrived in the United States and store it in their own warehouses, but the decision seems to be the only logical one, if the full intent of the law is to be carried out.

Of course, imported tobacco which is held in Government bonded warehouses, can be sent to bonded factories and used just as though it had freshly arrived.

The question as to whether a bonded factory operated under the new law precludes the owner from making any other goods on the premises, has not yet been settled, though the general concensus of opinion is, that despite reports to the contrary, the ruling will be against the production of any other goods, such as cheroots, stogies and the like in a factory which has the bonded feature. This would mean that all of the big factories which operate under one roof, a subsidiary factory, for the production of seed and Havana goods, or of blended smokers, will have to remove these plants to separate locations, if they desire to take advantage of the law.

I learn that there has been considerable controversy over the stamp question. The Treasury Department have abandoned the idea of stencilling the boxes of cigars made in bond, as was first proposed, and have thus far prepared three preliminary designs for a Customs stamp. These designs have been placed before the Internal Revenue Bureau for adoption and suggestion and have also been sent to the Collector of Customs in New York and Jacksonville, for approval and suggestion. As far as I can learn at the present moment, the stamp will be of the "sticker type," printed precisely as other Customs stamps are, although larger, on white paper in black ink.

PHILADELPHIA.

Late News from "Reynaldo" Headquarters

SOMETHING to delight the smoker is the new boite nature package containing twelve "Reynaldos," Lyric shape, which will soon be on the market to retail at 50 cents. This package will fit the pocket nicely and will no doubt prove a big hit with the followers of that brand.

The salesmen are working hard on the holiday orders and everything points to a record season.

W. C. Orr, with headquarters in Chicago, is now boosting "Reynaldos" for the Richardson Drug Company, of Omaha. He recently opened an account with the Frank C. Schilling Company, of Green Bay, Mich., who will distribute the "El Cazor," "Piquant" and "Copyright" brands, for Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb.

F. D. Pixley, operating from Evansville, Ind., is now at Paducah, Ky., where he is assisting the De Werthern Cigar and Tobacco Company with their work on "Reynaldos." Parson & Scoville, of Evansville, Ind., have taken on the distribution of "Copyright" cigars in that territory.

W. L. Clauser has just finished a campaign with Lilly, Dungan & Co., in Baltimore, and is now in Rochester with the H. B. Brewster Company, pushing "Reynaldos."

City Jottings

George Becker has returned to his home in Philadelphia after a two-months' trip in the interests of Arguelles, Lopez & Co., Tampa, Fla.

Branch Rivelle, who covers the entire State of Pennsylvania on "Helmar" cigarettes for the American Tobacco Co., was in Philadelphia recently.

Jeitles & Blumenthal are busy with holiday orders on their goods and report a heavy call for the popular "Flor de Jeitles." Their factories are working overtime to meet the orders and both members of the firm are well satisfied with the progress they are making toward record sales.

T. H. Riley, the well-known tobacconist of Williamsport, Pa., in charge of the stand in the Hotel Updegraff, was a visitor at the Juan Portuondo factory the other day. He reports a steady demand for the famous line of "La Flor de Portuondo" and was in town to increase his orders for that brand of goods.

"Bonair" Cigars Going Good

The cigar departments of the various Mitchell-Fletcher Company's stores throughout the city are meeting with marked success in the distribution of the "Bonair" brand of five-cent cigars, which they introduced a short time ago. Important features of these cigars are their mild and smooth qualities, recommending themselves to smokers desiring a high-grade cigar at a nominal cost. One of the windows of the Twelfth and Chestnut Streets store has been tastefully decorated with the "Bonair" goods and the duplicate box orders have been unusually gratifying to William A. Bullock, head of the cigar department.

The "44" Cigar Company Closing Big Year

Returns from the "44" Cigar Company indicate that their business for the current year will overtop all records for the distribution of their popular "44" and "Adlon" brands.

B. Lipschutz, the president and treasurer of the company, has organized a staff, which he today considers second to none in the United States, and he has never for a moment relinquished his personal supervision in the production on his goods.

Max Lipschutz, the son of the president, is superintendent of the factory and is a young man always on his job.

Liberman Manufacturing Company Busy.

The Liberman Manufacturing Company is keeping the products of its shops ahead of competition by unremitting efforts in its experimental department to meet the needs and conveniences of its patrons. They have recently made some very useful improvements on the old time Long Filler Bunch Breaking Machines whereby all possibility of twisting and choking of bunches and tearing of tender binders is avoided. The Bunch Tables they are now turning out afford great saving of labor, cost and material. The trade has been quick to perceive these advantages and the Liberman factories have all they can do to keep up with the demand for their Long Filler Bunch Tables.

Philadelphians In Cuban Tobacco Fields

MESSRS. L. H. EISENLOHR and Harry Eimerbrinck received a royal welcome last month when they went out to the Vueltas District in Cuba and visited A. Haas, the well-known grower, whose farms are located in that section. When the party arrived at Vueltas, Mr. Haas had provided his own horses for them to ride out to his "fuica," which is known as "Ojo de Ague," to inspect his packing for this year. Harry Eimerbrinck is a horseman of some note, and in his special honor, Mr. Haas mounted him on his personal steed and pet. The big white animal is shown in the picture. The parties spent a day and night at the farm and had a splendid time according to all reports, Mr. Haas accompanying them to Havana on the return trip.

Paul Condax, of E. A. Condax & Co., was in Philadelphia recently showing their Christmas packings in "Condax" brand of cigarettes. The boxes carrying these holiday goods are imported, having been made in Japan, and are unquestionably the handsomest Christmas packings for cigarettes ever placed before the trade.

John G. Smythe, assistant to William A. Bullock, in the Twelfth and Chestnut Streets store of the Mitchell, Fletcher Company, has returned to work after an absence covering a period of nine weeks, owing to a fractured bone and torn ligament in his right foot.

"La Nega" cigars, made by V. Guerra, Diaz & Co., Tampa, Fla., received a new stimulus in the Philadelphia market through the efforts of Victor Lopez, who recently visited the Quaker City in the interests of this well-known firm and its high-grade products.

Charles E. Waters, for six years connected with the Thirteenth Street store of M. J. Dalton Co., will, on November 3, become a member of the selling staff of Yahn & McDonnell at their uptown store, Fifteenth and Chestnut Streets. Mr. Waters is familiar with high-grade cigars, as well as with a high-grade clientele, and his connection with the Yahn & McDonnell firm should prove mutually beneficial.

J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad Street, has met with unusual success in introducing a "two for a quarter" brand of cigars made by the Theobald & Oppenheimer Co. under the title of "El Teano." Mr. Atherholt recently introduced these goods, and not only have they met with success over the retail counter, but a comfortable box trade has been established as well. The cause of Mr. Atherholt's satisfaction is a number of duplicate orders which he has received on this piece of high-grade goods.

IRREGULAR PAGINATION

NOW many of us fail to recognize opportunity because it comes to us sometimes in the garb of an accident. The well-known pharmacist at Sixty-first and Market Streets, this city, however, took prompt advantage of an accident to his cigar counter that has resulted in booming business.

One morning while the boy was sweeping out the store he tangoed for a moment with a soda counter stool. The stool not being familiar with the new step skidded and kept on skidding until it reached the cigar counter, where it promptly "busted" the curved "front window" of the cigar case.

As it was an unusual shape of glass and not easily secured, the owner was at a loss for a moment what to do. He thought for a time and then disappeared behind the desk, coming back with a big white poster, on which was printed in red ink

for Courtello Cigars

This was pasted over the shattered window, and then the entire case was filled with the yellow-labeled boxes of "Courtello" cigars.

Of course there were very few, if any, who believed what the sign said, but it drew attention to the cigars, and the brand has been going big ever since.

The other day I told Dan Fleck, who manufactures this rapidly growing brand of cigar, about this little advertising stunt of his customer's and he said, no wonder he had had to try and find 25 more cigarmakers.

* * *

My friend, the Rev. Dr. Yard, of St. James' Methodist Church, New Brunswick, is a militant reformer, and having run up against a political gang in his town who would not close the saloons and gambling houses on Sunday, he determined to go out and do a little work on his own account. It would have proved a big success, if he had not run up against a couple of terrible saloon smokes.

Dr. Yard disguised himself in overalls and a slouch hat one Sunday afternoon, and securing a friend who was not averse to a glass of beer, they visited several saloons, gained admission through a side door and secured the evidence they desired. His friend took a beer regularly and the Reverend Doctor ordered a cigar.

After lighting one of the weeds, he was compelled to admit defeat and returned to his home, where he dosed himself with bromo seltzer and took to the sheets.

It seems a heinous crime in a way to sell bad cigars, but to sell bad cigars to a good clergyman on a Sunday in a bad manner, is stretching the law to the limit.

It is a lamentable fact that there are still some cigar stores which are not conducted along certain lines of business honesty as regards sales made to strangers.

I was standing in a retail store in Philadelphia recently chatting with the chief salesman when a well dressed and prosperous customer entered and asked for a package of cigarette papers that retail for a nickel.

Evidently the salesman did not have that size of the goods in stock, for he handed the customer a package that sells for three cents, and took the customer's nickel without mentioning the difference in the size of the package and the lower selling price.

The customer walked out of the store without glancing at his purchase, but re-entered and asked the salesman if the price charged him was the correct price for that size package of papers.

Instead of gracefully admitting his mistake, the salesman answered with a gruff "certainly, you don't think I would do you out of two cents, do you?"

"Well, I would not like to say so," said the customer, "but this I will say; any store that charges me five cents for a three-cent article certainly cannot do so more than once. I have just located in this neighborhood and your store was the first that I came to so I came in, but evidently you are not looking for new customers. I smoke anywhere from five to twenty cigars a day, which in all probability would have been purchased here, and this should be a lesson to you to treat the stranger with the same consideration that you treat your regular customers."

If that salesman had been accused of taking money from his employer's cash register he would have denied it in no uncertain terms, but to my mind he was guilty of an equally culpable act, though perhaps with no malicious intent.

I hear that Harry K. Thaw is one of the most inveterate smokers of cigars that you could meet in a day's walk, and strange to relate, if he is denied his regular smokes, his temper and mood becomes so unpleasant that few care to be around him, while with an Havana perfecto in his hand, he is quite a harmless appearing chap. Thaw's love for tobacco was brought strongly to my mind a few days ago, when I noticed the account of the execution of a man named Maus, up at Somerset, Pa., who was at one time a coachman for Thaw.

The sheriff had planned to hang Mr. Maus promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning, but like all petted capital prisoners, the condemned man was asked if he had any last request to make. He calmly informed the sheriff that he would like to have a good old-fashioned country chicken dinner and a good cigar, naming the brand, before he took the fatal drop.

The kind-hearted sheriff acceded to his request, sent out and got the chicken and cigar selected, and delayed the neck-tie party for three hours.

After discussing the meal and smoking the cigar to the last puff, Maus walked firmly to the scaffold and a quick and expeditious execution was accomplished.

Besides being a murderer, this man certainly was a materialist.

A Case of Killing the Goose

In the West, demands of cigarmakers for higher wages have caused several large manufacturers to close down and sell out their business, as they felt that to grant the demands and continue would result in an annual deficit instead of a profit.

Tobacco men concede that tobacco is higher than it has ever been before, and even the leaf men will agree that the figures are higher than they ought to be. Now there are many of the larger manufacturers who buy in such quantities that they are little affected by such a situation; many buy when the price is right and provide for a long time ahead. In this way, despite increased cost their average profits do not vary much.

The small manufacturer, with a limited capital, however, faces a situation that affects his margin of profits considerably. This is particularly true with the makers of nickel goods. There is a figure beyond which jobbers and retailers will not buy, and the cost of manufacture is of small consequence to the latter.

It is, therefore, not an easy matter for the small cigar manufacturer to raise his cigarmakers' wages at every call. Because the large manufacturer can do so, and still make a profit, does not, necessarily, prove that the small one can do so. Every increase in the cost of tobacco and every advance in wages adds a fraction to the cost of every cigar.

Cigar workmen, however, seem to feel that what one factory can afford to pay, all can pay. This fallacious reasoning often results sadly for both employer and employee. The manufacturer, feeling himself unable to grant the demands made by his workmen, closes his plant and loses orders. If this occurs in the rush season, when the retailer must have his stock at any cost, the manufacturer often loses business that he can never get back. He may eventually grant the demands, or the workmen may be willing to have the factory reopen again at the old wage rate, but there is generally less business coming to the factory and, therefore, a need for fewer workmen. And the workman suffers the most!

Of course, there are often cases where demands are justified, and many times there is much to be said in favor of the cigarmaker. But taken as a whole, when times are good the cigarmaker has about as fair a return for his labor as any class of workmen.

The time is approaching, perhaps not six weeks distant, before the factories will begin to cut down their forces. Yet word comes from the First and Ninth Districts of Pennsylvania, that the cigarmakers want an increase of one dollar a thousand, because the fifty-four hour law goes into effect on November 1st. This will necessarily cut down the factory output, but can the manufacturer get more for his goods? If he does it will come out of the consumer's pocket, and is the workman willing to have the increase added to the cost of his cigars?

There is the story of a couple who had a goose that laid golden eggs—but what's the use?

Five Per Cent. Clause Decision Prepared

WASHINGTON, October 26th.

PRESIDENT WILSON has advised with Attorney-General McReynolds on the interpretation of that section of the tariff act which grants a discrimination of 5 per cent. in the duties on goods imported in American bottoms. This fact became known at the White House today. Before writing his opinion on the disputable clause in answer to the request of the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. McReynolds obtained the views of the President.

The opinion has now been written and Mr. McReynolds has submitted it to some of his subordinates for their criticism. It is understood that the document is now receiving its dressing up and will be again exhibited to the President in its final form before officially transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The President said some time ago that he believed that the 5 per cent. discrimination to American ships would not apply where we had treaties existing. This is said to have been the intention of Congress, and it is reported to be the view held by the Attorney-General. So general is the opinion that this will be the ultimate interpretation of the clause that customs attorneys are said to be drawing up plans for taking the matter to court.

The sketch which I saw was strictly business-like in design with the simple inscription "Spanish hand-made cigars manufactured by ..... United States Customs. Manufactured in Bond." The stamp is not as large as an Internal Revenue stamp and there is no danger of confusion in its use.

It is intimated that within a month the Department will go over the various questions which are arriving daily, concerning this important new phase of cigar manufacturing, and issue a comprehensive and definite bulletin of instructions which will embrace every detail of the matter.

Illusions That Bring Trade to the Cigar Counter

By Charles F. Ousler

SUCCESS in the tobacco business,—aye, and in all retail trade,—has been attributed more frequently to the personality of the proprietor than any other single cause. Now personality, if you could catch hold of it, and observe it critically and carefully beneath a magnifying glass, would be found to be something very tangible and practical; a gracious manner, perhaps; a happy knack for putting customers in a good humor with a merry story so that they will enjoy it, and relish the tobacco the more, and return for both soon again; or any number of pleasing and lucrative inborn talents for "getting on" with folks.

Unfortunately, it is only too true that there are many good tobacconists, thoroughly posted on their business, and with all the capital they require, who nevertheless fail. Perhaps it is because they were not so furnished with a natural talent for pleasing strangers and thus cannot build up a trade. All of which leads me to say that the purpose of this article is, in humble fashion, to present a substitute for these inborn gifts of Providence in the form of a few magical tobacco tricks. That they will make any tobacconist popular, I will guarantee, and back it up with more than twelve years' practical experience in every branch of the magician's business.

In the beginning, let it be understood that the experience here to be explained are not offered for a merchant to present as "set pieces," such as I would perform in a public entertainment. They should, instead, be displayed, in a manner wholly casual, so that the customer is caught off his guard, so to speak, and utterly amazed. All the tricks explained here are simple, easy to perform, and inexpensive. Best of all, they are exceedingly amusing and entertaining.

Before entering upon an explanation of the tricks, let us imagine ourselves invisible spectators in the store of a cigar merchant who is prepared to entertain his customer in magical fashion.

The customer has selected a cigar, and is about to light up when the merchant remarks that the brand for which the customer as just shown a preference is one of the most popular he has ever handled.

"Indeed," he adds, "my old skull up there absolutely refuses to smoke any other kind."

Very plainly, the customer is startled. His attention is directed to one of those imitation skulls, used for containing tobacco, which are so popular just now. In the mouth of this monstrosity is a cigar. Without more ado, the merchant applies a lighted match to the end.

Instantly, and to the stranger's profound astonishment, the cigar is lighted, and the skull continues to puff quite contentedly until the merchant decides he has had enough and removes the cigar. This is not necessary, however, as it could really be smoked down to a fine stump.

Beyond measure interested, the customer wants to stay and talk about it. No explanation must be given by the merchant. That would be killing the goose that supplies the golden eggs. If his customer lingers and is persistent, the merchant tells him he has a magnetized cigar in which he might be interested. Drawing another cigar from his case, he stands it upright on a hat, but, of course, it falls down immediately.

He moves his fingers above it, after the manner of magicians, and instantly the cigar stands rigid and erect. At the command of the tobacconist, it bows gravely in any direction indicated, and even condescends after a little coaxing to dance a tango or a turkey trot, after which it is handed to the customer to examine, so that he may not entertain a lingering suspicion that it is prepared.

The reader will undersand that, usually, only one effect will be shown to a customer, and that as if entirely unpremeditated. Indeed, no merchant should do more. He is a merchant, not an actor. Let me emphasize that these tricks should not be introduced as prepared, but as purely extemporaneous, and in a careless manner. But in order to produce a clear picture, I am making our imaginary customer a very pertinacious fellow, and the tobacconist exceedingly anxious to oblige. The customer wants to see another trick.

This time, it is no trick which is shown but a genuine, though mystifying, illustration of the laws of gravity. The cigar used in the previous experiment is placed erect on the customer's first finger and the blade of a pocket knife, bent parallel to the handle at an angle of about forty-five degrees, is stuck into it. (No, Geraldine, dear; not the gentleman's finger; the cigar. Now hush!)

To the astonishment of the customer, the cigar and knife remain balanced on his finger instead of being dragged to the floor, as he expected.

When that customer leaves, he is bound to tell his friends about what he has seen and he himself is sure to come back.

Now to the explanation of these mysteries.

The smoking skull (which, when first introduced at a banquet of the Society of American Magicians some years ago and created a sensation), while one of the most spectacular advertising devices I have ever seen, is, in reality, one of the easiest to rig up. The only requisite, besides the skull, is a long coil of rubber tubing, about one-eighth of an inch in diameter, with what is known as a condenser bulb at the end. The free end of the tube is inside the skull, and the lip end of the cigar is inserted in it. Of course, this tube is never seen by the spectator. Thus prepared, the skull is placed on a rear shelf, where it is plainly visible from the front counter. The tubing passes out of an opening at the back of the head, down to the floor, the bulb being where the merchant can tread upon it conveniently. Now all that is necessary to do to light the cigar is to squeeze the bulb rapidly with the foot (the intervening counter hides this), and hold a flame to the cigar. The squeezing of the bulb is the same as puffing, and the cigar lights briskly. Then the tobacconist can keep it up as long as he pleases, the smoke being carried down the tube and out by means of the condenser.

Even simpler is the balanced cigar. In the band of the hat used in the trick, is concealed a woman's long hatpin. When about to show the trick, the performer is always careful to show the interior of the hat, to offset any post-suspicion. This is before the spectator is informed of the trick; one of the cardinal sins of conjuring is to inform the spectators what is to transpire. Forewarned is forearmed, you know. But to return to the hat trick.

THE Electric Show at the Grand Central Palace has been one of the most successful ever held in New York City. The Edison Company sent out a thousand invitations to their customers to visit the show as their guests and the result was a big attendance.

One of the most noteworthy attractions was a miniature cigarette factory erected by Philip Morris & Co., Ltd., on the second floor of the "Palace." In this factory was shown the manufacture of "Philip Morris" cigarettes by the electrically-driven machines, as well as the process of cork-tipping them.

The company also had an Oriental woman dressed in full Turkish regalia, who illustrated the method of rolling a cigarette by hand. They also equipped a beautiful little smoking room in thorough Oriental style, where Turkish coffee, nargilehs, the Turkish water pipe, and "Philip Morris" cigarettes were served to visitors. Altogether, the exhibit was a novel and instructive one and attracted much attention.

Keogh Joins Gunst Forces

Considerable surprise has been expressed at the announcement that Val. G. Keogh, who has for a number of years been with the John W. Merriam Co., manufacturers of the "Bull Dog" and "De Luxe" cigars, in New York, had resigned his position and made a connection with M. A. Gunst & Co. as assistant to Preston Herbert. Mr. Keogh will have general selling supervision over the Gunst factory at Tampa, and the factory of Moreda & Co. at Key West. He is at present on his way South and will spend some weeks both in Tampa and Key West, familiarizing himself with the conditions at both of the factories.

Dave Echemendia has just returned to New York after a successful trip in the interests of "Castenedas." He touched Roanoke, Norfolk, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia and landed good business in each of these cities. He is now giving Boston its annual education on "Castenedas."

Record Importation by H. Duys & Co.

The last Sumatra inscription to be held in Amsterdam this year took place October 24. Only a small quantity of tobacco suitable for the American market was provided by the fall inscriptions. More than one-half of this was purchased by H. Duys & Co.—the remainder being purchased by one or two manufacturing concerns.

It is worthy of notice that the firm of H. Duys & Co. have purchased tobacco this year at every inscription held at Rotterdam and Amsterdam, and their total purchases of Sumatra and Java tobacco for the American market amount to 7500 bales. This is said to establish a record, as it is the largest amount of wrapper tobacco ever imported into this country by a single importing house in one season.

"United" Acquires Stock of Defunct Company

Bids were opened on October 18, by C. G. Ludvigh, receiver of the British-American Cigar Stores Co., for the stock and fixtures of the various stores. The United Cigar Stores Co. bid $11,000 for the stock and fixtures of the stand in the Grand Central Station, and the stock in the other stores, but not the fixtures of the other stores. The bid was accepted by William Henkel, Jr., attorney for the receiver.

The British-American Cigar Stores Co. was thrown into bankruptcy on September 27, upon a petition of creditors. The company operated a chain of six stores.

Mr. Ludvigh informs us that the fixtures of the Seventy-second, Forty-second Streets and Brunswick Building stands, brought approximately $900. The lease of the Architects' Building, Fortieth Street and Park Avenue, and the fixtures therein, were sold to D. L. Cohn for $800.

Hearing on Smoking

A very interesting session of the Public Service Commission was held on Thursday, October 23, when the monster 72,000 names petition of New York smokers was presented to the board by George Gordon Battle, the well-known attorney.

Mr. Battle suggested that an order be issued providing that every fifth car on the New York surface line, should be a smoking car, and that there should be one smoking car in every five-car train on the elevated line. The subway smoking was not considered.

An interesting feature of this session was the appearance of Mrs. Ellen Healy, the authoress, who appealed for the rights of the smokers before the Commission from a woman's standpoint.

A. Lemlein, of the Gato Company, was also on hand and stated that he thought tobacco and smoking were not half as obnoxious as some of Doctor Pease's circulars.

No decision was announced, but in a week hence the Commission will hear from the railway men and lawyers and then give out their ruling.

Petition in Bankruptcy

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the O'Brien-Credazzi Company, Incorporated, of 74 Cortlandt Street, New York City, importers of Italian products and dealers in tobacco. Judge Hand has appointed Hamilton M. Dawes receiver, under a bond of $2,500, with authority to continue business thirty days, on the application of Stamper & Side.

It is said that the company has six retail grocery stores, four in Manhattan and two in Brooklyn. Liabilities are said to be $10,000, with assets listed at $5,000.

Benson & Hedges Lease Building

Benson & Hedges have recently concluded a 21-years' lease for the entire six-story building at 435 Fifth Avenue, which they have occupied for some time. Hitherto, they have only been the lessees of the store and basement, but under the new arrangement they acquire the whole structure, which will give them the very best facilities possible for developing their cigarette and general tobacco business.

OBITVARY

Jacob M. Strasser

AFTER a long illness, covering a period of nearly two years, Jacob M. Strasser, the widely known member of the lithographic firm of Heywood, Strasser & Voigt, died at his residence, 1361 Madison Avenue, New York, on Tuesday, October 28. Mr. Strasser was a brother of Joseph A. Strasser, secretary of the corporation, and had been actively identified with them.

He is survived by a widow, Laura Kraus Strasser, and four brothers and a sister. The deceased was thirty-five years of age.

Sol E. Henoch

Sol E. Henoch, a cigar manufacturer and president of the Sol E. Henoch Co., 203 East Thirty-seventh Street, Chicago, Ill., shot himself in the head and died shortly afterwards at his home, 209 East Thirty-seventh Street, on the thirteenth instant.

Mr. Henoch had been in ill health more than seven months, and to this is attributed his fatal act.

The deceased was fifty-three years old and is survived by a widow.

John Reid Christie, Jr.

John Reid Christie, Jr., nephew of R. E. Christie, vice-president of the American Cigar Co., died at the home of his parents at Arcachon, France, on October 13. He was twenty-three years old and a graduate of Princeton, in the class of 1913.

Joseph A. Amstead

Joseph A. Amstead, a cigar manufacturer, died at his home in Windsor Locks, on October 21, aged sixty-three. He had been afflicted with heart trouble, which is believed to have caused his death.

After being a manufacturer of chewing tobacco, Mr. Amstead became a cigarmaker and later a manufacturer. He also raised tobacco, and was among the first to discover a plan for force sweating the weed, to get it on the market earlier than by waiting for the natural method to do its work. He is survived by a son and a daughter and a step-son.

A. M. Burres

A. M. Burres, owner of a retail cigar store at 1459 West Lake Street, Chicago, Ill., was found dead in his place of business on October 20. His death is believed to have been due to heart failure. The deceased was seventy-five years old.

Good News for Kentucky Growers

HENDERSON, KY., October 24th.

The tobacco growers here are jubilant at learning that Manager William Elliott, of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, has just concluded the sale of the greater part of last year's pool, amounting to 10,000,000 pounds of tobacco, and representing the greater part of the crop of five counties adjacent to this point. The sale represents nearly $2,000,000 and it should release a lot of money which has been very much needed here for months past. The deal was concluded by Secretary Elliott, who is at present in Europe, and he now expects to return home shortly.

Bachmann Co. In Los Angeles

AS a result of a transaction recently concluded, the S. Bachmann Company, of San Francisco, the oldest cigar and tobacco jobbing firm on the coast, will enter the field in Los Angeles. A firm to be known as the S. Bachmann Cigar Co., of Los Angeles, has been incorporated with a fully paid capital of $50,000. The officers will be Arthur Bachmann, of San Francisco, president, and C. B. Poar, vice-president.

C. B. Poar, who until recently has been the Seattle manager for the M. A. Gunst Company, will become the local manager for the Bachmann company.

The new house has leased the premises at 396 South Los Angeles Street, for a long term. The firm also purchased the entire wholesale business, together with all contracts, formerly held by Emil Frank.

Arthur Yeager, of Kentucky, was appointed by President Wilson as Governor of Porto Rico and confirmed by the Senate on October 22. Mr. Yeager is a Progressive Democrat and his administration of the Island should prove a very friendly one toward the tobacco interests located there.

Tillman Funk, the Lipschutz's Southern representative, who was recently in Tennessee, was much elated at the success of the "44" in that territory, and states that the same conditions exist in Southern Florida, where he is now working. While visiting the Lewis Bear Company, Pensacola, Fla., large distributors of the "44," Mr. Funk was ably assisted in his distribution of the brand by Chas. F. Clark.

New Jobbing Company Formed

The Lima Tobacco Company is the title of a newly formed Lima corporation which has secured a charter from the State Secretary at Columbus, O., organized with a capital stock of $30,000. J. A. Jenkins, W. E. Dunlap, H. S. Garling and W. B. Watkins are named among the incorporators.

The president of the new company will be W. E. Dunlap, now a resident of Fort Wayne, Ind., but who will remove to Lima.

Albert Grant, now a traveling salesman for the Wayne Tobacco Company, of Fort Wayne, Ind., will be the general manager of the new concern.

The company has leased a new brick building on East Spring Street, near the Tigner cigar factory, and will install there a large stock of goods, including the various brands of tobaccos and cigarettes to be sold at wholesale in the surrounding territory.

Bringing Trade to the Cigar Counter

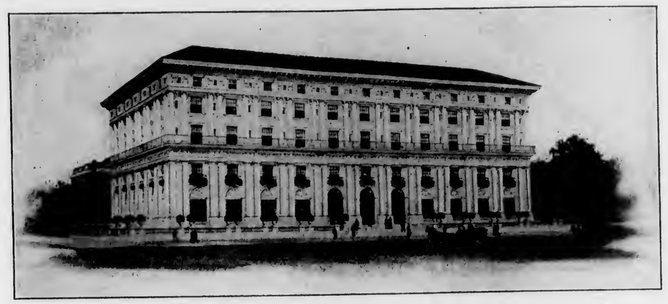
hand to balance the cigar on the crown. While failing in this, he surreptitiously removes the hatpin and allows a minute portion to be pushed through the crown. On this projecting point he places the cigar and rams the pin an inch or so up in the body of the smoke. It is then under his complete control, and a very mystifying performance it makes, too.

Regarding the last experiment, there is nothing to explain. The center of gravity is so peculiarly situated under such conditions that a very surprising balance is created.

Though magic is one of life's most interesting things, it is not with prejudice that I speak when I express the opinion that, with such effects as these, any man can overcome the handicaps of nature, no matter how great they may be. That is to say I believe that smokers will patronize a magic cigar store in preference to one in which a "hail-fellow-well-met" is the only "extra added attraction."

CLUBDOM SMOKING No. 5



The Home of The Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(This is the fifth of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

No. 1—Lambs' Club, New York.
No. 2—Union League, Philadelphia.
No. 3—City Club, Chicago.
No. 4—Olympic Club, San Francisco.

WITH the University Club as a neighbor on one side, and the magnificent million dollar Masonic building nearing completion on the other, the home of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association at Fifth Avenue and Grant Boulevard, standing opposite the entrance to Schenley Park, represents one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States. Built and equipped at a cost exceeding one and a half millions of dollars, this luxurious club opened its doors in its new home on April 17, 1911. Since that time its membership has grown rapidly until it now approximates a list of five thousand names.

The purpose of this association is to foster and sustain the social and physical needs of the men, women and children of western Pennsylvania, and it is needless to say that this standard is being maintained to an unusual extent.

Its roll of membership includes most of Pittsburgh's wealthy men, the names of many of whom are well known throughout the world.

The board of directors of the association include F. R. Babcock, A. R. Hamilton, R. B. Caldwell, Col. O. S. Hershman, Col. C. A. Rook, Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, D. McK. Lloyd, J. H. Jones, Col. T. J. Keenan, Dr. A. A. Hammerschlag, D. L. Gillespie, Oliver P. Nicola, F. F. Nicola, C. A. Painter, J. C. Trees, D. H. Hostetter and H. E. Barney.

Last year this association produced an opera, in which the music, lyrics and libretto, were written by members of the club. The entire cast was made up of members of the association and the production was staged at a cost of $20,000. This opera proved such a success that the rights of production have been sold and it will appear on the professional stage during the coming season.

The equipment of the club includes a white marble swimming pool, 25 feet wide by 75 feet long, a gymnasium with seats for 500 people, a billiard room with 10 tables, bowling alleys, a Turkish bath said to be the finest in the world, a dining room seating 500, with music every evening, the usual library and lounging rooms, and 62 sleeping rooms, with accommodations both single and ensuite.

Edward Danenhower is the manager of the club and has under him 300 employees. Mr. Danenhower is well known in hotel and club circles and came to Pittsburgh from the Army and Navy Club in Washington, D. C.

The cigar department is in the hands of the accomplished A. Clayton Keffer, whose experience includes the management of the cigar stands of the University Club, of New York City, and the Exclusive Duquesne Club, of Pittsburgh. While at the latter place, Mr. Keffer increased the income from the smoking materials from $30,000 to $82,000. This expert manager also receives credit for having doubled the business of the Illinois Athletic Club, of Chicago, in two years, and although only two months at the Minneapolis Club, Minneapolis, Minn., Mr. Keffer started the stand on the way to an unusually large increased business.

The department over which Mr. Keffer now has charge is already showing an increase over last year's business of more than $30,000. Mr. Keffer does the buying and most of the brands carried are bought direct from the Tampa and Key West factories.

The cigars found on the stand include the brands "Esperenza," "Webster," "Bouquet de Paris," "Dulce," "F. Lozano," "F. Garcia Bros.," "Hernan Cortez," "Bachia," "Tuval," "Marcellino Perez Ca.," "M. Vallee y Ca.," "Y. Pendas & Alvarez," "A. S. Neudorf," "Salvador Sanchez," and all the leading imported cigars from the independent and Henry Clay and Bock & Co. factories.

A feature of the cigar department is a little brochure which is given members, entitled "A Little Light on a Dark Subject." It brings a message to the members of the club, showing them what the cigar factories are doing to satisfy individual tastes.

Detroit

Watson Company to Take Cigar Stand at Hotel Cadillac—O. B. Stimson to Manage Edelweiss Restaurant—Mechanical Window Feature Draws Crowds—Big Displays on Jeitles & Blumenthal Brands

DETROIT, MICH., October 25, 1913.

THE weather during the past week has been most disagreeable, it having rained daily, consequently the retail tobacco trade has not been up to the standard. However, at the time of writing the sun is shining for the first time in ten days, which will bring people outside and as a result again stimulate the sale of smokers' articles.

While at this particular time negotiations have not been actually closed, it is believed that the Harry W. Watson Co. will take over the cigar stand at the Hotel Cadillac for an annual rental close to $10,000, which includes the sale of periodicals, etc. The papers will be signed before the end of October, and Harley Davidson, now manager, will continue in that capacity.

It has been decided by the Harry W. Watson Co. to sell the lease of the building at 127 Woodward Avenue, which runs for five years, for $30,000. Mr. Watson paid $23,000, so that he nets a profit of approximately $7000 on the deal. It was his original intention to install a cigar store on the ground floor as soon as the present tenant vacated, but he received the above offer and felt that he had better take a profit that he was certain of.

Report has it that Amos S. Musselman, head of the National Grocer Co. in Grand Rapids, will soon announce his candidacy for the Governorship of Michigan. His friends have been urging him to run and he is being promised support by Republicans in all sections of the state.

O. B. Stimpson, known as one of Chicago's most successful restaurant managers, has come to Detroit to manage the new Glaser Edelweiss restaurant at Broadway and John R. Streets. Mr. Stimpson has spent his entire life in the restaurant business and was recently with the States restaurant in Chicago. "We are certainly fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Stimpson," said Mr. Glaser, the proprietor.

Cigars, cigarettes and tobacco valued at $2000 that were stolen from wagons since September 8, were recovered last week by the police department, and have all been identified by local dealers.

Charles Lafond, of M. A. Lafond & Co., who recently took over the San Etta Cigar Co., has returned from St. Louis, where he closed a deal with the Parker & Gordon Co. for the entire output of the factory. At present the San Etta is employing about forty cigarmakers, but alterations are being made to the factory building, which will permit increasing the force to about one hundred, and also for adding two stories to the building, should conditions warrant them later on. Mr. Lafond feels highly elated over the success of the "San Etta" cigar since his company took hold of it. In the stores owned by the Lafonds close to ten thousand "San Etta" cigars are being sold weekly.

The marriage of Edward Lichtig took place in Cleveland on October 21. Eddie left the same evening on a wedding tour with his bride and will be back in Detroit by the first of November. He is Michigan representative for the Philip Morris Co.

Billy Gestel, of the Marcelina Perez Co., was in Detroit for a few days, dividing his time between Bert Johnson, of the G. & R. McMillan store, and the cigar department of the Hotel Ponchartrain. This was Mr. Gestel's first visit to Detroit in over a year. He will make the town quite regularly in the future in the place of A. J. McBlair, who has resigned. At the Ponchartrain close to nine thousand triangulars a month are being sold of the "Count Ponchartrain" brand, made by Mr. Gestel's firm.

"Whitman's Candy" is now a special added attraction at the cigar store of F. A. Harris on Woodward Avenue. The first window display was put on last week and the sale was quite successful. The new department will be a permanent one; only box candy will be handled.

To the many friends of Sid Heavenrich, former Detroit correspondent for THE TOBACCO WORLD, it will be interesting to learn that he is living life easy, dickering in real estate and investments and that Sid's health has been none too good for the past year. At present he is looking a great deal better than for some time. He still has a warm spot for the tobacco men and continues to be a regular reader of the WORLD.

There is a moving display in the form of a mechanical device at the Central Cigar Store's window, No. 8 Monroe Avenue, that is attracting a great deal of attention. It will be shifted to the other branch stores. There are two rubber balls on the top of a "fort" which represent cannons and they keep bobbing up and down. The curiosity seeker naturally wonders what force makes them do it. More than once have the police been compelled to clear the sidewalk.

The general offices of the Central Cigar Co., which have been at the Woodward Avenue store, have been transferred to the store at Broadway and Gratiot Avenues, which is more centrally located.

Business is picking up at the cigar stand in the Board of Commerce Building on account of the noon lunches, which are fast increasing in popularity. Steward Brennan, who has been ill from overwork, is fully recovered and is now able to be at his duties again.

Thos. McLarty, former owner of the McLarty Cigar Store, on Monroe, Kalamazoo, Mich., has disposed of it to John Ward, of Battle Creek, who has already taken possession.

Harry Prenzlauer has been appointed administrator of the estate of Ignatz Freund, who committed suicide a few weeks ago. He announces that he is arranging to close out the retail cigar store at 78 West Grand River and also the manufacturing end. As was probably known, Mr. Freund manufactured the "Carnation" cigar, which sold well in Detroit.

Leland Skinkle, cigar manufacturer, has returned from a ten days' hunting trip in Northern Michigan.

Joe Muer, maker of the "Swift" cigar, is now in his enlarged factory and is increasing his output as fast as he can. Claude Howell is handling all the cigars he can turn out.

McAllister & Smith, the new jobbing house on Woodward Avenue, have taken over the "John Drew" cigar for the county of Wayne, and will at once begin an active advertising campaign. It is understood that many thousands of dollars have been allowed them to boost this brand.

R. G. Casey, former Michigan representative for Melachrino cigarettes, is now connected with a Rochester concern, making a new check perforating machine, and he is doing very nicely.

The business of the Wolf Pipe Co., Detroit, has been merged into a stock company with a capitalization of $50,000, all of which has been subscribed. The company is making a strong feature of pipes for drug stores.

The Revere Cigar Co., of which Gustav A. Moebs is the principal stockholder, has moved from Cadillac Square to 468 St. Aubin Avenue, where more satisfactory quarters have been secured. Then again, it is right in the heart of the cigarmaking district.

Gordon Bailey has been here this week in the interest of "Rameses" cigarettes. Mr. Bailey will hereafter look after Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

"Mecca" cigarettes had quite a boom last week, when a package of gum was given free in connection with each purchase.

Albert Worch, of the Wayne Cigar Co., is on a missionary trip through the South in the interests of Niles & Moser hand-made cigars made by his factory.

Willis Andruss, who was here last week in the interest of "56" cigarettes, says he had a splendid business here. There is not a leading cigar store in town that isn't handling this brand of cigarettes. Both Lafond & Co. and the O'Brien stores have been making attractive displays in their windows of "56's."

Robert E. Lane, general agent for the United States and Canada for the "Partagas" cigar, was in town last week with his full line. It made such an impression on George H. Woolley, of the Hotel Ponchartrain, that several new shapes have been added to the cigar department and incidentally they will be pushed stronger than other imported brands that have not been very ready sellers.

The Ponchartrain has recently added the "Bachia" cigar, also the "La Ginita" brand.

J. A. Ford's cigar store on Woodward Avenue was robbed recently and $44.22 taken in cash and about twenty-five pipes.

John T. Woodhouse, the wholesale tobacconist, is the principal stockholder in the Woodhouse Land Co., of Detroit, recently incorporated for $50,000, to deal in real estate. Mr. Woodhouse will not be active in the management of the concern.

Floyd Calvert has purchased the J. B. Brown cigar store and pool room in the basement of the Pontiac Savings Bank Building in Pontiac, Mich.

Isidore Mayer, of Jeitles & Blumenthal, Philadelphia, was in town for a few days this week, and reported business on his entire trip greatly improved. "It's been the best in twenty years," he added. This concern enjoys a splendid patronage in Detroit; for instance, "Foremost" is featured at the Soper Cigar Store, "Flor De Jeitles" at the E. M. Harris store, "Frat" by McAllister & Smith, and "Tungstens" by the Harry W. Watson Co.

Samuel Oppenheimer, the owner of the fifteen Oppenheimer cigar stores in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, is reported to be very ill in Chicago with an attack of Bright's disease. At this writing he is said to be very low. Mr. Oppenheimer is no longer a young man. Until two years ago he managed his entire string of stores, but of late has just had charge of his five stores in Chicago and one in Joliet, the other stores being in charge of his nephew, Harry E. Oppenheimer, who makes his permanent residence in Saginaw.

John Dietrich, secretary, treasurer and general manager of the G. J. Johnson Cigar Co., of Grand Rapids, visited Guy Caverly, his Detroit representative, and spent a week with him. From Detroit Mr. Dietrich left for Chicago on business before returning to Grand Rapids.

B. B. Bradshaw, who succeeded Bill Freleigh as the "Plantista" booster for Michigan, recently was on a hunting trip through Northern Michigan. Bradshaw is said to be "some sharpshooter."

Mrs. C. J. Merbach, proprietor of the Carola Apartments at 42 Watson Street, announces that she will play fairy godmother to some crippled boy or girl about fifteen or seventeen years of age. She proposes to equip a news and cigar stand in the building free of charge for such a youngster, and thus give him a start. She is now receiving applications.

Harry, better known as "Stogie Downey," was a Detroit visitor recently and from his conversation it was gleaned that he is soon to become a permanent resident of Grand Rapids. "Stogie," who represents Swisher & Son, of Newark, O., stogie manufacturers, is very well known throughout Michigan and feels that Grand Rapids is more centrally located for him.

A new cigar case has been added to the Hotel Marquette, in Marquette, Mich., by Proprietor John Lewis.

McHie-Scotten Co., of Detroit, are conducting an active campaign on their new "Canadian Club" mixture smoking tobacco.

Paul Post has opened a cigar store and restaurant in Gobleville, Mich.

Under the style of the S. & S. Smokeshop, a new emporium has been opened at 940 Woodward Avenue. The cigar department is in the front; in the rear is a pool room. The location is a good one and in the heart of the automobile sales district.

H. D. Todd, who operates a hotel in Eaugallia, Fla., is the new lessee of the Livingstone Hotel in Grand Rapids.

James Peterson, who runs a tobacco and cigar store in Manistee, Mich., is so popular with the traveling men who cover that section of the state that whenever they miss him they send him postal cards of regrets.

The Man Who Does Things

M. SCHWARZ & CO., of New York and Philadelphia, and the Jose Lovera Co., of Tampa, Fla., has been represented in territory controlled by the Haas-Baruch Co., of Los Angeles, for the past three years and more by I. Wentworth, who has the reputation of being one of the most popular men in his line that ever "hit" the trail west of the Rockies.

I. Wentworth.

Friends of Mr. Wentworth claim that besides talking "Lovera" to the trade constantly, he actually dreams himself into completing transactions before he has talked with the customer. Mentally strengthened by this forecast, Mr. Wentworth invariably "brings home the bacon."

Since Haas-Baruch Co. have taken over this brand, they have secured far-reaching results in the distribution of "Loveras," due mostly, it is claimed, to the efforts of the estimable gentleman whose picture appears herewith. When Mr. Wentworth went to California it was for a stay of only four months, but the spirit of the people, the trade opportunities, the splendid climate and the surrounding cheerfulness have been instrumental in lengthening these four months into almost as many years.

The many friends of "Ike," as he is popularly known in Los Angeles, have only the highest praise for him. He is recommended as a man of the "do or die" type, who goes forward constantly because of his own efforts, ability and determination.

G. S. Hantsch to Retire

G. S. Hantsch, one of Reading's well-known tobacconists, located at 521 Penn Street, will retire from active business on November 1, and will be succeeded by his sons, G. Howard and Samuel Hantsch, Jr., to whom he has sold the good will, stock and fixtures of his place. The new firm will be known as Hantsch Brothers. Both members have had wide experience in the business and are popular with the trade in Reading.

Lititz Wants Cigar Factory

In another part of the magazine will be found an advertisement inserted by the cigarmakers of Lititz, Pa., soliciting cigar manufacturers to try that city as a location for a plant. They say that there are 100 cigarmakers ready to go to work in Lititz, and call attention to a two-story brick building with a P. & R. Railroad siding that can be leased as a factory. Manufacturers seeking a location will probably find it worth while to communicate with the proper parties.

C. H. Rollins, one of the best-known tobacco men in the West, who withdrew from active business some time ago, has accepted a position with the Lovell-Buffington Tobacco Co., of Covington, Ky., and will have charge of the states of Iowa and Minnesota.

The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau

Havana, Cuba.

THIS time we have to report a shrinkage in the number of bales of leaf tobacco that has been sold in our market during the last two weeks, owing to a smaller number of buyers having visited our city. Whether this will be only temporary, or last until next month, we are unable to say, although we are inclined to believe that there will be a revival before long. There are sufficient stocks of leaf to be encountered in our principal warehouses, and the holders will not ask a figure to drive buyers away. Naturally, as the former have had to pay high prices to the farmers, they see no reason to do business without a small profit at least, and to which they are entitled under ordinary circumstances. If we were sure of getting a large and good crop in 1914, the position might be changed, but as this is still very uncertain, none of our leaf dealers are ready to lose money on excellent leaf that will stand storage, and will not deteriorate in value or quality. The principal question to find out is, whether the American manufacturers have enough stocks on hand to tide them over until the fall of 1914. With the resumption of business in the United States, and a good active demand for all kinds of goods, the cigar industry is bound to be busy, therefore we are optimistic in looking forward to a strong demand this coming winter.

Remedios tobacco has had the principal call again, although Vuelta Abajo was also inquired for; only the Partido leaf was lagging behind. Prices were firmly maintained, but are not any higher, and as there is less shrinkage in the weight than a couple of months ago, the present buyer has a slight advantage, but not in the selection of the quality. There are, however, some very fine vegas to be found still.

Two Canadian manufacturers were in our market during the past fortnight, and have bought quite heavily, but as all the tobacco has not been received yet, we have put down only 4000 bales of Remedios 8a. In fact, the sellers as a rule will not report their sales until the tobacco has been registered and delivered, while on the other hand, the buyers often enough like to see their names down for the total amount of bales purchased, even if not all delivered yet, so we have to use discrimination in making the purchases balance with the sales during a fortnight. The German exporters continue to buy sparingly, and the movement for South America is also of no great importance this year.

We have had a norther here for three days, with quite a low temperature for this season of the year up to the 23d inst., when there was a change again to hot, summer weather, and there is now already a complaint of too much dry weather. Some setting out of the seedlings has begun, but as the young plants that are fit for transplanting are rather scarce, the prices are very high; we have heard figures of two dollars—to even three dollars—per thousand, which of course only the rich planters are able to pay. Unless we should have a good rainfall soon the crop may be delayed, and if we should have a dry season we should get a heavy-bodied crop, with leaves of small size, which for the clear Havana cigar industry would be a misfortune. However, all this may change later on, so in reality we can form no judgment either favorable or unfavorable at the moment.

The arrival of Valeriano Gutierrez in our last was a mistake, as he had gone to Europe instead, and may be back in New York by this time.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Buyers were: Americans, 12,324; Canadians, 4000; exporters to Europe, 1225; shippers to South America, 851, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 3159 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana for the two weeks ending October 18 were:

To all ports of the United States	8,456 bales
To Bremen and Hamburg	1,779 "
To Buenos Aires and Montevideo	1,036 "
To Canada	604 "
To the Canary Islands	44 "
To London and Nottingham	36 "

Cigars.

The principal ones of our independent factories are all working as hard as they possibly can, and none of them shut down on last Thursday, the 23d inst., when there was a sort of half holiday on account of the public manifestation, protesting before our President, against the terribly bad condition of our streets. The Henry Clay and Bock & Co., Ltd., however, had given their cigarmakers a holiday.

Romeo y Julieta continues as busy as ever upon a very large order slate.

H. Upmann & Co. report no change in their previous activity. They purchased during the past fortnight the choice vega "Banta Isabel" of San Juan y Martinez, which has given the largest quantity of light colored, silky wrappers this year.

Partagas is a beehive of activity at present, being loaded up with orders from all directions. Robert E. Lane has done particularly well in the United States.

Por Larrañaga is crowded for room, as Don Eustaquio Alonso has brought along a stack of orders, and was highly pleased with the universally kind reception he had met with in the United States as well as in England. The cigars now turned out by this factory cannot be excelled by any other factory here, as regards colors, quality, workmanship and perfect burn.

The Castañeda factory has been taken over by Francisco A. Fonseca, and the factory has been moved to 102 Galiano Street, where the two brands, "Castañeda" and "Fonseca," are now manufactured by the new firm of F. A. Fonseca, S. en C. (Ltd.). We congratulate the new owners and wish them success in their undertaking.

Sol is busy, and the owners, Behrens & Co., state that they are well pleased with the turn of affairs.

Flor del Fumar is likewise busy, and as usual high priced regalia sizes are dominating in their orders for the coming holidays. Don Felipe Rodriguez only left for a couple of weeks' trip to New York, and possibly may be leaving New York again today for Havana.

Other factories that are working strong are: Hoyo de Monterey, Punch, Allones, Ltd., La Flor de A. Fernandez Garcia, La Flor de Tomas Gutierrez, Eden, Belinda, La Flor de José Otero and C. E. Beck & Co.

The manufacturing in bond by the cigar manufacturers in the United States only interests our manufacturers in so far that the United States Government stamp should not resemble ours, as otherwise it might cause confusion among the smokers. Our Union of Manufacturers has already taken some steps in this matter with our Secretary of State. There is no fear that the Americans could compete with us in the European trade.

Francisco Arango told us today that all the rumors circulated about his future plans are untrue; he has come here simply to rest quietly for at least a couple of months, and if later on he should embark in business again he would give us full particulars.

George H. M. Wyatt has severed his connection with Maximilian Stern, although the latter simply gave us to understand that Mr. Wyatt had gone to England upon a personal matter, but he could not tell us when he would return.

Selling, Buying and Shipping.

The principal sellers were: M. A. Suarez & Co., 2000 bales; Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez, 1427; Herrera Calmet & Co., 1541; Muñez & Co., 1122; Selgas & Co., 1008; José C. Puente & Co., 747; José Menendez, 635; I. Kaffenburgh & Sons, 545; Cardenas & Co., 300, and Isauro Cano, 150 bales of leaf tobacco.

The principal buyers were: S. Rossin & Sons, 4000; The Tuckett Manufacturing Co., 4000; Maximilian Stern, 1877; Otto Eisenlohr & Bro., 1860 (the balance of their purchases has not been registered); Lewis Cantor, 1025; Louis P. Sutter & Bros., 975; H. Upmann & Co., 604; Maximilian Stern, 581; Diego Montero, 565; José de Armas, 485; & Co., 450; Havana Importing Co., 413; Gutierrez & Diehl, 156, for export, and Randell-Landfield & Co., 125 bales additional.

Shippers above 200 bales of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana were: H. Upmann & Co., 2398; Leslie Pantin, 1198; C. E. Beck & Co., 604; Maximilian Stern, 581; Diego Montero, 565; Jése de Armas, 485; Michaelsen & Prasse, 470; Bridat & Co., 370; J. F. Berndes & Co., 309; Celestino Medio, 286; Virgilio Suarez, 273; J. Bernheim & Son, 254; José Suarez & Co., 228; Sierra & Martinez, 227; Garcia & Co., 220; Manuel Suarez, 218, and Celestino Corral, 206 bales.

Michaelsen & Prasse had purchased 2700 bales, not 1200 as in our last report, which we herewith beg to correct.

Tobacco on Burned Liner

In the thrilling details published regarding the rescue of the passengers from the burning Johnston liner, "Templemore," the ill-fated cargo seems to have been forgotten for a moment.

American shippers apparently did not forget about it, as they have filed claims against Lloyds for $875,000 for the tobacco alone, that was in the hold.

Fifty After Hershey's Job

According to reports there are about fifty Democrats seeking the position of Internal Revenue Collector for the Ninth Pennsylvania District, now held by H. L. Hershey, of Harrisburg. York Democrats are working especially hard, and hope to get the revenue office removed from Lancaster to York.

As the movement to have the Ninth District broken up and the old Twelfth District restored, is said to be meeting with favor, Scranton again looks forward to the establishment of a revenue office within its limits.

Those who are asking that York be made the headquarters of the Ninth District, point to the fact that the city has a splendid government building with plenty of vacant offices to give the revenue officers palatial headquarters.

"Por Larrañagas" in Hotel Belvedere

An attractive display of "Por Larranagas," in different sizes and shapes, attracts the attention of the discriminating smoker when he looks over the layout of the cigar stand in the Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore, Md. The all-gold bands, and the uniform color and workmanship of the cigars, makes the display a pleasing one to gaze upon, and it is needless to say that the brand is a favorite one with the patrons of the Belvedere stand.

MANILA CIGARS SHOW GAIN IN U. S.

Quantity of Cigars Shipped to This Country Shows 41 Per Cent. Gain—Average Price is Highest Recorded—Increase in Cigarettes and Unmanufactured Tobacco

THE review of the Philippine trade for 1913, recently prepared by John R. Arnold, of the Executive Board at Manila, shows considerable gains in the export of all classes of tobacco products. The quantity of cigars taken by the United States shows more than 1911 and 1912 put together. The average price received was the highest yet recorded, and the gain in exports to the United States almost equals the gain in total exports.

From the Daily Consular and Trade Reports we print the following illuminating article in reference to Philippine tobacco products:

"The exports of all classes of tobacco products showed satisfactory gains during 1913. Shipments of cigars increased in number from 175,320,000 to 207,396,000, or 18 per cent., and in value from $2,660,061 to $3,356,748, or 26 per cent. The average price received was $16.18 per thousand, the highest yet recorded; for the three preceding years the average prices were $15.17, $12.86, and $15.17, respectively; while for the period from 1899 to 1909 the highest average for any year was only $9.71. The figures for 1913 are particularly satisfactory, as they show complete recovery from the slump of 1911, which followed the excessive expansion induced by the passage of the tariff act of 1909. In 1910 shipments rose suddenly from 116,000,000 to 196,000,000, only to fall to 132,000,000 in 1911. In 1912 the record of 1910 was nearly approached, but during the year just closed it was surpassed. This increase in cigar exports was nearly all absorbed by the United States, the gain in the shipments to that country almost equaling the gain in total exports.

"The quantity taken by the United States advanced from 71,973,000 in 1912 to 101,647,000 in 1913, or 41 per cent.; it exceeded that taken in 1912 and in 1911 put together, and represented a large increase over the boom year 1910; and it amounted to very nearly one-half of the total exports—the highest proportion yet recorded. The increase in value was from $1,619,326 to $2,211,340, or 36 per cent. The average price received for shipments to the United States was slightly lower than that for the preceding year ($21.76 as against $22.50), but continued higher than the average for any year prior to 1910, the highest recorded up to that time being $18.70. This slight decline was offset by the higher price received for cigars taken by countries other than the United States, so that the average price of all exports, as noted above, increased.

"It is interesting to note that the opening of the American market has enabled Philippine manufacturers to secure much better prices for their cigars shipped to foreign countries as well as to the United States, though the former were in no way directly affected by the tariff changes of 1909. It should be stated, however, that, though the resultant improvement in price has been marked and continuous, there is still a conviction that Philippine exporters are not securing the remuneration the quality of their product merits. Exports of cigars to the United States during the year under consideration approached much more nearly than ever before to the maximum number (150,000,000) entitled to free entry under the tariff of 1909, but still only slightly exceeded two-thirds of it. As in the case of sugar, the maximum imposed on the free admission of cigars and tobacco is removed by the new tariff.

"Cigarettes have never formed a very important article of export from the Philippines, more than nine-tenths of the relatively enormous annual production of more than 4,000,000,000 being regularly consumed within the Islands. The increase in shipments for 1913 over those for 1912 was, however, so large in both quantity and value that the figures are of interest. Exports for 1912 amounted to 34,955,000 and for 1913 to 52,040,000, an advance of 49 per cent.; while the value increased at the same time from $32,488 to $57,582, or 77 per cent. The gain in shipments to the United States was even more marked, being nearly threefold in quantity and almost exactly threefold in value.

"Exports of unmanufactured tobacco, which are almost wholly in the form of leaf, increased in quantity from 12,548 metric tons in 1912 to 13,309 tons in 1913 and in value from $1,902,644 to $2,039,726. Two-thirds of the shipments went to Spain, with considerable quantities to Austria, France, Hongkong, and Belgium. The United States has never taken more than a small fraction of this item of Philippine exports, and its purchases were only slightly stimulated by the establishment of free trade. The year just closed showed large relative increases, though the actual quantities and values were trifling."

Orders Piling up for 1914—Small Manufacturer Criticizes "Made in Bond" Act—Request Made for American Steamer to Freight Tobacco—Gato Company Gets First Shipment in American Steamer

KEY WEST, FLA., October 27, 1913.

FALL activity is now in full swing with our cigar factories. First-class cigarmakers are at present at a premium and workmen of this grade can now choose which shop they like best to work in. Nearly every steamer from Havana brings a few additional cigarmakers of this class and they find no trouble in securing employment. Futures have commenced to come to hand and at some of the factories are on file with dates running into December and 1914. There are good prospects for great activity at this point for the next three months.

Eugenio Lopez, of Rodriguez, Menendez y Ca, Havana, and Eugenio Lopez & Co., the New York leaf dealers, passed through the town recently, being en route to Cuba, where he will relieve Pepy Menendez, of the former firm, who will take a trip to Spain, where he will spend his vacation.

Abelardo Martinez came in from Guira de Melena recently and has taken charge of the cigar manufacturing and stripping departments of the Martinez Havana Co. He will spend about three months at the factory, returning to his firm's plantation in Cuba after the rush of fall and winter trade.

Bruno Diaz, of B. Diaz & Co., of Havana and New York, passed through the city recently, being en route to New York City. During his short stay in town Mr. Diaz called on a few of his friends in the trade.

Francisco Fleitas, of S. & F. Fleitas, has returned from a business trip to Havana, where he spent a few days attending to the selection of tobaccos for the use in the make-up of "Homerica," his firm's leader.

Jaime Pindas, manager of Moreda & Co.'s factory, expects a visit at a very early date of Val G. Keogh, head of the selling department of M. A. Gunst & Co. Mr. Keogh has been connected with John W. Merriam & Co. for many years and recently resigned to join the forces of the two companies mentioned above. He will have full charge of the selling end of "La Diligencia" brand of M. & Co.

Fernando H. Gato, vice-president of the E. H. Gato Cigar Co., left on Saturday night for Cuba. He was accompanied by his wife and two daughters. At the factory everything is still on the jump and no high grade cigarmaker who applies is refused employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaime M. Navarro announced through the local press on October 20 the engagement of their daughter, Rosalie, to Lieutenant Harry T. Pillans, U. S. A., the wedding to take place in February. At the factory of J. M. J. Navarro & Co. business is in excellent shape and holiday shipments are going out each week.

An absorbing topic among the local trade has been the discussion of the "Made in Bond" law. The paragraph relating to the bonding of the factory and the Government supervision of cigarmaking under these conditions has caused some criticism from the smaller manufacturers here.

One of the smaller cigar factory owners has called attention to the fact that this supervision will add an additional expense of from $1000 to $3000 a year, a sum which only the large factories can pay and still manufacture at a profit. This sum is, of course, to cover the inspector's salary. A manufacturer doing a small but excellent business remarked to a representative of the WORLD that this section of the act gives the little fellow no chance at all to manufacture in bond.

"If that portion of the act had provided for a tax of so much per thousand for cigars manufactured in bond, it would seem to me to have been very fair for all of us," he said. "If this idea had been introduced in that part of the law, one inspector could have cared for five or more factories, and would have given the smaller manufacturers a chance to compete with the large concerns, as we could afford to manufacture in bond, too, under those conditions, but as the law stands now we are entirely 'frozen out' of competition."

The "Mi Favorita" Cigar Co., the Martinez Havana Co. and E. H. Gato Cigar Co. will have factories bonded as soon as the necessary papers can be gotten ready. A decision will be reached by other firms as soon as out-of-town offices are heard from.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Co. is still carrying a large force and would take more help if it were to be had. Orders are coming fast, and one recently came in calling for 3,000,000 cigars.

En route from Cuba to Tampa, Francisco Arango, of the Havana-American Co., and Fecundo Arguelles, of Arguelles, Lopez & Bro., passed through this city the other day.

A cablegram from President Wilson on the 24th announced that he will accept the invitation tendered him to visit Key West on his trip to Colon, Panama.

The Cigar Manufacturers' Association, in seeking to take advantage of the five per cent. reduction clause in the tariff bill, has presented the Peninsular & Occidental S. S. Co. with a request to provide an American steamer to freight their tobacco from Cuba. If an American steamer cannot be secured, Cuban agents will be compelled to make their shipments to New York and thence to Key West, as the five per cent. saved will amount to a considerable item in the run of a year's business.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Co. received 158 bales of leaf on the S. S. "Maimi" on the 24th, being the first tobacco shipment to come here in an American bottom in many months. Nothing that will benefit their business gets by this wide-awake firm.

New Brand of Key West Smokers

The cigar department of the Finley Acker Co.'s store is introducing a new brand of Key West smokers under the name of "Acker's King of Key West Smokers," which is made by Wolf Brothers & Co., of Key West, Fla., and retail at "four for a quarter" or seven cents each. These goods, as their name implies, are really smokers and are larger than the usual Londres cigars, and are sold at the figures quoted because of some trifling defect in workmanship.

Bay City Display of "La Saramitas"

The Oppenheimer Cigar Company, of Bay City, Mich., has had recently a splendid window display of one of their best selling high-grade cigar brands, "La Saraminta," and it has attracted much attention to this popular smoke.

This window feature was arranged by John Wilkinson, manager of the store, who has a reputation of setting up the cleverest displays in that section of the country.

Cleveland

Stores Preparing for Holiday Trade—Opening of Largest Pool and Billiard Hall in the Country—"Saramintas" and "Saraminta Fives" Land Big Orders in the West

CLEVELAND, O., October 25, 1913.

THE fall season has started in and the outlook for business is brighter than it has been for many years. The local cigar dealers are already starting their purchases for the holidays, and from the size of the orders that are being placed it denotes that they are looking for a very big Christmas trade.

The past week has seen the opening of one of the largest pool and billiard halls in the Middle West. This institution is located in the Euclid Arcade and extends from Euclid Avenue through to Prospect Street. It is the largest single room billiard and pool parlor in the country. They have thirty-eight pool and billiard tables and fifteen bowling alleys. Their cigar case contains nearly every popular brand of cigars that is manufactured. Among the many brands that are displayed are "La Vengas," "La Lalitas," "Pastoras," "Saramitas," "Websters" and hundreds of others too numerous to mention. They have a humidor that will contain thousands of cigars, making this one of the most complete cigar stands that is to be found in the city. Mr. Mahoney, who is in charge of their stand, is very popular, having been with the Snyder organization here, and should be a big attraction for their cigar counter. They are adding a buffet, which will be as complete as their cigar stand. The buffet alone will cost in the neighborhood of $14,000. Their entire establishment will cost $80,000 when finished.

Cy. Falkenberg, the "Naps" star pitcher, is in charge of the bowling alleys, and so far has been the big star.

Mr. Smith, who was the manager of this institution, deserves a lot of credit for his efforts in giving Cleveland an institution of such magnitude.

J. W. Klein, of the Larus & Bros. Co., after a very successful missionary trip in and around Cleveland, will leave for West Virginia and will put in several weeks there. The main brand of Mr. Klein is "Edgeworth," which is being popularized here more and more through outside window displays and also by the efforts of Mr. Klein, who was well-liked among the trade.

The saloon trade is very quiet, due to the saloon question, which will not be settled until after this election. None of them are buying, as none of them know whether they will be able to continue in business. This will leave the liquor trade in a very stable condition, eliminating all those who are not desirable. It will put this class of business on a very sound footing. There will be one saloon to every five hundred inhabitants. Thus regulating it so that there are not too many saloon keepers and assuring those that are in the business of a very nice livelihood.

Fred Singer, of S. Rossin & Son, was in town the past week.

Nate Seidman, who owns three cigar stands—one at Detroit and West Twenty-fifth Streets, one at West Ninth and Superior Avenue, and the other located at 719 Superior Avenue—reports business exceedingly good. His new pool room, which is located at West Ninth and Superior Avenue, shows a daily increase and is proving to be one of the most popular spots in this section.

Aron Polster is now associated with M. Gleichman in the Park Building. The Park Building is being remodeled and will give Mr. Bleichman a very beautiful entrance. This, of course, should increase his business appreciably.

Wm. Metsger, who has taken over the Whitehouse Cigar Store, located at 5519 Euclid, has remodeled same and practically made a new store of it, and he has added the coupon feature, which is drawing a big percentage of the trade, and he assures me that this increases his business many fold.

Stace & Vincent are showing a steady increase each month. Their pool and billiard hall in the Alhambra Building, which is one of the finest in the city, is drawing a fine class of trade among the college men of Case and Reserve. Mr. Vincent, who is the outside representative in their jobbing end, is doing a very nice business through "Sonadas" and "Stivina" brands. These two brands are placed in nearly every cigar stand in the city. Mr. Vincent is very popular among the trade, as he has called on them for years, having formerly been with the R. W. Jenkinson Co.

The Mendelsohn Co. are doing elegant business on their "Rigoletta," "Decision" and "El Symphony" brands. They are away oversold and are in a quandary as to how to turn out their many orders.

J. C. Newman reports business as being exceedingly good, and locally is enjoying an excellent trade on "El Batons" and "Judge Wright," as well as in foreign territories.

I. J. Mittleberger, of Newman & Mayer Co., has left on a missionary trip through the state. He has opened up numerous jobbing accounts throughout the state on the "Bella Munda" brands, and is showing results of his unceasing efforts.

J. C. Leverance, of the Shields-Wertheim Co., just returned from the Far West and has brought back many substantial orders on "Saramitas" and "Samarita Fives." The factory is way oversold on above brands and is up against a proposition to turn out their many orders. Christmas orders have started to pile up on this concern and they are already way beyond their capacity on these orders. They are seeking labor to increase their force and are daily adding many new hands.

Fred Gollmar, of the Gollmar Cigar Co., reports business as coming along consistently and are enjoying a very nice trade in the several stands. Among the brands that they feature are "Lalitas," "El Madellos" and "Julia Marlowes."

Pyle & Allen's new store at the corner of Vincent and East Ninth Streets is not quite ready for occupancy yet and when completed will prove a valuable asset to their chain of stores.

W. Bidlingmyer, who is located in the Electric Building, has been ill for the past several months and his friends will learn with pleasure of his convalescence.

Alleged Cigar Swindlers Held

Albert Arey and Devoy Arey were arrested in St. Louis on October 11, charged with conspiring to defraud St. Louis cigar merchants.

It is alleged that they were accomplices of Manyard Williams, who was arrested in St. Louis a month ago by post office inspectors.

It is alleged by the post office that the gang had printed letter heads of responsible firms and then rented a post office box. After receiving goods by mail they would ship them to another city. It is claimed that this gang operated in a number of towns and cities adjacent to St. Louis.

Scarcity of Cigarmakers Felt—"Made In Bond" Law Causing Discussion—Proposed Strike "Busted Up" By Mayor

TAMPA, FLA., October 24.

As indicated in my last report, the deluge of orders seems to be growing heavier each succeeding day and I have not discovered a single manufacturer in the city, here, who has not all he can do to help keep abreast of the current. The shortage in cigarmakers is reported both from Ybor City and West Tampa, and 500 additional workmen could quickly find benches if they would put in an appearance.

Our manufacturers, one and all, are carefully studying the "made-in-bond" law, and I have it directly from Sanchez & Haya, Corral Wodiska, Cuesta Rey & Co., as well, of course, as Berriman Brothers, that they will immediately take advantage of the new law in its fullest sense.

The friends of Frank Struss, the popular bookkeeper for Samuel I. Davis & Co., were very glad to learn that he was successfully operated on last Tuesday for appendicitis. Mr. Struss is now in Gordon-Keller Hospital and is coming along splendidly.

Matthew W. Berriman, of Berriman Brothers, arrived here yesterday from New York, and will arrange with Manager Sanchez at once for their arrangement of their business under the "made-in-bond" law.

Simon Benjamin, manager of the Pinkussohn Cigar Company, at Jacksonville, has been visiting in this city this week, in company with R. B. Tuggle, of the Federal Cigar Company. Mr. Tuggle is opening up this market for the Federal Company's "Muriel" clear Havana goods and has been doing good work with Eli Witt, their local jobber.

Mayor McKay put a quick stop to the incipient strike at the Jose Escalante factory yesterday, by sending out the factory inspector to investigate the alleged claim that the Escalante factory was not sanitary. As a matter of fact, the factory has been so busy that the cigarmakers have had to keep right on the job, and this caused the dissatisfaction. The inspector reported that there was absolutely no grounds on the part of the cigarmakers, and with the ground cut from under their feet, they returned to work.

The Florida coupon law, which has been before the United States Court in Huntsville, Ala., was declared unconstitutional by Judge R. M. Call. As the law had never become effective, this decision ends it.

A. L. Cuesta, Jr., whose illness was reported in my last letter is rapidly convalescing at the Halycon Hospital and accompanied by his mother, will leave for Atlanta in a few days for a long rest.

Val. G. Keogh is expected here in a few days to visit the Gunst factory in connection with his new position in the selling department of that firm. Mr. Keogh is well known here, and rated a very fine salesman.

Twenty of our leading members of the Board of Trade will leave to-morrow for the Southern Commercial Congress, which will be held in Mobile. A. L. Cuesta has been particularly active in promoting this big delegation from this city.

The Tampa-Cuba Cigar Company, who manufacture the "Tacu" and other brands, especially for the drug trade, have just purchased a site in West Tampa for a new factory, capable of turning out at least 40,000,000 cigars a year. The Tampa-Cuba Company, since its organization two years ago, has proven a wonderful success and earned something like 20 per cent. on its stock. They estimate that the output for this year will amount to 18,000,000 cigars.

PERFECTO.

Cigar Box Company's Anniversary

This firm was established by A. C. Parker, and at his death it was taken over by Mueller & Son, of Milwaukee, who sent Julius Tisch to Grand Rapids to manage it. Three years later Julius and Emil Tisch purchased the business from Mueller & Son, and have conducted it since with Emil Tisch as active manager.

Twenty years ago, the factory employed five hands, and the business was purchased for $4000. Today the industry requires between forty and fifty hands to operate its machinery, and is capitalized at $30,000.

Notes of the Trade

Cigars and tobaccos are carried by Angelo Bosco, in connection with his grocery line, in the store recently opened in the Magnell Building, Main Street, Manchester, Conn.

P. J. Connelly, who conducts a retail store in addition to his cigar factory, is now carrying on his business in the building formerly occupied by the Cottage Hotel, at Fourth and Main Streets, De Kalb, Ill.

Having disposed of their jobbing stock of manufactured tobaccos, cigars and cigarettes, to local jobbers, F. H. Berning & Sons, one of the oldest chewing and smoking tobacco jobbing firms in Cincinnati, will in future devote their attention solely to the manufacturing of cigars.

It is reported that John W. Quille, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., a tobacco salesman, who is well known in the northern section, which he has traveled for many years, has opened a cigar factory at No. 16 Lake Street, that city.

In a voluntary petition in bankruptcy recently filed in the Federal District Court, Robert H. Shackelford, a leaf tobacco dealer, of Richmond, Va., lists his liabilities at $1860.60, with no assets.

The cigar factory of John H. Freund is now located in McHenry, Ill., the J. C. Dahl cigar factory, which he formerly occupied at Richmond, having been visited by fire, necessitating the change.

A new cigar and tobacco store, to be known as "The Dash," was recently opened by L. F. Farran at 319 First Street, Marysville, Cal.

The Monte Carlo cigar stand, Bakersfield, Cal., formerly conducted by Johnny Swett, has passed into the possession of Ezra Rehfeld, who is planning a number of improvements, it being his intention to place the store in the first class. Mr. Rehfeld states that he will carry the best grades of goods only.

Numerous duplicate orders on "44" cigars have been the result of the visit of W. H. Nicholson with his specialty man, N. I. Rayfield, to the Flat Top Grocery Co., Bluefield, W. Va.

TRADE REPORTS FROM THE CONSULS

(From the Daily Consular and Trade Reports)

CHINA.

Vice Consul General M. S. Myers, of Mukden, reports that the tobacco yield of that section of China was very good, but that the products suffered somewhat from the early frost. The region about Shan Cheng Tzu, which is about one hundred and twenty-five miles to the northeast of Mukden, and the upper Sungari Valley are the principal growing districts. The city of Kirin is the chief center of the tobacco trade; other centers are Shan Cheng Tzu and Mukden. The volume of tobacco annually handled in Mukden ranges between 7,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds. The value of the 1912 crop for the whole of Manchuria is estimated at about $4,000,000. The principal markets for Manchurian tobacco are the three Provinces of Manchuria, and Chihli and Shantung Provinces. The bean and tobacco crops are the leading money crops of Manchuria.

NORTHERN CHINA.

This section has enjoyed a prosperous year, according to information furnished by Consul General S. S. Knabenshue, at Tientsin. He reports that the importation of cigarettes in Tientsin in 1912 increased nearly eighty-two per cent. About half of these imports came from Great Britain, about a quarter from Japan, and most of the remainder from the United States.

MIDDLE CHINA.

Consul General Roger S. Greene, at Hankow, writes that the quantity of cigarettes imported in 1912 was 360,823 mille, as against 266,754 mille in 1911, which was, in turn, an increase over previous years. Of this value ninety-four per cent. represented what the customs classify as cigarettes of the second quality, most of which were made in England from American tobacco.

In 1912 the British Cigarette Co. completed a large new plant near Hankow for curing Chinese tobacco for use in the company's cigarette factories in various parts of China and Chosen (Korea). The company is now endeavoring to improve the quality of Chinese tobacco, particularly that grown up the Han River, in the northwestern part of Hupeh Province. Tobacco seed has been brought from the United States for distribution to the farmers, and an American expert on methods of cultivating and curing tobacco has been sent out to give the farmers suggestions and to cultivate a small plat as a model. According to latest reports the Chinese have been receiving favorably the assistance which the company has been offering them.

The large cigarette factory at Hankow has been working regularly. According to the customs, the shipments of cigarettes from this port in 1912 were about twice those in 1911. As most of the output of the local factory is shipped to other parts of the country, the export figures will give a rough idea of the extent of its business. The cigarette business is entirely in the hands of the British-American interests.

SICILY.

Concerning imports from the United States into Sicily, Consul Hernando de Soto, Palermo, Italy, sends a report showing that the total imports of 1912 over 1911 show a gain of approximately $550,000, including articles from Porto Rico. The value of tobacco and cigarettes imported during 1912 is valued at $601,263, and of this sum $480,218 is credited to the United States. This is a little more than seventy-nine per cent. of the whole.

The rapid gain in the tobacco and cigarette trade may be easily figured when the above totals are compared with those of 1911. In that year the total imports of tobacco and cigarettes were valued at $247,057, of which the United States is credited with $180,861, which was about seventy-three per cent. of the whole.

PERSIA.

Regarding Persian trade with the United States, Consul Gordon Paddock, at Tabriz, sends a report showing that the tobacco exports to this country in 1910-11 amount to only $281, while 1911-12 shows a total of $3581, an increase of $3300.

Most of the Persian tobacco is grown in the provinces bordering the Caspian Sea and shipped from Resht, but a superior quality of tobacco, known as "Novtscha," is now produced in the Urumia district of the province of Azerbaidjan from seed imported from Kurdistan in Asia Minor.

AUSTRALIA.

There has been a large increase in the imports of merchandise into Australia over 1911, says Consul General W. C. Magelssen, at Melbourne, which resulted in an unfavorable trade balance, and which has presumably been a leading factor conducing to the prevailing stringency in the money markets.

The imports of tobacco into Victoria, Australia, during 1912 were valued at $2,064,233, and of this amount $1,548,759 worth was from the United States, or about seventy-five per cent. of the whole. Tobacco exported from this port during the same year was valued at $382,167.

SWEDEN.

Consul General Ernest L. Harris, at Stockholm, advises that during the past few years numerous foreign cigarette firms have come to Sweden and erected factories in order to avoid paying the custom duties levied on imported cigarettes. As a rule these factories are established for the express purpose of manufacturing some particular brand that has become well known throughout the world. The industry, on the whole, has been exceedingly prosperous, although the large number of firms and factories striving for a share of the market has made competition very keen. An idea of how sharp the competition is may be seen from the fact that one factory has offered to a local wholesale dealer cigarettes at seventy cents per thousand.

Ten years ago a well known Finnish company erected a factory at Sodertalge, near Stockholm, and since then has sold no less than 717,300,000 of a special brand of cigarette. For the first six months of 1913 its sales amounted to 56,500,000.

About four years ago the British-American Tobacco Co. erected a factory in Stockholm for the production of cigarettes only. Among other foreign firms represented by factories in Sweden is the Egyptian "Khedive" and a Danish company in Malmo. It is also expected that a prominent Russian firm doing a large business with Sweden will soon build a factory in Stockholm.

The present Swedish duty on imported leaf tobacco is 12.16 cents per pound. To make one pound of cigarettes it is necessary to have practically one pound of raw tobacco, and there is therefore a saving of thirty-six cents a pound through manufacturing them within the Kingdom, for the import duty on cigarettes is 48.53 cents a pound. There has been some discussion in the Swedish Parliament as to the feasibility of increasing the duty on raw tobacco, but fears have been expressed that should such action be taken the earnings of the cigarette factories might be affected to such an extent as to react to the detriment of the wage earners.

MEXICO.

Consul General Arnold Shanklin, at Mexico City, advises that the leaf tobacco exports of that country are gradually falling off on account of the constantly growing demands of the home market and the fact that Mexico now possesses some of the largest and best equipped cigarette factories in the world. These factories are now increasing their use of the home-grown tobacco, the quality of which, of late, has shown considerable improvement.

VENEZUELA

Consul Thomas W. Voetter, writing from La Guaira, regarding the value of imports into Venezuela for 1912, shows that the total amount of tobacco and its products brought in was valued at $13,519. Of this sum the United States received $5171, Germany $2946 and Great Britain $2392, all other countries $3010.

Plans Larger Factory

Immediately upon his return from abroad, August Sensenbrenner, a cigar manufacturer of San Diego, Cal., announced his intention of preparing for an enlargement of his factory. It is said that a new building with double the capacity of the present one will soon be erected.

While abroad, Mr. Sensenbrenner visited the tobacco market at Amsterdam and made large purchases of Sumatra leaf which is now on its way to his factory.

"Montana Sports" To Have Larger Home

The largest cigar factory in the State of Montana is being anticipated by the city of Livingston, where the alterations and additions to the Garnier factory, producing "Montana Sports," will soon have a capacity surpassing that of any cigar factory in Montana.

With the additional space and machines provided, the capacity of the output of the factory will be about 60,000 cigars a week.

The members of the firm making "Montana Sports" are Charles Garnier, Sr., and Charles Garnier, Jr. They are having no trouble in creating a market for the brand, but have been handicapped by lack of room to care for the rapidly increasing trade.

The "Montana Sport" cigar has attained a high reputation as a good smoke and is known throughout Montana and adjoining states. The two proprietors spend their time looking after the interests of their product.

The House of Quality, Los Angeles

THE word "Quality" has an alluring sound to the smoker who chooses his brands with care, and the smoke shop in Los Angeles, known as "The House of Quality," carries a full line of brands that lives up to the demands of the name.

Charles Gensler, who is manager of this stand, has the reputation of giving unequalled service, courtesy and reliable smokes to his many patrons.

It is easy to understand why the "House of Quality," located at 215 South Spring Street, is rapidly growing in patronage and prosperity.

Chicago

Protest Against Lighted Smokes In Cars—Business Is Steady and Competition Keen—New Cuban Consulate Open

CHICAGO, ILL., October 27, 1913.

NOW that the season of the closed street car has been ushered in with a blizzard that went its way in a few hours, attention is directed to the many protests appearing in the daily papers lately against the practice of carrying lighted cigars into the cars. The average cigar smoker who intends to travel but a few blocks dislikes to give up his weed and therefore carries it with him into the car, there to burn and smolder, much to the annoyance of the nostrils of other passengers.

There is an ordinance against the practice and the street car companies have rules about it, but neither is enforced, much to the joy of the smoker and the annoyance of the non-smoker. "Veritas," "Pro Bono Publico" and others of like ilk, have been having their say about it in the papers, but nothing has come of the agitation.

Chicago is not one of the "open car" cities, anyway, the closed vehicles being operated preponderatingly throughout the year. The smoking habit has not been specially noticed during the summer, with the windows open, but the cool days of the fall have caused the windows to be closed and the consequent protests. A few nights ago a young lady's wrap was set on fire by a half-burned stub and only prompt action by fellow passengers prevented perhaps serious damage. As it was, the young woman's wrap was ruined and the offending smoker promised to buy her another.

There is nothing exciting about the tobacco trade here just now. Business is, perhaps, normal, but that is all that can be said for it. Competition is keen, prices are being cut and every fellow is out for himself. Both jobbers and retailers say business is not as good as they expected and in the next breath declare that orders are plentiful and that everyone is happy. It seems to be a case of paying one's money and taking one's choice. Certainly the field is well-filled and smokers cannot complain of lack of places in which to buy their favorite brands. Chicago has the reputation of being a dirty city because of the smoke from its stacks, but not all the smoke comes from stacks by any means. It is one of the largest tobacco consuming centers in the United States and its tobacco merchants do a volume of business that is staggering in its figures. Just now things seem to be resting for the rush before the holidays, with everybody in the business alert to get his share of the business when the rush does set in.

Disheartened by several months' ill health, Solomon E. Hanoch, head of a cigar manufacturing firm at 203 East Thirty-seventh Street, committed suicide in his bedroom a day or two ago by firing a bullet into his temple. He was dead before the officers and a physician arrived. Hanoch lived at 200 East Thirty-seventh Street, a few steps from his manufacturing plant, where he had been in the morning for a final survey of his business affairs. His wife said his affairs were in good shape and attributed his suicide entirely to illness.

The United Cigar Stores has begun another of its periodical cigarette specials, this time featuring the "Oxford," a Khedivial production, at ten cents, offering extra certificates as an inducement to buy. All of the Chicago stores have large displays of the cigarettes in the windows.

Charles L. Miller, whose place of business is on Jackson Boulevard at one of the busiest sections of the city, much of the east and west traffic passing by his door, has added the "Magno" Havana line to his offerings, the goods being from the factory of L. Sanchez & Co. Mr. Miller has been at French Lick Springs for two weeks, but is again at the store in active charge of things. He is featuring "James Stuart," of Francisco Bolano & Co.; "Tasso," of P. Verplanck & Co., and "El Estio," of Barron Bros.

Best & Russell stores continue to feature "Abbey" ten-cent cigars as a part of their window displays and are also paying much attention to the "Owl" five-cent goods.

Howard Hews, recently appointed receiver of William E. Ward, the well known cigar dealer at 23 East Van Buren Street, who went into bankruptcy, has found tentative assets approximating $7000 and liabilities a little in excess of $6000. It is doubtful if the assets will realize the above figure at market sale. Mr. Ward has the sympathy of the trade in his difficulty, as he has always been one of the most highly regarded men here in the business. There is a general hope that he will be enabled to renew his business alliances.

Headquarters for the new Cuban consulate have been opened in suite 16, Security Building, southeast corner Madison Street and Fifth Avenue. T. Estrada Palma is the new consul.

Robert Brunton, a late addition to the selling staff of Grommes & Elson, is covering Iowa and Illinois and specializing on "Ben Bey" Havana cigars. He is meeting with splendid success for these fine goods.

Jack Tobias, member of the firm of A. M. Tobias & Co., cigar dealers at 313 East Fifty-fifth Street, is being congratulated by all of his friends, his engagement having been announced to marry Miss Irma Oppman.

Albert Breitung has obtained the cigar and tobacco concession in the Corn Exchange Building at Adams and La Salle Streets. This is store No. 10 in Mr. Breitung's string of smokeries and will be located in the rotunda of the building.

Peter Wohl, of the Wohl & Comstock Co., has returned from a trip to Cuba, where he made extensive purchases of Vuelta Abajo for "Evangelina Cisneros" cigars, the factory brand.

G. W. WHITCOMB.

May Close for Lack of Hands

The Brudno Cigar Company, of Ashtabula, O., has made a statement to the effect that if they cannot obtain sufficient hands within sixty days, the factory will be closed and moved away.

Every effort has been made by the Brudno Company to secure help; advertising space has been used liberally, circulars and cards have been sent out, and the newspapers of the city have made appeals but to no avail.

The Greenlund school law has operated to some extent against this firm securing help, but it is the belief of the Brudnos that there are plenty of boys and girls over school age who need employment. It is pointed out that a boy or girl, even inexperienced, can make fair wages, while those who become proficient should earn at least $10 a week.

San Francisco

Portola Carnival Now On—Jobbers Have Put Up Attractive Window Displays—Manufacturers Getting Home From Eastern Trips—"Flor de Moss" To Be In Window Features

SAN FRANCISCO, October 20, 1913.

This is pre-eminently the retailer's week. The Portola Carnival, to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean, does not officially begin until Wednesday, but the retail cigar men are pleased to note that strangers are coming in freely already, and that not a few of these are smokers of good cigars. The week opened well and the trade is hopeful of one of the best weeks of the entire year. The jobbing trade, which last week was very lively as far as city trade was concerned, has eased off some, the needs of the retailers having apparently been satisfied for the time being. Traveling men in nearby territory have been called in, in a good many cases, as it is thought that a great many outside dealers will be in the city this week and next, and help will be in demand at the wholesale houses.

Some very attractive window displays have been put in by jobbers and manufacturers' representatives. The El Sidelo people have put in a number of handsome windows at various retail stores; and the Sanchez & Haya windows have already attracted a lot of attention. M. A. Gunst & Co. have put in a lot of nice windows in their own stores, some of them especially of a Portola order and some merely to win trade. One of the latter is their "Ten Cent Straight Selections." This is somewhat on the order of their big hit of a few weeks since, entitled, "What a Nickel Will Buy." The ten cent straight window contains an attractive showing of "Van Dyck," "Solace" and "Robert Burns" cigars and "London Sherbet Mixture" tobacco.

Joe Hartman, who has been the specialty man for Seidenberg & Co. on the "Roi-Tan" line, has resigned his position with that house. He is uncertain whether or not he will remain here or return to the Salt Lake section, where he was formerly located.

Sam Caro, traveling representative of Mendel & Co., is now here on his regular Coast trip, having come down from the Pacific Northwest early in the week.

Charles H. Knubel and E. C. Hull, the California Street brokers, are still out in their Northern territory and will not be back in San Francisco before the end of November, according to present countings. Mr. Knubel is in Butte, Mont., and Mr. Hull in Spokane, Wash.

The new establishment of the S. Bachman Cigar Co. at Los Angeles is to be formally opened about the end of the week, and M. Falkenstein, who is a member of the new corporation, but makes his headquarters in San Francisco, is in the South supervising the work.

Robert J. Boltz, of Boltz, Clymer & Co., is expected in a day or two on a visit to the San Francisco office.

Several cigar and tobacco men who have been traveling among the Eastern factories are now getting back to their offices. Among them are T. W. Harris, head of the Tobacco Co. of California; Henry Bohls, of H. Bohls & Co., the local tobacco and cigarette manufacturers, who is making short visits in several Northwestern cities on his way home from New York, and D. Frankel, of Frankel, Gerdts & Co., who has reached Los Angeles and will be here in a day or two.

Julius Unger, for some time manager for M. A. Gunst & Co. in the Hawaiian Islands, returned a few days ago from his farewell trip to Honolulu, and is leaving to take up his new position as manager for the company at Seattle, Wash. Morgan Gunst is temporarily taking charge of the Los Angeles branch.

R. V. Morrison, representing the Cayey-Caguas line, has been calling on the local trade for the last week.

I. Danziger, the local cigar broker, is entertaining S. Harris, a veteran of the Nevada trade, who has come down for the Portola.

Frank Garcia, head of F. A. Garcia & Bro., has just left by the Southern route, after spending several days in San Francisco and Portland, Ore.

S. Hoffman & Son, the Polk Street retailers, are branching out, having opened a branch stand at Polk and Sacramento Streets, a block above their present location.

W. H. Scothorne, the popular cigar man of Mission and 22nd Streets, was married recently to Miss Annie C. Lynch, of this city.

Ezra Rehfeld, well known in Bakersfield, Cal., as a promoter of boxing contests, has bought out the Monte Carlo cigar store of that place, formerly owned by Johnny Swett, and is making a number of improvements.

A new local corporation is the Sanchez-Martinez Cigar Co., organized by A. L. Harris, D. A. and J. I. Hennessey, with a capital of $25,000.

W. S. Tisdel, representing the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., has just left for the Philippines, intending to study market conditions with reference to plug tobacco and cigarettes.

Tillmann & Bendel, agents for the "Sanchez & Haya," "La Turina" and several other well-known lines, have been getting in a large supply of holiday packages, which are already going out rapidly. They have done considerable work in preparation for the Portola festival, and their goods are accordingly having a great sale this week. A part of the work, the effect of which will be more than temporary, is the placing of many fine window displays featuring special sizes of Sanchez & Haya goods, both here and in Oakland.

H. H. Manley, representing the American Cigar Co. on the Coast, is now visiting the Northern cities. On his return from a trip to Los Angeles early this month he was very well pleased with the business and outlook for his lines in the southern part of the State.

Marc Brummer, of the Regensberg factory, is in San Francisco this week visiting with Charles Mattheas & Co., the distributors of the American line of goods.

Louis Erdt, of "Melachrino" and "Nestor" fame, is in San Francisco this week calling on the trade and seeing that his lines are put well to the front during the carnival days.

M. A. Gunst & Co. are still selling "Alhambra" Manila cigars and are keeping well sold up to arrivals. Another shipment of 700,000 is due this week.

Pittsburgh Stogie Strike Settled

The strike of the 1100 members of the Tobacco Workers' Union, No. 1, of the I. W. W., of Pittsburgh, Pa., after almost four months of bitter struggling has at last been settled. The strike started on July 1st.

The workers have resumed in the factory following the agreement of the manufacturers to the following terms: Recognition of the Industrial Workers of the World; better sanitary conditions in factories; weekly pays; no profane language in shops; no children hired against child-labor laws; 54 working hours a week, instead of 60 and 70; a grievance committee of three union representatives and three manufacturers authorized to settle all trouble, and wage increases.

Selak & Hoffman Incorporate

Selak & Hoffman, located at 413 Market Street, Wilmington, Del., manufacturing the "Escanaba" and "Patriarch" brands, have recently changed their title to Selak & Hoffman, Inc., with A. W. Selak, president; John B. Hoffman, vice-president and treasurer, and John B. Phillips, secretary of the new organization.

Toledo

A. J. Seifert Withdrawing From Manufacturing Business —Toledo Club to Erect New Home at Cost of $300,000 —Large Freight Robberies Uncovered

TOLEDO, O., October 28, 1913.

With the cigarmakers still protesting that A. J. Seifert, cigar manufacturer at 428 Front Street, discharged one of his men not for incompetency but because he did not want to pay the union scale, Mr. Seifert still adheres to his position that he has gone out of the cigar manufacturing business. The contention of the cigarmakers that Mr. Seifert is still buying more stock is denied by Mr. Seifert, who says that he has returned goods ordered for cigars. "I have merely stopped the manufacture of cigars, but will continue the sale of tobacco," he said. "The revenue books will show the situation conclusively. I will gradually close out my stock and quit." Mr. Seifert has been in business for nineteen years.

The Toledo Club will erect one of the finest clubhouses in the country at the corner of Madison and Fourteenth Streets. It will cost $300,000. There will be five stores and basement, and will take fourteen months to complete. Meanwhile, the club will make their headquarters at the Secor Hotel.

Marshall Sheppey, manager of Berdan & Co., has returned from an extended tour of Europe, including England, Scotland, France, Austria and Germany. Mrs. Sheppey accompanied him.

George F. Feilbach accompanied the Toledo Association of Credit Men to Detroit recently to attend a dinner given in their honor by the Detroit Credit Men's Association.

Detailed working of an organized system of freight robbery that has cost the railroads approximately $400,000 in stolen merchandise during the last nine months were recently disclosed by the police department. More than fifty thousand cigarettes were identified, to say nothing of many shipments of cigars and tobacco.

Premiums and Novelties Spokes in the Wheels of Business

THE rapidly-growing struggle among the manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, for the supremacy of their respective brands, has led to the use of novelties and premiums in quantities, and to an extent, never before known in the history of the trade.

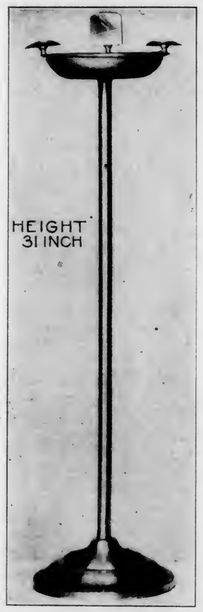
The retailer has found the use of smokers' articles a most productive method of popularizing his shop and boosting his brands. Competition is stronger than ever before and the use of alluring articles for the "den" or smoking room, given as premiums or as advertising novelties, is proving a most healthy way of encouraging trade and making new friends for the store.

We believe that our readers will be specially interested in a series of brief descriptions of articles that may be used in the tobacco trade in one way or another. We have secured the co-operation of many of the manufacturers in giving their products an introduction to the tobacco manufacturers and retailers, who desire to stimulate the sale of their goods.

There are some articles that may prove too expensive for premium use, but they will be found to be popular with the consumer if offered over the counter at retail. No "smokeshop," today, is complete without a good line of smokers' accessories.

Full information as to prices and quantities may be secured from the manufacturers, whose addresses are given in every case. We will consider it a favor if, when writing, you mention that your attention has been directed to the articles by THE TOBACCO WORLD.

Live retailers who are anxious to show something new to their customers in the line of smokers' articles, are constantly watching the products of the novelty factories.



Herewith is illustrated an all solid brass smoking stand with a removable glass bowl, an article that is attractive in any home, useful and decorative. It gives comfort, convenience and ease to the smoker after his day's work is done and he settles down in an easy chair to enjoy his after-dinner cigar or pipe.

Solid brass ash trays with extra trays, for use in card games or at any stag gathering, porcelain tobacco jars, cigarette humidors, cigar humidors, pocket lighters, penknives, cigar cutters, cigarette cases, and a hundred other novelties of the finest workmanship and material, are among the products of the factory turning out the smoking stand illustrated herewith.

Any dealer will be well repaid by investigating this line of goods, with a view of attracting the holiday trade. All the articles mentioned above can be advantageously sold over the counter of the retailer, and at this season of the year the prospect for trade of this sort is particularly alluring.

The firm manufacturing and importing the above line is Bayer & Pretzfelder, located at 5 East Seventeenth Street, New York City.

An exceedingly popular form of advertising, and one that is of particular interest to the tobacco trade, is the use of the safety match.

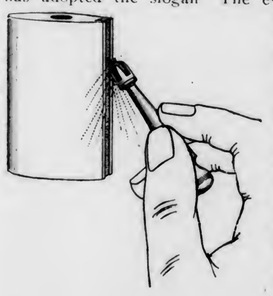
When one considers the continual demand for "a match," it is not hard to see the tremendous circulation and benefit accruing therefrom, to those who use safety matches as a form of advertising.

There are about sixty matches to a box and an ad on the box has a chance to be read that number of times before it is thrown away. When the box is passed around, as it is many times, every man who handles it is sure to read the ad. A box of matches to a customer is sure to have your ad read on it many times before it has passed from usefulness. Who ever heard of a man throwing away a box of matches? Nobody. The box stays in the pocket until the last match is used.

A box of safety matches with the business card on it, carries much further and brings greater results than a card which is quickly soiled and thrown away. The day of the safety match for general use has arrived. Nine out of every ten men you will meet carry a box. The unhandy parlor match has long since passed into decay so far as the smoker is concerned.

To give you an idea of the wonderful field that the safety match covers, interested persons should write to the Paul Masson Co., 104 South Gay Street, Baltimore, Md., for their booklet called, "Every Match is an Ad." Don't miss reading it!

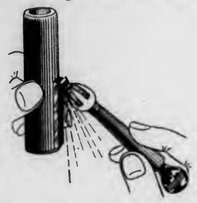
A new type of pocket cigar lighter lately on the market is the Auermetall Jr. Lighter. The firm producing this has adopted the slogan "The everlast ever-lasting iron match," and it would seem to fit this type of lighter very nicely.



Its manufacturers claim for it that it cannot get out of order as it has no mechanical parts; there are no wicks to renew; it cannot light in the pocket, nor can it open; its weight is one ounce; it is abraided like a match and can be used as a torch.

Under the Auermetall name this company puts out a Midget Lighter which embodies all the salient features of the larger type but weighs only one-half an ounce.

Both these lighters are sold under the guarantee of the patentee and manufacturer for any length of time, if directions are followed.



There is is question but what the pocket cigar lighter is growing in favor with smokers, and up-to-the-minute cigar dealers are keeping in touch with the manufacturers in order to have their smokers' line modern in every respect.

The Auermetall Lighters, which retail at a very reasonable price, are manufactured by the Treibacher Chemical Works, 317 East Thirty-fourth Street, New York City.

There are many lines of metal ash trays on the market today, and almost all of them are proving of particular value to the retail cigar trade as well as to the jobbing houses. The former can use them to retail over the counter as a premium, while the latter find it advantageous to supply them as souvenirs to hotels, cafes, etc., that are handling their brands.

It is a question whether any of them combine so much in the way of appearance, service and value as the line of Twisco Combination Ash Trays here illustrated.

The tray shown here is all brass with a removable or permanent glass center as desired, and a felt base preventing scratching of the desk or table. This handy article is at once an ash tray, a cigar rest, match box holder and paper weight, and is efficient for all these purposes. An advertisement can be placed beneath the glass center if desired, and it shows up splendidly.

Some manufacturers and retailers have already used these trays to an advantage, and others interested in the Twisco line will receive additional information if they address The Twisted Wire & Steel Co., Metal Specialty Dept., 515-21 Greenwich Street, New York City.

The makers of silverware, in both solid and plated goods, have long provided a line of novelties in the way of smokers' sets, tobacco jars and service trays, which are most interesting in their variety, and make a quick appeal to high-class consumers. The International Silver Co., of Meriden, Conn., turn out an especially attractive line of silver-plated smoking sets. We show herewith, their smoking set No. 172, which is composed of four pieces—a cigar holder, match holder, ash receiver and tray. These are all silver-plated with gold linings, making a handsome centre table ornament. Such a set as this sells almost on sight at a good margin of profit.

The same company have a line of tobacco jars which merit a great deal of attention. Illustrated herewith, is their tobacco jar No. 803, on a one-third scale, which is appropriately decorated and is a handsome ornament. It has a beaded rim and silver-mounted cover, being listed at $5. Dealers interested in this line of novelties should address the International Silver Co., at Meriden, Conn., for their elaborate catalogue.

"Knox County" Cigars Booming

Jacob Augustine, who makes the "Knox County" cigars, located at Bloomfield, Neb., reports that business in that section is excellent. Fourteen months ago he started making this brand at the rate of 1500 a week, and the demand has increased to the point where he is now turning out 5000 a week. He says he could do a still larger business, but that scarcity of labor has handicapped him.

Mr. Augustine has had a run of misfortune during the past six months which would have completely downed a man of less sterling worth. Last April his factory was visited by fire, and after he had collected the insurance, he found that it only amounted to one-third of his total loss. Within six weeks, a cloudburst in Nebraska visited the town and totally destroyed all of his leaf tobacco stock. With honesty and energy as an asset, Mr. Augustine went to work to recoup his fortunes, and he now advises us that he is quite on his feet and paying dollar for dollar upon demand.

His cigar business is booming and the "Knox County" brand is well distributed in the territory around Bloomfield.

Mr. Augustine asks "The Tobacco World" to make public acknowledgment of his thanks to the leaf men who helped him along in his difficulties.

G. W. Zander, Oklahoma, son of M. Zander, under whose direction he is working, is meeting with much success in the distribution of "44" cigars in that territory.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Pennsylvania Crops Practically All Cut—North Carolina Sales Break All September Records—Big Buyers Keep Out of Wisconsin Fields—Fancy Prices Being Paid For Burley Crops

PENNSYLVANIA

LANCASTER, PA.

Practically all the tobacco that is of any consequence is cut and the bulk of the 1913 crop is now under cover. That which was properly ripened when put away is taking on a good brown color already. The quality is reported to be good, but the quantity is a disappointment, as the crop is only about one-half that of 1912.

Late planting, severe heat, together with wind and storms ruined hundreds of acres and this has had quite a discouraging effect on the growers. But despite this fact there is likely to be a largely increased acreage of Havana next year, and everyone is anxious to secure good seed.

No Pennsylvania broadleaf has yet been sold, but some Havana has changed hands at prices ranging between 13½ cents and 15 cents a pound. Some of the hail-cut leaf brought between 3 and 5 cents a pound. It is not thought that any more Havana will be sold as low as the prices mentioned.

There are as yet no buyers in the field and if the extensive manufacturers who were active in buying during the last few years do not crop up there is likely to be a lull.

The uncertain crop has had an adverse influence on early buying, and in addition the fact that much of it was cut green, it will require more care in the buying of it.

Criticism is offered that the crops are not receiving the care that they did years ago, and the handlers are replying by saying that this is due to the fact that the buyers have been taking the good, bad and indifferent at the packers' prices, just as they went along.

The 1912 packing is being sampled and is pronounced of excellent quality. None has been sold yet and the trade is therefore unable to gauge the prices that it will bring.

The 1911 goods have practically been cleaned up by the recent sales. However, there is still some of the 1909 goods hanging around, and the dealers are refusing 11 to 12 cents a pound for it, with the idea that better offers will come.

KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Reports show that seventy-two per cent. of the Burley tobacco is already in the house and is curing fairly well. The general impression seems to be that the crop will be very short and that what there is will not be of an extra quality.

Kentucky farmers have been hit very hard by the drouth this season and all crops have suffered without exception. Reports of the condition of the Burley crop, as handed in from thirty-four counties, shows eight poor, four mixed, four fair, seventeen good, and one county, Trimble, excellent. The yield is averaged at sixty per cent.

The weed that is left in the field is developing fast and should make an excellent grade of heavy, dark tobacco. Buyers are invading the fields endeavoring to pick the best of the season's crop, but it is considered a little too early for judging.

LEXINGTON, KY.

Tobacco growers in this section have practically finished housing the weed, and are now busy sowing a cover crop of rye or wheat. The tobacco is doing fairly well in the matter of curing, but there is some that has house-burned badly.

The cool weather caused a general rush on the part of the tobacco growers to cut and house their tobacco, and only a few crops are left standing here and there.

Notwithstanding the fact that the tobacco is not yet cured, buyers are offering fancy prices for the harvests. The increased price of tobacco has caused the farmers to take a greater interest in that crop, and there are many who abandoned it who now intend to enter the field again.

WEST VIRGINIA

WHEELING, W. VA.

According to all reports the tobacco crop in West Virginia this season will be the finest grade ever produced, and it is estimated that the offerings will approximate 11,000,000 pounds during the fall and winter.

Throughout the State tobacco is being stripped preparatory to the opening of the local market, which will take place either late in November or the first of December. It seems likely that good prices will be secured and quite unlikely that there will be much of the "sky-rocket" bidding such as occurred last season. One thing is certain, and that is that prices will be more uniform.

The danger of frost and house-burning is past, so that the condition of the crop should be excellent. Indications are that the conditions of the crop in this State will have something to do with general conditions, judging from the queries coming in from large concerns regarding it.

WISCONSIN.

EDGERTON, WIS.

The weather during the past week has been more favorable for the curing of the late shedded tobacco, and it is likely that a few more days of good weather will place the late crop beyond all possible chance of damage.

The harvest this year extended a week or so later than the average season, which has added additional risk to the curing of the crop. Fortunately the warm, dry days that we are having will help considerably in bringing about the curing so much desired. As at least one-fourth of the crop is affected by the weather now, every day of good weather means much to the grower.

The sampling and cleaning of last year's packing is not yet finished and but few of the samples have yet been shown in the eastern markets.

As yet the buyers of big firms, who generally purchase the bulk of the crop, have been kept out of the field. Considerable riding has been done by the smaller operators, and it is claimed that contracts have been placed for about two thousand acres. It is probable that more would have been placed had the growers been agreeable to accepting figures that range around eleven cents.

A few lots of 1912 have been marketed at a fair price, but the demand is strong for binder of any description.

THE CAROLINAS.

WILSON, N. C.

The sales of tobacco on North Carolina floors in September amounted approximately to $10,000,000 and the total number of pounds which changed hands is given as 47,344,030. The enormous sales broke all September records and it is said that something like twenty per cent. of the markets are not included in this report, so that when all figures are in there will probably be other records broken as well.

The biggest sales, of course, were at Wilson, with Kinston next. It is a significant fact that the biggest sales were in towns in the eastern part of the state, where the cultivation of tobacco is a comparatively new crop. It is said that tobacco prices have ranged high this year throughout the state notwithstanding the unusually large crop.

Tobacco men will be surprised to find how rapidly the crop is being sold. Sales are being made rapidly and the breaks are large. The reason for this is that there is a fine manufacturing crop and prices are high. The big breaks will be over soon and then everyone will be wondering where the tobacco went so soon.

Wrappers are very scarce and their appearance brings for them, according to quality, etc., from twenty to sixty cents a pound.

Warehousemen estimate that the market will sell 20,000,000 pounds this year, which will put them at the head of the state markets. About sixty-five per cent. of the crop has been sold and the balance has in the neighborhood of three or four months to get to the market. At present the price is averaging about twenty-one cents a pound.

FLORENCE, S. C.

Tobacco sales in South Carolina have established a record this year, exceeding 33,000,000 pounds to date, with an average price per pound that is higher than any of the previous three years.

During the crop season there have been 19 markets and 42 warehouses in operation and during the month of September there were 18 markets and 40 warehouses.

Judging from reports there will be a still greater acreage in South Carolina next year. The business men of Cheraw are practically certain of tobacco growing in that section next season, and an effort is being made to establish a market at Georgetown in connection with the further cultivation of tobacco in that vicinity.

No doubt there will be several new markets in South Carolina next year.

VIRGINIA

RICHMOND, VA.

Weather conditions have held back the deliveries to the warehousemen, as it has been fine for crops, and the farmers have been devoting the good days to sowing. The bright leaf markets are receiving plenty of tobacco and it is bringing good prices.

Goods offered the warehousemen while not in the best of order, had good color, although the leaf was a trifle thin. Lower grades of sun-cured goods seemed to comprise most of the stock, while there were some late primings.

Business is active in bright flue-cured goods. The old stock is about exhausted, and the dealers are selling the re-dried and repacked brights of the present year's crop.

Complaint is offered that while the bright goods are all right in body and texture, they are somewhat off color, and this has caused an additional demand for the better colored brights of last season. The late buyer will have to stand for a good price when he tries to purchase the high-colored goods of 1912.

CONNECTICUT

SUFFIELD, CONN.

The weather of the past week has furnished an opportunity to the growers for them to get down their primed tobacco. Some of the stalk cut has also been taken from the poles.

When the sun shines there is a rush of tobacco men to get their sheds open so that the dampness of the recent murky spell will have a chance to dry out of the tobacco. There are no signs of pole sweat and the crops are curing in an excellent manner.

There has been a lull in buying. Some purchases have been made, but at lower prices than the first sales, and the buyers are still looking all around. Everything points to a good wrapper crop.

First Selectman F. Howard Ensign, of East Hartford, who is also a tobacco grower, is engaged in the unusual occupation of harvesting his second crop of tobacco from the same plants. He cut his first crop about nine weeks ago, and imagine he was surprised soon afterwards to find new leaves sprouting out. The maturing leaves have been untouched by frost and are said to be of good size and quality.

Controlling Diseases That Injure Tobacco

It is of interest to the tobacco grower to know that the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture of the United States, is constantly devising, with the aid of its specialists, methods of controlling diseases that injure tobacco, and that recently important discoveries, of great value to the tobacco grower, have been made.

It is well for the farmer to bear in mind that field stations of this bureau are scattered throughout the country, and that one may be located near him where he may receive just the help he needs for the successful raising of his crop. The Bureau of Plant Industry gladly furnishes to any one who writes, information regarding its experiment stations.

"From Field to Factory"

"From Field to Factory," is the title of an interesting brochure recently issued by the Allen & Wheeler Co., of Troy, O., who are introducing tobacco direct to the manufacturer under the trade name of "Tawco."

The opening sentence quotes a statement from THE TOBACCO WORLD regarding the quality of Miami County grown cigar filler.

The introduction is followed by a detailed account of the processes through which the seed and its product passes until it is ready to be submitted for sampling.

Those not thoroughly acquainted with the various handlings of leaf tobacco, will find this "Tawco" brochure a valuable pamphlet to read thoroughly in a leisure moment.

Chance to Test Wisconsin Law

The recently enacted Paul Law will now have an opportunity to be tested if anyone so desires, owing to the disastrous storm which swept Vernon County during the middle of the month. According to estimates gathered, at least 200 tobacco sheds were razed, their contents scattered to the winds or submitted to a thorough soaking.

The law provides that the buyer shall pay the grower the agreed price at the date of contract, on delivery of the tobacco, without regard to what has happened to the tobacco during the interim from the date of contract to date of delivery, provided the imperfections that may be found are not caused by the willful neglect of the grower.

If the law means what it says, the farmers suffering from the storm, who have sold their crops, may still get the price agreed upon at the date of sale. Such being the case, what does a Wisconsin tobacco grower want of insurance; he doesn't even have to pay a premium for this protection.

Aside from the financial loss occasioned the farmers by this disaster, it will further curtail the supply of available 1913 binder leaf.

Heard Among Leaf Men

A. Cohn & Co. have opened their tobacco warehouse on Tolland Street, East Hartford, and will employ about 100 hands.

The recent warm spell had a tendency to start Connecticut leaf to moulding, but the sudden change prevented serious damage.

On October 13, Danville, Va., warehouses sold more than a million pounds of tobacco. This came on top of a week of record-breaking sales.

Most of the farmers in the vicinity of Durham have finished with their tobacco crops and it is thought that there will not be a leaf left by Christmas.

Very little choice leaf is making its appearance on the Cincinnati markets. The new crop of low quality leaf makes the packers think that by holding off a little they will obtain better prices for the old tobacco.

The Raleigh, N. C., Chamber of Commerce, has started a crusade for the re-establishment of a tobacco market in that city. Figures show that the production will warrant this market being re-opened.

Reports from Carlisle, Ky., show that prices are sky high, so to speak. Some of the best crops have brought $20 a hundred, while medium is bringing from $14 to $17 a hundred. Some of the finest harvests are being held for $25 a hundred.

The Kentucky law legalizing the pooling of tobacco has been attacked in a brief filed with the United States Supreme Court by a farmer convicted of violating a pooling agreement, as contrary to the Sherman Act. The conviction is being reviewed by the court.

Z. E. Richardson and Paul Pewitt, both of Bowling Green, Ky., who are on a tobacco inspection tour through the West, believe that tobacco can be made one of the regular crops of the State of Idaho. They have expressed the opinion that Utah and other inter-mountain states will prove equally favorable to the growth of the leaf.

Floyd County, Indiana, according to figures compiled by the State Statistician, for 1912, had ten acres of tobacco under cultivation, producing 4950 pounds. Switzerland County, which is next to the smallest in the state, had 2712 acres planted in tobacco, which resulted in a production of 2,460,100 pounds. The total acreage of Indiana for 1912 was 12,606 acres.

The leaf tobacco exhibit at the State Fair at Richmond, Va., was, according to growers and dealers, the "best ever," and many premiums went to the exhibitors. The exhibits of sun-cured and other dark goods were exceedingly large, completely overshadowing the meritorious displays of bright tobaccos.

H. D. Archibald, of Slaughterville, Ky., awoke on Monday morning, October 13, to find his enormous tobacco crop of 80,000 pounds soaring skyward in flames. Mr. Archibald places his loss at $14,000, with very little insurance. A few nights previous he found a warning regarding the marketing of his tobacco, tacked to his gate. He, therefore, believes the fire to have been of incendiary origin.

Pittsburgh

Preparing for the Holidays—Stogie Strike About Settled—Sales on "Jenkinson's Best" Growing—Business Good in the East End—Liggett & Myers Open Premium Store

PITTSBURGH, PA., October 23, 1913.

J. E. Bock, representing R. A. Bachia, New York, is going among the trade introducing a new package, 12 in a box, which sells for $1.

W. J. Schuch and A. A. Evans, of Bloch Bros., are working the downtown trade with a 10 per cent. rebate on 16 oz. "Mail Pouch," and are having a big run on the goods.

Mr. Wilson, of Bacharach & Co., Franklin, Pa., was in town this week selling the "La Famosa" and "Franklin" cigars.

H. O. Webb, formerly with Siller-Norten & Barnes, and Haworth & Dewhurst, is now working the downtown trade for Reymer Bros.

Jos. Zimmermann has placed an electric sign, 8 feet by 5 feet, which has Mazda 10 watt lights, on his building. This sign can be seen for 10 squares from his place of business.

Fred Nicholas, representing H. Sommer Co., of Quakertown, Pa., was in town working on the "La Tadencia" brand, a broadleaf cigar, and has placed same in the following well-known stands: Newells, Henry Hotel, Bismark and Antler Hotel. I. Robins & Son are distributors for this brand.

Mr. Baron, of the Siller-Norten & Barnes Co., claim the "El Roi-Tan" is 82,000 oversold. They cannot deliver the goods and are packing no 1/40's in the smaller sizes.

The stogie strike in Pittsburgh is just about settled. The factories are having to pay an increase in all departments.

M. J. Powers, representing the Compeer Cigar Co., reports a big sale on "Plantista" cigars in Pittsburgh for the month of October. Mr. Powers has been spending two weeks with Mr. Brocket, salesman for Haworth & Dewhurst. "Plantista" cigars are selling fine in all the Pittsburgh stores.

The Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. have opened a premium department at Water and Smithfield Streets, in the Jenkinson Co.'s store. The premium station is meeting with success.

B. W. Berman is working on the "Piedmont" cigarettes. This brand is meeting with great success. He also obtained a good distribution on "Favorite" cigarettes.

A news item that we regret to publish is that our old friend, J. S. Kerns, is in financial trouble. His business at Liberty and Smithfield Streets is in the hands of a receiver. Mr. Kerns, during his twelve years at this one stand, has made many warm friends who sympathize with him in his misfortune and hope that his future will be more successful.

"Look for the Green Band." This slogan seems to be uppermost in the minds of the salesmen of the Bock-Stauffer Co., who are working hard on their green banded two for five stogie, called "Jenkinson's Best." Mr. Merriman, one of the city salesmen, reports the sale on this piece of goods big and getting bigger. They are a mild smoke.

C. L. Weaver, of the Deisel-Wemmer Co., Lima, O., makers of the "El Verso" and "San Felico" cigars, was in town this week. The W. J. Gilmore Drug Co. are distributors for this brand.

Sol. Cohn is in town looking after the high-grade smoking department of the American Tobacco Co. He reports business good. The trade is taking to the new 16 oz. "Briar Root" jar; also "Imperial Cube Cut" and "Blue Boar" 16 oz. jars, for the holidays. Mr. Cohn looks after the high grades in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Wm. R. Pope, representing the new Patterson Bros. Tobacco Co., is in town this week in the interest of "Whip" and "Queen" smoking tobaccos.

E. J. Murray, representing Adolph Frankau & Co., was in town this week. He reports business is good on their pipe line, and is very well pleased on the sale of "Craven Mixture."

William C. Rosenfeld, of Salvador Rodriguez, was in town this week in the interest of "Charles the Great" cigars.

Wm. E. Dunkinson, of D. Theocardis, is in town in the interest of their brands of cigarettes.

Business is reported very good in the retail stores in the East End on account of the new theatre opening and the big East Liberty Exposition opening this week.

Holiday packages have shown themselves on this market and they are going good among the trade.

The following visitors were in town this week in the interest of the tobacco business: E. H. Heath, of the El Draco Cigar Co., Philadelphia; H. L. LaBar, of E. M. Schwartz & Co.; E. G. Dunlap, of Lopez Hermanos & Co., Tampa, Fla.; C. L. Staples, of Park & Tilford, New York; Ben J. Strauss, of Rey Strauss & Co., Tampa, Fla.; W. G. Gestal, of Marcelimo Perez & Co.; Joe Carlisle, of A. Santaella & Co., "Optimo" cigars; Jose Garcia, of Perfecto Garcia & Bros.; Mr. Solomon, of Solomon Bros. & Stern; Philip Verplanck, of Philip Verplanck & Co.; E. J. Murray, of Adolph Frankau & Co.; Mr. McBurney, of V. Mancelo Merina & Co.

THE TOBACCO WORLD REGISTRATION BUREAU

The Tobacco World, established in 1881, has maintained a Bureau for the purpose of Registering and Publishing claims of the adoption of Trade-Marks and Brands for Cigars, Cigarettes, Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Snuff. All Trade-Marks to be registered and published should be addressed to The Tobacco World Corporation, 236 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

One Dollar for each title must accompany all applications. In case title or titles cannot be registered owing to prior registration, same will be returned immediately, less our usual charge for searching and return postage, or it will be credited if desired.

☞ Positively no responsibility assumed for errors, duplications or any controversies which might arise. We will not under any circumstances act in a legal capacity in cases concerning disputed titles. We maintain a bureau of records only.

We beg to call the attention of our readers to the fact that, owing to a mechanical defect in our Numbering Machine, there will be no certificates issued bearing the numbers from 28,300 to 29,299 inclusive.

Jump Spark Lighter with Automatic Cutter

Operates with an excellent jump spark coil. The main feature is that the lighter uses electricity only for an instant. No current used or wasted on return into position. This is most important. It saves your batteries—gives them longer life. The front is for your ad or for a mirror. The handle is convenient to light from, for the shortest or the tallest. Pull the handle to you, slow or fast, "you get a light every time."

If you want the best lighter ever made, send us $12.00 and state if wanted with glass or mirror front. Send label if you want us to insert it.

Quantity or Quality--Which?

WHEN you are considering the advisability of taking on a new cigar, Mr. Dealer, what do you take to be of most importance, quantity or quality?

If quality cuts a large part in the selection of your stock, get in touch with us. We have something in common with you, a medium-sized, hand-made, clear Havana filled, nickel cigar, which contains nothing but the best imported tobacco.

This cigar, the 20TH CENTURY, has been on the market for 28 years, sufficient proof that it has stood the test of time.

For full particulars and samples communicate with

Also manufacturers of the "Liar" and "La Altoona" five cent brands and "Altoona Perfecto" and "Casilda" ten cent cigars.

Short talks to Dealers

It is just as essential to use good cigarettes in order to build up a substantial cigarette business as to use good building material for a home. With you have a good, dependable foundation. Good, because the mild, mellow Turkish flavor of Fatimas is the flavor most desired by cigarette smokers. Dependable, because our process of manufacture insures the same uniform quality in each cigarette in every package.

FATIMA

And to increase the already enormous sale of Fatimas and to make it easy for you to build up a big, substantial trade with them, we are advertising them very heavily during 1913. More Fatima cigarettes are sold than any other brand in this country.

In fact, the 1913 Fatima advertising campaign will be one of the very biggest ever known for cigarettes.

And back of every ad—every cigarette and every dealer—stands the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

"Distinctively Individual"

Another BOLD Year

Once more BOLD has enjoyed an increase that is truly remarkable. Nineteen Thirteen has seen BOLD produce another record for sales that will live in the annals of the cigar making history as an example of real merit. Great gains have been made in BOLD distribution, and bountiful have been BOLD sales. Every reason, have we to give thanks in glad acclaim for the good things that the year has brought forth for the BOLD.

A Better Selling Cigar for Less Money by Using

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER

Grown binder does one thing fairly well—binds cigars. STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER takes care of binding, blending and burning—all at a 100% saving over the grown product.

Makes Any Wrapper a Good Wrapper

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER is an all-tobacco tissue pressed to an absolutely uniform thickness. Naturally, it burns as uniformly as it is made. When guided underneath by this even burn, a coarse, oily wrapper will burn as evenly.

Effects a Unit Blend

STANDARD BINDERS are soft and succulent, neutral in flavor and sensitive to the properties of the leaf it comes in contact with. The flavor of filler and wrapper is absorbed and mingled by this binder, producing a unit blend of unvarying mellowness.

The 100% Cheaper Way

1,000 cigars require but two pounds of STANDARD BINDER, where six or seven pounds of grown binder was consumed. STANDARD BINDERS sell at 40c. a thousand, as against $1.00 a thousand for the cheapest grown product. On material alone, a 100% saving to join the 40% on labor.

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Department as "Tobacco in process of manufacture."

U. S. Patents issued February 6th, 1912, proclaimed STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS to be manufactured only from tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps.

NEW YORK DEALERS DECIDE TO ADVANCE CIGARETTE PRICES

Independent Retailers' Association Started Good Movement —"United" and "Schulte" Stores Approve Advance— Riker-Hegeman Store Still Under Market Prices

IT is quite evident that a truce has been declared in the cut price warfare on all brands of popular cigarettes and the leaders in the movement have evidently determined to sell goods at a slight margin of profit at least. On Monday, November 10, the United posted conspicuous signs in all their stores to the effect that there had been an advance on practically all of the grades of 10c., 15c. and 20c. cigarettes, and since that date, the prices have been as follows:

Commencing on the tenth, also, the extra coupons or certificates which had been offered as premiums on certain brands, were cut off and a 20c. package of cigarettes only carried with it a 20c. sales coupon.

The Schulte stores have advanced their prices also, selling "Salisbury," "Trophies" and "Helmars" at 9c. per package, as against a previous price of 8c., and "Moguls," "Murads" and "Melachrinos" at 12c., as against the former price of 11c. The Schulte stores do not give out certificates, so that the prices as quoted are about on a parity with those of the "United."

The Riker-Hegeman stores are still under the market and are selling "Murads," "Moguls" and the other 15c. packages at 11c. per package, with "Helmars," "Trophies" and "Lord Salisbury" at 8c., two packages for 15c.

The Independent retailers of New York, through their Association, have made strenuous efforts to accomplish the good work recorded above and to Otto Jonas, the secretary, as well as to the whole committee, which was composed of S. Weill, H. H. Hunter, Lew Gompers, Ike Starr, H. M. Konwiser, M. W. Berman, H. Greenberg, and V. J. Farley, chairman, much credit must be given for lining up the large Independent interests in the support of the advance movement.

Key West Factories May Be Affected by War

KEY WEST, November 10.

With the possibilities of a war with Mexico growing every hour, the cigar manufacturers are becoming somewhat uneasy, as the local militia includes about 450 men, most of whom are cigarmakers. Orders to go to the front would seriously handicap the factories and hold up thousands of holiday orders.

Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel J. Wolf, of the cigar manufacturing firm of S. Wolf's Sons, stated to the WORLD representative that while he had received no orders from the Secretary of War, the National Guard under his command was fully equipped, with the exception of tents, to take the field with a few hours' notice.

A cablegram for the Key West National Guard to move to the scene of trouble will not be welcomed by the factory owners.

OFFICIAL FIGURES MADE PUBLIC ON LEAF TOBACCO

Census Bureau Makes Public Statistics—Represent Tobacco on Hand October 1, With Dealers in and Manufacturers of Tobacco

(Special Correspondence to "The Tobacco World.")

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13.

These statistics, collected in conformity with the Act of Congress approved April 30, 1912, represent, for dealers in and manufacturers of tobacco other than the original growers: (1) The quantity of leaf tobacco reported as held by manufacturers who, according to the returns of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, manufactured during the preceding calendar year, more than 50,000 pounds of tobacco, 250,000 cigars, or 1,000,000 cigarettes, and by dealers in or manufacturers of leaf tobacco who on an average had more than 50,000 pounds of leaf tobacco in stock at the end of the four quarters of the calendar year; (2) all imported leaf tobacco in the United States bonded warehouses on October 1, and April 1, 1913.

PHILADELPHIA.

Baum-Jaffe May Move Factory

IF the contentions of the up-state cigarmakers continue, it may result in some of the factories being brought into Philadelphia. This statement was made to a representative of the WORLD at the offices of the Baum-Jaffe Company. The demands of their up-state employees, they say, have caused them to seriously consider the advisability of removing their Souderton factory to this city.

The factories are considerably oversold on "Coiner," "A. J. Cassatt" and "Little Cassatt" cigars; this is due in some part to the holiday season, but the steadily increasing demands of Western territories for their brands has had something to do with them being back in their shipments.

Their factories are unusually busy on "Little Cassatt," the popular nickel smoke, and "A. J. Cassatt," in the ten-cent size.

"Bold" Cigars Forging Ahead

L. M. Walters, of the "Bold" factory, has recently returned from an up-state trip and brought in a nice bundle of duplicating orders:

He reports that C. E. Faber, of Williamsport, has worked up a healthy distribution on his pet brand, "Bold," and that the sales are unusually large.

Among the firms that favored Mr. Walters with a surprising number of duplicate orders were: T. W. Mahany Company, of Erie, Pa.; I. Steinfeldt, of Lancaster, Pa.; E. D. Gittleson, Cleveland, O.; Charles Moye & Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; and a new account that will prove a winner, with the Wells Cigar Store, of Wheeling, W. Va.

Henry Reisenberg, Western representative of the "Bold" cigar, starts out the coming week on his final trip for 1913 among the trade.

The factory has received a large number of repeat orders from A. C. Pilkerton, of Greenfield, Ind. As usual, his big run is on "Bold."

"Rivola" Clear Havana on the Market

During the coming week, a new clear Havana cigar will make its appearance in several of the clubs and cafes in this city. It is called the "Rivola" and will be made up in eight shapes and sizes of high-grade goods.

This cigar is made by the Rivola Cigar Company, at 310 Race Street, and will be sold by the trade according to quality, from ten cents up. The samples are excellent pieces of workmanship and will appeal to the connoisseur.

M. Rosenstein is the genial manager of the firm and is introducing the "Rivola" to the trade.

"A Norma Martinez" at Yahn & McDonnell's

A new five-inch Clear Havana Cuban hand-made cigar, called "A Norma Martinez," has made its appearance upon the stands of the Yahn & McDonnell stores in this city, and numerous patrons of the store have received cards from the factory, which, if presented at any one of the Yahn & McDonnell stores, will entitle the holder to a free "Norma Martinez."

This smoker is made by J. M. Martinez Company, of Tampa, Fla.

Fire Sweeps Rofelda Factory

On Saturday afternoon fire swept the second and third floors of the building at Third and New Streets, and did considerable damage to the plant of the Rofelda Cigar and Cigarette Company.

Fortunately there were no employees in the building, they having been dismissed for the Saturday afternoon half-holiday. Several of the firemen were overcome with smoke from the smouldering tobacco.

J. Durbin Acker, manager of the cigar department at the Twelfth and Chestnut Streets store of the Finley Acker Company, is confined to his home with an attack of inflammation of the limbs. The present trouble appears to be a recurrence of a disability which occurred during the past summer.

H. B. Smith has joined the selling staff of the Thirteenth Street store of the M. J. Dalton Company, and "Andy" Scanlan has become associated with the Fifth and Chestnut Streets store of the same firm.

Cressman's "La Garcita" at Atherholt's

J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, is well pleased with his success in introducing the "La Garcita" clear Havana cigar, made by Allen R. Cressman's Sons. This new cigar retails at three for a quarter, is packed in attractive manner, and is well adapted to please lovers of high-grade cigars.

NEW YORK

"56" Cigarettes Moving Big

MANAGER Robert Appleton, of the Cado Company, Incorporated, states that they have enjoyed a steadily increasing demand for their "56" and other brands from all sections of the country and that the holiday trade promises to be an astonishing record-breaker for a cigarette which has only been on the market for a few months.

The Cado Company, Incorporated, have one of the best equipped selling forces for cigarettes, of which we know, and their advertising is of a unique and original character. Many of the brightest ideas have been successfully adopted and results are big. L. E. Cook, who was well known as a former Surbrug representative, is the latest addition to the Cado staff and he has been sending in some splendid orders from the upper New Jersey territory, which he is covering in one of the company's touring autos.

Hammerstein Machine Exhibit

On the 17th inst., Oscar Hammerstein announces that he will show to the trade his recently invented stripping and booking machine.

The exhibit will take place at the Victoria Theatre Building, Forty-second Street and Broadway, which property was erected by this versatile genius largely out of funds which he had earned from other valuable inventions in the cigar and tobacco industry.

Mr. Hammerstein is one of the most unique characters in the tobacco trade in this or in any other country, and has run the gamut from owning and editing a tobacco trade journal to making cigars by hand, and inventing machines to make them with, so that any time he has anything to say to the trade, it is worthy of serious consideration.

New Offices for Salesmen's Association

The annual meeting of the Independent Tobacco Salesmen's Association was held at Terrace Garden, New York, on November 7, and the report of the officers showed that the Association had accomplished much effective work during the past year. The election of officers resulted in the choice of Jesse G. Powell as president, succeeding Oscar Veit; J. Dublon, A. D. Scholz, J. Littman, vice-presidents; Sigmund Weil as treasurer, and Leo Reider as secretary.

The Association has decided to meet regularly at Terrace Garden, and President Powell stated that his efforts would be bent towards largely increasing the social side of the Association's work, thus promoting a broader feeling of fraternity among the salesmen who are members.

More Workmen on "Savaronas"

The continued heavy call on the factories of the Cayey-Caguas Company for "Savaronas" has compelled the Porto Rican managers to employ more hands to meet the demands. Now that the Porto Rican strike has been settled, it has not been so difficult to secure workmen, and the factories are doing everything they can to help meet the rush orders on hand.

American Sumatra Company to Remove

ON Monday next, the warerooms of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company will be removed to their new location at 131 Water Street, just across the street from their present quarters. Here, they will have a finely equipped building with particularly handsome and comfortable reception rooms for customers and visitors, as well as splendidly equipped counting rooms. They invite the trade to make full use of their offices when visiting in New York both for the receipt of mail and appointments, and similar matters.

The top floor of the building has been set apart as the sample room and with large skylights installed, customers will have an opportunity of inspecting their tobacco under the most favorable conditions possible.

S. Lowenthal & Sons Take New Quarters

The rapid growth of their business has made it necessary for S. Lowenthal & Sons to remove to their new building, 123 Maiden Lane, in order to better handle the requirements of their customers. This new building will enable them to increase their facilities considerably, and will no doubt increase their standing as one of the largest packers and jobbers of shaded tobacco in the world.

This firm owns the famous "Clover Farms" brand of shade grown tobacco, in addition to carrying all kinds of domestic cigar leaf tobacco.

H. F. Adams and Harvey Vreeland have just concluded a contract with Benson & Hedges, to handle their well known English cigarettes in the territory west of Chicago. Mr. Vreeland will have headquarters in Chicago, and Mr. Adams on the Pacific Coast. Alfred Hedges, who is president of the Benson & Hedges Company, and a distinguished Member of Parliament, arrived in New York on the third inst., on the "Mauretania."

Harry Swisher Cigar Company Increases Capitalization

At Columbus, O., certificate of incorporation has been filed by the Harry Swisher Cigar Company, of Newark, O., to increase their capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000; $25,000 to be six per cent. preferred stock.

Allowance should be made for shrinkage on the amounts for which "marked weight" was reported in order to ascertain the actual weight.

(2) Not reported separately.

(3) The 41,347,631 pounds of imported tobacco shown for October 1, 1912, included only that reported by establishments of the size covered by the law. The 55,706,540 pounds for October 1, 1913, and the 51,762,509 pounds for April 1, 1913, include the total amounts reported by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce as remaining in bonded warehouses October 1 and April 1, 1913, plus the imported tobacco withdrawn from bond and held by dealers and manufacturers of the class covered by the law.

V. GILMORE IDEN.

IRREGULAR PAGINATION

THE enterprise of a New York tobacconist who delivers tobacco, cigars and cigarettes, if so desired, reminds me of an experience I had, one time, in ordering some cigarettes by telephone.

It was a bitter cold night in January; there was about six inches of snow on the pavements, and the setting was perfect for a quiet little evening of five-handed "draw." I had invited several friends to join in the pastime and thought that everything was on hand to make my guests comfortable.

There were cigars, smoking tobacco, pipes and other accessories that a wise host offers for the comfort of his guests.

However, about half-past ten some one made the horrible discovery that there were no cigarettes. As there were two present who smoked nothing else, and they having exhausted their private supplies, it was up to me to further provide this form of nourishment. I considered with no degree of pleasure, climbing out of my smoking jacket and slippers and walking three or four squares to a cigar store, and then thought of the telephone. I called the druggist about four squares away, knowing that he would send what I wanted, no matter if it had been four miles instead of four squares. This man is a wonder; "service" and "efficiency" are his mottoes; if you were a good customer nothing was too much trouble, and he would just as soon send his boy, or even go himself, two miles in a howling blizzard at night to deliver a forty-cent prescription, as he would to send a two-dollar order three blocks on a fine May morning.

But to resume; the boy answered the telephone. It was Mr. X—— on the wire, would "Doc" send him a box of "pills" right away. Of course, what kind did I want. I replied, "Oh, 'Doc' knows; tell him to send a box of twenty." And the answer came back, "All right, sir; in about ten minutes."

And the answer came back, "All right, sir; the young lady will bring them up when the store closes. They'll be along in about ten minutes."

In about fifteen minutes there was a rap on the door. I opened it, and the janitor handed me a package. It looked smaller than the ordinary cigarette box, and was wrapped in white paper, with a rubber band around it.

An instant later a rattle from the box awakened my suspicions, and I tore off the rubber band and paper to find a pink pill box labelled "Rhinitis"; and when I took the lid off there were twenty of these pills dancing about.

And the store was closed for the night!

* * *

An up-state manufacturer told me a good one the other day apropos of the much maligned 1909 Pennsylvania leaf, and the joke is on a man who prides himself on being a judge of good cigars.

This man called on this manufacturer one day, and in the course of conversation, the latter proffered him an unbanded cigar, saying: "This is some of that 1909 stock you have heard so much about." The man held up his hands and said: "Excuse me, that stuff is too strong for my constitution. I smoked one once, and couldn't sleep for a week afterwards." "Sorry, that is all I've got," said the manufacturer, as he put it back on his desk.

A couple of weeks later the same party called, and this time the manufacturer handed him a handsomely banded and rather good looking smoke. After the visitor had puffed for a while, he remarked on the fine quality of the cigar and inquired what was in it, adding: "I would like to have a thousand of those to hand to my customers."

"Good enough," said the manufacturer, "you can have the thousand tomorrow. The stock is some of that 1909 leaf you scorned on your last visit." And as a final blow, he added, "and this is the cigar you refused."

And to show his sportsmanship, he replied: "Make that order two thousand." Then after a moment's silence: "Say, John, don't it beat hell how 'you can fool all the people some of the time'?"

* * *

If you were in the midst of a quiet evening game of billiards with a customer, and while glancing toward the front of your store, you saw the big plate glass window fly in all directions with a crash that would stir the dust of your ancestors, and as you were about to investigate, you heard another crash of glass and saw the big show case that faced the window start to move toward you at an alarming rate of speed, would you crawl under the billiard table or follow your customer through the back window? It being understood, of course, that the customer had taken most of the sash with him when he went through, so that you would have no trouble.

Well, after you had followed your customer, you would naturally want about three good "hoots" of something strong before you went back to investigate. Meanwhile you have convinced yourself that this being Hallowe'en, the Devil or some of his henchmen have selected you as the object upon which to vent their spleen.

Returning to your store, you find a large crowd standing around an object standing on the pavement; as you get nearer, you discover that the road grader is standing in front of your shop and that the tongue of the same has gone straight through the big plate glass window, broken the glass front of the show case facing it, and turned it over.

The laugh is, naturally, on you but you don't see it. Some boys who had been coasting down the hill on the road grader let it get away from them and the tongue did the rest. Is it any wonder that you don't see the joke? Damage to plate glass, $100; damage to cigars and show case, $50. Loss on billard game, 25 cents (by disapperance of customer); cost of "nerve tonic," 30 cents; damage to temper and nerves incalculable!

Say, if this happened to you, wouldn't it make you "peeved"?

Why Are Tobaccos High?

Taken on an average, the prices of tobaccos all over the United States, are high. The buyers say so, the brokers say so, and the manufacturers affirm it to be true. Wrapper goods, filler goods, binder and smoking and chewing tobaccos are all bringing prices that make the grower feel good.

Some claim that in the case of chewing and smoking tobaccos the foreign corporations are at each other's throats, trying to make the "other fellow" go "busted" in buying his raw material; they say that the reason cigar leaf is higher is because there is real competition among the large manufacturing companies.

There may be something in these reasons offered, but the real cause to our minds is "supply and demand."

Throughout the world there is a rapidly-growing demand for bright tobaccos. Virginia-grown tobacco is going into cigarettes all over the world, and in ever-increasing quantities. Since China has abandoned opium, the cigarette has become the elixir of life in the Flowery Kingdom.

In the United States we are manufacturing more cigars than ever before in the history of the industry. There are more people to smoke cigars, and anyway we are using more and more of them each year.

Crops have been bigger than this year, and so has the acreage. There is no more tobacco, taken on an average, being planted despite the rapid increase in the consumption of the finished cigar; and it seems only natural that prices should go up.

Heavy Call for High Grades

In our travels among the leading Philadelphia manufacturers of cigars, we find that the demand for the high-grade goods, ten cents and up, surpasses any year to be remembered. The orders are coming principally from the East, West and the Pacific Coast.

While the holiday season is partly responsible for this, the high standing that the Philadelphia hand-made goods have established for themselves has had something to do with it. One of the oldest manufacturers as shown one of our representatives a large number of orders for 1914, which would seem to indicate that the present boom will continue into the new year.

A Petty Retail Policy

Any intelligent observer is free to admit that the retail tobacconist must, in the present day of bitter competition, watch every needless expenditure of a penny in the conduct of his store, but we have observed recently, a condition in several shops which would seem to call for the strongest condemnation, i. e., the entire absence of lighting facilities,—no matches, no automatic lighting device, not even the time-honored gas jet with its feeble flame.

In a prominent Broadway store a few days since, we saw a gentleman purchase one dollar's worth of imported cigars and after clipping one of them, he placed it in his mouth and turned to light it. Imagine his surprise when he found there was no lighter and his further chargin, when he asked the salesman for a match, to be informed that there were no available matches, but that he could purchase one for a penny in the automatic vending machine on the counter, which stared him in the face. This appears to us, to be economy with a vengeance, and the smoker quickly expressed his just resentment at the niggardly spirit exhibited.

There is no gainsaying the fact that smokers the world over regard matches as universal property and everyone in the United States has, at one time or another, accosted absolute strangers and asked them to give a match without the least fear of being rebuffed. Strange to say, too, in this connection, men will go to considerable trouble to search through their pockets and provide the needed lights.

As to the ethics as to whether or not the retailer should be called upon to supply matches, it is needless to argue. The custom is founded as solid as a rock and, taken all in all, we consider it a good one.

With the scores of ornamental and effective lighting devices which are offered to the retail trade, we do not consider any shop properly equipped unless they have immediate lighting facilities provided for their customers, and any attempt to eliminate such facilities is sure to react on the retailer in an unfavorable way and will tend to lose him valuable customers.

The United Stores have, since their inception, given out their familiar "Shield" paper matches with the utmost liberality and without regard to the fact as to whether the applicant has purchased goods or not. As a consequence they have received untold quantities of advertising in every household in the land.

A man who buys a smoker wants a light for it, and it seems distinctly up to the dealer to see that he receives one without additional cost.

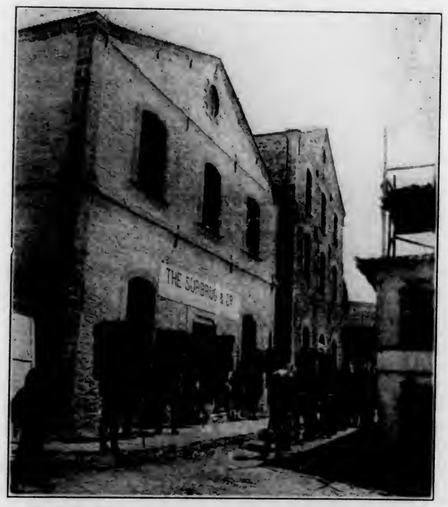
EFFECT OF WARS ON TURKISH TOBACCO CROPS THOUGHT SERIOUS

American Consuls Write of Conditions—Macedonian Crops Very Small—America Next to Austria in Tobacco Purchases—Interesting Notes on Tobacco Culture

(Illustrations are by courtesy of the Department of Commerce of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.)

AN authority, located in Constantinople, writes that the Macedonian tobacco districts have suffered considerably through the two Balkan wars. He says:

"Communication between the various villages and towns has been completely suspended for months, so that it has been impossible to move the crop from the up-country districts to Cavalla and Saloniki, while during the occupation of Cavalla by the Bulgarian troops it was impossible to ship tobacco from this port. As postal communication was also stopped, the tobacco dealers in Saloniki and Constantinople were unable to obtain any information regarding their stocks warehoused in the tobacco-growing districts. Since the withdrawal of the Bulgarians, transit between the villages is again possible, and the export of tobacco has also recommenced. Owing to the action of the German consul in Saloniki, the Greek railway authorities have placed cars at the disposal of the German dealers in Xanthi, and these have now begun to move their stocks.



Transferring Bales of Tobacco from One Magazine to Another. This is the Only Means of Transportation in Cavalla, Owing to the Steep Streets

The other dealers have still to rely on ox wagons for bringing their tobacco to Cavalla, and are paying fifty para per oka (two cents a pound) for carriage. Although this is an exceptionally high charge, it is being willingly paid, for the dealers are very anxious to get their tobacco from Xanthi. Political conditions in Western Thrace are so uncertain that no one can say how long order and quietness will prevail. The Macedonian tobacco crop this year will probably be a very small one. There is no really reliable information as to the exact amount available, but there is no doubt that tobacco prices will advance very materially. It has been impossible to prepare the fields in many cases, and where this has been done considerable damage has since been inflicted. Many villages have been burned down, while the inhabitants have fled from many others, and, in short, there have been very few spots where tobacco has been planted and ripened."

Consul General Ravndal, at Constantinople, in a report published in the Daily Consular and Trade Reports, calls attention to the possibilities of raising Turkish tobacco in America. He points out that we are next to the largest consumers of that export, and that experienced men believe that the Southwestern States afford a good field for its culture. He presents the following comments:

"During the last few years, the consumption of Turkish cigarettes has so increased in the United States that today there are more Turkish cigarettes smoked than all kinds of cigarettes put together six to eight years ago. Cigarettes appear to be taking the place of cigars, and it is believed that at present some 12,000,000,000 cigarettes are smoked in the United States in a year.

"Several American companies are established in Turkey and in the European territory held by Turkey before the recent war, for the purpose of buying local tobacco. About twenty-two native Americans, mostly from the Southern States, have become residents for this purpose. Their headquarters are at Cavalla in Macedonia. Offices and warehouses are also maintained at Smyrna, Samsun, Xanthi, Saloniki, Serres, and Ismid, Athens, and Souchoum, Russia. There are about 1750 employees on the pay roll at Cavalla, 1000 at Xanthi, 1000 at Smyrna, 800 at Samsun, 250 at Ismid, 200 at Saloniki, etc. For the last three calendar years the exports of tobacco to America have reached the following totals: 1910, $3,902,643; 1911, $8,620,324; 1912, $10,010,952. America next to Austria is Turkey's best tobacco customer.

"Experienced men believe that in the Southwestern States and perhaps elsewhere in America, Turkish tobacco can be raised successfully, and it is thought that it might be worth while to encourage the industry. While suitable soil and climate naturally are the prime requisites, a great deal depends upon a thorough knowledge of the proper methods of planting, curing, and handling the tobacco."

Regarding tobacco culture in Turkey, Consul Alfred S. Northrup, at Trebizond, has sent to the Daily Consular and Trade Reports, an interesting article regarding the characteristics and prices, the Russian competition and the planting and harvesting. He deals with the subject as follows:

"Platana is a small village on the Black Sea coast about ten miles west of Trebizond and is well known on account of its natural harbor and its special grades of tobacco. Communication with Trebizond is usually by land, which takes about one and a half hours with a good carriage. Steamers rarely call there unless previously advised that there is a sufficient quantity of tobacco to be shipped, except the Russian boats, which call almost every Saturday in the tobacco season.

"The annual production of tobacco at Platana is about 3,500,000 to 6,000,000 pounds, of which only one-fifth is high-grade tobacco. The Regie des Tabacas has at Platana a branch office, with extensive depots, with capacity of over 5,000,000 pounds of tobacco.

"Platana tobacco is weak and has little aroma, the leaves are large and of light color, and while it does not keep like other good tobaccos, it is much valued in Egypt, being used by manufacturers there to brighten the tobacco obtained from other parts of Turkey and elsewhere. Egypt takes practically all the better grades of Platana tobacco, but subject to wide fluctuations in price.

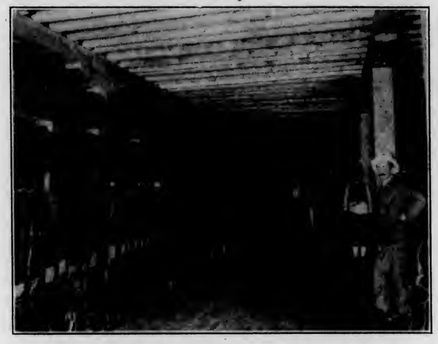
"The prices of the 1911 crop, best quality (for Egypt), were 18 piasters gold (79 cents) per oka (2.82 pounds) medium, 15 piasters (66 cents), and lowest, 12 piasters (53 cents). All bales are put together according to quality, and each lot contains about eight to fifteen per cent. 'dips' and 'hashlaks' (inferior tobacco). The prices of inferior tobacco (for Europe) were, for the 1911 crop, 18 piasters gold (79 cents) to 23 piasters ($1.01) per batman (16.92 pounds).

"The following quantity of tobacco, in pounds, was exported from Platana and Trebizond in 1912 (crop of 1911): Alexandria, 2,369,607; Rotterdam, 835,195; Hamburg, 301,101; Dresden, 84,154; Cypress, 64,836; Trieste, 33,724; Aden, 28,338; Samos, 13,086; London, 9,519; New York, 2,396; Berlin, 1,003; Amsterdam, 484. The United States does not buy any Platana tobacco. In 1912 this consulate invoiced only $397 worth of tobacco, and that was produced at Trebizond, while $2,789,899 of tobacco was invoiced to the United States through the Samsun agency.

"The 1912 Platana market was very slack. The demand from Egypt was extremely light and several merchants who sent tobacco there report the shipments still unsold. A representative of the British-American Tobacco Company (Limited) last winter bought about 300,000 pounds of tobacco, valued at $100,000 United States currency, all shipped to the factories of that corporation in Egypt and elsewhere.

"A special export duty of 60 paras (6.6 cents), called 'raftie,' is collected on every kilo (2.2 pounds) of tobacco shipped to Egypt from Turkey.

"Platana is losing importance on account of the competition of Russian Caucasus-grown tobacco, which is rapidly improving, both in quality and quantity. Almost all the Egyptian manufacturers bought their supply for last year in Russia on account of the high prices demanded for Platana tobacco. The development in Russian tobacco is attributed largely to the aid given by the Russian Government to tobacco growers. Numerous banks in the Caucasus give every facility to the planters, advancing them money at four per cent., while in Turkey the legal rate is nine per cent., and villagers can rarely secure even that rate unless they heavily mortgage their lands, which is apt to prove ruinous in the end.



Inside of the American Tobacco Company's Storage Magazine at Cavalla. The Large Bales are planter's Bales, Made in the Villages; Small Bales are Those Repacked and Ready for Shipment

"The crop for 1912 was not very successful on account of the heavy rains in the drying season, the lack of sunshine causing the tobacco to be badly spotted. The percentage of good tobacco is low, the crop being abundant, but of poor quality. It is officially estimated at between 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 pounds.

"The soil of the Platana region seems to be favorable to tobacco culture. Though the soil is sandy and clayey and much of it mineral impregnated, the choicest varieties of tobacco are said to grow well. The region has abundant rainfall; most of the tobacco fields are near the seashore, the balance extending inland two or three miles.

"Agriculture in the Platana region is primitive, like that in every other part of this district. The modern plow has never been tried, nor any fertilizer used, except manure and a small fish called 'hamsie,' a variety of anchovy, which gives the tobacco a peculiar smell. Few fields are left to rest. The theory of rotation of crops is practically unknown, although some fields are planted with Indian corn, fodder, or beans at intervals of three to four years. In February or March the soil is turned up in large blocks with heavy forks, having two strong tines about 12 inches long and seven inches apart, and then the blocks are broken into pieces. The laborers generally work in rows of three to twelve, using their forks in remarkable unison.

"The tobacco seed is mixed with sand, sown in a hotbed, liberally sprinkled with manure and tramped with the feet. When the plants are about five or six inches high they are transplanted and watered several times a day when first set out but not long thereafter.

"Platana tobacco is not grown very high; when the plants are twelve to fifteen inches in height the tops are broken off and the shoots are pinched, a few stocks being left for seed. In the Platana region they endeavor to secure as large leaves as possible.

"Harvesting occurs about the end of July, and pickings follow each other in quick succession. The first picking, called 'dip,' comprises the lowest leaves, small, very light in color and weak in aroma. The second, called 'hashlak,' comprises the middle leaves, of medium size and quality. The third, called 'dorouk,' comprises the top leaves, stronger, larger, and of darker color. After the leaves are gathered they are strung on cords, the qualities separated, and hung on horizontal poles, to dry in the sun. Finally they are put into a damp warehouse, where they are left until they become soft, and then put into packets of up to ten leaves, and carried to the Regie depots to be weighed and sold to the merchants. The average yield at Platana is about 800 pounds per acre."

The officers of the Retail Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association, Kalamazoo, Mich., are as follows: S. Saloman, president; Charles Stamm, vice-president; J. T. Peters, secretary, and N. M. McPharland, treasurer. The association recently held its regular business meeting.

Philadelphia Notes

The J. F. Portuondo Cigar Manufacturing Company, through their local representative, W. S. Cliver, have opened a number of new and desirable accounts within the past fortnight.

"Charles the Great" cigars, made by Salvador Rodriguez, New York, Tampa, and Havana, recently revived the Philadelphia market, through the efforts of Charles E. Turner.

August Kuttnauer, representing the Punch and Bolinda factories, of Havana, left Philadelphia recently with a well-filled order book. It is understood that Mr. Kuttnauer will leave New York for the return trip on November 20.

The "Flor de A. Diaz," ten-cent cigar, is being offered to the smoking public of Philadelphia, through the efforts of J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad Street. The new line is manufactured from finest quality Havana stock, and is made in Tampa.

Yahn & McDonnell are especially proud of the new "Hoyo de Cuba" cigar, made by the San Martin y Leon factory at Tampa, and for which they are the Eastern distributors.

The "Hoyo de Cuba" cigar is made in all the popular, as well as several original, sizes, ranging in price from the three for a quarter, to three for a dollar, enabling the dealer to cater to practically every grade of Havana cigar smokers.

The package is unusually attractive, being embellished with a tasty gold label that forms just the right setting for the rich colorings of the cigars.

Charles E. Waters, who recently joined the selling staff of Yahn & McDonnell at their Fifteenth and Chestnut Streets store, so informed his friends through an attractive announcement mailed early this month.

New Factory for "Standard Binders"

Heavy demands for "Standard Binders" have been pouring into the office of the Tobacco Production Company, at such a rate that they have been forced to disappoint many cigar manufacturers on shipments. But it will, no doubt, be welcome news to the waiting ones, to learn that this rush of orders has compelled the company to begin work at once on a new plant.

Ground is about to be broken at New Milford, Conn., where the Tobacco Production Company has recently purchased eight acres of ground with dam and water rights for the erection of a new plant. They are about to issue contracts for the erection of the special machinery necessary for the production of "Standard Binders." This machinery is of their own design and invention, specially conceived to produce the best results in making "Standard Binders." In order to keep pace with the demands, these binders will be produced at the rate of more than ten tons a day.

Foreign countries are awakening to the importance of "Standard Binders" and demands for samples and quantities in various sizes are coming from all parts of the world.

TAMPA TIPS

Orders Pile Up and Cigarmakers Still in Demand—Association Board of Equalization Appointed—Unique Campaign on "A Norma Martinez"—"Loveras" Going West by the Carload

TAMPA, FLA., November 11.

THERE is apparently no let-up in the steady output of cigars from every factory in this city and conditions as outlined in my last letter are the same as two weeks ago. There is still a shortage in cigarmakers and several thousand additional hands could easily be used by the various factories for the next thirty or sixty days.

Manufacturers are still waiting for definite and authentic information from Washington concerning the interpretation of the "Made in Bond" law and until these are received in Tampa, no further movement will be made by the manufacturers to organize a bonded factory.

President Alvarez, of the Clear Havana Cigar Manufacturers' Association, of this city, gave out last week the names of the eight members of the Association who had been appointed on the Board of Equalization for the ensuing six months. The committee includes Mariano Alvarez, Frank R. Diaz, Jerome Windmueller, Celestino Vega, A. Pendas, L. B. Gunst, T. Morgan and J. Lopez. These gentlemen, together with six of the local cigarmakers will handle all complaints and adjust all differences of employees until April next. The Manufacturers' Association is in excellent condition and the meetings are largely attended and full of interest to all members.

V. Guerra, Diaz & Company are exerting their utmost efforts to keep up with the big holiday rush on "La Megas." They have had some exceptionally choice orders during the past fortnight from their New York representative, Raymond Doebler.

The J. M. Martinez Company have been conducting a unique campaign on their "A Norma Martinez" brand. Postals have been sent out from here to selected lists of smokers in the various cities and each postal card is good for a sample cigar if presented to the local distributor in the city in which the recipient lives.

I hear that F. C. Lozano, of the Lozano factory, is expected to arrive in Tampa within a few days. Their factory is very busy at present.

A. L. Cuesta, of Cuesta-Rey, returned home a few days ago from a brief trip to Havana, where he was buying additional tobacco and inspecting their new warehouse.

Jose Lovera factory, a few days since, shipped out a solid carload of their goods consigned to Schwabacher Brothers, the Seattle distributors. There were over 500,000 cigars in the shipment and a goodly lot of them will eventually find their way to Alaska, where "Jose Loveras" are very popular.

Vice-President E. J. Stachelberg, of Sanchez & Haya factory, is a very optimistic man these days and says that there is nothing but good to report concerning their business.

PERFECTO.

Collector of Customs Pambina

The Collector of Customs, Pambina, North Dakota, brought up a ticklish question with the Treasury Department recently, when he asked for an official ruling on Article 618 of the Customs Regulations, which specifically refers to the number of free cigars and cigarettes which a tourist may bring into the United States without paying duty thereon.

It seems that Pambina is in the northern part of the state and easy of access into Canada, and that many of the citizens made a practice of running across the line, buying fifty imported cigars and bringing them home again in their auto, or otherwise, without giving Uncle Sam any duty.

The vigilant collector observed this practice and now through an official ruling, only bona fide tourists will be permitted to bring in the quota of fifty cigars, duty free. In other words, enterprising citizens who are spotted making a practice of crossing the line to secure their cigars, will have to pay the duty.

CLUBDOM SMOKING No. 6

THE CHICAGO ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION
The 12-Story Annex, Showing Madison Street Entrance

(This is the sixth of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

No. 1—Lambs' Club, New York.
No. 2—Union League, Philadelphia.
No. 3—City Club, Chicago.
No. 4—Olympic Club, San Francisco.
No. 5—The Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

CHICAGO has grown to be a city of clubs, but none has a higher standing or a more splendid membership than the Chicago Athletic Association, whose home faces both Michigan Boulevard and Madison Street. The building on Michigan Boulevard is a ten-story structure of splendid design and beautiful decoration and the one on Madison Street, the two being joined in the shape of an "L," is equally adapted to the purposes of the club members. The Madison Street building is known as the "annex" and houses the women's departments as well as providing many handsome living suites on the upper floors for the use of the male members of the club.

Chicago has been long a city of superlatives and they have been rather overworked, but they must be used again, because the Chicago Athletic Association is not only one of the largest clubs of its kind in the world, but is housed in one of the most beautiful and ornate buildings. Money was not stinted in its erection, which caused much sorrow to the house managers for a long time, because of a very large, very stubborn and very active deficit. It was along about the time of the panic of 1893 and things looked very squally for the club. However, it numbered then, and does now, some of the keenest financiers in Chicago among its officers and members, and the combined wisdom of all of them pulled the club out of the "slough of despond" and set it on its firm financial feet, where it has stood ever since.

Just about the same time the club experienced a disastrous fire, but after its ravages had been repaired the club began to grow and has had a steady upward climb. It was incorporated March 18, 1890, by Charles L. Hutchinson, Joseph H. Bowen, William B. Hubbard, B. B. Lamb, R. C. Nickerson, Henry Ives Cobb and Milton C. Lightner. C. L. Hutchinson was the first president and since then some of Chicago's foremost citizens have been at the head of the club.

Included among these are: Robert C. Nickerson, C. K. G. Billings, former president People's Gas Light and Coke Company; William Vernon Booth, of the great Baltimore Oyster House; E. A. Potter, president American Trust and Savings Bank; F. E. Pettet, Daniel M. Lord, of the advertising firm of Lord & Thomas; Clarence K. Wooster, James K. Armsby, Henry F. Frink, lawyer and banker; Alexander A. Revell, furniture dealer and politician; Walter Fitch, broker; Lawrence Heyworth, prominent in real estate and finance; Frank W. Teeple, Charles M. Faye, of the Chicago Daily News; William A. Cameron.

It numbers among its members nearly all the names of Chicago men famous in art and literature. McCutcheon, the cartoonist, is a very active member and samples of the work of his pen and pencil are to be found in many places in the main building. George Ade has written some private "Fables in Slang" about his membership as well as about some of the members. The club is one of his hobbies, among many others, some of them acquired when he was only a newspaper reporter and others acquired since he became more famous.

The two club buildings contain one hundred and twenty-five lodging rooms, single and en suite. Some of the handsomest and most elaborate bachelors' quarters in the city are to be found on the upper floors of the club. Some of them represent an outlay of many thousands of dollars in furnishings and bric-a-brac.

The resident membership is now in the neighborhood of 2600, with a non-resident roster of 700. In addition, there are five honorary members, twenty-five Army and Navy members and fifty athlete members. The resident waiting list is between 500 and 600 and growing all the time. Membership in the club is much sought, as it is not only a fine home for the homeless and a wonderful lounging

From Our Exclusive Bureau

Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, November 8, 1913.

WHEN we were praying for a little rain, or one good shower, we had no idea that we should receive a gift of ten days' rain, and which instead of having been a blessing has turned out to have been a calamity for the poor vegueros in the Vuelta Abajo, as the continued quantity of water has destroyed the vegetables, which are the main sustenance of their life. Those planters that had paid the high prices for seedlings, which they had transplanted previous to the twenty-seventh of October, lost everything, not alone the cost of the seedlings, but also the labor and the manure, as the fields will have to be plowed over again, and new fertilizer has to be added. As the seed beds are reported to have been all lost, new seed has to be strewn upon the ground, and this will take six weeks, before the plants are big enough to be transplanted. In this case, it would be towards the end of December before the replanting could begin. However, there is a possibility, that either some of the later germinated seeds have withstood the rains, or that seedlings could be procured from some localities, that had escaped the devastating rains. In any event, the next crop will be a late one and in all probability also a short one. Of course, there is a possibility, that if the coming months should give us the right kind of temperature, just enough rains at intervals to forward the growth of the nicotine plant, that we might have a crop similar to the 1912 one, because upon November 21st of the year 1911 we had had the same continuous rainstorms for nearly ten days. On the other hand, some people fear, that after the heavy rainfalls we might have a prolonged drouth, which would be the worst thing that might be in store for us. However, there is nothing to do except to have patience, and wait.

We were under the impression that many buyers from the United States would have come here to supply themselves with our leaf, but this has not been the case, and if it had not been for some of our commission merchants, that had received cable orders to buy leaf for their clientage, we would have had a still smaller market to report this time. One of the Spanish leaf dealers and packers of Remedios here, also found out that they had not secured sufficient stocks for their regular customers, so they stepped into our market, buying over 2,200 bales of first and second Capaduras. This has helped to swell our sales. While our dealers at present say they will not raise their figures on their holdings, no reliance ought to be placed upon such utterances, as everything will depend upon the future outlook of the coming crop, because it is human nature to profit from the mishaps of others. This applies alike to sellers or buyers, as the law of supply and demand still regulates the ruling prices all over the world.

There are enough stocks of all kinds of tobacco to be found in our market; there are very good, fair, medium and also some poor lots to be found, so the coming buyer is still able to supply himself.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Sales during the past two weeks totaled 18,176 bales, or which split up consisted of: Vuelta Abajo, 7,013; Partido, 2,465, and Remedios, 8,698 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 10,200; one Canadian manufacturer, 755; exporters to Europe, 2,604; shippers to South America, 512, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 4,105 bales.

Cigars.

The shipments of cigars from the port of Havana, for the past month of October as per our official customhouse returns, compare favorably with the same month of last year, as follows, viz.:

	Cigars.
From October 1st to October 31, 1913,	20,390,700
From October 1st to October 31, 1912,	17,114,240
Increase during the month of October, 1913,	3,276,460

The figures for the ten months of this year now read as follows, viz.:

	Cigars.
From January 1st to October 31, 1913,	150,630,856
Increase during the first ten months of 1913,	5,740,370

If we compare the month of October this year with the one of last year, we note increases in the following seven countries:

	Cigars.
The United States,	2,128,043
Great Britain and Ireland,	519,111
France,	477,500
Germany,	386,408
Canada,	347,496
Austria,	55,510
Spanish Africa,	51,000

Decreases in the seven following countries:

	Cigars.
Spain,	341,474
Argentine Republic,	115,778
Chile,	83,085
Australia,	45,285
Uruguay,	27,966
Guatemala,	17,000
Belgium,	16,355

While the above showing is better than we had dared to expect after the very poor statistics of the month of September, and while our factories seem to be well provided with orders for the coming holidays, it seems, however, that we are not out of the dumps yet, at least if we can take the sayings of Don Ramon Argüelles, of the Romeo y Julieta factory, as an expert authority on the future of our cigar industry. When we called on him, he told us, with justified pride, that the Romeo y Julieta had made and exported the enormous quantity of 2,700,000 cigars during the past month of October, which equals to a daily output of 100,000 cigars per day. There is no other factory in Havana which could equal this output at present. But, says Don Ramon, "I am prepared to see a considerable shrinkage from now on towards the middle of January, as our chief customer, England, is not ordering as much as we have had reason to expect. The South American republics are also less anxious to order our cigars. As far as the United States are concerned it remains to be seen yet, how the new law of manufacturing in bond will work. I am not afraid that the American clear Havana cigar manufacturers will be able to cut into our export trade to Europe, or other countries, as this would require more time to study and learn, as well as overcome prejudices, but they might curtail our trade with the United States eventually."

San Francisco

Porto Rico Goods "Coming Back"—Many Eastern Representatives on Coast—Bishop Jobber Takes on "Flor de Moss"—"El Roi-Tans" Increasing in Favor

SAN FRANCISCO, November 5, 1913.

BUSINESS is looking up this week, and the cigar men feel quite a bit brighter than for a long time. The busy days of Portola week were followed very opportunely by a nice rainfall—the first of the fall season, and this has added materially both to the immediate business and to the prospects. Owing to the unusual lateness of the first fall rains, a good deal of uneasiness had been manifested by dealers in some parts of the State. The breaking of the drouth has been followed by a nice revival in the country, and is certain to have a prompt effect on the city trade.

The talk is going round that a revival of the Porto Rico trade is already under way; and a number of dealers and at least a few jobbers are preparing to be ready to take care of anything of the sort that may come to hand. The Porto Rico demand fell off more or less when the Manila trade first assumed large proportions; and the steady competition of Manila lines has so far kept the Porto Rico goods from winning back all they had lost. Now, however, both Manila and Porto Rico goods, having had their ups and downs, are going ahead in a steady way according to some men who have been watching the trade. There is some speculation as to what, if any, effect the new plan of bonding the manufacturers of clear Havana cigars will have on the Porto Rico trade. The general supposition is that the new law will tend to discourage the use of Porto Rico leaf for blending purposes in this country and will thus lead to an increase in the output of Porto Rico cigars and to increased efforts to market them here.

I. Danziger, a manufacturer's representative in this city, who has been delayed in making his regular fall trip through the Northwest by some local developments, finds that he will be still further detained. It is now a possibility that the trip will be abandoned altogether and an effort made to get away on the spring trip next year a little earlier than usual in order to make one trip do for two. Mr. Danziger reports a considerable improvement in business, and he expects a very pronounced change for the better now that the long expected rains are at hand.

There is something doing in the "El Roi-Tan" line these days. R. M. C. Glenn, president of Seidenberg & Co., the makers, arrived here a few days ago; and about the same time Eddie Allenberg took up missionary work on the "El Roi-Tan" for Ehrman Brothers & Co., the distributors for Northern and Central California. Mr. Allenberg put in his first work in the San Joaquin Valley section, where he succeeded in picking up a goodly volume of business.

Ehrman Brothers & Co. have been advised by A. Santaella & Co., makers of the "Optimo" cigar, that the have applied to be permitted to take advantage of the bonding provision of the new law, and have been informed that the department may not be ready to put the inspection provisions of the law into operation before the first of the year.

W. D. Mooney, a cigar dealer of St. Helena, Cal., is in San Francisco this week, visiting the trade.

Quite a number of Eastern representatives are showing up nowadays, and all of them seem to be pretty well satisfied with their reception on the Coast. A good deal of planning for new publicity and selling campaign is being done, and a few manufacturers are known to be seeking connections here. Notwithstanding the reactionary tendencies of the time, the steady growth of population and business in California and the other Coast States is having its effect in swelling the total volume of business.

Charles S. Morris, president of Charles S. Morris & Co., arrived in San Francisco a few days ago to confer with J. J. Hoffman, of the Hoffman-Moore Company, regarding the winter campaign for the "La Integridad" cigar, the distribution of which in the San Francisco field is in charge of the Hoffman-Moore Company. The latter company has arranged to put some extra vim into the work this winter, and this will include some special work on the "La Integridad." As a starter, Joe Triest, a well-known cigar salesman, has been secured to help multiply the "Integridad" sales.

Mr. McCormick, factory representative of the "Webster" line of cigars on this Coast, left early in the week for Los Angeles, for a short stay. He will return to this city about the middle of the month. The "Webster" line is distributed in and about San Francisco by the Bercovich Company, with headquarters on Front Street.

Gene Stolz, a well-known traveling cigar salesman, who has on several occasions done good work here, is back in the old town once more, this time with the "Cortez" clear Havana cigar. At present this line has no wholesale distributor in this territory; but rumor has it, that one will be secured before Mr. Stolz leaves the Coast.

Emil Judell, junior member of H. K. Judell & Co., has been in charge of the Battery Street wholesale house for the past ten days, during the absence of H. L. Judell at Eureka, the capital of the Humboldt County territory. H. L. is partly out for a fishing trip, and partly for some business. Years ago he made the Humboldt trip for the house regularly, but has not been there for a number of years. He writes that he has been well received by his old friends and that both business and fishing continue good in and about Eureka.

Geo. Vonderheide and bride, of Bishop, Cal., who spent a part of their honeymoon in this city, have now gone South for the remainder of that happy season. Mr. and Mrs. Vonderheide will get back to the wilds of Inyo County about the middle of the month. Mr. Vonderheide, while here, arranged to carry a jobbing stock of the "Flor de Moss" cigar at his Bishop store.

W. W. Gross, a prominent dealer of Stockton, Cal., has associated A. A. Gross with him in the business.

During Portola Week in this city Glaser Brothers, local jobbers, rented a suite of rooms in the Sutter Hotel for the entertainment of their visiting friends in the trade and their families. All the salesmen of the house were in attendance to see that the entertainment was not allowed to drag. An abundance of refreshments were served.

Marc Brummer, of the Regensburg factory, who spent a couple of weeks in this city with Chas. Mattheas & Co., distributors of the "American" cigar, has now left for the East.

ALLEN.

E. M. Schwarz Enlarging Bohemia Plant

The largest manufacturing plant in Bohemia, L. I., the cigar factory of E. M. Schwarz, is now having a commodious extension added. This will increase the capacity for hands considerably and will enable many of the inhabitants of Bohemia to work at home instead of journeying into the city every morning.

We are handicapped too much by the excessive protective duties, because if the average duty paid by the American manufacturer is only $8 to $9 per thousand cigars, excluding the internal revenue tax, we have to pay on a cigar costing here $50 per thousand, and weighing twelve pounds, the almost prohibitive duty of a trifle over $53 per thousand, more than the original producing cost here. This does not seem to be fair play, and is contrary to the declared principle of the Democratic party to collect a tariff for revenue only. It has been proven by figures over and over again, that by cutting the duty in half the United States Treasury would be the gainer in its revenue, and it would still leave the American manufacturer a protection of about three times less, than what the Cuban manufacturer would have to pay. Unless we could gain in the coming reciprocity treaty, a reduction of at least 50 per cent. on the ruling duties, it might be as well to have no reciprocity treaty at all, as our sugar industry will be on a par with all other countries in 1916, and enjoy no privilege over other countries.

The ten rainy days played havoc with our factories, as some of them stopped work entirely and others were working only half the time, or say five days. For this reason some factories may be unable to comply with their order to deliver the Xmas orders in time.

H. Upmann, Partagas, Hoyo de Monterey, are all working with full steam. Henry Clay and Bock & Co. report that they are working well. Por Larrañaga is making double the quantity per day, since Don Eustaquio Alonso became the president, and the latter fears he may be unable to execute all the orders on hand for the Christmas trade. Sol is quite contented with the volume of orders on hand. Castañeda and Fonseca are working very strong. Flor del Fumar was seriously handicapped by the humidity, not daring to work the many fine sizes for the ten rainy days, and, therefore, may be unable to comply with some orders to be despatched in time for the coming holidays.

Key West

KEY WEST, FLA., November 10th.

HEAVY shipments of holiday goods are being made and all the factories are in full swing. The most absorbing questions here at present are the package car service and the bonded factory proposition. While three of our manufacturers have declared their intention to band, the rest are still studying the many points of the law before deciding. There seems to be some dissatisfaction over the provisions of the bill, which allows a bonded and unbonded shop to be operated in the same building and only separated by a partition.

Many are of the opinion that this ruling would permit of fraudulent practices to the detriment of the legitimate manufacturer.

Since my last letter, owing to stormy weather and an almost continuous downpour of rain, and the extreme humidity, many of our factories were unable to operate. This came at an inconvenient time, as all the shops are filled with heavy orders and the loss of a day or even an hour amounts to a great deal; the loss of nearly a week cannot be calculated. However, the weather has cleared up and all the factories are on the hustle.

J. H. Cayro, the Havana leaf dealer, passed through the city recently while en route from New York to Havana.

A cablegram received at the office of the E. H. Gato Cigar Co. on the afternoon of October 31 conveyed the sad intelligence of the death of Senor Jose Albertus at Bejucal, Cuba. Mr. Albertus until a few years ago had ably filled the important position of general factory manager of the E. H. Gato Cigar Co. and was held in high esteem by his employers as well as by every one who came in contact with him. He had been identified with the Gato cigar interests since 1871, but owing to ill health was forced a few years ago to give up his position and go to Cuba.

Robert S. Tatum, Southern manager of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., passed through town recently en route to Cuba in the interest of his firm.

Francisco Fleitas, of S. & F. Fleitas, is back from a short leaf purchasing trip to the Havana leaf markets. The factory is now in full activity and "Homerica," in its finer sizes and holiday packages, are going forward at a gratifying rate. The Ricksecker Cigar Co., of Kansas City, Mo., handle this brand in its various sizes.

Ed E. Crusoe, maker of the "Duke of Wellington" cigar, during his Northern tour, was united in marriage to Miss Baxter, of Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Crusoe have returned and are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Cuban Consul A. D. Carrasco, who has been spending a few weeks in Havana on his vacation, is back again at his post.

At the "Solace" factory of Geo. W. Nichols & Co. everybody is on the rush getting ready goods for the holiday trade. This week their first shipment of "Luxuries," the thin new giant make, went forward. This cigar is twelve inches long, made of the very choicest of Havana tobaccos, and cost the concern about $300 for the workmanship on it alone. They are each packed in a separate carton, ten cartons to the box, and will make splendid Xmas gifts.

The "Pinzon" brand of the M. Perez Company is moving lively. Manager Rafael Menendez received orders on Friday from New York headquarters to bond the factory immediately. He will file his application tomorrow with the Customs Collector. This makes four of our factories which will bond.

Thomas H. Gato, secretary of the E. H. Gato Cigar Company, is expected to reach town tomorrow from Havana. J. O. Nunez, brother of J. T. Nunez, cigar salesman of the Gato 1871 Yellow Label in Southern territory, was a visitor at the office on Saturday. At the big factory both main building and annex are working at full capacity and heavy shipments are being made.

Don Manuel Calero, defeated candidate for the Presidency of Mexico at the recent elections; Thomas B. Hohler, Secretary of the English Legation at Mexico City; and M. Sternberg, war correspondent of the New York American, passed through town last week, being en route to the North.

M. Gonzalez, leaf buyer of Garcia & Vega, of Tampa, Fla., was a caller at the office of Moreda & Company on Saturday.

Everything is on the move at the factory of the Cortez Cigar Company and they are carrying a force of about 400 men on the cigar manufacturing floor. Heavy calls for "Hernan Cortez" were received last week.

At the factory of S. & F. Fleitas business is in fine shape and acting Manager Segundo Fleitas reports the receipt on Saturday of a large batch of orders for the finer sizes and shapes of "Homerica," their leader.

Mrs. Charles E. Gwynn, wife of the senior member of Gwynn, Strauss & Company, who has been spending the summer in Northern Florida, returned to the city on Saturday. At the factory business is in excellent shape and they report a good demand from their territory.

The Watt Cigar Company, who distribute the "Lawrence Barrett" brand in the territory of St. Paul and Minneapolis, are advertising it locally to quite an extent.

An Up-to-the-Minute 'Sunbury Cigar Store

THE accompanying illustration shows the interior of the "Pulse of Sports" cigar store in Sunbury, Pa., with its live-wire owner, W. E. Stahl, standing behind the counter.

A large blackboard to the left of the entrance contains the daily results of baseball and football games all over the United States, and its popularity has gained for the stand the name, "Pulse of Sports."

The stand carries more than fifty different brands of cigars. In the ten and fifteen-cent goods, "El Verso," "Gato," "La Preferencia," "Principe de Gales" and "El Jurisdicio" have the call.

In nickel smokes Cressman's "Counsellor," "Escanaba," "General Hartranft," "San Felice," "Courtello" and "Castle Hall" are popular with the trade. In the stogie line, "Marsh," "Pollack" and "Reid's" are going good.

The store carries in addition to practically every cigarette known to the trade, a full line of pipes, tobaccos and smokers' articles.

place for those who have homes of their own, but it is wonderfully well managed. The assets are about $1,500,000, with a bonded indebtedness of $500,000.

The club has a monthly pay-roll of more than $20,000. It employs thirty cooks and seventy waiters, which indicates that the club includes many members of the "hungry brigade." The wine cellars are complete and about 900 persons are served daily in the several dining rooms. On extra occasions 800 persons can be served at the same time. The ice plant has a capacity of sixty tons daily and in the basement is an immense humidor with a capacity of 250,000 cigars. The club, in all of its activities, does a business of approximately $1,000,000 a year.

Charles J. Walsh is in charge of the cigar department as buyer, with J. H. Hayden as assistant in charge of the counters. Mr. Hayden is one of the oldest cigar men in the Chicago trade and Mr. Walsh has spent years in the business. This club has what are probably the largest cigar sales of any club in Chicago, and probably measures up to those of any club in America. The business has been vastly increased since 1904, when Mr. Walsh took charge.

In 1904 the cigar and cigarette sales for the year amounted to $51,412.45. In the year 1912 this was increased to the enormous sum of $130,206.01, with a probable considerable increase over that figure for this year. Mr. Walsh says he believes his department does the biggest cigar business of any club in the country and the figures would seem to justify this belief. There are carried in stock at all times 400 sizes in the various brands of cigars and 100 brands and sizes of cigarettes.

The cigars are handled on a basis that presents a practical ten per cent. reduction in price to the club member over the price he would have to pay in the street cigar stores, and the cigar stands are the busiest places in the club rooms at all times. The most prominent imported brands of cigars are: "La Alhambra," La Intimidad," "Belinda," "C. E. Beck & Company," "Bock & Company," "La Carolina," "Cabanas," "La Corona," "La Diligencia," "Eden," "Elite," "Henry Clay," "H. Upmann," "Hoyo de Monterey," "La Esception," "La Espanola," "Lords of England," "F. Garcia y Hermanos," "Manuel Garcia," "Flor de Partagas," "Pedro Murias," "Por Larranaga," "Romeo y Julieta," "Sol," "La Vencedora," "Villar y Villar."

The clear Havana brands include: "Alvarita," "Castro," "Cherry Circle," "Cleora," "Colonel Eden," "Corina," "El Infinito," "El Genio," "General Shields," "Henry Irving," "Jose Vila," "La Flor de Cuba," "La Evidencia," "La Defensa," "La Flor de Tadema," "La Lita," "La Venda," "F. Lozano," "Lucius," "La Escorial," "Ilinda," "Optimo," "Paola & Francesca," "Russell-Davis," "Solace," "Van Dyke," "Vanderbilt Cup," "Webster," "A. H. R. Gems," and "Bouquet de la Ada."

The cigarette list includes: "Benson & Hedges, "Bock," "C. A. A. Special Havana," "C. A. A. Pincus," "C. A. A. Special Turkish," "Cabanas," "Condax," "Dabs," "Deities," "Shepherd's Hotel Dimitrino" (imported), "Duke of York," "Estabrook & Easton," "Egyptian Luxury," "El Proposos" little cigars, "Fatimas," "Galbas" (imported), "King William Highball," "La Marquise," "Laurens," "Melachrino," "Mignon," "Milo," "Monopole," "Mogul," "Murad," "Naishapor," "Naturals," "Pall Mall," "Philip Morris," "Prize Cup Naturals," "Rameses II," "Richmond Straight Cuts," "Sanitas," "Savory," "Sweet Caporal," "Vifiadis Fleur d'Orient," "Vifiadis Prince of Wales." The smoking tobaccos only comprise "Spilman's Mixture," "Cake Box," "Latakia" and "Guard's Mixture."

"Proof," a New Illinois Cigar

J. Fred Zellman, of Hillsboro, Ill., who manufactures the "Town Boost" cigar, has recently added another brand to his line, called "Proof." This latest cigar is claimed to be a high quality smoke and the manufacturer claims that the "Proof" is in the smoking.

D. Gordon Morrissett, son of the late W. J. Morrissett, who was a prominent factor in the T. C. Williams Tobacco Company, of Richmond, Va., has just received a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Fifth United States Cavalry. Mr. Morrissett had a splendid military training at the crack Virginia Military Institute and is a graduate of the class of 1912 of that fine old institution.

Chicago

Holiday Atmosphere Booms Local Trade—Games of Chance in Cigar Stores Must Stop—New Hippodrome Has Smoking Gallery—Re-Routing of "L" Trains May Affect Trade

CHICAGO, ILL., November 10, 1913.

WITH the arrival of real winter weather, after a protracted spell of mildness, a holiday spirit has already become manifest, and is making itself felt, much to the delight of local dealers, in the increased consumption of cigars and tobacco all over the city. The average citizen of the Windy City, who leads a strenuous life and figures that there is only this world and the next, anyway, is inclined to smoke more when the weather is brisk; and the generous mood developed by thoughts of the approaching Yule-tide pervades his soul and strengthens his hand-clasp. Local dealers vouch for the veracity of this little piece of psychology and one added that it might be well to note that the petticoat government, in expectancy of donations for Xmas presents, is very likely to let up a little on the enforcement of the domestic ordinance which forbids smoking in the house; which concession might also be in a measure responsible for the good trade which is now setting in for the holidays.

The leaf tobacco houses report business good, although one claimed that collections were a little slow in the city. This is attributed to the fact that this is license time for the saloons, making it hard for the local manufacturers to get their money promptly, and in turn making collections bad for the jobber. Collections outside the city are coming home in a most satisfactory manner, although the buying is cautious, most of the "buckeyes" ordering no more stock than they will need in the immediate future. Prices, which rule high, may have something to do with this. They are higher than at this time last year. Binders are steep, especially the Wisconsin grades.

"I can see no objection to this measure," declared Mr. Taylor, "but on the other hand I do not see where the benefit would lie except in a few cases of flagrant misrepresentation which come to my mind. The manufacturer who is wise will label his brands exactly what they are and nothing else. The man who is smoking a crude variety of Spanish Zimmer under the impression that he is puffing a Havana is going to tumble some day, and when that day comes he will be henceforth a walking Nemesis, who will give that particular brand a black eye wherever he goes. Multiply such a man a few hundred times and you will see the sale on the bogus Havana in question slump to a point where dealers will no longer care to keep them in their cases. The United Cigar Stores Company never calls a cigar anything but what it actually is, and we have even gone to the trouble to get out what we call our descriptive brand book, which we put in our various stores for distribution and which describes the stock used in every one of our brands. This is the only policy which will win success, for a cigar cannot have a worse enemy than a smoker who has found himself misled by false claims made by the manufacturer. I have on several occasions warned a clerk to stick closer to the truth when I have overheard his 'stretching' a particular brand to a customer. I believe that the bond provision will find its greatest usefulness in the localities where honest manufacturers are forced to compete with others who print false and extravagant claims on the labels which announce their brands."

"In regard to our business here in Chicago I can say that the month of October showed an increase of 18 per cent. in volume of sales over the same period last year. We will establish a new store next Saturday at North Avenue and Clark Street, and one a week from that date in Evanston."

Reid, Murdock & Company will move into the new building which is being erected for them in the near future. This structure is on North Clark Street, extending over to La Salle Street, on the north bank of the river. The cigar department of this flourishing wholesale grocery is in charge of George W. Anderson, self-confessed warhorse of the trade here in the city, having been in harness twenty-six years. Mr. Anderson announces with pride that the cigar department will be on the first floor in the new home, with the humidor space twice as large, and furnishings which will excite the admiration of out-of-town visitors. The department will be near the Clark Street entrance. E. B. McKenzie, who is interested in getting Chicago smokers to see the good qualities of "El Roi-Tan" cigars, was in the office and assisted Mr. Anderson in describing what the new home of the cigar department of Reid, Murdock & Company is going to be like.

Franklin MacVeagh & Company, another leading wholesale grocery which distributes several well-known brands of cigars, has secured a twenty-year lease on the nine-story brick building at Lake and Market Streets, which Reid, Murdock & Company will vacate. The lease begins January 1, and the firm will move into its new quarters on or shortly after that date.

Wilfred C. Clarkson, president of the San Martin Company, Tampa, Fla., has returned after a business visit in Chicago, during which time he made plans for boosting the sale of "El Griffo" and "Juliana" cigars.

Chief Gleason, new head of Chicago's police department, is out with a big broom to clean up the town and it looks like the "26" dice game was about through, much to the sorrow of local dealers, who, in company with a large per cent. of the good-natured public, fail to see anything pernicious in the use of the "bones" where no actual money is at stake. Chief Gleason, however, has issued the following terse order, which speaks for itself:

"To Commanding Officers: Dice games, punch boards and other similar gambling devices are being installed from time to time in cigar stores, saloons, and other places of business throughout the city for the ostensible purpose of promoting trade in cigars, candy and other merchandise. Devices which hold out to the purchaser the hope of obtaining more than the value of the amount paid are gambling devices and must be suppressed. They shall not be permitted under any circumstances. You will notify the officers of your command that they must visit all places of business where dice games, especially the form commonly called "26," punch boards, raffle cards and penny-in-the-slot machines are apt to be used and confiscate, following which you will forward to the city custodian with an inventory marked 'Held for evidence.' If any person from whom such device is confiscated again permits the same to be operated upon his premises you will see that a summons is issued against him and that he is vigorously prosecuted."

There is no mistaking the tone of this order. The lid comes down at an unfortunate time, for local cigar and pipe dealers have always depended upon the punch-board and raffle system during the holidays to stimulate trade, and in other years it has proved a gold mine, as the younger element, and some of the old boys, too, are decidedly in favor of getting a run for their money. The present agitation against these games is due almost entirely to the greediness of certain dealers who have made a practice of robbing young boys of their earnings, which has aroused the anger of the parents to the point where they called upon the police to stop the operation of the system. State's Attorney Hoyne has announced that he will not consent to a further delay of a number of alleged gambling cases, involving local dealers, and they will come to trial November 20, before Municipal Judge Frederick L. Fake. Upon the outcome of these cases depends in large measure the life or death of the "26" dice game, the punch board, the raffle card and the penny-in-the-slot machine.

John T. Dee, of the Theobald & Oppenheimer Company, who is on his way to the Pacific Coast, stopped off in Chicago for several days recently to visit the trade.

Bernstein & Schley have opened a cigar store on the corner of Van Buren and Franklin Streets. They will carry a full line of imported cigars and will feature "La Venga" and "F. Lozano."

Pipes and smokers' articles are being featured at this time in all the Best & Russell stores. Fred C. Bauer, head of the pipe department, is offering a line which contains a number of new ones, sure to prove hot sellers.

"Duc de Tampa," manufactured by Garcia, Diaz & Company, Tampa, Fla., has come to town and is beginning to make its presence felt. It sells for a nickel.

The National Cigar Store, 34 South Dearborn Street, is offering several new designs in pipes to the early holiday trade, including the Rudolph and Comoy, which are marked at greatly reduced prices, made possible under the lower tariff rates.

Arthur J. Simpson, treasurer of the Best & Russell Company, has returned from his annual vacation much refreshed.

Sig Meyer, Western representative for F. Lozano, Son & Company, will leave November 10, on a six weeks' vacation to be spent at Coronado Beach, Cal.

Kahn & Mautner, 160 North La Salle Street, are offering a new stock complete in variety and assortment, which is certain to take well with holiday buyers.

George A. Renaud, secretary of the William F. Monroe Cigar Company, is submitting to the stare of the general public which inspects his windows a forty-pound "muskie" which he landed last summer. The fish is stuffed and mounted and is attracting a lot of attention, which is natural, for it is certainly a whopper.

The Peerless Cigar Company has opened a new store at the corner of Robey Street and Milwaukee Avenue.

A. L. Sylvester, president of the American Cigar Company, passed through the city recently en route to the Wisconsin tobacco fields.

Sylvan Hirschberg, of L. Newburger & Brother, Cincinnati, is expected in Chicago soon to visit the trade and his many friends.

F. A. Raller, box manufacturer, has sold his business and will engage in farming in Alabama, where he owns some valuable land. For many years he was manager of the Post Office Cigar Stores in the Federal Building.

The Englewood, a burlesque theatre which opened recently on Sixty-third Street near Halsted, has restricted smoking to the boxes and to the balconies. This rule was made because it seems that the fair element in Englewood is interested in burlesque in proportion almost equal to the males, and the management feared that too much fog in the pit might be annoying.

The new hippodrome which is to be built on North Clark Street between Wrightwood and Diversey Boulevards, will have a smoking gallery which will accommodate 1000 persons. The total seating capacity of the house is 2600. Albert Breitung has secured the exclusive cigar privilege and will occupy the corner store of the building. The management plans to give two shows daily and four on Sunday, which means that a lot of smokers will be attracted

Mazda Lights Spread Fame of "Gato"

Joseph Zimmerman, of Pittsburgh, who finds "Gato" cigars popular with his customers, has recently had erected on his building, an electric sign which is illustrated in the accompanying cut. This sign measures eight feet by five, and the words are illuminated at night with Mazda ten-watt lamps. It is said that this sign can be seen for ten squares from Mr. Zimmerman's place of business. This is some recommendation for the brilliancy of Mazda lights.

TOBACCO BIDS FOR NAVY CONTRACTS

American Jack Tars to Decide After Testing Samples—When Verdict is in, Contract is Let—May Not Go to the Lowest Bidder

WASHINGTON, November 11, 1913.

Yesterday the Navy Department shipped to the Brooklyn Navy Yard a number of packages of tobacco which will mean much for the comfort of the American Jack Tars during the coming twelve months. These packages included all the samples submitted by the fifteen manufacturers and jobbers of tobacco to the United States Government on November 4, in competition for the order for 50,000 pounds which the Government annually distributes free to the "Jackies" on shipboard.

The list of bidders includes some of the most important concerns in the country and the bids range in price from a low-water mark of 34 1-20 cents per pound, a tender made by John Rothschild & Company, of New York, to a maximum figure of 45½ cents per pound, made by the Metropolitan Tobacco Company, of New York.

The Navy Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest bid tendered, but they send the samples submitted to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where a committee of Jack Tars under the supervision of the United States Naval Officers sample the various grades and render a verdict as to the tobacco which they like best. When this report is sent to Washington, the contract is let.

Last year, Martin Brothers were the lucky firm who secured the order and they are again in the field this year with four bids from 40 cents to 41½ cents per pound.

The United States Tobacco Company, who have received some notable contracts of this character, and who furnished the tobacco for the famous Peary Arctic expedition, submitted four bids this year, the lowest of which was 36 cents per pound.

Stolen Cigars Recovered

A curious theft has been turned up by the police of Canton, O., when they located in a saloon in that city on the fifth of this month, 15,000 cigars which were a part of a large consignment of goods supposedly stolen by railway employees from a shipment of 40,000 cigars from Tampa, Fla.

The saloonkeeper who had the contraband goods, disclaimed all knowledge of them, and said that he had bought them at a fair price.

The Bock-Stauffer Cigar Company, of Pittsburgh, notified the police in Canton that they had lost a shipment of 10,000 cigars en route from Tampa, and that they were sending a man to Canton to endeavor to identify the stolen goods.

Chicago Letter

to the spot. As the new building will be directly opposite the Limits Car Barns, the street railway men will no doubt prove additional profitable customers for the cigar store.

Thorwart & Roehling have started a vigorous campaign on Lipschutz's "44" cigars, which are now distributed by them in this market.

The Horse Shoe Cigar Store, near the Forty-seventh Street L station, does a large box business and has a heavy transient trade on high class goods.

Local factories are working full blast and many of them would employ more hands if they could find them. The city is making rapid strides in the production of high-grade Havana cigars.

"El Vello" is a Havana brand which is making rapid gains, due no less to quality than to the sales genius of Ed Kuttnauer, of the El Vello Cigar Company, who is now on a Western trip in the interest of the cigar.

There continues to be much speculation as to just what effect the through routing of the "L" trains, which went into effect recently, will have on the trade of the stores. The change includes the installation of two transfer points, one at the southeast end and one at the northwest end of the loop. The larger stores, of course, which have locations all over the city, will not notice any difference in the aggregate, although some individual stores may feel a change for the better or for the worse. It is now possible for a passenger to ride from Evanston to Jackson Park or from either of these points to Oak Park, many miles on the west side, without once coming down to the ground, and all for a nickel. The real trade boom for the stores in the remoter districts of the city will come, according to local cigar men, when the subway is built, if that ever happens. It is claimed that a subway would cause the outlying parts to build up in a hurry, because of the greater convenience in reaching the loop, the shorter time required, and the consequent influx of persons who do not dare to locate so far away under the present poor transportation facilities. The future of Chicago, however, as a tobacco distributing center, both for cigars and box goods, is assured, for local jobbers claim it is growing more year by year, with nothing in sight to impede the expansion.

G. W. WHITCOMB.

Jeitles & Blumenthal brands have been having extensive sales in St. Paul through the splendid efforts of the G. C. Knispel Company, who act as their distributors in that territory.

Harry A. Wartmann

HARRY A. WARTMANN, president of the Ryan-Hampton Tobacco Company, of Louisville, Ky., died at his home, 1039 Cherokee Road, of acute indigestion after an illness of only a day.

Mr. Wartmann was born in Evansville, Ind., in 1866, and was the son of United States Commissioner James A. Wartmann.

Henry Schroder

Henry Schroder, one of the best-known tobacco men of Louisville, Ky., passed away at the home of his sister-in-law in New York on November 2. He had been ailing for a long time, and had been spending some time in Atlantic City, where he seemed to be improving. He returned to New York, where a relapse set in. He was sixty-eight years old.

Mr. Schroder came to Louisville, in 1883, from New York. He formed the firm of Bockee, Garth & Schroder, which was one of the most successful tobacco houses in Louisville.

John Mahrt

John Mahrt, a former cigar manufacturer of Dayton, O., died at his home, 819 South Ludlow Street, on November 1. Herman C. Mahrt, a brother of the deceased, died only a short time ago. Misfortune seems to have beset the family's path, for during the big flood, their home was burned to the water's edge.

Mr. Mahrt was born in Germany, but came to this country when a boy. He had been engaged in the manufacturing of cigars for many years, but retired about five years ago. The deceased would have been forty-five years old on November 4.

Mr. Mahrt is survived by a widow and seven children; also one brother and three sisters.

Sterling C. Griffin

Sterling C. Griffin, a well-known tobacconist of Kennebunk, Me., recently passed away at his home on Main Street, at the age of sixty-three. For many years he had conducted a cigar store in the Griffin Building. He was a good citizen as well as a successful merchant. He had been ill for three years.

The deceased is survived by a widow and three children.

Albert Cahn

Albert Cahn, who was connected with the wholesale tobacco firm of C. H. Stitzner & Son, in New York, died of heart disease at his home, No. 1616 Avenue H, in Flatbush. He was forty-five years old and is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter.

Joseph C. Brucker

Joseph C. Brucker, a cigar manufacturer of the firm of Brucker & Boghlen, died on November 10, at his home, 2203 North Howard Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

He was a member of the Kensington Board of Trade, was a Mason, and belonged to several other fraternal organizations.

"MADE IN BOND" ACT NOT FULLY UNDERSTOOD IN KEY WEST

KEY WEST, FLA., November 10, 1913.

AT a meeting of their association last week, Key West cigar manufacturers found a number of things to talk about, and among them was the now famous "Made in Bond" law. They saw several obstacles in the way of successfully bonding a factory, and they also do not see how the law covers the points in question. They therefore await, with considerable interest, further enlightenment regarding procedure. The "little fellows" think they have a just cause for complaint, and the "big boys" are not anxious to go ahead until some of their questions regarding the law, are explained. Just how many of their troubles are imaginary and just how many real, remains to be seen.

Because they are not able to stand the additional expense of an inspector, the "little fellows" charge that the law is unfair, and that under the present ruling they will be prevented from "manufacturing in bond," because of the cost. They suggest as a remedy a tax per thousand on all cigars; this would permit one inspector to act for several factories, and would permit the small manufacturer to benefit from the law, too.

The fact that the inspector is to carry the keys to the factory, which will give him practical control of the premises, does not seem to appeal to the manufacturers, either. They say that this will prevent the operation of the factory more than eight hours a day, and would be a handicap during the rush season. The question of settlement of loss by fire is another phase of the situation which might cause entanglement. At present, properties, both insured and uninsured, are visited hourly by a night watchman. With the inspector, the only man carrying keys to it, they feel that this interferes with the proper protection of their property.

The provision which requires the bonded factory to start with nothing but bare walls, and without one ounce of any kind of tobacco, has raised the question of what is to be done with the tobacco on hand at the time of bonding.

The manufacturers seemed to feel that as a whole the law had more objectionable features than were at first observed, and they expressed the opinion that they will go very slow in taking up the question of factory bonding.

The Association, before adjourning, passed a resolution, asking the Collector of Customs of the port, to restore the old time of seven hours per day at the Bonded Warehouses, with no noon recess. They also requested in the resolution, that there be less ventilation in the bonded buildings; it being the opinion that they were kept too open for the good of the tobacco stored there.

INGLACITA.

Clarence Lebus Re-elected

LEXINGTON, KY., November 13.

At the annual meeting of the Burley Tobacco Company, held here yesterday, the antagonistic factions who have opposed the management of President Clarence Lebus and the directors of the corporation, failed to show any strength as far as the voting was concerned and entire board as well as the same staff of officers was re-elected, easily, to serve during the ensuing year.

The annual report of the company showed it to be in a flourishing and prosperous condition, despite the attacks on the management which had been made and the litigation which the officers have successfully combatted.

The report shows that the advertising campaign conducted by the Strater Tobacco Company's branch of the Burley Company on "City Club" had proved a huge success, and that the company had made a great deal of money on the brand.

Henry Wefers

The Moehle Lithograph Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., with profound sorrow announces to the trade, the death of their representative, Henry Wefers, on October 26, 1913.

Stone-Ordean-Wells Company Busy

THE Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, of Duluth, distributing in the upper half of Michigan, Wisconsin, Idaho and Wyoming, and all of Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota, are meeting with success on their Clear Havana brands, especially the "Lucius," made by Corral, Wodiska & Company, of Tampa. Although they have had this brand only a few months, Harry A. Earnshaw, of the Cigar and Tobacco Department, reports that it immediately became a big seller.

R. M. C. Glenn, president of Seidenberg & Company, of New York, visited the Duluth office the other day and congratulated the head of the department on a sixty per cent. increase in their business over a corresponding period last year.

"Class" is reported to be the best nickel seller ever handled by the firm in their thirty-five years of business, and it is expected that in 1914 the 10,000,000 mark will be reached. "Osceola," "El Roi-Tan" and "Figaro," are the other Seidenberg brands handled by this house.

"Flor de Stone," a seed and Havana cigar, made by E. M. Schwarz & Company, is another brand that has had a large sale with the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company for some time. Other brands made by E. M. Schwarz & Company, and handled by this firm are "Newport Club," "S-O-W-Co." "Strawberry" and "Stone Junior," all nickel smokes. They also handle "El Portano," made by the G. J. Johnson Cigar Company.

In addition, this firm has for many years been distributors for the "El Verso," "Nestor," "Tuxedo Club," "Portuondo" and "Royal Banner." Also "Opia," "Tuxedo Club, Jr.," and "John Drew," made by A. G. Kaufman & Company.

O. H. Daily & Company, of Kokomo, Ind., are meeting with a large duplicating business on "Bold" cigars. This nickel smoke is proving very popular in their territory and they, themselves, have been surprised by the rapidity with which repeat orders are coming in.

Portland Firm Doing Good Work

Mason, Ehrman & Company, of Portland, Ore., who distribute many well-known brands are enjoying splendid trade for the holiday season and have had many repeat orders on their new smoke, "La Mega," made by V. Guerra Diaz & Company.

The Yocum Brothers' brands, "Y-B" and "Spana-Cuba," are having a big distribution through this well-known firm and Mr. McCallig, head of the cigar and tobacco department, is well pleased with the indications of steady growth. "Flor de Moss," the famous Lancaster, Pa., ten-cent smoke, is reported by the firm to be forging rapidly to the front.

The growth of the sale of "Flor de Isabella," a Manila product, is indicative of the increasing popularity of Philippine cigars. Mason, Ehrman & Company say that they are always out of stock long before the next steamer arrives.

Glaser Brothers Shine During the Portola

Glaser Brothers, the well-known jobbers of San Francisco, kept open house on a luxurious scale during the recent Portola Festival. They secured a suite of rooms on the second floor of the Sutter Hotel, and from 8 A. M., until midnight, throughout the week, this enterprising firm entertained continuously. All their city and country friends were invited to make their reception room their headquarters while in the city.

William Bacharach, who is credited with this unique advertising stunt, was in charge and was ably assisted by two other salesmen, E. Sadlis and M. Matthews.

There were boxes of candy, packages of chocolate and cake, for the women and children; and packages of cigars for the visitors of the masculine sex. There were liquid refreshments, too, and the list ran all the way from lemonade and iced tea to champagne.

Corr-Williams Trade Growing

W. B. Gibson, treasurer and manager of the distributing house of Corr-Williams Tobacco Company, of Jackson, Miss., has built up an extensive and constantly growing trade on the brands handled by the firm throughout their territory, and a high compliment has been paid his energetic efforts and business ability by the large number of growing accounts that the company is now handling.

Among the popular brands handled by this house are: "H. B.," "Arabian Nights," "Buck," "Cremo," "Rocky Ford," "Reina Planta," "King Roger," "La Fruta," "Salome" and "Smile," while "El Aspecto" and "Osmundo" rank high among their ten-cent grades.

The salesrooms and warehouse of the Corr-Williams Tobacco Company are located in the Morrison Building, on Pearl Street. Several of the leading business men of Jackson are directly interested in the company. The officers are: R. H. Green, president; Eugene Simpson, vice-president; W. B. Gibson, treasurer and manager; R. M. Heidelberg, secretary.

Jottings of Jobbers

O. G. Hemenway, of the house of Hemenway & Moser, of Salt Lake, Seattle and Butte, has been spending his vacation in San Francisco. Arthur Meyers, representative of Bustillo Brothers & Diaz, entertained Mr. Hemenway while he was in that city.

Morgan Gunst, of M. A. Gunst & Company, who has been spending considerable time in Los Angeles, has returned to San Francisco.

The National Candy Company, distributors in Minneapolis for the "Charles Denby," report a constantly growing trade on this well-known nickel smoke.

L. A. Sawyer, distributor of the "Las Dos Naciones Mexican," and "El Griffo" clear Havana cigars, has returned to San Francisco after a ten days' trip to Nevada. He reports business good.

Jobbers Working Shipping Departments Overtime—Morris Burke Gets Shipment of "Reynaldos"—J. J. Gans Brothers in New Quarters—Owens Aqueduct

LOS ANGELES, CAL., November 6th.

THE Klingenstein Co. is entirely out of "Cinco" cigars and also Yocum's "Spana-Cuba," and will have a hard time in satisfying customers who demand their goods immediately. They are way behind in filling orders for these two brands, due to the fact that the factory cannot supply them fast enough. This firm is making very attractive window displays throughout the city on "La Preferencia" and "Y-B" cigars. The "Duke of York" cigarettes, the new addition to this concern's brands, together with "Harem" cigarettes, are taking hold very nicely. The "Harem" cigarettes are fifteen for ten cents. They have just taken in stock a new size "Webster," namely, "Corona," and Mr. Klingenstein informs me that it is already a winner. "Admiration" cigars are, as usual, keeping up with their former records. "Milo" and "Mon Caprice" cigarettes are being worked very hard by the sales force of Klingenstein Co.

The big jobbing concern, Klauber-Wangenheim Co., are unquestionably in the lead when it comes to establishing business in their line with the foreign trade in Southern California and Arizona. The Italian and French trade is covered by Angelo Mussatti, who speaks both Italian and French fluently. The Mexican and Spanish trade is worked by Mr. Salazar, a relative of the famous Mexican general of that name; while the Japanese trade is ably looked after by Sam Inonye, a talented Japanese, and a graduate of one of the local commercial colleges. In addition to this force, Dave Marx, who has covered the Arizona trade for many years, speaks five languages fluently, and the best of his Arizona customers numbers Slavonians, Italians, French and Hungarians, all of whom have purchased cigars from Klauber-Wangenheim Co. for many years, and who will no doubt continue to purchase from this firm for many years to come.

In my letter of October 7th, I stated that "Flor de Mendel" cigars were smoked at the banquet given by H. H. Manley to the sales force of Klauber-Wangenheim at the Hotel Alexandria. This was incorrect, the cigars mentioned as smoked at this banquet should have read "Chancellor."

J. J. Gans Bros. have just a few days ago moved into their new quarters, located at Third and San Pedro Streets. They occupy the entire floor, 100 x 200 feet, in measurement. They also possess a magnificent concrete basement. I visited this new home of Gans Bros. and was delighted to see the rapid strides this firm has taken in the past two years. They have placed in their building a large humidor which holds one million six hundred thousand cigars. They are justly proud of the showing they have been making in their entire lines. They received recently a shipment of sixty cases of "La Natividad" cigars, manufactured by Franklin Gerdts, of San Francisco, Cal., and the entire shipment went out in less than twenty-four hours to fill back orders. Their sales force is well organized and hard to beat. They deserve much credit for their everlasting and untiring efforts they put forward to the betterment of the trade, and it is from such men that the cigar business profits. The brands which these men sell for Gans Bros. are "Lawrence Barrett," "Tom Keene," "La Natividad," "Sarzedas" and numerous other cigars of high standard quality. Robt. Gans, junior member of the firm, is without doubt one of the most popular cigar men on this coast, and his business dealings are always on the "level" and get results. J. J. Gans Bros. receives the well wishes of the cigar and tobacco trade upon their taking a "new lease on life" and nothing but success is looked for.

Sam Friend, with the Klingenstein Co., is one of the most busy men in town. Sam has already sold out all of his Xmas packages, such as "Y-B" leaflets, etc. In fact, Klingenstein Co. have their hands full in supplying all customers who demand goods immediately on account of shortage, and have wired for another shipment to be sent by express. Sam is the cause of all this turmoil in Klingenstein's shipping department. He is of the hustling type of business man one reads of in books, ever on the go, and always ready to talk "cigars" with anyone he sees a chance to transact business with.

Haas-Baruch & Co. are at present enjoying the largest volume of business on "Lovera" cigars ever. Ike Wentworth deserves much credit for his good work directed towards the "Lovera" cigar. This brand is well-placed about the city and surrounding territory and window displays are not the least of Ike's good work—by a long shot.

T. G. Devitt arrived in town boosting things along for the Philip Morris cigarettes. He was accompanied with Dave Block, of San Francisco, Cal., who accompanied him for the purpose of carrying out a sixty-day window campaign on Philip Morris cigarettes. Mr. Devitt will be with us for at least one more week.

"Zubelda" cigarettes are selling like a house on fire and are bringing joy to the wholesalers and retailers. It sure has taken a firm hold on the cigarette smoking consumer.

The Pacific Electric Cigar Store states that the "Mi Rey" cigar is among the best four sellers handled by them.

The Max Roth Cigar Co. have received a shipment of one hundred thousand "Tamparettes" and are already getting a good distribution of this brand. They report business very satisfactory.

I. I. Hess, better known as "Optimo" Hess, is at the present writing in Portland, Ore., and is expected here in a few days. He will preach "Optimos" for a period of four long weeks in the territory controlled by Klauber-Wangenheim Co., distributors of this grand "seller of sellers."

The "Carabana" cigar is making its first appearance in this city. Beck & Co. have control of this cigar and report an excellent distribution, which fully exceeded any predictions made by members of the firm.

Anthony Schwamm has just returned from Imperial Valley, where he was talking "Rosa de Valle" cigars to the trade. The way Anthony sends in orders makes one wonder.

The "Don Remo" cigar, manufactured by Davis & Sons, of Cincinnati, O., and controlled here by M. A. Newmark & Co., has been getting a very wide distribution through the efforts of Mr. Cowell, who has not overlooked to place this cigar in every cigar store, drug store and every other store. He has not overlooked stocking up country dealers with this "Don Remo" cigar and the suburban dealers are constantly remitting in large orders for this cigar.

J. B. Bonhaus, representing Klauber-Wangenheim Co., of this city, is once more leaving for the district surrounding Bakersfield, otherwise called the Oil Well District, and he will no doubt bring home the bacon as he has done in years past.

More than 100,000 persons gathered in the business district of the city and at Exposition Park today to celebrate man's triumph over nature, the completion of the Owens aqueduct. A grateful city expressed joy over the leading of a great stream of water from its natural channels almost two hundred and fifty miles away. At ten o'clock this morning a rift of smoke high in the air followed by a reverberating report signalled the thousands of men in the street below to begin the spectacular parade. In the procession were a dozen or more bands in the column which was lined out for three miles. Today was declared by the mayor a holiday, all schools being closed to allow the children to participate in the day's events and witness a spectacle which they might justly be proud to relate to their young ones in years to come. One cannot fully realize the effect this project, the Owens River aqueduct, will have on business in Los Angeles and surrounding territory.

Morris Burke reports "Luxellos," "Post Dispatch," "Havana Sticks," "Picadura Import" and "Sylvania" cigars moving to his utmost satisfaction, but more so to the satisfaction of the distributors, Klauber-Wangenheim Co., of this city. Morris Burke has just received a shipment of "Reynaldo" cigars, manufactured by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb, of Philadelphia, Pa., and he hopes the rush for these cigars will continue. They seem to strike the hearts of the smoker of high smoke-stuffs.

Hoffman-Moore Co. Reorganizes

The firm of Hoffman-Moore Company, of San Francisco, has reorganized with J. J. Hoffman in entire control, having purchased the other interests involved. In addition to the brands they are now handling, the firm will take on the "Music Master," a Porto Rican cigar, made by the American-West Indies Company. Under the private labels of the firm, two new cigars will be launched, one to be known as the "International 1915," a 10-cent brand, and "San Francisco 1915," to sell for a nickel. Special arrangements for the exclusive use of these labels have been made with the directors of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Brunhoff Lighter Popular With Retailers

A very popular jump spark lighter with automatic cutter attached, and one that appeals especially to the retail cigar trade, is offered with the latest improvements by the Brunhoff Manufacturing Company, of Cincinnati, O. The front of the lighter contains room for either a mirror or an ad. The handle attached to the light is of length convenient for those whom Nature has not favored with normal height, and is equally satisfactory for those of more than standard stature. It is claimed for this lighter that it is durable, economical, and sure to light every time.

The Nathanson Cigar Company, distributors for the "New Bachelor" cigar, made by T. J. Dunn & Company, for Minneapolis, is opening another store in that city in the Corn Exchange Building, at Fourth Street and Fourth Avenue, South.

CIGAR TRADE BOOMING IN YORK

"Cinco" Output for 1913 in York May Exceed 28,000,000 Cigars—Many Factories Behind in Orders—Sixteen New Factories Licensed in October

THE demand for Christmas goods is heavier than ever before in this city and many of the factories have booked more orders than they can fill. Extra hours and more hands seem the only solution, and the new labor law has not helped the situation any.

The "Cinco" factory which employs about 600 hands, is averaging an output from 110,000 to 124,000 cigars daily, and in all probability its output for the year will exceed 28,000,000 cigars, which will be the largest in the history of any York factory.

The Dallastown factory of Myers & Adams has just received an order for 250,000 cigars, which will keep them busy for some time to come.

Notwithstanding the large number of factories now operating in the York section of the district, sixteen cigar and tobacco factories were opened last month. They will give a total employment to about forty-five hands.

All records of revenue receipts were broken at the York office this month when $128,663.52 was received for cigars alone. In 1912 during the month of October, the total receipts amounted to only $128,532.50. At the rate of three dollars a thousand, the receipts from cigars for October would mean that 4,288,800 cigars were made in York and the vicinity during that period.

The following is a list of the new factories, and number of hands employed in each, that were opened:

S. A. Roseman & Company, tobacco factory, Red Lion; Harry L. Altland, York, five hands; McGuigan & Company, tobacco factory, Red Lion; Frank A. Smith, Windsor, ten hands; Charles F. Smeltzer, Craley, two hands; Bertha L. Charles E. Calyman, Park, No. 1, three hands; Horace B. Ramsay, Wrightsville, No. 1, two hands; Maude Wilt, York, No. 6, two hands; Frank Kise, Red Lion, five hands; Annie L. Urey, Felton, No. 2, two hands; Lewis Elfner, Red Lion, No. 3, three hands; Simon J. Fake, Springvale, No. 2, three hands; Charles F. Smletzer, Craley, two hands; Bertha L. Kyer, Springvale, two hands; Clarence Hoffman, Red Lion, two hands; E. S. Barshinger, York, five hands.

Cigar Store Changes Owners

FRANKLIN, PA.

James M. Henry has completed negotiations for the purchase of the retail tobacco business of G. E. Bacharach, and has taken possession. The store is located on Liberty Street and is one of the most attractive in the town. The store will be considerably enlarged and refitted as a modern cigar store. Mr. Henry has been engaged in the tobacco business for some time and is thoroughly familiar with the details of the trade.

A meeting of the Lancaster County Tobacco Growers' Association was held in Lancaster on November 10. It was largely attended and there were numerous papers read of interest to the growers. The next meeting will be held the second Monday in December.

Ninth District Has Big Cigar Output

LANCASTER, PA.

RECEIPTS of the Ninth Internal Revenue District for cigars during October show a total of $273,962.85 and the stamp sales show an output of 91,320,950 cigars. In 1912 during the month of October, the stamp sales for cigars amounted to $262,808.97. This gives an increase of more than $10,000 for the trade during October of this year. The total increase over the same month in 1912 was about $13,000, so that the bulk of increased business of the internal revenue office at Lancaster has come from the growing cigar industry.

In September of this year the receipts from cigars alone were $251,248.11.

Heard Up-State

John H. Fisher, a cigar manufacturer of Reading, has removed his business from 140 North Third Street to 343 Rose Street.

Christopher Mike, the well-known tobacconist of Norristown, is beautifying the interior of his store with the most up-to-date fittings. When the renovations are complete it will be one of the most attractive smoke shops in town. It is located on East Hector Street.

Because of his rapidly-growing business, it is said that B. F. Spatz, of York, contemplates breaking ground in Dallastown for the erection of another cigar factory.

E. L. Nissly, of the firm of E. L. Nissly & Sons, leaf tobacco dealers of Lancaster, Pa., has left for the West on an extended trip.

Robert J. Adams, the hustling representative of William Neil & Company, cigar manufacturers of Altoona, paid a visit to his home in Roaring Springs recently.

J. W. Brenneman, of Millersville, who manufactures the well-known nickel smoke, "Our Principal," was a Philadelphia visitor this week. He reports business good and a steady call for the factory leader.

Damaged by Fire

Combustion in a pile of rubbish at the rear of the John Becker cigar store, 259 Cincinnati Street, Dayton, O., caused damage to the store and building amounting to about $175.

For the second time this year, the cigar factory of Craig Brothers, at Lacon, Ill., escaped being swept by fire. About ten o'clock in the evening flames were discovered. A bucket brigade was organized and the fire extinguished before it had made much headway. Cigar stock was damaged to the extent of about $75, while the building suffered about $30 damage.

Detroit

Nine Thousand Dollars a Year for Hotel Cadillac Lease—Mazer Cigar Company to Occupy Addition Soon—G. J. Johnson Cigar Company to Erect New Factory

DETROIT, MICH., November 10th.

AMONG the leaf tobacco men in town recently were Mr. Penner, of E. Rosenwald & Bro.; Fred Singer, of S. Rossin & Sons; Howard Kinney, of H. Duys & Co.; Gus Hirsch, of L. Schmid & Co.; Harry Nathan and Harry Spingarn, of E. Spingarn & Co., and C. S. Sarluy, of F. & E. Cranz & Co.

Peter Zimmerman, of Manistique, Mich., cigar manufacturer, was run down by an automobile during the past week and met with instant death. He was riding a bicycle when it happened. Mr. Zimmerman was about forty years old and is survived by his wife and two children.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hemmeter, of Detroit, have returned from their lengthy stay in Europe.

The location at 78 West Grand River Avenue formerly occupied by the Freund Cigar Co. has been taken over by the Hobart Cigar Co., who have rented half of it out to a barber shop.

For a consideration of $9000 a year the cigar stand at the Hotel Cadillac has been rented to the Harry W. Watson Co., wholesalers and retailers of cigars and tobacco. The change took place the first of November. Mr. Davidson, who has been manager of the stand, resigned on the same date and has a number of offers in view. Mr. Bird, who has been looking after the company's stands at the Berghoff and the Griswold Hotels, will likewise manage the Cadillac stand. With the cigar department at the Cadillac goes the newsstand privileges, which amount to considerable.

The Watson company, which was to open a retail store at 120 Woodward Avenue, has given up the idea and has or is about to dispose of the lease, which will net them close to $7000 on the deal.

Walter James, of the John W. Merriam Co., spent a few days in town, most of his orders being on the "Bulldog" cigars.

Sandy Stuart, of the Superior Cigar Co., returned October 29 from his long Western trip and will remain in the city until after the first of the new year.

The Mazer Cigar Co. expect to move into their new third story addition by the twentieth of this month, and will immediately put on more cigarmakers to get out their Christmas orders.

Oscar Rosenberger is on a trip through the Middle West in the interests of his company, the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Co. This is his first trip since his return from Europe.

Mike Rosenfeld, representing "Charles the Great" cigars, was in town last week and wrote some big orders for immediate delivery. He went away better pleased than ever with his Detroit visit; in fact, if other cities were not waiting for him he would have liked to remain a few days longer, in which case he would have had to wire for new order books.

Al Worch, of the Wayne Cigar Co., returned the ninth from his Western trip and left again on the twelfth for the Pacific Coast, and will not be back in the city until after Christmas. He is said to have "cleaned up" on his Western trip.

Harry Elsey, formerly manager of the Hotel Downey cigar department, is now in Detroit as manager of the Alt Heidelberg cigar department.

The G. J. Johnson Cigar Co. has secured sixty-six feet of additional property and will start the erection of a new building in the very near future, which will be from three to five stories in height, and thus permit of the carrying of more stock and increasing the number of cigars.

James Moorehouse, of the Oppenheimer Cigar Store in Battle Creek has returned after spending his vacation in Detroit, Indianapolis and Chicago.

Sam Hanna, of the Barton Hanna Cigar Store in Battle Creek, has returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Dayton, O.

Careless throwing of a lighted match among papers is blamed for $100 worth of damage by fire to the cigar store of Roy Hardy in Lansing a few weeks ago.

Manipulating the combination of the heavy iron doors and breaking through the inside metal sheets by the use of a jimmy, burglars gained access to the safe of the Max Lieberman Cigar Store at 221 Gratiot Avenue on November 2 and escaped with only ten dollars in cash, while checks and the stock were not touched.

E. G. Walthall, representing the "Stratford" cigar, was one of the callers in town last week demonstrating the fact that "Stratford" cigars give prestige to the cigar department. This brand is having a good sale at the Soper Segar Store.

William D. Kidd, of Benton Harbor, Mich., and a member of the Columbia United Cigar Stores Co., was married on October 29 to Miss Mayme Agnes, a prominent belle of Crystall Falls, Mich. After a brief honeymoon they will make their permanent residence in Benton Harbor.

The Cleenewerck Cigar Store in Battle Creek is becoming a very popular place; it has installed a bulletin board where results of all important sporting events are announced; at this season of the year Saturdays are very popular on account of the football results.

Harry Mills, of the Belinda Co., was in town last week, also W. S. Walker, of S. S. Pierce & Co., of Boston.

H. W. Williams is working the upper peninsula of Michigan in the interests of John H. Swisher & Son, of Newark, O., makers of the "Cuban Planters" cigar. While in the cities he is advertising this brand by the use of slides in motion picture houses.

William Traitel, of M. Linkman & Co., manufacturers of pipes, was in Detroit for the past week calling on the retail trade as well as jobbers of smoking articles.

Among the prominent visitors since our last issue have been William Best, Jr., of Best & Russell, of Chicago; Joe Snyder, Mr. Moser, of Niles & Moser, Kansas City; Sig Mayer, of Philadelphia; Mort Hammer, with the "Lucius" cigar; Nate Shapero, of M. A. Gunst & Co.; Joe Wertheim, of E. M. Swartz & Co.

AL. U. THORNBURG.

Pittsburgh

City is Snow-Bound—"Tuxedo" Going Big With Smokers—"Romeo y Julietas" for Bankers' Dinner—"A. J. Cassatts" Lead Baum-Jaffe Products

PITTSBURGH is snow bound. We have about a foot of snow in the city and two or three feet in the outskirts. In some places it has drifted as high as seven feet. Business is very good in the downtown section, but the outlying districts are complaining of poor business.

The Bock-Stauffer Company are having a great run on "Webster" in all sizes, and are doing a big business on their one-fortieth packages for the holidays. They also have a new boite nature package on their "Duquesne Bouquet."

A. C. Hamilton, representing the "Tuxedo" department of the American Tobacco Company, is doing a big business on their one-pound and half-pound packages. The Seventh Avenue Hotel had a fine window display on "Tuxedo" last week.

A. Fine, of the Peoples Bank Building, has a big sale on "Cuesta Rey" and "Tuval" cigars in all sizes. He is making a special play on both of these brands.

Reymer Brothers will furnish "Romeo & Julieta" perfectos to the Bankers and Bank Clerks' Banquet, which is to be held at the Schenley Hotel on Monday, November 17th.

G. W. Schmidt & Co. will celebrate their anniversary the week of November 28th. Reymer Brothers will furnish them with the "Solace" perfectos for this occasion.

The Fifth Avenue Arcade cigar stand has a very fine display on "Cinco" cigars. Reymer Brothers are distributors for this brand.

Reymer Brothers have a complete line of holiday packages in cigars and a fine line of smokers' articles in novelties. They expect a big business this year.

C. F. Pipe, of the "Isabella" cigar factory, Manila, is in town.

Sauer's tavern, on the North Side, has a very nice display on "Jenkinson's Best." This display was put in by H. V. Merriman, of the Bock-Stauffer Company.

Mr. Baum, of the Baum-Jaffe Company, Philadelphia, Pa., was in the city this week to see the Shipley-Massingham Company, who are distributors for the "A. J. Cassatt" and "Coiner" cigars manufactured by this factory.

Mr. Sprague, of the Shipley-Massingham Drug Company, reports big business in the country on the "Cuesta Rey" and "Coiner" brands.

Joe Raubitschek, representing Krauss & Co., Baltimore, is placing the "Golden Robe" cigar in some of the best downtown stands. Among the downtown stands are the Henry Hotel, Colonial Hotel, Seventh Avenue Hotel and Piatt's Cafe.

A. Herbert, vice-president and treasurer of the Phillip Morris Company, cigarette manufacturers, was in town this week with J. M. Goodman, visiting the trade.

W. N. Ruffins, Jr., of the Products Company, left town Friday night, after a very successful six weeks' campaign on "Royal Nestor" and "Melachrino" cigarettes. A number of the downtown stands are displaying "Royal Nestors" and "Melachrinos" in their windows, and the brands are responding wonderfully.

The Gilmore Drug Company have received a large supply of "Gato" clear Havana cigars, and "Girard" cigars for the holiday season. They report they are unable to obtain any holiday packages on "El Versos" or "San Felice" cigars on account of the oversold condition.

C. M. Pleasants, of the Havana-American Company, is here visiting the trade with W. Armheim in the interest of the "La Preferencia" cigar. They have one of the most attractive Christmas packages ever seen on this market. Mr. Pleasants reports excellent business.

The Hotel Anter has taken on the "Stratford" cigar, of the El Draco Cigar Company, Philadelphia. They have a very fine window display on "Piedmont" cigarettes this week. Mr. Quinn, the manager of this stand, is looking for a big holiday business.

The J. S. Kerns cigar store was sold out at auction sale, and they are now running a cigar auction at this store.

The following visitors were here in the interest of the tobacco business: A. Osterloh, Jr., president of the Standard Tobacco Company, Fayetteville, N. Y.; Tos. F. Heeley, representing the "Rayom Alonas," a new imported cigar; T. M. Miller, representing L. H. Bowers, Mansfield, O.; W. T. Taylor, factory representative of "Romeo and Julieta" cigars; S. Herz, of Bustillo Brothers & Diaz; Jack Sheridan, of M. Perez Company; Wm. Mendel, Union American Cigar

The Empire Cigar Store

Cleveland, Ohio

This illustration shows the entrance to the Empire Cigar Store, located at 826 Prospect Avenue, Cleveland, O. George W. Bassett, the proprietor, is standing in the entrance. He has recently disposed of his barber shop and after renovating will turn the entire space into a first-class smoke shop.

30,912,000 CIGARS MADE IN DETROIT DURING MONTH OF OCTOBER

Third City in Cigar Production Now Averages 1,000,000 Smokes a Day—Industry Employs about 8000 People—City Gaining Rapidly on Its Leaders

DETROIT, MICH., November 9, 1913.

WHAT more cigars were made in Detroit in October than ever before, is the statement made by the internal revenue department officials. The revenue stamps sold to manufacturers in the first district for cigars only amounted to $92,749.59 or exactly 30,912,000 cigars; revenue stamps sold for tobacco amounted to $198,721.48. The increase of October this year over the same month of 1912 amounts to 3,732,600 cigars. During the year which ended on September 30, the factories of Detroit made 304,598,133 cigars and a little more than 27,336,788 pounds of smoking and chewing tobacco.

Detroit is one of the big cities of the country in the manufacture of both cigars and tobaccos; it ranks third in the production of cigars which averages 1,000,000 a day and in the tobacco industry in all of its branches about 8000 men and women are employed. For many years Detroit has been prominent in the tobacco market. Daniel Scotten, John J. Bagley and M. I. Mills were among the pioneers in the business, and from modest beginnings each of them built up establishments which have sent their product to all parts of the country.

In Detroit there are today close to 400 cigar factories and four big tobacco factories. The cigar factories run all the way from the small one in which the members of the household are employed, to the modern factory with 1600 hands. Some of the small cigarmakers also have licenses as tobacco manufacturers, making up their own scrap for the market instead of selling it, as in other days.

In no industry has the growth been broader than in the manufacture of cigars. It is not many years back when the small sign at the stairway told of the factory up in some loft. There a few hands were at work in old-fashioned surroundings, with scant light and little air. Now the manufacturers want both light and air, and the factories which have been built in the past five or ten years are models of their sort. Fresh and clean air is supplied the working people and there is an abundance of daylight, in addition much care is taken to make the factories perfectly sanitary and the convenience and comfort of the employes is given consideration. Many of the factories have found it economical to locate in the northeastern part of the city, not because of the cheapness of land, but it is in the natural labor district and that counts. When a factory is within walking distance or at best but a few minutes' car ride and the wages paid are the standard, there is little trouble in securing the best of labor.

The cigar and tobacco business of this city gives employment to hundreds who are not directly engaged in either branch. There are the boxes for cigars, the shipping packages, the labels and other printing. Then for the tobacco are the caddies, the paper packages, tin boxes, and a great amount of printing and lithographing. One factory in Detroit makes about all of the caddies for the plug tobacco which comes from the four big plants. The output is about 1500 caddies a day or 500,000 a year, and these hold from three to thirty pounds of plug tobacco. Plug tobacco has to be put up in caddies made of wood without flavor and the gum wood and sycamore from the South are used for the purpose, great amounts being shipped here and then made up into the required sizes. The cigars made here during the year were packed in about 6,000,000 boxes, the average being the fifty-cent size. During the year ending September, the internal revenue office in Detroit collected something over $3,100,000 for stamps, which is more than $10,000 a day. March has been the smallest month so far this year in the point of receipts for cigars at the internal revenue office, while October was the largest.

Attractive Exhibit for Smokers

During a window-decorating contest in Camden, N. J., recently, F. Hartman & Son, cigar manufacturers, located at Third and Arch Streets, devoted four display windows to the exhibition of their products and stock.

Artistically arranged in the Arch Street front were cigarettes and cheroots in profuse numbers; the first window on Third Street was filled with different sizes and shapes of the brands of cigars manufactured by the firm; the next window was devoted to pipes and contained everything in that line from the time-honored corn-cob to the most expensive meerschaums, briars and calabashes. The last window on Third Street contained pounds upon pounds of smoking tobaccos in every shape and form; there were plain packages, fancy packages, fat packages, thin packages, long packages, short packages, round packages and square ones. There were tins of every shape and description, common glass jars and expensive humidors, and no matter what brand you were looking for, it certainly was in that window.

This enterprising firm attracted much attention to their store with this display and their leading 10-cent brand, "El Hartson," had a heavy call. The nickel leader, "Sparks," is constantly growing in favor with Camden smokers, and in quality compares with any of its competitors.

The Manchester Cigar Manufacturing Company, of Baltimore, Md., have recently removed to 38 South Frederick Street; they will occupy the entire building.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

While there have been numerous fields standing that are beyond hope, nevertheless the 1913 crop is somewhat larger than was first thought. This has been due to some good weather which we have had recently, and which enabled the late crops to mature. Now it is all under cover and the growers are fairly well satisfied. The tobacco which has been cut for some time has been curing nicely and taking on a good color. Some of it is ready for stripping. Pennsylvania broad leaf is not selling yet and it is probable that none will be sold until the stripping is completed.

The packers find business quiet, although there is an outlook for sales opening up soon. Considerable of the 1911 goods has changed hands, and from all appearances there will be a demand for the 1912 packings before long. Prices seem steady, but there seems to be an indication of higher quotations in the near future.

Lancaster, Pa.

There is regret on all sides among the local packers that they did not purchase more of the 1912 leaf, for indications are pointing to that being in demand. At the time it was in the market many of the packers were still loaded down with 1911 and 1909 leaf. If conditions last year had been like they are now there would have been some keen competition for the crops.

There is a steady demand for old goods, but unfortunately for the packers the figures offered do not leave anything for them. Desirable goods are being held, as there is a conviction that prices are going up.

Nineteen hundred and eleven leaf has been going good and there is not much on hand. Of course, there is still plenty of 1909, but it is surprising to find that in a quiet way considerable of that is being sold.

The factories have enough goods to carry them through to the first of the year, but there is a feeling that after that there will be a heavy call for the old leaf, and no doubt the 1909 will be in demand at the local warehouses.

Nineteen hundred and twelve goods are being sold around and above fifteen cents, but just how much of it it is not possible to ascertain.

KENTUCKY

Louisville, Ky.

The shortness of the crop this year should make a good market with prices that will prove profitable to the grower. However, it is believed that the quality of the crop will be largely of the common grade and buyers will probably range their prices according to the quality.

Tobacco is curing nicely in the barns and there seems to be the opinion that it is of a better quality than has been reported. If this is true it will no doubt help the growers out.

Owners of dark tobacco feel that the crop situation justifies better prices, but notwithstanding this the market seems to drag.

Hopkinsville, Ky.

The new tobacco crop is all housed and cured and the greater part of it will run common to medium grades, with one-third that is good to fine.

In quantity, according to the latest estimates, it is from sixty to seventy-five per cent. of the usual black patch crop. Already buyers are busy riding through the country, and the work of crop inspection is rapidly going on.

The holders are showing no anxiety to sell early, as the situation indicates that the prices will be strong. The only sale reported brought ten dollars for the round crop.

Five loose floors are expected to open here this season, and all are anticipating a rushing business.

THE CAROLINAS

Winston-Salem, N. C.

The month of October was a record month for the local market. The sales as far as given out total something over 8,680,000 pounds, which are the heaviest in the history of the market. Judging from these figures it would seem that close to forty-five per cent. of the crop has been marketed.

It seems to be the opinion that the prices have about reached the top; there has been no unusual change in them and, if anything, they were slightly higher for some grades. Prices have advanced steadily on the medium and good grades, but wrappers of a good quality and good filler may go still a little higher.

Many good, ripe tobaccos have appeared in the breaks and have been quickly taken up at flattering prices. The offerings show improvement and more of the medium to fine goods is coming under the hammer.

WISCONSIN

Edgerton, Wis.

As soon as one of the big buyers started to gather in the 1913 crops the rush came, and in less than a week probably fifty per cent. of the crops in the southern districts have already been placed under contract. The prices offered were so good that a grower could hardly refuse to accept them. A coincidence is that this break has come just at a time when the market was at a high mark and the rush has carried the prices to the top. If the present rate of buying continues, it will only be a short time when most of the crop will have been bargained for. All of the buyers are interested in getting their supply and this is having considerable to do with the demand and the prices.

The smaller dealers who usually aim to secure packings to sell a year hence with a profit, do not seem to have much chance now, as the prices are prohibitive to any except the most confirmed speculator. Some have bought early, but not anything like last year.

Prices which started at thirteen cents for wrapper and binder grades have risen to fifteen cents and better for choice selections.

The 1912 packings are finding a ready sale in the eastern markets, where binder goods are in strong demand.

CONNECTICUT

Suffield, Conn.

Heavy rains and the result of the damp have enabled the farmers to take down those crops which were sufficiently cured. This is a trifle early for the damp and the growers are well pleased with the prospect of getting their crops down before cold weather. A general call has been sent out for men to assist in the work, as the farmers are afraid that a wind will dry the tobacco so that it cannot be handled.

The crop this year is a banner one and has been pretty well contracted for. In the bundle, the leaf has brought from twenty-two to twenty-five cents. The tobacco this year is practically free from pole-sweat and white veins and shows a good burn.

South Windsor, Conn.

A big part of the crops in the sheds has been taken down by the farmers, who have worked night and day since the wet spell to get the tobacco down. Most of the tobacco which was taken down has not been stripped and put in bundles, and much is awaiting delivery orders by the buyers. The tobacco warehouses are getting ready to start, and work for the winter will soon be under way.

There is no complaint on the prices, as that in the bundle brought from twenty-five to thirty cents a pound, and the assorted ran as high as thirty-five cents.

Broad Brook, Conn.

The season for handling tobacco in the warehouses is at hand and the large dealers are scouring the vicinity for efficient help. The warehouse of E. H. Sloan has been running on prime tobacco and has sorted the entire crop. They are at present employing more than fifty hands.

There has been a shortage of labor this year that has caused considerable effort on the part of the growers in both the harvesting of the crop and the stripping.

The cure is said to be very satisfactory.

OHIO

Troy, O.

Holdings of the 1911 crop of all varieties of Ohio leaf—Zimmer, Dutch and Gebhart—are nearly exhausted and the packers are now busy preparing the 1912 for the market. This being a small crop it is expected to move at a material advance over prices first quoted on 1911, and in fact of present extreme prices for the 1913 crop, packers are in a very independent position.

Practically all the buyers are in the field now, and most of the 1913 crop of Zimmer is already purchased at the highest prices paid since the crop of 1908.

The sale of tobacco on North Carolina warehouse floors during the month of September amounted to more than $10,000,000. These enormous sales broke all September records and while it has not been definitely announced, it is probable that it will break all others.

Heard Among Leaf Men

The Ohio and Indiana floods have been responsible for a marked advance in leaf tobacco prices in that section. The flood ruined thousands of tons of choice leaf.

Ed Miller, a local broker of Paducah, Ky., recently shipped a train of twenty-seven cars, containing 500 hogsheads of tobacco, to the Eastern market.

Farmers in the Pee Dee section of South Carolina are well pleased with the prices they have received for their crops this year. It is estimated that they received at least $2,000,000 more for their tobacco this year than last.

With raw Wisconsin tobacco bringing fifteen cents, many of the conservative firms have stood aloof from the market. This has caused a considerable loss of activity in the selling movement which began like a whirlwind.

According to the recent crop report, Pennsylvania leaf fell off about 250 pounds an acre in yield this year as compared with 1912.

Not much hope for relief from the binder situation in New England, says a leaf broker, as there is no old binder, and the new is being shipped to its purchasers as fast as possible.

Warehouses are now opening up in the Connecticut valley, and packers will soon have a good idea of the value and quality of the new crop.

The success of tobacco as far North as Wisconsin, has aroused Nebraska to a point of investigation. It is claimed by the farmers there that they can raise the leaf as profitably as it is done elsewhere.

Displays of leaf and filler tobacco constituted a prominent display at the Dallas Fair recently held in Texas. Considerable breeding work is being done at one of the experiment stations and as a result farmers in east Texas are taking quite an interest in tobacco culture.

The first carload of Southern California tobacco has recently been shipped East. Experts say that it is as fine as any ever grown in Turkey or Persia. It is very thin in leaf and rich in color and quality.

E. H. Sloan, of Broad Brook, Conn., has opened his packing house and is working with a force of fifty men. This is the first packing house to open there this year.

Three Counties Added to Fifth District

With the addition of Rockingham, Guilford and Randolph counties to the Fifth Internal Revenue District of North Carolina, it is quite probable that this will place that district at the head of the list so far as the manufacture of tobacco is concerned.

Winston-Salem is giving St. Louis a run for its money as it is, but the new Fifth district will include Reidsville, which is quite important in the manufacture of tobacco, and it will no doubt raise this section to the banner place among the tobacco manufacturing districts of the world.

The consolidation took effect on November 1. Revenue Agents Chafin, of Baltimore, and Sams, of Asheville, spent some time in Winston-Salem, checking up the affairs of the local office preparatory to the consolidation.

CULTURE AND USE OF FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

Forty Per Cent. of This Variety Exported—Adaptable for Almost Every Use Except Standard Cigars and Snuff—Annual Production Equals 215,000,000 Pounds.

Washington, D. C., November 10, 1913.

THE normal annual production of flue-cured tobacco on a farm-weight basis is estimated to be about 215,000,000 pounds, according to Bulletin No. 16 of the Department of Agriculture. This type of tobacco is the only American grown variety that has shown a tendency to expand our exports. About forty per cent., or around 90,000,000 pounds, is exported and the remainder is used in domestic consumption.

"All things considered, this flue-cured type of tobacco is unsurpassed in universal popularity," states the report, "and it is adapted to a variety of uses, including granulated and cut smoking tobacco, both paper and all-tobacco cigarettes, and plug filler and wrapper; in fact, it is adapted to all the regular forms in which tobacco is used except standard cigars and snuff. In color and general appearance it is very attractive, while its low nicotine content, mildness, aromatic sweetness, fragrance, and good keeping qualities render it very satisfying to the user."

The use of flues in curing tobacco became popular after the close of the Civil War and by the middle eighties the demand had increased so that about twenty counties in Virginia and North Carolina had been planted to this variety. There are a number of varieties of flue-cured tobacco, prominently among which are the Warne, Yellow Oronoco, White-stem Oronoco, Big Oronoco, Adcock, Adkin, Willow-Leaf, Gooch, Tilley, and Hester. The Warne is the standard wrapper type and perhaps the most popular. The Adcock is a great favorite in the noted wrapper-producing section of Granville County, North Carolina, while the Adkin is popular as an early-maturing variety.

Apart from the natural character of the soil itself, there is no more important matter for the tobacco grower to consider than the management of his fields. Indeed, the character of the tobacco produced will depend as much on how the fields have been handled in rotation between the successive tobacco crops as upon the fertilizer used or the cultivation given directly to the tobacco crop itself. Tobacco land should be so handled as to be kept in good life. A liberal supply of vegetable matter in an advanced stage of decay is highly desirable, but it should be of the kind not excessively rich in ammonia.

It is well known that the organic matter of freshly cleared or broom-sedge fields is of a kind well suited to tobacco. It consists principally of dead leaves, twigs, roots, pine tags, broom-sedge and roots. Such vegetable matter, while poor in ammonia, by its ample volume makes the soil very mellow and friable and of good water-holding capacity. There is probably no better humus crop for rotation than herd's-grass or red top.

Specking, or "diseasing," as it is generally called, is the most common disease injury to which tobacco in the flue-cured district is subject. It is believed to be a fungus disease, disseminated by spores. The only practical method of reducing the injury to the crop caused by the disease is by using potash more liberally in the fertilizer, which seems to increase the resistance of the plant to the disease.

The Lancaster Leaf Tobacco Market is very much like a see-saw; it is up one day and down the next. The leaf packers were not very favorably impressed with the 1913 crop, but now that it is curing, they are thinking better of it.

Trade Changes

Lewiston, Me.—Henry Carleton has opened a fruit, confectionery and cigar stand at 242 Court Street.

Wilmington, Del.—W. H. Berger Company have opened a first-class cigar and tobacco store at 921 Market Street.

Cincinnati, O.—"Si" Schwartz has arranged for the leasing of the cigar stand in the First National Bank Building.

Springfield, O.—Herbert Harris and an associate have purchased the cigar store owned by the J. A. Lisch Company, at 30 South Fountain Avenue. It is said that the Lisch Company will continue in other quarters.

Rock Island, Ill.—James Culley and Walter Snyder are the new owners of the cigar store and pool room at Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street. The business was purchased from Dunnison & O'Connell.

Freeport, Ill.—Albert Rieger has purchased the cigar store and pool room at 50 Chicago Street.

Lewiston, Idaho.—C. F. Donaldson has opened a cigar factory here.

Waterbury, Conn.—Simon Dvileskas, the cigar manufacturer, has changed the location of his factory from Bank and North Riverside Streets, to the barber shop occupied by F. J. Leary, on Bank Street.

Trustee of Bucher Cigar Company Qualifies

P. N. Sigler, of Dayton, O., has qualified in the United States District Court, as trustee of the estate of the Bucher Cigar Company, bankrupt, of Dayton, in the sum of $10,000. The United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, Md., is surety.

W. H. Berger Opens Wilmington Store

W. H. Berger, formerly vice-president of Fring Brothers Company, cigar manufacturers of Philadelphia, has organized a company in Wilmington, Del., and has opened a first-class cigar and tobacco store. Up-to-date fixtures have been installed and the smoke shop is the most modern in every detail. It is located at 921 Market Street.

Imperial Tobacco Company Shows Big Profits

According to a report emanating from London, Eng., the net profits of the Imperial Tobacco Company will show a considerable increase over last year. The annual accounts of this company are made up to October 31, each year, and the net profits for the past year are reckoned to be about $17,200,000. This is a considerable gain over the 1912 figures and will enable the company to pay a dividend of thirty per cent. on its "B" deferred shares.

K. C. Kulle Purchases Bissell Factory

Announcement is made that Karl C. Kulle, of Windsor Locks, Conn., has purchased the property and manufacturing business of the late L. P. Bissell, of Suffield. Mr. Kulle is a former Suffield man and will remove his equipment from Windsor Locks and combine it with his new acquisition.

Suffield has been worried for fear that an outside firm would purchase the Bissell business and remove it from that town. This caused no little concern as it would have thrown several hundreds of people out of work, besides taking one of the largest cigar and tobacco manufacturing plants from the town.

The change will be made December 1. Mr. Kulle has become one of the largest cigar manufacturers in northern Connecticut, and is also a tobacco buyer. He will still carry on the latter business.

The cigar business of the late Mr. Bissell was established in 1872.

Save that All-Havana

for twilight—your leisure hour. You can't do justice to your work with shaky nerves. Chances are it is nicotine that's making you yawn and feel "dopey." Mild Havana leaf, when blended with harmless domestic, is satisfying and doesn't irritate the nerves.

A UNIFORM blend in your cigars would be worth some extra expense—if you couldn't get it with the 100% saving afforded by STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS. Here is a binder that does more than is expected of binders, at less cost than those that don't.

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER

Compels An Even Burn. The full fragrance of the finest cigar is spoiled by an imperfect burn. STANDARD BINDER, being a tissue of unvarying thickness, burns with unvarying evenness, and brings out the very best qualities of your stock. It has substance enough to guide the burn even of a coarse and oily wrapper.

No Preparation Needed. As STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER grows out of our presses and not out of the soil, there are no stems and veins to be stripped, no oval leaves to be cut and cased. Being made right by us, it doesn't have to be made over by you. A twenty-four hour rest in damp clippings and the STANDARD BINDER is ready for service.

About Two Pounds for 1,000 Cigars. Complete elimination of waste makes two pounds of STANDARD BINDERS equivalent to six or seven pounds of grown binder. And where the cheapest grown product costs $1.00 a thousand, the STANDARD BINDER costs 40c.—a saving of 100% on material alone. Deduct the cost of time, space and labor involved in casing, stripping and cutting, and you can figure a further 40% saved.

Every Size, Every Advantage. The standard sizes of STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDERS accommodate 30 sizes of cigars. Also appropriate stogie sizes. Ease, simplicity and economy are not new in themselves, but they are new in binders, and the progressive spirits will seize upon them first, as usual. Send us a C. Q. D., hinting your needs, and we will start along some free samples gladly.

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Dept. as "Tobacco in process of manufacture." U. S. Patents issued Feb. 6, 1912, proclaim Standard Pure Tobacco Binder to be manufactured only of tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps.

G. J. WHELAN AND ASSOCIATES BUY RIKER-HEGEMAN CHAIN

Deal Consummated After Many Rumors—Not Purchased by United Cigar Stores Company—Plan to Offer Stock to Public at $5 a Share

ONE of the most important events of the past fortnight has been the passing of the control of the Riker-Hegeman Company into the hands of George J. Whelan and some associates. The consummation of the deal has been forecasted frequently of late by rumors in the financial district. Contrary to rumors, however, the United Cigar Stores Company will not take over the drug concern.

Mr. Whelan, in a statement, says that the only purpose in getting control of the drug combination is to develop its possibilities to the fullest extent. It is stated that under the new management practically no change will be made in the prevailing methods of handling the drug business. The controlling interests intend to bring about greater economies in the sales. It has been pointed out by Mr. Whelan that while the drug business has always been a profitable field, loose methods in the accounting departments have made the running expenses heavier than they should be if an economical system was applied throughout.

The phenomenal success of the United Cigar Stores Company has long been credited to its wonderful system for handling the business. It is said that the principal idea in taking over the Riker-Hegeman stores was to apply this system to the drug business which Mr. Whelan and his associates have believed to be a splendid field for development along lines similar to the United cigar stores.

It is said that at present the ninety-three stores of the drug company aggregate gross sales of $15,000,000 a year, Through the application of methods applied to the United cigar stores, it is believed that much larger results will be obtained.

It is proposed that in the directorate of the Riker-Hegeman stores there will be no one who is not actively engaged in the promotion of its business; this is the case with the United cigar stores and the success of this chain indicates that such a policy is indicative of healthy growth and prosperity.

Such changes as are contemplated are to be accomplished through the formation of a new company that will hold a majority of the common stock of the Riker-Hegeman Company. It is rumored that a holding company, capitalized at probably $50,000,000 or more, will be formed in the future to take over and operate both the drug and cigar companies.

A director of the United Cigar Stores Company has stated that it was planned to form a new company, which would act as a holding company for the United cigar stores and the Riker-Hegeman concerns. "The capitalization of the new company will be larger than the total of the par value of the stock of the other two, the amount to be based on what was paid to acquire the control of the Riker-Hegeman stores," he said.

U. S. SUES AMERICAN CAN CO.

Action Brought Under Sherman Law for Dissolution—Ten Companies and Twenty-six Individuals Included

BALTIMORE, November 29.

PAPERS were filed here today with Judge J. C. Rose, of the United States District Court, District of Maryland, in the suit of the United States Government against the American Can Company for a dissolution of that company, claiming its illegality under the Sherman Law of 1890.

The defendants named are the American Can Company, the Missouri Can Company, the Sanitary Can Company, the Boston Wharf Company, the Martin Wagner Company, the Max Ams Machine Company, the American Sheet Plate and Tin Company, the Hawaiian Pineapple Company, the Freeman Duncan Transfer & Realty and twenty-seven individuals, including F. S. Wheeler, president of the company; Daniel G. Reid, chairman of the board of directors, and the other officers and directors.

The petition prays to the court that the American Can Company be declared a monopoly and that it be split into units to be decided by the court sufficient to restore competitive conditions, and that pending a decision the company be restrained from engaging in interstate business, or receiving any dividends or profits from the subsidiary companies which it controls.

The American Tin Plate Company is accused of selling tin to the American Can Company at a lower figure than to any independent competitors, and an injunction is asked to prevent further such action.

Statement From Company

President F. S. Wheeler, of the company, gave out the following statement to the press when queried concerning the suit:

He said:

Ritz-Carleton Cigarette Company

INCORPORATION papers have recently been issued to the Ritz-Carleton Cigarette Company, of New York City, who will shortly place on the market several new brands of the highest grade Turkish cigarettes.

The moving spirits in the new concern are A. Baldwin Sloane, the president of the company, and Walter Percival, who is the treasurer. Mr. Sloane is famous all over the United States for his work as a musical composer, having written the music for many of the most successful American musical comedies—and Mr. Percival is one of the most prominent of our singing comedians. The company has ample capital to conduct their business along the exclusive lines they have chosen.

It is understood that their leading brand will be known as "Old Drury," named in honor of the famous old London theatre.

The new goods are expected to be ready in about two weeks.

PHILADELPHIA.

Making Litle Cigars in "Philly"

AMONG the important industries of Philadelphia is the manufacture of "Recruit" little cigars, produced at the rate of 1,500,000 daily at the factory of the Liggett & Myers Company, at Third and Ontario Streets.

In order to give the consumer the quality for his money only the best grades of Kentucky burley are used for the wrapper, while the filler is made from a blend of seventeen grades of Virginia tobacco, carefully prepared with special machinery.

Cleanliness is the slogan of this factory, and sanitary treatment is followed to a maximum degree in the preparation of "Recruits." As far as possible, where machinery can be used to replace the human touch, it is done. After the filler is placed on the belt, the human factor does not appear in its preparation until the finished product is ready to be placed in the box, except the sorting of the rolled filler before it goes to the wrapping machine.

"Recruits" have for many years been a standard smoke and a leader among the brands of little cigars.

"Lord Colbeck" a New Quality Cigar

The recently incorporated cigar manufacturing firm of DeLisser-Schneider Company, which adds another name to the rapidly growing list of high-grade cigar manufacturers in Philadelphia, are offering to the trade their "Lord Colbeck" brand in two sizes, Brevas and Perfectos. This cigar is all Porto Rico and Havana tobacco and backs up the claim of the manufacturers that they make only cigars of quality.

The "Lord Colbeck" cigar has made an instant success for several Southern jobbers and will appeal to every retailer of high-grade goods. In fragrance the cigar has a bouquet that is delicious to the senses, and the smoking qualities as regards smoothness are comparable to old wine.

Several other brands will make an early appearance and they will undoubtedly establish themselves as readily as the "Lord Colbeck."

The firm has purchased the factory of the Cores-Martinez Company, at 2115 South Eighth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The company is composed of Stanley DeLisser, Andrew DeLisser and Robert E. Schneider. Stanley DeLisser is the former president of the Jamaica Tobacco Company, and has for years studied the cigar production in Jamaica. Mr. Schneider has been connected for the past seven years with Seidenberg & Co. He comes of a family long identified with the cigar industry, and his father is vice-president of the American Cigar Company.

Big Year for "Havana Ribbons"

Bayuk Brothers Company are closing their books on the most successful month of November ever experienced on "Havana Ribbon" sales; they look forward to an active December also, and feel absolutely satisfied that the windup of 1913 will represent, by a large increase in figures, the most successful year of their existence.

Reports on "Havana Ribbon" sales from the various territories are most encouraging; all of their representatives finding the brand duplicating to the entire satisfaction of the jobbers.

The firm is making arrangements to call in their full force of eighteen (18) outside representatives for the holidays and have them as their guests during that period. This has been their usual procedure in past years. During 1913 their force has been largely augmented, so the conference this year will be the largest of its kind ever held.

Salesmen Doing Good Work With "44" Cigars

Tillman Funk, Southern representative of the "44" Cigar Company, has about completed his campaign with the Bradley-Newman Cigar Company, of Knoxville, Tenn., and the factory is already feeling the effects of his work. This house has become thoroughly enthused with the "44" cigar, and for a new firm their duplicating orders are phenomenal.

F. D. Crawford, after a successful campaign in the Middle West, is directing his missionary force in New York, where the various houses that he is operating with are showing exceptional success.

W. H. Nicholson, of the Middle South territory, has returned to his home in Littleton, after a campaign with his specialty men through West Virginia and the western part of North Carolina.

W. M. Charles, who is working with the Neudecker Tobacco Company, Baltimore, Md., is showing large returns for his efforts, convincing evidence of the popularity of "44" cigars in that territory.

James F. Cormany, Western representative, is finishing his campaign with C. Shenkburg & Co., Sioux City, Ia., and is showing a large duplicating business.

F. B. Stanton visited the factory recently, after a successful campaign in Northern Jersey. His "repeat" orders have grown tremendously in that section and he has returned to look after them.

As usual, the company has arranged to have all their road men at the Philadelphia main office at the end of the year for the purpose of becoming better acquainted and to meet the heads of the departments, at the conclusion of which a very pleasant affair has been arranged.

CIGAR No. 1, FROM BONDED FACTORY No. 1, PRIDE OF BERRIMAN BROTHERS, IN TAMPA

Firm Active in Securing Passage of "Made-in-Bond" Law Gets Bonded Factory No. 1—"Jose Vila" Establishment First to Take Step—Other Factories to Follow

TAMPA, FLA., November 26, 1913.

DONE up in a handsome mahogany case, M. W. Berriman, of the firm of Berriman Brothers, making the "Jose Vila" cigar, is proudly showing his friends "Cigar No. 1," made by Bonded Cigar Factory No. 1, the first of its kind in the United States. He says that it is one of his most treasured possessions, and that it will go down to his children as an heirloom.

Manuel Sanchez, manager of the factory, and with M. W. Berriman, one of the men most responsible for the passage of the law permitting the manufacture of cigars in bond, holds up his hand and solemnly makes affidavit that this cigar is the very first made in the new bonded factory.

"I know, because I came down at four o'clock in the morning to see it made," says Mr. Sanchez.

The "Jose Vila" factory is now turning out thousands of them every day, and they go forth to the world bearing the stamp of the United States Government that they are made of the best Cuban tobacco. Mr. Sanchez and Mr. Berriman are confident that this stamp will be the means of working up a large demand for the cigars so made and that it will mean a great deal to the cigar industry in this city.

Will Massey, a well-known cigarmaker, is the first inspector appointed to handle the work and certify that none but Cuban tobacco goes into the cigars so stamped by the Government.

Several other manufacturers are contemplating taking the first step but are holding back a bit to see how the experiment will work out in the "Jose Vila" factory. Delegations of them have conferred with Messrs. Berriman and Sanchez over the details and it is certain that other factories will be in the bonded list before long.

Philadelphia Notes

J. Durbin Acker, manager of the cigar department of the Finley Acker Co. store, at Twelfth and Chestnut Streets, has recovered from a recent illness sufficiently to be able to resume his duties. Mr. Acker reports early Christmas business as being very satisfactory.

Robert E. Lane, Jr., son of Robert E. Lane, United State and Canadian representative of the Partagas factory, booked some attractive orders while in Philadelphia last week.

J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, is meeting with success in distributing the "Qualite Fine" cigarettes, made by Benson & Hedges. These cigarettes are marketed with cork and plain tips, and the number of duplicate orders received indicate that these goods have caught the fancy of smokers of high grade cigarettes.

Robert Appleton, manager of the Cado Co., Inc., who have scored a distinct success with their "56" cigarettes, closed some very attractive business on this brand while on a visit to Philadelphia last week.

TAMPA TIPS

Entry Made for First Bale of Tobacco for "Made-in-Bond" Factory—Record Shipment for Week of 8,675,000 Cigars—Boltz, Clymer & Co. Put Out Handsome Brochure—"Charles the Great" Brand Going Big TAMPA, November 24.

WE don't like to talk about ourselves, but we can't help calling attention to the fact that we are shipping "some" cigars out of Tampa these days. I find that for the week ending November 22, the high-water mark of the year was reached when 8,675,000 cigars were sent out of the city. I might point out in passing that this was one of the largest shipments in the history of Tampa.

On the eighteenth entry was made of the first bale of tobacco into a bonded cigar factory. This special event goes down in history to the credit of the factory of Berriman Brothers. E. C. Berriman, M. W. Berriman, Manuel Sanchez, manager of the factory, and Colonel J. D. Calhoun, of the Customs, were all present when the entry was observed. E. C. Berriman reached town from Chicago in time to be present at the marking of the first bale of "made in bond" tobacco. He will spend a few days here looking over the Jose Vila plant.

A. L. Cuesta, Sr., has taken a run up to Jacksonville for a few days. The Christmas sales of "Cuesta Rey" cigars are very heavy and the members of the firm are almost too busy to talk.

M. Regensburg has arrived in the city from New York, where he makes his headquarters. The "American," made by the firm of E. Regensberg & Son, is having an unusual call for the holiday trade.

I see my friend, Fred Dalton, the well-known salesman for Eli Witt, is in the clutches of the city authorities for speeding his new benzine buggy over the new boulevard at a faster rate than is pleasing to the majesty of the law. Fred has just procured a new Moon-Sixty and Sunday afternoon, when he got out on the new road, he just couldn't help "opening her up a bit." Mounted Officer Marsicano, who evidently believes in keeping things closed, instead of open, nabbed him, and now Fred is awaiting the verdict of the police court.

One of the neatest brochures that I have ever seen issued by a local manufacturer, is that now being presented to the trade by the house of Boltz, Clymer & Co. In contains a fine picture, in colors, of every cigar that is made by the firm, in addition to the prices and sizes. "El Palencia," the firm's leader, is played up handsomely in this catalogue and looks good enough to lift out and light.

The business of Val. Antuono is growing at such a rapid rate that he is contemplating the erection of a three-story brick annex to his present factory at Lozano and Cedar Streets. The annex will, when completed, just double the capacity of his factory. Architect E. M. Curtis is drawing up the plans and the contract will be let before the close of the month. When completed, it is estimated that the new building will cost about $25,000.

Harry C. Culbreath, the popular salesman for V. Guerra, Diaz & Co., has returned to the city from a long business trip to Western points.

A coincidence was the receipt by the Board of Trade of a letter from a woman who has the best interests of the city and the cigar industry at heart. She suggested that a distinctive label, showing that the contents of the box were made in Tampa, of clear Havana tobacco, should be used by the cigar manufacturers. The suggestion was offered that if such a label were placed on every box, it would widely advertise the city of Tampa. The matter was referred to the Cigar Manufacturers' Association, with the word that the Board of Trade would be glad to assist if the cigar men thought the proposition had merit.

"Charles the Great" cigars have increased their prestige during the past year, according to some figures which I picked up in my rounds the other day. It is apparent from these that Salvador Rodriguez, who makes this pioneer brand, will close out the year 1913 as one of the most successful in the history of his factory.

There is no let up in the rush that pervades the factory of P. Verplanck & Co., and heavy shipments are continually going forward. Mr. Verplanck, who has been on a business trip through the West, has been piling orders into the factory at a tremendous rate, and is expected in Tampa very soon.

Detroit and Chicago have been getting heavy shipments recently from the factory of F. Lozano, Son & Co. The famous brand of "F. Lozano" is growing steadily in the West and the factory is very busy trying to get all their holiday orders out on time.

The New York office of Y. Pendas & Alvarez had one of the heaviest shipments of the week. There appears to be no let up in the call for "Websters." The New York headquarters are keeping close on the heels of the factory for the necessary shipments.

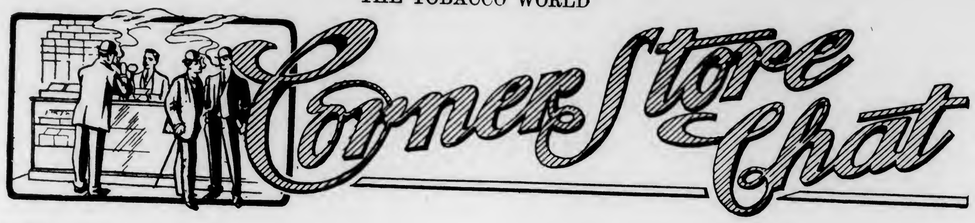
IRREGULAR PAGINATION



IN this day when the matter of premiums and novelty gifts have reached a high level, we are not surprised at announcements of gifts of furniture, automobiles and even real estate, but we have just heard about a firm in Wheeling, W. Va., that gives away real money.

Probably one of the most unique holiday souvenirs issued by a business house is that recently prepared and copyrighted by the Isenberg Cigar Company, of Wheeling, W. Va.

The souvenir is in the nature of a picture enclosed in an oval frame. In the centre, on a sepia covered cardboard, is an apparent photograph of a folded umbrella; in fact, the umbrella is really a one dollar bill carefully folded in imitation of what our English friends are pleased to call "a weather stick." Beside the supposed umbrella is printed, "For a Rainy Day." What could be more appropriate!

A feature of this little novelty is that no advertising appears on any part of the souvenir, and it is the intention of the company to present one of these to each of its regular customers.

There are many methods of figuring production cost, but this one, I think, has some originality which merits more than passing attention.

There were two cigar manufacturers, for convenience we will call them Mr. Jones and Mr. Brown, who sold an identical cigar, but Mr. Jones sold his for $30 while Mr. Brown only asked $28 for his product. Mr. Jones had an "open shop," while Mr. Brown ran a union shop. Naturally, Mr. Jones figured that it must cost his competitor more for labor than it did him, and that everything else being equal he could not see how Mr. Brown could sell the cigar for $28, except at a loss. Mr. Jones found that even at $30 he was running on a very close margin, and the fact that Mr. Brown's sales were cutting into his market brought him to the conclusion that his competitor must have a new method of reducing manufacturing cost. After considerable thought on the matter he decided to ask his competitor about the matter and see if he could learn anything new.

Accordingly he called upon his neighbor, and after explaining the situation inquired if he would mind showing him how he could make a profit on the cigar at $28. The competitor said he would be very willing to oblige and, taking a pencil and paper, set down thereon the different items which he figured in his production cost. After totaling it and showing a good margin of profit, he handed it over to Mr. Jones. The latter went carefully over the figures several times, and then as his face lighted up, he exclaimed: "But, Mr. Brown, you have forgotten to include in this list your cost of tobacco!"

"Ach, Hell," said the manufacturer, "I don't figure tobacco—I gif my notes for that."

With the increasing use of automatic pocket lighters, I recall a lucky escape I had in Paris before this invention was on the market. As you are probably aware, the French Government manufactures its own matches, and it is unlawful to take into the republic matches other than of French manufacture.

While in London I had taken quite a fancy to the neat and very satisfactory wax "Vestas," perhaps more expensive, but at the same time much superior to the wooden match. Accordingly, before taking the train for New Haven, I dropped in a shop in High Holborn and bought myself a dozen boxes of these matches and put them in the bottom of my Gladstone. I arrived in Dieppe late the next afternoon and the customs official who handled my luggage merely opened the mouth of the bag, looked into it and passed it without question, and I was soon aboard a train for Paris.

That evening, after dinner, I stood in front of my hotel in the Place Vendome smoking a cigar and chatting with an Englishman, who had crossed the Channel with me. During our chat, my cigar went out and I reached in my pocket and pulled out a red box of "Vestas," to get another light. The Englishman caught my arm as I went to strike the box and said with a look of amazement, "For God's sake, how did you get those in there?" "Very simple," I replied, "I brought a dozen boxes over in my travelling bag. Is there anything wrong in my carrying a box of matches?" "No," he replied, "provided they are made in France, but it will cost you one franc (about 20c.) a match if you get caught with these. "Here," he said, handing me a box of French matches, "use these to-night and buy yourself a dozen boxes at a shop in the morning. Meanwhile, keep those you have from England, out of sight. The espionage system here is wonderful in its ramifications, and the most cordial traveller may prove to be a government spy."

"Let me relate the experience of a friend of mine to show you just what you are up against," he continued: "One evening sometime ago he was standing in front of the Elysee Palace Hotel and pulled a box of 'Vestas' out of his pocket, just as you have done, and lighted his cigar. The next moment a gentleman standing next to him touched him on the shoulder and informed him in a courteous tone that he was under arrest, and a few moments later he was haled off to the police court with the escort of a gendarme. There he was informed that he had committed a very serious crime and would be held for a hearing in the morning. After about two hours, however, one of the secretaries of the British Consulate succeeded in securing his release on the promise to have him appear the next morning at ten o'clock.

"The next morning he appeared to answer the charge and was informed that they would like an explanation as to why he should be found in France with three boxes of 'Vestas' in his pocket, when the law required that government matches only should be used in France. He saw that he could expect very little leniency from the court and, after scratching his head for a moment for a reason, replied 'Why, I brought my "Vestas" along to light your bloody French matches with.' His ignorance, together with his satirical remark, cost him upwards of five pounds sterling."

With the passing of the Riker-Hegeman chain into the hands of the several men who have made an unusual success of a cigar store chain, the trade will watch with interest the working out of the plans that it is hoped will secure the general approval of both the trade and the public.

The Effect of The Riker-Hegeman Deal

Perhaps the most far reaching effect of this deal will be its influence on the price cutting feature which has proven so disastrous to independent retailers throughout the country. With the restoration of prices in the cigar department of the Riker-Hegeman stores, it seems probable that this evil will be reduced to a minimum and especially in cities where the war of prices has waged unchecked.

Another feature to be introduced under the new management which seems to have much merit is the plan of putting the stock in this newly-formed company on the market at a price which will enable anyone to buy the same. At five dollars a share, this stock should prove an attractive investment for the wage-earner, and there is no doubt but what the public in general will become readily interested in the proposition. The fact, that the men back of it have made such a profitable business out of a chain already established, will, no doubt, encourage confidence in the second proposition which they are about to undertake.

It it interesting to note on another page of this issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD the opinion expressed by a member of a well known house that the American of today is not so exacting in regard to the price he will pay for his cigars, provided they have the quality that he desires.

Will the Consumer Pay More?

A talk with a number of retailers has brought out the fact that men, generally, are smoking a better grade of cigars than ever before. There is no denying the fact that there is a necessity for an all-around raising of the retail price, which would allow the manufacturer to give the consumer a better article. However, history indicates that with the exception of the "Three for a Quarter" cigar, smokes sold at a price between five and ten cents have come to an ultimate disaster.

The single exception to this fact is the chain stores, which have been fairly successful with cigars priced at six and seven cents. Strange as it may seem, however, the high grade independent retail stores have been unable to build up a trade on these prices.

It is noted generally by retailers that men are calling more than ever before for the ten-cent grade of cigars, but at the same time, although it seems paradoxical, new customers appear who call for standard brands of the nickel goods. Proof of both statements will be found in figures for the year of a number of firms who manufacture the leading brands of five-cent cigars as well as the higher priced smokes. These figures will show an astonishing growth in the output of both five and ten-cent goods.

* * *

Much has been said for and against the widely discussed "made in bond" law. However, now that a well known Tampa house has actually started to manufacture their product in bond, the real difficulties will, no doubt, soon creep to the surface. The law should, without question,

"Made in Bond" Factory Open

have a beneficial effect on the Tampa and Key West products and, although it is quite probable that obstructions will rear their heads, they will not be so serious but that they can be levelled out to the ultimate advantage of the manufacturer.

As has been pointed out at present the small manufacturer has been crowded somewhat by this law, but there is no reason why their difficulties cannot be adjusted if they will get together and act in unison on the matter.

Meanwhile it will be interesting to see what firms and how many of them follow the initiative of the Tampa house mentioned elsewhere.

* * *

From all indications 1913 will go down in the history of the cigar and tobacco industry as one of the most prosperous years in the annals of the trade. Figures show a steadily growing demand for cigars and the increase in the cigarette business is a little short of phenominal.

The autumn season has been one of the best experienced and the present outlook for the holiday trade indicates that many factories will produce in numbers far in excess of any other year. Despite the high cost of materials conditions seem most prosperous and quite a number of factories share the belief that during the coming months of the new year the trade will hold up to standard. Although with the approach of each holiday season long hours and hard work have been the rule in many of the big factories, the heavy demand for Christmas goods this year came in earlier and indications are that it will last longer than in previous seasons.

Big Earnings for "United" Chain

IT is understood that the United Cigar Stores Company will show net earnings this year of close to $4,500,000. This sum includes the earnings of the real estate companies as well as the cigar stores.

The company is able to show a net profit on its tobacco sales of more than 10 per cent. Profits from the real estate operations for the year are understood to be more than $750,000, all of which goes to the United Cigar Stores Company of America as holder of the stock of the realty companies.

Interests close to the management say they would not be surprised if the directors declare an etra dividend on the common stock at the next quarterly meeting.

A net of $4,500,000 for the year is equal to more than 15 per cent. on the $27,000,000 common stock, after allowance for the regular 7 per cent. dividend on $4,500,000 preferred stock outstanding.

Heard About Town

Julius Lichtenstein, president of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, is now on a short trip in the West caring for the rapidly increasing business of this company.

John H. Duys, of H. Duys & Co., has returned to New York after a trip over the Western circuit.

Morris J. Levy, one of the members of the new firm of Levi-Kaften Company, will sail early this month for Porto Rico. The steadily increasing demand for Porto Rican cigars has caused Mr. Levy to arrange for this trip, in order to take care of their rapidly growing business.

C. A. Whelan, president of the United Cigar Stores Company, recently sailed for Europe on a two-months' vacation. He was accompanied by his family. At present they plan to tour Southern France and visit the numerous resorts along the Riviera. While Mr. Whelan is away, Vice-President Edward Wise will act in the capacity of president.

The well-known firm of Park & Tilford has recently notified the trade of the opening of their new wholesale warehouses, 529-549 West Forty-second Street and 532-542 West Forty-third Street. November 17 was the date of the formal opening and hundreds of visitors took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the new building and look over the displays of wholesale goods. One of the features of the building is a splendidly constructed cigar humidor which contains every device known to modern construction.

V. Mancebo Muina, representing V. Mancebo Muina & Co., makers of the "Tarquinius" cigar, was in Philadelphia recently boosting the distribution of this well known smoke.

British-American Stores Schedule Filed

Schedules in the bankruptcy proceeding against the British-American Cigar Stores Company have been recently filed, and with a settlement of their assets, nothing further will be necessary to bring an end to their somewhat stormy career. Receiver C. G. Ludvigh, in his schedule, showed liabilities of $27,643, with nominal assets of $84,766, consisting of $12,000 cash, realized from the sale of the stock and fixtures of the stand, and claims of $72,766 against W. W. St. John, the deposed president of the chain, and others.

Among the creditors are Charles Murphy, Jr., with a claim of $4730; the Metropolitan Tobacco Company, $4383, and the Merchants Bank of Jersey City, $1662.

It is said that W. W. St. John is now connected with the "United."

Tobacconist Admits Fraud

John F. Muller, the younger, president of J. Tarantous & Co., tobacco importers at No. 213 Pearl Street, Manhattan, N. Y., recently pleaded guilty before Judge Rosalsky of presenting false proofs of loss after a fire in the Pearl Street house on May 9, 1912.

R. H. Weller, assistant district attorney, showed that the tobacco upon which Muller sought to collect insurance to the extent of $4,511.63, was "scrap" tobacco.

Bankruptcy Petition Filed Against A. Zeiling

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against A. Zeiling, a cigar dealer at 1552 Broadway and 589 Ninth Avenue, New York City.

It is alleged that he is insolvent, and that he has made preferential payments and removed part of his property. Judge Hough has appointed R. T. Oliver receiver, with authority to continue business for ten days. The assets are estimated at $1500. Alexander Zeiling began business on April 1, 1912.

Frank Hammer Dead

Liggett & Myers Lease New Offices

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company have recently leased for a long term of years two floors of the Twenty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue Building. The lease was placed through Horner & Co., acting for the Echo Investing Corporation.

Mr. J. Baum, 315 Grove Street, Jersey City, has recently taken on "Havana Ribbons" for his territory and anticipates a live distribution on that popular brand. Mr. MacAlister, North Jersey representative, and Mr. Leonard, advertising manager, are directing a sales and advertising campaign in his favor and report very satisfactory results.

The one thing yet to be completed in the deal is the question of handling the real estate of the Riker-Hegeman Company. It is hoped that this department will be handled along the same lines as the real estate department of the United Cigar Stores Company.

Under the exchange of stock agreement the stock of the new or holding company will have a lower par value than $100, probably $5, the idea being to afford the public an opportunity to participate in the profits along the lines now carried out by the United Cigar Stores Company.

"The plan for issuing the new stock at a low parity," said the director who told of the deal, "was evolved for the purpose of permitting employes of both the cigar and drug companies to buy it and share in the profits."

Until the new organization is completed, operations of the companies will be continued as at present. At the next meeting of stockholders of the Riker-Hegeman Company several directors probably will be elected to represent the new interests, and thereafter steps will be taken to bring both companies into harmonious sales relations.

As the United Cigar Stores Company was not involved in the transaction in its corporate capacity, it was pointed out no objection could be taken to the control of the drug company by leading stockholders in the former concern.

When the new company goes into operation drugs and tobacco products will be handled under separate direction, but in the same stores.

In accordance with the plan of the interests of the United Cigar Stores Company to acquire the control of the Riker-Hegeman Company, F. I. Beckton, representing George J. Whelan and his associates, has been elected a director of the drug concern.

The United Cigar Stores Company has common stock outstanding of $27,162,000, while Riker-Hegeman common shares aggregate about $5,000,000. The greater part of the drug store shares was formerly held by half a dozen men. The gross earnings of the Riker-Hegeman Company have been running so far this year at the rate of about $15,000,000 per annum, an increase of approximately 35 per cent. over 1912.

Herbert Collins of the United Cigar Stores Company, has been mentioned as the probable head of the Riker-Hegeman Company.

Cigar Factory Looted

Cigars and tobacco valued at more than $1000 was stolen from the LaSalle Cigar Factory, at 71 East Forty-third Street, Chicago, Ill., on November 18.

It seems that very early in the morning the thieves backed a wagon up to the rear of the plant and piled all the tobacco they could find into a wagon and drove away.

J. R. Isaacson, proprietor of the factory, asserts that 14,000 cigars bearing Government stamps were taken, 5675 unstamped cigars, and twenty pounds of leaf tobacco also disappeared.

The proprietor has offered a reward of $200 for information that will lead to the discovery of the thieves.

Entrance to the factory was gained by drilling a hole in the rear door by means of which it was unlocked. Wagon tracks appeared in the alley outside.

U. S. SUES AMERICAN CAN CO.

"In view of the filing of a suit by the Federal Government against the American Can Company under the Sherman anti-trust law the officers of that company deem it due to the public and to the large number of investors in the stocks of the company to make the following statement:

"While the company regrets that the Government has thought proper to bring this suit it has no fear or misgiving as to the result. Neither in the origin of the company nor in the subsequent conduct of its business has monopoly or restraint of trade been attempted or attained. None of the methods commonly known as 'unfair competition' have been employed by the company. It has been party to no agreements or understandings, express or tacit, seeking to control or regulate prices, nor has it sought in any way to rule or dominate the industry in which it is engaged.

"It has no such share of that industry—only about one-third—as would enable it to rule or dominate it even if it had the purpose to do so. Competition is wholly free and keenly active in that industry. The company has striven, and will continue to strive, to get all of the business it can, profitably to its stockholders, but it has done and will do this, not by futile attempt to monopolize or dominate the trade, but by seeking through the very best methods of efficient organization, of manufacture and of distribution that it knows or can devise to meet better than others all the rightful needs of those who use its products.

"The company will defend this suit vigorously and confidently, and it is the belief of its officers and of its counsel that neither the company nor its stockholders need feel any alarm or uneasiness as to the outcome."

Organization of the Company

The American Can Company was incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1901, as a consolidation of several of the leading factories in the United States engaged in the manufacture of tin cans, packages and receptacles of all kinds. Besides making several hundred varieties of containers for food, tobacco, etc., it has lately been making adding machines. The company operates factories in a large number of cities of the United States and Canada and has one plant at Honolulu.

Capitalization is divided into $44,000,000 each of common and 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stocks. There is outstanding $41,233,000 of each class. The only bonded indebtedness is an authorized issue of $15,000,000 gold debenture 5s, $14,000,000 of which were issued early this year.

The officers are D. G. Reid, chairman of the board; F. S. Wheeler, president; H. W. Phelps, vice-president; F. Rudolph, vice-president, and R. H. Ismon, secretary and treasurer.

The directors are W. F. Dutton, E. C. Converse, W. T. Graham, F. L. Hine, James McLean, G. G. McMurtry, W. H. Moore, J. W. Ogden, R. W. Phelps, D. G. Reid, R. L. Schofield, F. S. Wheeler, J. H. Moore, F. Rudolph and R. H. Ismon.

Penn Tobacco Company in New Home

The idea carried out in the preparation of the tobacco in this building, is unique. All the tobacco received by the factory is first taken to the top story, and as it goes through the different stages, necessary in order to reach its final condition, it passes down by degrees until it reaches the shipping department, where the railroad cars stand ready to carry it to the buyers. The process of making the tobacco requires a large amount of machinery and each machine and each employee has a special work to perform, and it is so arranged that so far as time is concerned, there is a maximum of economy.

One of the features of the structure is the dining room for the women and men. No expense has been spared in their furnishings and the accommodations are such as to be most satisfying to all. In addition, tiers of individual lockers have been set up and each employee carries a key to his own private wardrobe, so to speak.

TRADE REPORTS FROM THE CONSULS

(From the Daily Consular and Trade Reports)

NIGERIA.

Regarding the tobacco industry in Sierra Leone, Consul W. J. Yerby writes as follows:

"The large increase in the imports of leaf tobacco is due to the replacement of stocks and is merely incidental. The real advance in the imports is due to the increased demand for cigarettes."

NETHERLANDS INDIA.

Consul B. S. Rairden, Batavia, Java, has recently given further enlightenment regarding the imports of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes into Netherlands India. He comments as follows:

"As nearly as can be ascertained without having complete statistics to refer to, imports into Netherlands India of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes from the United States and Philippine Islands increased slightly in value over 1911 and amounted in 1912 to some $140,000, although the quantity was about the same in both years. Figures to hand for Java alone show that during 1912 imports under the head of tobacco from all countries included 1,185,000 pounds of tobacco of various kinds, value $137,460; 42,250 pounds of Manila cigars, value $38,130; 520,700 pounds of other cigars, value $350,067, and 135,300 pounds of cigarettes, value $99,107. The foregoing figures, however, represent only about one-third of the total tobacco imports into the colony as a whole. Imported cigars are priced $2 to $4 per hundred, some Havanas costing more, and imported cigarettes bring $1 to $1.50 per hundred."

SOUTH AFRICA.

"Leaf tobacco imported into France during the first eight months of this year weighed 60,000,000 pounds, an increase of 18,000,000 pounds over the corresponding months in 1912."

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.

"The tobacco crop in 1912 was far from satisfactory. A shortage of 27,758,269 pounds was recorded, which was due to internal causes of a temporary nature, and there is every reason to believe that large increases will be reported in the future. The bulk of the crop, as in previous years, went to Germany, which took 11,873,440 pounds, valued at $574,378. The United States took $28,700 worth, and France $28,549."

TURKEY.

Following his enlightening article which appeared in the last issue of THE TOBACCO WORLD, Consul Alfred S. Northrup, at Trezibond, has forwarded the following interesting facts concerning that district:

"Tobacco is the most important article exported from this district, and the area of tobacco plantations and its importance is yearly increasing. The tobacco crop of the Trebizond-Platana region for 1912 was an average one, the yield being 5,973,000 pounds, but the quality was inferior. The excess of rain caused the leaf to deteriorate on the plant, and the absence of sunshine gave it no chance to dry properly.

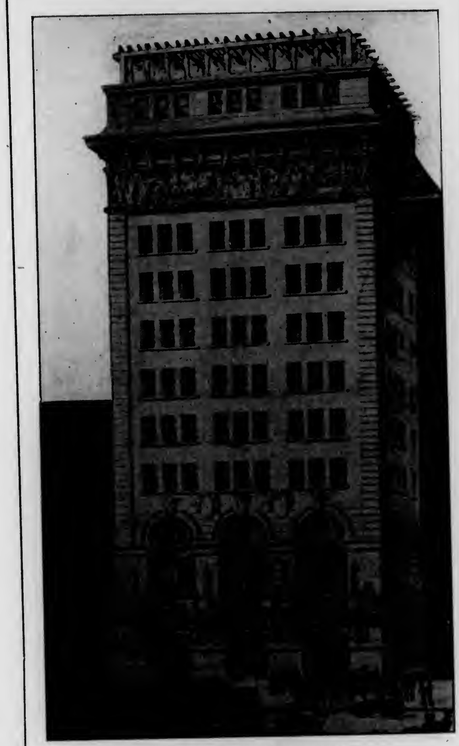
"The annual registered crop of tobacco of the Trebizond-Platana region for the last three years has been as follows: 1910, 6,251,300 pounds; 1911, 5,236,000 pounds, and 1912, 5,937,000 pounds. Twenty-five per cent. should be added to the first two years and at least 35 per cent. to the last year for unregistered tobacco sold as contraband. The lease of the Régie being near its expiration, the vigilance against contraband has rather slackened.

"The amount of tobacco exported in 1912 from the Trebizond-Platana region was 3,743,443 pounds, of which 2,369,607 pounds were exported to Alexandria, 13,086 pounds to Samos, 28,338 pounds to Adana, 64,836 pounds to Cyprus, 835,195 pounds to Rotterdam, 301,101 pounds to Hamburg, 33,724 pounds to Trieste, 9,519 pounds to London, 84,154 pounds to Dresden, 484 pounds to Amsterdam, 1,003 pounds to Berlin, and 2,396 pounds to New York. All these exports have been made of the stock and crop of 1911.

"Interested parties have sent several samples of Platana tobacco to America, but they received no encouragement, as the quality does not seem to be adapted to the American market. Notwithstanding the competition of tobacco from the Caucasus with that of Platana in the Alexandria market, the latter is selling at Platana for 21 to 29 cents per pound.

"Exports of tobacco from Samsoun to the United States increase yearly, the declared value being $397,723 in 1909, $741,678 in 1910, $1,709,575 in 1911, and $2,789,899 in 1912. The Trebizond-Platana tobacco is light yellow, valued chiefly for its color, while Samsoun-Baffra tobacco is darker, running from yellow to mahogany, but is more aromatic. Both kinds are used entirely for cigarettes."

CLUBDOM SMOKING No. 7



THE ILLINOIS ATHLETIC CLUB
Showing the Michigan Boulevard Entrance

(This is the seventh of a series of sketches of the leading social clubs of the United States, paying particular attention to the cigar departments, purchasing agents and the favorite brands of each club.)

No. 1—Lambs' Club, New York.
No. 2—Union League, Philadelphia.
No. 3—City Club, Chicago.
No. 4—Olympic Club, San Francisco.
No. 5—The Pittsburgh Athletic Association.
No. 6—The Chicago Athletic Association.

CLUBDOM in Chicago is pretty much like clubdom everywhere. Some are of the kind where food and politics are served in equal portions and at the same table; others are of the purely social kind, where men meet to read and smoke and while away a dull hour; still others are of the virile kind, where sport is predominant and food is a mere incident of living.

Of the latter kind is the Illinois Athletic Club, which has its habitat in a beautiful building on Michigan Boulevard, the show street of Chicago, and about the only one of consequence not disfigured with trolley poles, wires and stations. It is directly on the Lake Front, opposite Grant Park, and from the windows can be had a wonderful view of the flat waters of the lake, as well as generous inhalations of smoke from the Illinois Central Railroad Company engines, which the city has so determinedly and so unsuccessfully tried to move.

On the whole, the club is much like other clubs of its kind. It has the same large and splendid membership, evinces the same interest in all kinds of clean athletics and provides the same class of apartments for its bachelor members. Its meals are of the finest, its athletic equipment the best obtainable and its cigars of a quality not beatable anywhere. What more could one ask for in a club?

The club is, however, essentially true to its name, in that it pays great attention to athletics. Many young men are members and they are eager sportsmen. Just now their attention is concentrated on the exploits of a phenomenal runner, George B. Waage. This interest can be understood best in the reading of an excerpt from the current number of Illinois Athletic Club Magazine, as follows:

"It is so seldom a youth jumps from the scholastic athletic ranks into a full fledged champion of the cinder path that the phenomenon deservedly attracts more than cursory attention. Almost without exception our distance running champions have been developed only after years of tedious training and by overcoming innumerable handicaps, so there is good reason to pause and wonder when, in the first year of his career among men, a high school boy makes our champions look like novices, and not only wins the one-mile championship, but breaks the record of James D. Lightbody, of 4.35, which has stood for some time, making a new mark of 4.32."

Until a year ago Waage was a student in the Lane High School, but he is today one of the fastest middle distance runners in the West. It is open to question whether he is not superior to some of the Eastern stars and the I. A. C. members would not be averse to having the question definitely settled. Waage has made an unusual record and every member of the club is inordinately proud of "the kid."

Another product of the club that has carried its colors to victory is Fritz Carlson, who won the Minneapolis Athletic Club's Marathon in the good time of 4 hours, 14 minutes, 54 seconds. The race was run in almost tropical heat, and out of fifteen starters only three finished at the tape. The race featured the athletic side of Weston day in Minneapolis, and a great throng saw the victory won. The heat was so intense that wagers were freely offered that Phidipides, the original Marathoner, or Marathonist (whichever is correct), would have dropped by the wayside, leaving Darius to win over Miltiades and change the history of the world. Carlson could, undoubtedly, lower his margin of time considerably in cooler weather.

All this must not be taken as conveying the impression that the club has no other functions than the promotion of athletics. Its social side is as highly developed as that of any other club in the city and life within the walls of the building has been made exceedingly pleasant by the handsome decorations and furnishings and the almost perfect service. Almost $75,000 have recently been spent in fixing up "the back part of the house"; that is, the kitchen, refrigerating rooms, wine cellars, club room for help, etc., and they will be model departments when finished. A fine lounging room has also been prepared for the waiters and other help when off duty, thus keeping them off the streets and out of the saloons.

Key West

Heavy Orders Coming in for 1914—Dr. J. N. Fogarty Again Elected Mayor—Chinaman Pays $50 a Whiff for Five Puffs

KEY WEST, FLA., November 27, 1913.

AS can readily be seen by the remarkably large shipping lists which accompany this letter our factories are now at the height of holiday activity. While the demand set in rather earlier than usual this year and about all of the goods intended for Christmas trade have been marketed, judging by the heavy influx both by wire and mail of future delivery orders, there will be no slack-up in output for some time to come. Many of the factories have a filed demand running way into February, 1914, and each incoming mail adds to same.

A few more additional cigarmakers of the Regalia type came in from Havana this week and rapidly found employment at our factories.

As forecasted in my last letter, Dr. Joseph N. Fogarty was re-elected as Mayor at the election held on November 11. He had three opponents, but succeeded in polling a handsome majority over the three combined and has entered upon the duties of his fourth term.

Norberg Thompson, local manager of the Key West Cigar Box factory, was also elected as a member of the Board of Aldermen.

A. L. Cuesta, of Cuesta, Rey & Co., the Tampa cigar manufacturers, was a visitor to the office of Moreda & Co. last week He has since gone on to Havana to make purchases of leaf for his house.

We have all heard of the costly smokes of the rulers of Europe and some of our millionaire magnates, but they have all got to take back seats and make way for George Ling, a Key West Chinese laundryman, who was fined $250 in police court on November 21 for hitting the pipe five times. The complete opium smoking outfit was seized and Ling has appealed his case to a higher tribunal, as he says $50 a whiff is too much for his pocket.

President A. W. Arnold, of the "Mi Favorita" Cigar Co., received an invitation last week from Park & Tilford, asking him to attend the opening of their new warehouse on Forty-second Street, New York. Mr. Arnold was compelled to decline owing to rush of business at the local factory. At the "Mi Favorita" shop trade conditions are in excellent shape and heavy shipments are being made.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Co. are the heaviest leaf importers of the past two weeks, having received 258 bales of very choice stock. At the factory both main building and annex are being worked at full capacity and large shipments are being made. A cablegram was received last week from S. Bachman & Co., the Pacific Coast distributors of the Gato goods, calling for a rush shipment of 65,000 cigars.

The Ruy Lopez Co. also received a heavy invoice of tobacco during the past two weeks consisting of 119 bales. Gerald Smith, a leaf dealer of Porto Rico, and a nephew of Leslie Pantin, the Havana leaf dealer, registered at the Ruy Lopez Co.'s office last week. He has since gone on to Havana, where he will spend a few days with his uncle before going on to Porto Rico.

President A. L. Sylvester, of the Havana-American Co., was a caller at the local branch last week being en route to Havana on business. At the factory all is activity and will be for some time to come, as they have a large filed demand for future delivery.

W. W. Croxton, general passenger agent of the Alabama, Birmingham & Atlanta Railway System, passed through town on the 15th while on his honeymoon trip. After spending a few hours visiting places of interest in the city he and his bride left for Havana, the "Paris of the two Americas."

Eugene Stoltz, of the Cortez Cigar Co.'s staff of roadmen, who is now touring the Pacific Coast in the interest of their "Hernan Cortez" brand, is making encouraging reports and states that there are bright prospects in that section in 1914-15. At the factory every table is manned and will be until the Christmas recess.

Rafael Menendez, the genial manager of the M. Perez Co., reports trade as in excellent shape. The concern is sending out a handsome holiday packing of their famous "Pinzon" brand. The package is of polished cedar and consists of fifty cigars in three fine sizes of their most popular shapes, viz.: "Coronas," "Invincibles" and "Perfecto B." That is what is known as a combination package, for after the holidays are over it can instantly be transformed into an all-the-year seller.

At the factory of the Martinez-Havana Co. business conditions are fine and they are compelled to put in seven working days to the week. "La Flor de Louis Martinez" is going out well in its finest sizes and shapes. Don Louis Martinez, who has been spending a few days at the factory, returned to Cuba on Saturday. He will go direct to Guira de Melena and oversee the planting of over 100,000 tobacco plants on his plantation.

A caller at the office of Moreda & Co. since my last letter was Val G. Keogh, recently appointed second in command of the selling forces of M. A. Gunst & Co. and the above company. He was accompanied by his wife, and left for Havana, Cuba, from whence they will go direct to New Orleans, La., where Mr. Keogh will inaugurate a vigorous campaign in the interests of the two firms mentioned above.

M. F. McLeod, of the American Tobacco Co., was in the city recently in the interest of "Sovereign" cigarettes, on which his company is making a vigorous campaign in this State.

R. S. Tatum, of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., was also a visitor to the city in the interest of "Piedmont" cigarettes.

"Courtello" Cigar Winning Success for Dan Fleck

Although on the market only a little more than two years, the "Courtello" five-cent cigar has popularized itself to such an extent that it is one of Reading's best known products.

Daniel Fleck is the manufacturer of this brand, and his persistent efforts have resulted in a record of steadily increasing sales.

The cigar is immensely popular in the anthracite and bituminous regions, through the efforts of the Reid Tobacco Company, of Milton and Altoona, Pa.

Kansas is another state where the name "Courtello" stands high with the smokers. This smoke is made in three sizes and is a quality nickel cigar.

"Courtellos" are popular in Philadelphia, and are growing in favor wherever they are introduced.

The factory at Reading is growing rapidly and this would indicate that the cigar is duplicating to a considerable extent.

"Remington" Cigar Keeps Factory Busy

The Remington Cigar Company, at Red Lion, is kept busy filling orders on their "Remington" cigar, which is making quite a hit with retailers as well as jobbers, in all parts of the country.

Wide-awake dealers have already taken advantage of their unusual premium offer of a Remington typewriter free with a thousand "Remington" cigars.

H. L. Haines, the manager of this rapidly growing concern, reports that they are almost swamped with orders at the present time. They guarantee their proposition, and many, after they have taken over the deal, have expressed their appreciation of the proposition in hundreds of letters. Mr. Haines is always glad to show the letters of recommendation to any one who desires to see them. It is interesting to know that several of the largest jobbing houses in the country have asked for and secured exclusive territory on the "Remington" cigar.

New Cigar Factory Opened.

SEVEN VALLEY, November 26.

About one thousand people were present at the opening of the new cigar factory which the United Cigar Manufacturing Company will operate here. Dr. G. E. Holtzapple, of York, delivered the address of welcome, while other addresses were made by prominent cigar manufacturers. The building is a large three-story brick and stone structure, finely furnished on the inside. At present the working force consists of 170 people, and it is expected that this number will be increased to over 300 within a year.

A. F. Fix & Co., at Dallastown, are very busy keeping up with their orders. Aside from their holiday goods, they find a steadily increasing demand for their products.

The many friends of Edward Gillen, the well-known leaf tobacco dealer of Red Lion, have extended their sympathy to him in his recent bereavement caused by the death of Mrs. Gillen.

The foundations of the cigar factory being built by Oliver K. Hartman at Adamstown, are ready for the carpenters. The completion of this building will permit the employment of additional hands to fill the rapidly increasing orders coming into the factory.

Aeroplanes Smuggle Tobacco Across Frontiers

Smugglers are now getting tobacco across the French frontiers by aeroplane, according to a recently dated foreign dispatch. An aeroplane ladened with tobacco and other contraband, leaves France and after crossing the frontier drops the cargo at a previously arranged spot.

Clubdom Smoking

One of the recently organized divisions of the club is "The Otters." They are brothers in blood to "The Tankers" of the Chicago Athletic Association and "The Seals" of the Hamilton Club, the second having its clubhouse just a little distance away from the I. A. C. on Michigan Boulevard, and the Hamiltonians being in their own new, beautiful building on Dearborn Street near Monroe. The three organizations are somewhat similar in character and purpose, namely: To promote swimming, general athletics and good fellowship. The new organization starts out with a fine membership, particularly as the annual fee of $7 includes several banquets and other "eats."

Harry G. Wallace has complete charge of the cigar department and does all the buying. He is assisted by Rufus La Due, who pays special attention to the selling of the goods. Purchases are made so advantageously that the cigars and cigarettes are sold at about 10 per cent. less than they could be bought on the street and then a safe margin of profit is left to Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Wallace has been in charge almost two years and in that time has almost doubled the cigar business. It increased $12,000 in 1912 over the business of 1911 and the present year shows an increase of $15,000 over 1912, making an increase of $27,000 in two years. No outside sales are made, the business being confined exclusively to club members. There are four cigar stands in the building, one in the billiard room, one in the bowling alley, one in the lobby and one in the grill room. All have the personal supervision of Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Wallace is very proud of his "I. A. C." brand of cigarettes. The box was designed by him and he says it is the handsomest cigarette container ever put on the market. He believes it is the most beautiful package in the country and is just as proud of the goods, which are put up by A. Zaphirio & Co.

A specialty is made of "Illinois Athletic Club" cigars in clear Havanas. These are carried in ten sizes and are great favorites with members of the club, the sale being very large. In addition, the cases contain "Hoyo de Monterey" perfectos, "Flor de Partagas," "Romeo y Juliet," "Manuel Garcia" panetelas finas, "Henry Clay" perfectos N. P. U., "Bock & Co. Golden Eagle" perfeccionados, "Cabanas," "La Corona," "Carolinas," "Villar y Villar."

In clear Havanas the club members are given a selection from "El Roi Tan," "Jose Villa," "Don Casa," "Dulce," "Jose Gomez," "Tadema," "Vanderbilt Cup," "Sanchez y Haya," "Principe de Gales," "El Sidelo," "Lozano," "Shields," "Webster" and "Don Antonio Bock."

Domestic cigars include "Estabrook & Eaton," "Salerosa" and "Judge Day."

In addition to the "I. A. C." cigarettes, other brands carried are: "Twelfth Night," "Condax," "Deities," "Nestors," "Pall Mall," "Rameses," "Benson & Hedges," "Melachrino," "Makaroff," "Philip Morris," "Natural," "La Marquise," "Anglo Egyptian," "Duke of York," "King William Highball," "Mogul," "Murad," "Luxury," "Lorenze," "Fatima," "Dubs," "E. & E. Boite Nature" and "56."

Retailers Looking for Big Holiday Business—"Cinco" Demand Steadily Growing Heavier—New Liggett Store to Open Soon—Cafe "Frontenac" to Seat 6000—Good Displays on "56"

DETROIT, MICH., November 27, 1913.

A MAN came into the Hotel Ponchartrain this week, stopped at the cigar department and looked at a dozen or more boxes, examining each one carefully and finally said "Guess you better give me a box of those 'Hozanos' which I always smoke." Of course, the man referred to the "Lozano" cigar. He said he had always been smoking this brand and thought at first he would change for once, but he couldn't get away from the fact that "Lozano" is one of the best smokes on the market for the price, so he finally concluded to "let well enough alone."

From now until the first of the year retail dealers are going to be busy; for the first week in December they will be very active opening up their holiday shipments and getting in touch with prospective buyers; from the 20th on they will be busy making deliveries. Every retailer is looking for a big holiday business; they had it last year and see no reason, with Detroit's continued growth and prosperity, why a similar, if not better, condition should not exist this year.

As for the cigar manufacturers, they are a little quiet just at present. This is not a serious condition, however, as their trade always slows up at this season of the year. They look for orders to come in heavier than ever after the first of the year.

Frank Roemer, city salesman for the cigar department of Lee & Cady, said the other day that it was simply wonderful the way the sales of the "San Felice" and "Cinco" cigars are holding up. Last week was one of the biggest since he has been a cigar salesman for "San Felice" and "Cinco" orders. "I never saw anything like it; it's wonderful where they all go to, but there seems to be no let-up on the 'Cinco' and 'San Felice,'" added Mr. Roemer, Lee & Cady have the name "San Felice" painted in gold on many of their delivery wagons.

The United Cigar Stores have sold their 99-year lease of the Barbour Building, at Monroe Avenue and Campus Martius, for three million dollars, but at the same time signed a lease with the new owners for one of the stores, starting with January 1st. The building is a four-story one, and the new owners plan to make extensive alterations, dividing the ground floor into small stores. The location is right in the very heart of town and should prove an excellent cigar stand. The rent is somewhere around $6000 per annum.

Plans are out for the new Detroit Athletic Club, to be erected on Randolph Street, and comprising one square block. They call for a structure that will cost one million dollars, six stories high and to be the finest of its kind in the United States, barring none, and this means the Illinois Athletic Club, the New York Athletic Club and the Cleveland Athletic Club. Contracts will be let very shortly and the building will be completed by December, 1914. So great has been the demand for membership into the club that it has been found necessary to temporarily limit the number to about 800, although there is a waiting list of close to 2000, in spite of the fact that a fee of $200 is charged for initiation. Needless to add that a very high-grade cigar department will be one of the features, with fixtures of the very best.

The lease has already been signed for a drug store in the new Kresege Building, in course of construction at Park Street and Adams Avenue, which will be eighteen stories high and be principally for physicians. The store will be operated by the Standard Drug Co., which firm recently took over the two stores of the Central Drug Company, with the Gratiot Avenue store and the new one mentioned, will give the Standard concern four branches. The Standard stores maintain cigar departments, and a most complete line of cigars and cigarettes is handled.

The new Liggett drug store at Gratiot Avenue and Farmer Street is nearing completion and should be ready by December 15th. The fixtures are now being installed. A sign on the various windows reads, "Watch for the Liggett Opening; it will be the Finest Drug Store in the United States." From the outside appearance, this statement is not questioned in the least. The windows are being painted in green and gold, the company's trade mark, and the building itself is absolutely new, with a white tile front that makes it stand out very distinct from the other buildings in the neighborhood, which are very old. The opening of the Liggett store will mean another competitor in the retail cigar business.

The Cafe Frontenac, in the basement of the Berghoff Hotel, will be opened for the first time on December 5th; it will seat 600 people, which is the largest capacity in Detroit. A cigar department wil be maintained in the basement, which will have no connection with the Watson cigar stand on the main floor.

L. B. McKitterick, vice-president of the Melachrino Co., made a hurried trip through here last week, stopping long enough to have dinner at the Ponchartrain grill with Mr. Farmer, his manager in this State. "Mack," as he is favorably known in this section, extended the glad-hand to as many of the retailers as his time permitted.

Harry Bassett has been made sales manager of the Harry W. Watson Co. and will assume that position after the first of the new year. He will make his office at the Detroit branch on Washington Boulevard, although there is some report that a few months later he will be shifted to Flint, which is the head office of the Watson Co. Eugene Watson, president and general manager of the business, makes his residence in the Vehicle City. The Watson Co. is fast becoming a factor in the retail as well as the wholesale cigar and tobacco business. They now operate a retail cigar store in Flint, the cigar stand at the Downey House in Lansing, the cigar departments at the Hotel Berghoff, Hotel Griswold and Hotel Cadillac, besides a cigar store at 150 Woodward Avenue. In their wholesale department they not only cover the City of Detroit thoroughly, but Michigan as well, and are gradually taking on more lines so that before long they will be, if they are not already, the second largest wholesalers in the State.

Another change announced by the Watson Co. is at the Downey House, Lansing, which hereafter will be managed by A. F. Metzger.

There is hardly an up-to-date store in town that hasn't one of those new tin boxes for keeping "Fifty-Six" cigarettes. And the best part of it is that the dealers keep them right on the counters, where they are in easy reach of the customer and where they are most beneficial from an advertising standpoint.

Richard Helms is back from a trip to Buffalo. Mr. Helms is the general factory superintendent of the San Telmo Cigar Manufacturing Co., which operates a Buffalo branch. Oscar Rosenberger, president of the firm, returned recently from a successful business trip through the Middle West.

Albert Worch, of the Wayne Cigar Co., makers of the "Niles-Moser," hand-made cigar, is on an extensive business trip to the West Coast, and will visit Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and other Western cities, returning to Detroit about Christmas time. Mr. Worch has his wife with him.

Sam T. Goldberg, of the Lillies Cigar Co., is back from a brief stay in Chicago. The Lillies Co., by the way, is having erected one of the largest electric signs in the city at Woodward and Jefferson Avenues, to advertise the "La Azora" cigar.

Sam Bijur, of E. Rosenwald & Bro., was here this week just for a day. His representative, Mr. Penner, has been here all week and closed up some big deals, so it is reported.

The National Can Co., of Detroit, is having immense success with tin cans for cigar manufacturers, a feature which is getting very much in favor. For the Wayne Cigar Co. alone they are shipping on contract 7000 cans per day, and this order will be materially increased just as soon as the Wayne can increase its facilities for making more cigars.

All dealers are looking for the "Partagas" cigar to be very popular for Christmas trade among customers demanding high-class goods. Last year some of the dealers fell short by not ordering enough in advance, so this year they have prepared for the emergency by getting in a good stock.

That consistent advertising gets results is being proven by the increasing demand for "Tuxedo" smoking tobacco. There was a time when the average pipe or cigarette smoker hardly knew what brands to ask for; but nowadays there are few who approach the counter that do not ask for the "Tuxedo" tobacco outright or else say to the clerk, "I see this 'Tuxedo' tobacco advertised; it must be pretty good: I guess I'll try a jar." This is the reason why "Tuxedo" is going right to the front.

E. M. Harris, the popular Woodward-Avenue retailer, has for years specialalized on the "Flor de Jeitles" cigar. On an average of at least once a month he makes a full window display of this brand, and he says they sell "like hot cakes." This is not surprising, however, when one considers the fine quality contained in the "Flor de Jeitles" cigar, price considered.

Hardly a week goes by that the name "Fatima" is not used in one way or another at one of the vaudeville or burlesque theatres. While a lot of it is in the way of good joshing, the fact remains that it is all good publicity and serves to make the name "Fatima" better known than ever. There is hardly a boy or girl old enough to talk and understand that isn't aware of the fact that "Fatima" means "Turkish Blend Cigarettes." There are other brands of cigarettes well known, but where is there one so universally popular?

The new "Bachelor" cigar received some good advertising the past week by a splendid window display at the Hotel Metropole. There is scarcely a week that the new "Bachelor" is not given window space at either the Metropole, the Robinson or the Nate Hart cigar stores.

Frank Bachold, assistant at the O'Brien & Co. cigar stand, showed his ability as a vaudevillian last Sunday night at the Garrick Theatre, when the members of the Young Men's Order gave a minstrel entertainment for the benefit of charity. Frank not only was on the executive committee that arranged the whole affair, but also took part, playing the role of "Bertha the Cloak Model, or Why Men Leave Home." He gave imitations of such well-known stars as Eva Tanguay, Gaby Deslys, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Elsie Janis and Sarah Bernhardt, and so well did the audience take to his impersonations that a curtain speech was demanded of him. Frank was actually the hit of the show. He said much of his material he received from Mr. Lutts, who represents the "Webster" cigar, and whose hobby is "theatre-going." When he was here last, Frank told him about this entertainment and Lutts gave him a list of the leading feminine stars of the day and told him just how to imitate them. Frank is now considering the advisability of taking the stage seriously and is waiting for Lutts to make the town again. Anyway, when all is said and done and laying all joshing aside, Frank did give a very creditable performance, and received very favorable notices by the press.

D. F. Carpenter has purchased the interest of James Ward in the Ward & McLarty cigar store, Kalamazoo, and will continue the business.

Stephen O. Black succeeds Edward Ott in the cigar business in Three Rivers, Mich.

Max Maier, of A. Blumlein & Co., has returned from a business trip to Chicago, Milwaukee and also Montreal.

The Oppenheimer cigar store at 312 Genesee Avenue, Saginaw, has of recent date been making a strong feature of "Stag" tobacco by giving free gratis a box of Greenfield's chocolate with each purchase of a 90-cent jar. The premium proved to be a big inducement, and as a consequence, "Stag" tobacco is now being used by every Saginawian smoker of pipe or cigarettes.

Someone entered Robinson's cigar store on East Grand River Avenue recently and tapped the telephone pay station box. It was done while five clerks were on duty. Mr. Robinson is trying to figure out how it could be done.

If you ever want to hear some good droll comedy, drop in to see Charles H. Brockway, who runs a cigar store and billiard room at 743 Woodward Avenue. First of all, let it be understood that Mr. Brockway is a regular subscriber of THE TOBACCO WORLD and reads it from cover to cover every issue. He says he is particularly interested in the advertisements. He has been in business for two years and has built up a splendid trade among the people of his neighborhood, which is in a high-class residential as well as business district. Mr. Brockway has every qualification for success in such a business: he is a good mixer (not of drinks) and thoroughly understands human nature; he knows just how to handle everybody that comes in and they never go out without some kind word or humorous remark from the proprietor. As a humorist he has few equals. He is quick to grasp the comedy side of everything; in fact, his motto is "What's the use of living when you can't smile and make others smile." THE TOBACCO WORLD wishes Mr. Brockway continued success.

A leading Michigan daily had the following obituary on the death of Henry E. Perry, who for years traveled for the cigar department of Lee & Cady, Detroit: "Undoubtedly the news of the death of Henry E. Perry, which occurred last Friday night at a sanitarium, has been received by his many friends before the publication of this notice. While Mr. Perry's health had been failing him for some time, the news of his death comes as a shock. He represented Lee & Cady for a number of years and was held in the highest esteem by that house as he was by all with whom he ever came in contact. The Elks and traveling men in general will mourn his loss as well as his score of friends among the trade and about the State. He was buried from his home, 361 East Grand Boulevard, Detroit, November 17th."

John Dietrich, general manager of the G. J. Johnson Cigar Co., of Grand Rapids, has returned from a trip to Indianapolis and Toledo.

"44" Cigars in Vice-President Marshall's Store

THE cut herewith shows the store of Vice-President Marshall, at Salem Centre, Ind. The cross (X) indicates the vice-president's brother-in-law, Mr. Kinsey.

The account for "44" cigars was opened with this store by F. D. Crawford, Middle West representative of the "44" Cigar Company, for the Wayne Tobacco Company, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

This store is quite active on "44" cigars.

Weyman-Bruton Company to Build Third Factory

In addition to their snuff factories at Louisville and Memphis, the Weyman-Bruton Company will soon start the erection of their third snuff plant at Paducah, Ky. The building will rise on the ground adjoining their tobacco warehouse in that city.

Tobacco from the Black Patch is used in the manufacture of snuff, and as Paducah is one of the principal markets of the Black Patch, the erection of a factory there will prove an economical move. This new business will no doubt have a healthy influence on the commercial life of Paducah, as the Weyman-Bruton Company intends to employ a large number of hands.

Retail Cigar Dealers Meet

The Minneapolis Retail Cigar Dealers' Association recently inaugurated the winter season with a dinner at the Nicollet Hotel. Following the meal, several addresses were delivered and members joined in a general discussion. Among the guests was Harry A. Earnshaw, editor of the well-known house organ "Ginger," published by the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company.

Chicago

Halsted Street Becoming Jobbers' Favorite Location—Leaf Houses Prospering in Chicago—Reid, Murdock & Co., Report Heavy Call for Holiday Goods—M. F. Rothschild & Co. Open New Store

CHICAGO, ILL., November 25, 1913.

THAT the Anti-Cigarette League, headed by Miss Lucy Page-Gaston, which has been lying low during the past few weeks, has not entirely given up in despair, was demonstrated when it succeeded on November 19 in having four small dealers convicted on technical violations of the law regarding the sale of cigarettes. This is about the first time the organization has been in the limelight since Miss Gaston secured front page space in the newspapers by catching messenger boys and giving them an alleged "cure" for the habit, which consisted of some sort of mouth wash intended to make the mere thought of smoking "skags" extremely nauseating. It is said that several boys were put through the ordeal in the offices of the organization in the Otis Building, but whether or not they continued to smoke cigarettes has not been established.

Local dealers announce that they will soon have on hand the new deal of the American Tobacco Company on "Tuxedo," which consists of a standard brand of playing cards to go with every 90-cent glass humidor of tobacco. Distribution to consumers will begin on or about December 1.

Jobbers whose main business is confined to the west side of the city seem to be favoring Halsted Street more and more each year, since the number located on that famous thoroughfare is increasing by leaps and bounds. S. Briskin, Ezra Kaplan and Nesser Bros. are prominent ones whose places of business grace the street. Halsted Street is the great north and south artery of the west side. The surrounding district is not high-class, but is densely populated, and in most sections the male population outnumbers the female. The transportation facilities are excellent from one end to the other.

Reiss Bros. & Co. announce that they have become settled in their new home in East Erie Street, and will take pleasure in showing out-of-town pipe buyers through the place, which was built with a special intent to make the manufacture of pipes a thing of beauty and a joy forever. While every detail has been designed with a primary regard for practicability, the entire place has a neat and genteel appearance which is bound to make a good impression on all who enter. It is expected that with the increased facilities for handling their vast importing and jobbing business, in addition to the manufacturing end, the already large business of this big pipe house will become much larger in the near future.

Samuel Bloom, jobber of tobaccos and cigarettes, formerly located on South Jefferson Street, has moved to 1019 South Halsted Street, owing to the rapid growth of his business, which made his old quarters much too small. His new home gives him ample room to take care of all his business, with a margin left over for expected increase.

Walter Sutter, of the leaf tobacco house of Walter Sutter & Co., has returned from Havana after a four months' trip, most of which was spent with the branch of his firm located in that city. He has collected a large number of choice vegas for the Eastern and Western markets, and declares that his purchases this year have been larger than ever, with quality somewhat better than in former years. He says that Vueltas show a much larger proportion of fine tobaccos than they have during any season since 1905. The demand for them is good, but much is being put away, owing to the fact that slow maturing tobacco is well suited for warehousing.

Maurice F. Rothschild & Co. have opened a new cigar store on South La Salle Street, near Van Buren, one of the most striking features of which is the large amount of room, contrary to the usual case with cigar stores in the heart of the city. The fixtures are all new and the general appearance of the store is one to inspire confidence in the mind of the smoker. The stock includes a selection of the most popular brands, designed for the most part to suit the taste of a high-class of cigar trade. The Chicago Board of Trade is located within a stone's throw.

Without doubt one of the livest cigarette representatives in the city is S. Tabak, who looks after the sale of Schinasi Bros.' "Natural" and Prettiest." Owing to his enterprise these brands are seen in nearly all the places where cigarettes are sold here.

What brands of cigars and cigarettes are smoked by the newspaper men of this city is contained in a report made by Dr. W. Frederick Nutt, financial secretary and buyer of supplies for the Press Club of Chicago, 26 North Dearborn Street. Local scribes seem to favor cigars and cigarettes in about equal proportion, the "old heads" going in for the former and the young writers for the later. "Press Club of Chicago" is a popular brand in several sizes which has a large sale in all sections of the city, in addition to being a prime favorite at the club house.

F. Newman, of Newman & Gach, 315 West Randolph Street, is making a business trip through Indiana and Ohio, calling on buyers of leaf tobacco.

M. Linkman & Co., pipe manufacturers, are working at capacity, and say that never before have they experienced such a holiday rush.

F. Couthoui & Co., two of whose stores are in the Auditorium and Congress Hotels, are among the biggest down-town retailers of cigars and cigarettes. Cigarettes, of fancy and plain imported varieties, are now being featured in these two places, which are in direct charge of General Manager Gilray.

The General Hazen Cigar Co., Chicago, was recently incorporated for $2500 by W. S. Cruse.

J. MacMahn, manager of the cigar department of Reid, Murdock & Co., reports a good holiday trade on general lines, in particular on "El Roi-Tan," "Reubens" and "Juliana" cigars. He says that there is little trade this year on fancy packages, as the demand for this line is too uncertain to warrant the manufacture in any quantity, and for that reason manufacturers and jobbers have found it best not to urge them upon the dealers. Both the high-grade and the nickel goods handled by the department, declares Mr. MacMahn, are in excellent demand.

E. B. McKenzie, general Western agent for Seidenberg & Co., manufacturers of "El Roi-Tan" cigar, is now making Iowa River points. He is accompanied by J. C. Batchelor, Reid, Murdock & Co.'s regular salesman for that territory.

Most of the local jobbers of cigars are busy now shipping orders for the holiday trade which have been booked for December 1, and for that reason are more concerned with filling orders when promised than with making new sales, which seem to be coming into camp, however, in a satisfactory manner without much special effort on the jobbers' part to stimulate them.

H. G. Taussig, of the well-known Chicago leaf tobacco house of Taussig & Co., reported that business was in a most prosperous condition, with the customers of that firm all over the Middle West buying cautiously but well. He said that shade-grown Florida and Georgia wrappers seemed to be growing in popularity, since more than the usual number of orders had been received during the past few months. Binders continue high, but are in excellent demand with the quality good, especially on the Wisconsin grades. Fillers of the Zimmer and Pennsylvania variety are in heavy demand and the quality is better than for several seasons, declares Mr. Taussig.

Charles B. Cameron, of the Waldorf-Astoria Segar Co., writes from Pittsburgh that he is finishing up a most successful year's business on the road in that city.

The cigar stand of the Hotel Sherman is one of the features of that famous hostelry, and has one of the highest classes of trade in the loop. At present a great deal of prominence is being given to "Lord Macaulay," "Marie Antoinette" and "La Famosa," these brands holding a position well to the front of the case.

Ed Kirsch, manager of Grommes & Elson, 83 West Randolph Street, has taken occasion to sneer at the fish which George A. Renaud, of Monroe's, has been displaying in his window, a glowing account of which was given in a previous news letter. Ed declares that he captured a "muskie" up in Wisconsin last summer compared with which the Renaud offering is a mere minnow.

The National Cigar Store, 34 South Dearborn Street, is boosting "Jose Vila" cigars during the holiday season.

Jacob Berolzheim is having a run on "Tomas Gutierrez," an imported brand which has taken the trade by storm.

I. A. Rosenthal, secretary and treasurer of the Charles Donovan Cigar Co., has returned from his vacation at French Lick Springs, in Southern Indiana, looking much refreshed. This is the first vacation he has taken in more than twenty years.

Edward C. Berriman, of Berriman Bros., has installed a dictaphone in his private office, which he declares is meeting his requirements in a pleasing fashion.

J. T. Townes, who represents Liggett & Myers Co. here, has resigned his position. He is not certain as to his future plans, but will not leave the tobacco business.

G. W. WHITCOMB.

Mayor's Cigar Store Open

Mayor Faulstich, of Alton, Ill., has opened his cigar store in the Temple Theatre, and is carrying the old brands of the former owners. In the nickel grade there is the "Illinois" and "Sionilli," and the "Zodiac" is offered at ten cents.

The mayor has announced that two new brands will be the "J. C. F." (the mayor's initials), a ten-cent cigar, and the "Midget Havana," which will sell for five cents. Additional brands will be announced as soon as facilities for manufacturing are secured.

To procure a more uniform observance of the new factory law, the cigar manufacturers of Red Lion and Dallastown have adopted a working schedule of from 6.30 A. M. to 5.30 P. M., with an hour for recess from 11.30 to 12.30.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, PA., November 25, 1913.

THE weather has been very warm in Pittsburgh the last few days. The holiday business is improving.

B. F. Pyle, of Pyle & Allen, Cleveland, O., is visiting friends in this vicinity. Mr. Pyle is going to open a new store in the near future.

Bishop Bros., of Smithfield Street, have a very nice pipe display.

The Monongahela House cigar stands are doing a very nice business under the direction of Mr. Burkhart, who is the manager of these stands.

W. H. Buchannon has just finished a three-weeks' campaign on "La Preferencia" for L. Goldsmit Bros. & Co. Mr. Buchannon is en route to Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

C. A. Gibbs Co. have a very nice window display of imported cigars and humidors. This window was decorated by J. E. Detweiler, of the C. A. Gibbs Co.

Mr. C. A. Gibbs is back from a business trip to New York, where he bought fancy packages for the holiday.

J. E. Detweiler, city salesman of C. A. Gibbs Co., is back on the job after being laid up for the past few days.

C. J. Moye & Co., who are the distributors for the "Bold" cigars, made by Bobrow Bros., Philadelphia, have a very nice display of that brand in their windows.

R. Russel Co., Sixth and Penn Avenues, are featuring "John Ruskin."

Mr. Adams, of Siller-Narten Barnes, just returned from West Virginia. Had a big business on "El Roi-Tan" and "Charter" cigars.

J. R. Brinstin, of L. Goldsmit Bros. Co., who works the territory outside of Pittsburgh, had a great run on "Admiration" cigars.

Mr. Massingham, of the Shipley-Massingham Drug Co., has left for a two-weeks' trip to Jacksonville, Fla., to attend the National Drug Association, to be held the week of November 17. While there Mr. Massingham will take a run over to Tampa and visit the Cuesta-Rey factory.

Fred P. Shields, of Shields-Wertheim Co., in company with Mr. Sharpels, of the Stallings Co., walked into the Monongahela House the other day and guests in the lobby looking at Shields, whispered, "There goes William Jennings Bryan." Stallings Co. are enjoying a big business in the city for a young concern. "Saramitas" in all sizes are having a great run as well as "Chas. Denby" in tin cans, for which this concern are distributors.

Mr. Lopez, of Garcia Vega Co., was in town this week. C. A. Gibbs Co. are distributors for this firm.

R. J. Dalzell, of 6301 Penn Avenue, is going to feature "Tuval" cigars for Christmas. He has placed a large order with the C. A. Gibbs Co., the distributors for this brand.

A. L. Kidner is very busy and has arranged his store for the holidays. He has a large assorted window of cigars.

F. H. Anderson, of Wilkinsburg, is very busy and is now packing up his many lines of stogies for the holiday trade.

The trade in this territory is well taken care of by J. R. Crisswell, of the Bock-Stauffer Co.

J. H. Greenwald has opened up a fine store at 831 Wood Street, Wilkinsburg. He carries a fine line of Havana cigars. Also the popular stogies of Pittsburgh manufacturers.

Miss Lillian Stall, of the Rittenhouse, Highland and North Negley Avenues, the popular family hotel, is very well liked by all the salesmen, as she features all their goods. She has full charge and does all the buying for the cigar department.

Mr. Levy, formerly of Brownsville, Pa., has opened up a new cigar store at the north end of the Sixth-Street bridge. This is a good location as a new theatre is to be built near him shortly.

Louis Engleman, of McKeesport, Pa., was in the city this week buying special packages for the holidays. Mr. Engleman has one of the best cigar stands in McKeesport.

Sol Cohn, looking after the interests of the "High Grade" smoking tobacco of the American Tobacco Co., just returned from a successful trip through the oil region of Northern Pennsylvania. He found a ready sale for "Briar Root" 16-oz. jars and the "High Grade" line. He was glad to see the way "Briar Root" and "High Grades" are selling in Pittsburgh.

S. H. Handy is in town with a big crew boosting "Honest Scrap" and "Polar Bear." It surely is a hustling bunch and they are dressing the burg with the new enamel signs on "Honest Scrap."

Irrespective of the fact that Liggett & Myers started rather late on their "Velvet" 16-oz. glass jar campaign in Pittsburgh, the jobbers and general trade thoroughly realize the big business accomplished by the crew working in town. Every high spot in town is now handling the "Velvet" glass jar and dealers seem to think we have a very nifty one at that. Mr. Finsthwait when starting on this campaign selected four of his best men from the Western Pennsylvania crew. For the benefit of the consumer Liggett & Myers want the fact to be generally known that there are eight whole Liggett & Myers coupons packed in each 16-oz. glass jar.

A. B. Dawson, of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., is here with his salesman pushing "Prince Albert" the "National Joy Smoke."

Leo Schoenemann, of Celestino Vega & Co., manufacturers of the "La Venga" cigars, was in town. Reymer Bros. have taken on this brand.

The following visitors were in town in the interest of the cigar business:

Mr. Walker, of S. S. Pierce Co., Boston.
B. F. Alexander, of Fernandez Garcia Co., New York.
Dan Manhein, of Imperial Cigar Co., Lancaster.
T. B. McKettrick, of M. Melachrino Co.
W. A. Charles, of G. C. Nichols Co., importers.
J. A. Stein, representing "Perez" cigarettes.
J. J. Shannon, of B. Castellano & Co.
O. M. Bosworth, of the Chas. Denby factory.

N. B.—Shapiro, of the M. A. Gunst Co., is visiting the trade with Mr. H. V. Merriam, of the Bock-Stauffer Co., in the interest of the "Van Dyck" cigar.

Mr. Johnson, vice-president of American Cigar Co., was in Pittsburgh this week.

More Help for Snyder's Holiday Rush

PITTSBURGH, PA., November 25.

Will Goetz, who has charge of the Hotel Anderson Cigar Stand, for Joseph T. Snyder, has become the proud father of an 8-pound baby boy.

Receiver Named for Cigar Company

Charles H. Hoffmeister has recently been appointed receiver of the E. J. Hamburger Company, manufacturers of cigars, of Cincinnati, O.

The appointment was made as the result of a suit filed by Marie Eckelkamp, who has sued as a stockholder. She says that the company has an authorized capital of $25,000, of which $4350 has been paid in.

Two of the company's directors are residents of other states, she says, and she charges that one of the directors of the company reported to the mercantile agencies that the concern is owned and controlled by the Mid West Cigar Company, of Omaha, Neb., which report is untrue, she declares, but she says that the report has caused trouble, as creditors of the Mid West Company, which is now in bankruptcy, have threatened to bring suits in attachment against the local company. She also says that the credit of the local company has been affected, and, while its assets are worth $3500, it is unable to meet liabilities of about $500 that are past due because of a lack of cash. Judge Warner fixed the bond of the receiver at $500. Joseph B. Kelley, attorney.

Work Begun on Tobacco Production Company's Plant

Residents of New Milford, Conn., were elated last Monday when work was begun on the foundations of the new plant to be erected there by the Tobacco Production Company. The business of this company has increased so much of late, that at the end of another month, it is believed that they will be nearly sixty days behind in their orders. To meet this situation, orders were given to begin the erection of the new plant at once.

Taylor & Buckingham have the contract and are working on the plans submitted by F. L. Smith, a New York engineer. The foundations are 250 by 80 feet, which do not include a considerable addition to be added to the present plant and to be completed in about forty days.

Samuel H. Spingarn

SAMUEL H. SPINGARN, well known as expert on tobacco values and from 1860 to 1892 in the tobacco business at 5 Burling Slip, New York City, died at the Hotel Ashton, Ninety-third Street and Madison Avenue, on Thursday morning. Mr. Spingarn was one of the foremost experts on tobacco values in the United States, and since his retirement in 1892 has been employed a number of times as an expert by the Government.

Mr. Spingarn was 82 years old. He was a member of many charitable organizations. The deceased is survived by a widow.

Gustav A. Berger

Gustav A. Berger, a very prominent cigar manufacturer, passed away on November 24, in Detroit, death coming after a long illness. Mr. Berger will be remembered by many of the leaf tobacco men who were making that territory twenty-five years ago when he was manufacturing cigars. In 1885 he joined Frank A. Burdick, and together they conducted the Berger-Burdick Company, making a number of brands, their leader being the "Capitol."

Mr. Berger went into business for himself again, and a few years ago he started at Woodward Avenue, near High Street, manufacturing the "Washington Club" cigar. His health broke down and he had to give up the business. For a year he made a brave fight and succeeded in regaining his health. But for the last year he has been growing weaker. He was buried on November 25. Two sons survive him.

Adolph Seidman

Adolph Seidman, a retired cigar manufacturer of Cleveland, O., died on November 8 at 2224 East Seventy-fourth Street, that city. The deceased, who was seventy-four years old, came to Cleveland from Hungary thirty-five years ago, and had lived in Cleveland since that time. A coincident is that his wife passed away on the same date, twelve years ago.

Mr. Seidman is survived by ten children, three sons and seven daughters.

Levi S. Levor

Levi S. Levor, who has been actively engaged in the cigar and tobacco business in Attica, Ind., since 1877, recently passed away at the age of sixty-five years. His death was caused by kidney trouble. Mr. Levor, who was a native of Saxony, came to this country when a youth, and in 1877 settled in Attica, where he entered both the wholesale and retail cigar business.

Mr. Levor was a Mason and extremely active in fraternal circles, being a member of quite a number of fraternal societies. The deceased is survived by a widow and one son.

Samuel W. Thomas

Samuel Winter Thomas, a retired cigar importer of New York, died at the home of his son, 1501 Ridge Boulevard, Bay Ridge, L. I., on November 23. The deceased was eighty-six years old.

More than fifty years ago, he came to New York and with his brother formed the importing firm of William H. Thomas & Bro., which is still in existence.

CHICAGO MAYOR "CANS" GAME OF "26"

Out and Out Gambling Proposition According to Court Decision—Cigar Store Notified by Mayor's Order to Discontinue Game

CHICAGO, ILL., November 25.

BY far the biggest single event of the week affecting the Chicago trade is the court decision in regard to lators, which are too familiar to readers to require the "26" dice game, and similar business stimudescription. On his return from the Harvard-Yale football game the first official act of Mayor Carter H. Harrison was to dictate the following letter to Chief of Police Gleason:

> "I have learned from State's Attorney Hoyne that the test case brought for the purpose of determining whether the game of '26' is an out and out gambling game or not went against the defendant and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. In view of this fact you will kindly instruct all the commanding officers, through the bulletin, to serve notice on all places where the game of '26' is being played that in the decision of the court it has been held a gambling game and must be discontinued at once."

The mayor's action followed the receipt of a letter from the Citizens' Association which lay on his desk when he returned. The letter called his attention to the conviction of Walter Snell, proprietor of a saloon at Cottage Grove Avenue and Sixty-third Street, on the South Side, in a test case. Snell was found guilty of gambling because he permitted the game of "26," after a spirited fight before a judge and jury in the municipal court. Previously Mayor Harrison had refused to suppress the game, declaring that he considered shaking dice for cigars a harmless diversion and that the citizens of Chicago were entitled to indulge their sporting proclivities to that extent. He insisted, however, that the stakes be kept down to twenty-five cents. Later, however, so much influence was brought to bear upon him by the so-called reform element that he promised to stop the game if a court conviction could be secured in a test case. The fact that the lid has been clamped down on the "26" game means in addition that the other dice games, as well as all forms of punch-board and slot machines, must be tabooed by dealers, at least for the present.

Local cigar dealers who were interviewed in regard to the probable effect of the decision were melancholy enough, but declared that they believed the inclination on the part of the public to shake the bones was too strong to permit the ban to remain for any length of time. For the time being, however, the dice games must be stored away in the back room, and thus passes one of the greatest stimulators to holiday trade which the ingenuity of the man behind the counter has ever been able to devise.

Jobbers of cigars were not inclined to be as pessimistic as the dealers who were interviewed. They said they thought that just as many cigars would be smoked, but that the trade would verge away from the regular cigar stores to the drug stores in the residence districts. One firm, however, mournfully showed the writer a letter just received from a large saloon on the South Side which cancelled an order for 5000 cigars, the cheapest of which was $60. This dealer called the attention of the jobber to the decision and the mayor's order and declared that without the "26" game he felt that he would overstock by allowing delivery.

New Headquarters of J. J. Gans & Bros.

THIS firm recently concluded that they were in need of an extension, and so they procured the store illustrated here, located at 309 South Los Angeles Street, Los Angeles, Cal. The firm carries a staple line of cigars and tobacco of all kinds. In the picture the office force is shown standing outside the doorway.

Los Angeles

Cigars and Tobaccos Enjoy Enormous Sale—"Reynaldos" Increasing in Popularity—"Cincos" and "Websters" in the Vanguard—"Naida" Cigarettes Have Heavy Call

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Nov. 17.

WE had a fruitful rain just the other day. It came after a series of hot spells, and which seemed to worry the business men of this section. But, all of a sudden, down came this "million-dollar-a-drop" rain, just as crops were drying up, and people were preparing for "hard times." Now business is moving as it never moved before. Cigars and tobaccos are enjoying an enormous sale all over the city and the surrounding country.

Edward Wolfe is in the city calling on the retail trade in the interests of the "La Pruela" Manila cigar, jobbed here by Klauber-Wangenheim Co.

Morris Burke is leaving tonight for a ten-day trip to the part of this State known as Imperial Valley. This is strictly a business trip, and Mr. Burke will devote his entire time to pushing the following cigars, the jobbers for that section being Klauber-Wangenheim Co. of this city: "Picadura Import," manufactured by L. Newberger & Bros.; "Luxello," manufactured by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb of Philadelphia, Pa.; "Post Dispatch" and "Havana Sticks," manufactured by Eitel-Cassebohm Co. of Louisville, Ky.

John L. Friedmann is making a strong campaign on J. J. Gans Bros. lines in the city and nearby towns. "Naida" cigarettes are moving splendidly due to the never-failing efforts of Mr. Neides, who is pushing these cigarettes for the above-named firm. This house recently evacuated its old house on East Second Street and moved into its new headquarters, a photograph of the same being shown in this issue. They have a tremendous business which has been worked up gradually through years of hard labor, and now they do not have to compete with other business houses for the reason that they have a substantial business of their own and are an independent concern under excellent management.

Klingenstein reports "Cincos" and "Websters" as moving most favorably with him. "Y-B" and "Milo" cigarettes as well as the new "Duke of York" cigarettes are already causing a stir.

With a view to supplanting the present Sunday tobacco law in this city, preventing dealers from dispensing cigars, cigarettes or tobacco on Sunday, a new ordinance has been proposed by the Mayor of Whittier, Cal., a fair-sized town in the suburbs of Los Angeles, Cal.

The new ordinance is a severe interpretation of the State law, regarding the sale of tobacco to minors and provides penalties for such offenses. It also stipulates that it shall be unlawful for minors to have tobacco in their possession or to use tobacco within the city limits.

The present ordinance of prohibiting the Sunday sale of tobacco is believed by many to have failed in its purpose of limiting or of correcting the tobacco habit and it has been subject to much criticism, even its supporters realizing its ineffectiveness.

The new ordinance is expected to be passed at the next council meeting.

Haas-Baruch Co. are reporting an alarming shortage of "San Felice" cigars. Here's hoping they will find a way to supply the demand for this cigar.

Holiday goods packed 1/80's and 1/40's are in great demand already. The early start of the holiday rush is surprising to many here, and was unexpected. It sure bids fair to be a successful season for the trade in general.

I almost overlooked the "Reynaldo" cigar, which is manufactured by Luckett, Luchs & Lipscomb of Philadelphia, Pa. Now, since Morris Burke received the first shipment of these cigars, there has been an everlasting call for this brand. Morris Burke is the exclusive jobber of this cigar in this State. He found it necessary to wire for another immediate shipment the very day the first shipment arrived, so great was the demand. The factory has supported him splendidly in his efforts to make this cigar a winner, and it begins to look as if their expenditures have been put forth in the wisest manner possible. They furnish the best of advertising for this cigar, and I might say, the most attractive advertising seen hereabouts.

S. Bachmann is the man who is putting the "R-B" and the "Gato" cigars to the front these days, for the manner in which the cigars are becoming popular it augurs well for Mr. Bachmann's efforts.

"Picadura Import" cigars, manufactured by L. Newberger & Bros. of Cincinnati, O., are moving at a surprisingly steady pace, and Klauber-Wangenheim Co. have no reason to complain from this source. They report the "Luxello" and "Post Dispatch" cigars as making a most wonderful showing with no signs of a let-up.

Geo. Walker & Co. report the "La Mazella" cigar as showing up well.

New Deisel-Wemmer Factory Opened

The Fostoria (O.) branch factory of the Deisel-Wemmer Cigar Manufacturing Company, opened on November 18, with F. W. Barger in charge as superintendent. C. C. Hossellman, general superintendent, was present to make sure that everything was ready for work.

The plant has an equipment for sixty-four hands. It will eventually be used to supply the steadily increasing demand for the famous "San Felice" cigar, which is the leading brand of the Deisel-Wemmer Company.

Burglars Active in Cleveland

Burglars recently visited the cigar stand and saloon of Adam T. Meyer, at 630 Prospect Avenue, Cleveland, O., and got away with eleven bottles of fire-water and five boxes of cigars. It is believed that the same clique broke into the cigar store of Charles P. Smoke, 1380 East Ninth Street, and made away with sixty-five boxes of cigars valued at $100.

San Francisco

Trade Shows Improvement—Bercovich Chain Growing—H. Bier & Co. to Distribute "Jose Vila"—New Retail Stand in Insurance Exchange

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.

WHILE conditions in the cigar trade were not altogether satisfactory during the spring and summer, the year promises to come out in very good shape. The situation has been gradually improving since the end of summer, and for the last month the gain has been quite rapid, with all prospects of increasing activity through the holidays. With crop prospects excellent, and the Exposition near at hand, the coming year is expected to be one of the best in the history of the state.

The absorption of the city retail business by jobbing houses is still progressing, this month having brought another move of the Bercovich Company toward the extension and development of its retail chain system. This company has for some time been in control of the store at Ellis and Powell Streets, operated under the name of the Dignan Company, Incorporated, and is now running the place under its own name. Jack Markowitz, formerly manager of the Dignan Company, has opened another store at Third and Mission Streets, where he is now comfortably installed, and is featuring all the lines whose distribution is controlled by the Bercovich Company. This company has decided upon an aggressive campaign in its retail chain, and to that end is busy remodeling all its stores. It has adopted a distinctive color scheme of blue, gold and white, which will make its stores conspicuous in all locations; and within sixty days all the stores will be painted in these colors. H. Bercovich also reports a very nice jobbing business in the "Martinez," "Webster" and "New Bachelor" lines, and says business is better than for a year past.

The above is only an example of the prevailing tendency, and the number of really important city stands conducted independently is growing very small. This naturally curtails the outlet for jobbers who are not in the retail business. Such jobbers, however, have been giving their attention more and more to the country and suburban trade, which continues to show a healthy growth. This business has, of course, been largely with saloons; and with the passing of the saloon in many places, it is being taken over by billiard parlors, etc., for the cheaper trade, and by drug stores for the better lines, though the growth of many interior towns is supporting a good number of exclusive smoke shops. Most jobbers feel fairly well satisfied to work along present lines, looking to the country for most of their business. The outcome of present tendencies in the city cannot be readily figured out, but many predict that the combination of retail and wholesale business cannot be permanent.

Milton Esberg, of M. A. Gunst & Company, has just returned from a northern trip. M. A. Gunst & Company are preparing to occupy a stand in a new building at Sutter and Market Streets about December 1, and its store at the foot of Market Street has been moved to Market and California Streets, to open about Thanksgiving.

H. H. Manley, Coast representative of the American Cigar Company, is now in the North, where he will meet R. E. Christie, vice-president of the company, returning here the day before Thanksgiving.

S. M. Berger, representing the Katubusan cigar factory, of Manila, passed through San Francisco this week on his way to the Islands from New York, and is now awaiting a steamer at Seattle. As far as is known he did not make any connections in this country.

Edward Wolf, of the Edward Wolf Company, has just returned from a two weeks' trip to southern California.

An interesting development of the last fortnight is the announcement that Hyppolite Bier, formerly of Bier, Saalburg & Company, is getting back into the jobbing business. He has leased a store at the location he occupied several years ago under the name of H. Bier & Company, at 418 Sacramento Street, which has lately been occupied by the Block-Haas Cigar Company. Mr. Bier has made arrangements to handle the distribution of the "Jose Vila" line, made by Berriman Brothers, and will be ready to make deliveries by the first of the year. The "Jose Vila" has been handled here for many years.

Mr. Eisenschimel, of the local cigar department of Henry W. Peabody & Company, left early this month on his regular tour of the Western States, and is now at Portland, Ore.

George R. Webb, representing Cuesta, Rey & Company, etc., expects to leave about December 1 for a visit to the factories at Tampa.

Charles H. Knubel, representing Theobald & Oppenheimer, Salvador Rodriguez, etc., has just left for a trip to the factories by the Southern route, stopping off at Los Angeles. He spent only a week in San Francisco, on his return from a long tour through his Northern territory. E. C. Hull, who is working in conjunction with Mr. Knubel, is still in the North.

William Bercovich, of the Capital Cigar Company, of Sacramento, was down for a visit the first of the week.

I. Danziger, agent for a number of factory lines, has started on his Northern trip.

Arthur Meyer, representing Bustillo Brothers & Diaz, is leaving for Los Angeles, after a trip through central California, where he found business in fine condition.

W. I. Pixley, representing a number of tobacco and cigarette lines, has just started a specialty campaign on the "Pera" cigarette, with the assistance of George Borchard, and is putting in a number of handsome window displays. Under the influence of this sort of work the goods are moving well.

A new retail stand worthy of some mention is that in the lobby of the Insurance Exchange Building, just completed. This has been taken by Frank Tyndal, who has been in the retail business in the financial district for some years. The building is one of the largest and finest in the city, adjoining the Merchants' Exchange, which it somewhat resembles, and a good high-class business is assured as soon as all the offices in the building can be occupied.

H. F. ("Milo") Adams, one of the best known traveling men on the Coast, has just taken up the account of Benson & Hedges, covering the entire territory from Salt Lake City west.

Alexander Herbert, vice-president of Philip Morris & Company, is expected in the city a day or two before Thanksgiving.

Mr. King, representing the Deisel-Wemmer Company, of Lima, O., is visiting Charles Mattheas & Company, who handle this company's "San Felice" line.

A. J. Lachman, president of the West Indies Cigar Company, was a recent visitor to the local trade.

Goldberg, Bowen & Company, leading grocers of the Bay district, who do a large cigar business, will move their Oakland store into new quarters about December 1.

ALLEN.

Notes of the Trade

E. S. Nelson, of the cigar company of that name, was a recent visitor to Oshkosh, Wis., on business connected with his company.

An entire new front, modern in every respect, is one of the improvements contemplated for the store of Ashton & Major, wholesale and retail tobacconists, Parkersburg, W. Va.

The old Seybold mansion at the corner of Water and Fortieth Streets, on the South Side, Wheeling, W. Va., was recently purchased by the Bloch Brothers Tobacco Company, who will erect a new power house just so soon as the present structure is razed.

Ehrman Brothers Company, San Francisco, Cal., are having unique success with "Havana Ribbons." Since placing the brand in stock during 1911, each month's business has shown a decided increase and "Ribbons" are rapidly becoming popular on the coast.

The Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association of Minneapolis, Minn., recently held a banquet in that city, which they styled an "Educational Meeting and Dinner." Matters of importance and their relation to the holiday trade, as well as many other topics of interest to the independent retailer, were discussed.

The Punch Board, as a trade stimulator, still maintains a prominent place on the counters of hundreds of the retail cigar stores. The Michigan City Paper Box Company, of Michigan City, Ind., reports a steady demand for these goods, and are supplying the trade in all parts of the United States. If you have not tried a Punch Board, you have missed an opportunity for swelling your profits.

The Whiting Cigar Manufacturing Company, Holyoke, Mass., was recently incorporated with a capital of $35,000, represented by 1000 shares of stock at a par value of $25. William J. Crabtree, New Britain, Conn., is president; Amedee Robert, Holyoke, Mass., is treasurer. The vice-president is Joseph D. Pepin, also of Holyoke. The three officers also constitute the board of directors.

Teaching the Miss to "Kick for Class"

The illustration herewith shows "Dave" Cargill, representative of Seidenberg & Co., holding a box of "Class" cigars, and teaching Miss Class to "kick for Class." Standing with Mr. Cargill is Harry A. Earnshaw, manager of the cigar department of the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company, which has eight branches in the Northwest and headquarters in Duluth. Mr. Earnshaw is the editor of that house-organ gem, "Ginger."

The success of the "Class" cigar has exceeded anything in the history of the Stone-Ordean-Wells Company. To take care of the business Seidenberg & Co. has opened two new factories since June, and for the past thirty days shipments of forty to fifty thousand a week of the Perfecto size alone have been going forward by express to take care of the urgent holiday orders. This is an expensive way to ship nickel goods, but "Class" has obtained such a momentum in the Northwest that every effort is being expended to care for the demand.

Cleveland

Liquor License Law Affects Tobacco Trade—Shields-Wertheim Working Day and Night—I. Teitelbaum Factory Working to Capacity

CLEVELAND, O., November 26, 1913.

THINGS in Cleveland are just beginning to brighten up after the terrible storm in which business was practically at a standstill. Everything seems to be going along almost up to normal at this time.

The liquor question which has been on the minds of the people for the past several months has been settled, but not in the true sense of the word. Those saloons which did not receive licenses are taking it to the courts and trying to test the constitutional value of this new law, but it seems to be a fruitless appeal. The past week saw 1286 licenses issued and 900 rejected, giving one saloon to every 500 inhabitants. Saturday night saw the closing of these 900 saloons among much revelling, but the disturbance was very slight.

The effect on the cigar and tobacco interests was surprising. Wholesalers were at a loss how to ship out merchandise enough to supply the demands of these fortunate license holders, owing to the fact that none of the saloonkeepers have been ordering for the past several months, only keeping stock enough on hand to supply the immediate demands. The result was that they are stocking up now for the holidays their regular stock, and are taxing the wholesalers and jobbers to supply them with merchandise.

This new law effects the closing of all cigar stands in the front of saloons at midnight on Saturday, and not permitting them to open again until five o'clock Monday morning. This will naturally have a tendency to affect the sale of cigars in saloons.

Among the more notable places that were refused licenses, but have since bought same were: P. J. Sinnot, Hotel Statler and Fitzgerald Opera House Cafe.

Speaking of the liquor trade, the writer is in receipt of a letter from Nate Weisenberg, former proprietor of the Euclid Arcade Cigar Stand, and now running a cigar store, namely, the "Volunteer," in Nashville, Tenn., stating that Nashville has gone dry and this has had a tendency to increase his business many fold. His many Cleveland friends will be pleased to hear that he is enjoying much success in this Southern city.

The new Euclid Arcade billiard pool and bowling hall are having an enormous run. They are kept constantly busy. This is one of the finest institutions in the country, and is in charge of such men as Mr. Smith, formerly of Massilon, general manager, Mr. Mahoney; and Mr. Young, charge of cigar stand. Mr. Mahoney was formerly with the Snyder organization here, and also Cy Falkenberg, veteran pitcher of the Naps. They have a line of cigars that has few equals in this section and possibly in the country. Among the many brands displayed are "Romeos and Juliets," "Partagas," "Websters" "Corians," "Saramitas," "Pastoras," etc.

Cleveland has shown many window displays of late, but one that is attracting particular attention is the one in the Baer-Wolf's window advertising "Decision" cigars. This is in the form of a huge electric arch with mahogany finish representing building blocks. This is both a new and novel ad. and should attract attention wherever displayed.

The Mendelsohn Cigar Factory is away over-sold on "Decisions," "Rigolettas" and "El Symphonies," and are experiencing a great trouble in filling their many orders.

Shields-Wertheim's factory resembles a bee-hive. They are working night and day attempting to catch up on their many back orders and also Christmas goods, for they are having a great trouble in turning out "Saramitas" and "Saramitas Fives" rapidly enough to supply the ever-increasing demand. Many attractive window displays, these two brands are creating a great deal of talk. Dealers are competing to show the best displays.

London Whiff Cigar Company reports business as extremely good, and their "Fluer De Venice" and "London Whiff" are forever on the increase.

"Zarzidas," "El Fastos," "El Salagos" with the I. Teitelbaum factory are showing rapid increase in all sections, particularly from the Pacific Coast, where these brands are universally smoked.

Pyle & Allen will open their new store at East Ninth Street and Vincent Avenue December 1st. This should be a crackerjack, as it is in the center of the down-town business district. Both their wholesale and retail stores are doing a nice business.

Fred J. Golmer is laying in a big stock of holiday cigars in his many different brands. He looks forward to an enormous sale, as he already has many good-sized orders on hand and they are steadily coming in.

I. J. Mittleberger, of Newman & Mayer, Philadelphia, has been on an extended trip through the Central West on "Bel Mundas" and "White Night" cigars and is expected home for Thanksgiving.

Ben Mayer, the well-known leaf tobacco man of New York City, was in town the past week.

M. E. Lobe, of Canton, formerly of Cleveland, was in town placing his orders for holiday goods on "Saramitas" and "Saramitas Fives." He expects to open up another stand about December 20th, giving two excellent locations in this thriving town.

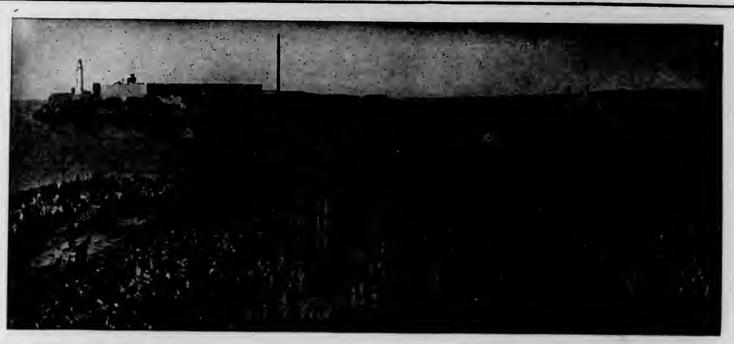
Hy Hammer, of Corral Wodiska, was in town the past week.

M. Halper, the man who has made a reputation on "Uncle Joe" and "Halper's" stogies, is bitterly lamenting of the lack of labor to turn out merchandise enough to supply the demands of his local customers.

Ben Hamberg, of Hamberg Bros. leaf tobacco house, New York City, spent several days here the past week.

JERRY.

Clayton Strausser, of Mount Carmel, Pa., is preparing plans for a factory building to cost $30,000, to be erected at that place for the Mount Carmel and Northumberland Cigar Company.



The Cuban Market

From Our Exclusive Bureau

Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, November 24, 1913.

WHEN we expressed the possibility in our last report, that some rains, we were not mistaken, as the transplanting in the rains, we were not mistaken, as the transplanting in the Vuelta Abajo has begun, and is proceeding, if not upon a general scale at least by those planters that have the means to buy seedlings, or possessed them of their own farms. Prices are of course already too high for the poorer vegueros, and they will have to wait, until the seedlings are more plentiful and can be secured at lower figures. While the major part of the crop is delayed, it is now a question of the future temperature, how the growth of the plants may advance, or be retarded during the coming months this winter. This is all that can be said for the present. The same conditions of course hold good for the coming Partido, Semi-Vuelta and Remedios crops.

Our leaf market has been rather quiet during the past fortnight, as the number of Northern buyers has been very much restricted, and if our commission merchants had not been rather liberally supplied with orders, from their American customers, we would be unable to submit the figures which we have been able to collect this time. Prices have been sustained, and it will depend upon the future progress of the coming crop, as well as upon the number of buyers, that may visit us yet, whether the same conditions will prevail later on; or whether we shall see a rise, or perhaps a slight shading in the ruling figures. We are not prophets to divine what might take place, although we are more inclined to believe in a steady, or higher market, because if the cigar manufacturers are in reality so busy in the United States, as the reports paint them, then by holding off to purchase at present, they must be using up their stocks, which later on will require them to replenish their raw material, before the new crop could appear upon our market, and be in condition to be workable. As our stocks are by no means excessive, although there is enough tobacco yet to go around for some little time, it would appear to us as a prudent policy to pursue, in not waiting too long before coming here, or to instruct their commission merchants to purchase for their account.

Factory vegas of Vuelta Abajo are in most supply at the moment, but the good ones ought not to go begging, as we cannot expect to have a better leaf in 1914, as this year's crop has been as fine, or finer, than the famous 1905 one, and judging from previous experiences, we dare not hope for a similar excellent growth in 1914. For this reason we would caution those manufacturers, that are not well stocked up, not to delay too long, as they might find themselves later on unable to secure excellent leaf. Colas of Vuelta Abajo are as scarce as formerly, and prices are tending upwards.

Partido fillers are in fair supply still, and buyers would be welcome to our dealers and packers. Wrappers on the other hand are scarce and very high in price.

Remedios tobacco has been moving off in good shape, principally first and second capaduras, and although there are fair supplies still in the hands of a few dealers and packers, they do not appear to be in any hurry to dispose of them. While prices have not advanced, as some people thought, they are however firmly maintained and might tend upwards in January or February.

Most of the buyers that have visited us have complained about the high prevailing prices, but in reality we are suffering under the same conditions, as the Americans do, as the cost of living is excessive here, which naturally affects the tobacco growers also, in the United States, as well as here. The great trouble is, that the smokers are unreasonable, because while they may kick about having to pay higher figures for the necessities of life, they finally submit, but by no means would they pay any higher prices for cigars. This is manifestly wrong, and if the cigar manufacturers would only unite in raising their prices, owing to the higher cost of the raw material and wages, they would soon gain their point, just the same as the price cutting on the retail sales of the tobacconists seems to have been finally settled.

High prices have come to stay, as long as the cost of living remains high, and tobacco leaf forms no exception from the rule, unless we should have a surplus of supply considerably in excess of the demand. The latter however has been growing faster than the production all over the world.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Sales during the past two weeks only ran up to a total of 12,869 bales, or which divided among the different varieties, represent: Vuelta Abajo 4790, Partido 869, and Remedios 7210 bales.

Buyers were: Americans 8010, exporters to Europe 1062, shippers to South America 563, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes 3234 bales.

Exports of Leaf Tobacco from the port of Havana, for the past two weeks, up to the fifteenth of November were: To all ports of the United States 7977 bales, to Canada 931, to Bremen and Hamburg 1039, to London 23, and to Buenos Aires and Montevidio 563, thus making a total of 10,533 bales.

Cigars.

After the long rainy spell and the excessive humidity our factories have been all very busy, in trying to catch up on the lost time, and the majority have even worked on Sundays, so as to be able to fulfill the pending Xmas orders. This may last until the sixth of December, when the last Ward line steamer for New York will be despatched, which will arrive in time yet to give the cigar importers a chance of withdrawing their goods from the custom house, and then our usual duller period will commence, until the second half of January.

Our Union of Manufacturers of Cigars and Cigarettes of the Island of Cuba, under the presidency of Don Teodoro Garbade, has been extremely active of late, in having had conferences with the Secretary of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor, as well as an audience with our President, General Mario G. Menocal, the latter having promised to study at once the question of the "Modus Vivendi" with Spain, so we live in hopes that the present administration may at last bring this treaty about in a short time. The coming new reciprocity treaty with the United States has also been one of the subjects touched upon, so that we have reason to believe that the Government will do something in the interest of our cigar industry, and which has not been the case under the liberal regime, excepting only the creation of the Government Guarantee Stamp of the Origin of our Cigars, for the protection of our manufacturers against falsifications.

Romeo y Julieta is as busy as ever filling the remaining Xmas orders. Don Ramon Arguelles purchased some additional choice vegas from the tierra llana section of the Vuelta Abajo, as he is a firm believer in the superior qualities of the 1913 crop, that by the way has considerably improved since we have had the cooler weather.

H. Upmann & Company also continue exceedingly busy still, in their famous H. Upmann factory, and they are well supplied with orders from all countries. They purchased 981 bales of leaf lately, partly for their factory and partly for export.

Partagas is fully occupied in dispatching the numerous orders on hand for the United States, England and South America principally.

Henry Clay & Bock & Company, Limited, evidently have no complaints to make about dullness, as it is almost impossible to gain the ear of the chief manager, Mr. L. S. Houston, and who begged to be excused from talking, on account of stress of business on hand.

Por Larranaga is so cramped in its present building, 225 Carlos III Avenue, that either another top story will have to be added to it, or otherwise the managers must open a branch factory somewhere. Don Eustaquio Alonso is certainly put upon his mettle to place this factory upon its former place in the front rank, and he is bound to accomplish this object in view, as his associates are all capable men in their respective lines, that are working hard to assist him.

Sol is doing a very satisfactory business at present, as the orders on hand with those still coming forward assure the factory a steady trade for some time.

Fonseca and Castaneda had a strike of their cigarmakers, which lasted fortunately only three days. The owners had granted all the demands for higher wages from the start, including even an icebox, but they could not stultify themselves in permitting to have a standing committee of the strikers located in their factory to watch the daily operations, and finally the workmen admitted that they were wrong and went to work again since last Thursday, the 20th inst. These two brands have many orders on hand.

Flor del Fumar is hard at work, including Sundays, to catch up on its holiday orders, but as the same consist mostly of high-priced regalia sizes, it is rather a difficult task to accomplish, as only a limited number of cigarmakers are able to make these kinds of cigars.

Other factories that are working hard at present are: Punch, La Flor de A. Fernandez Garcia, La Flor de Tomas Gutierrez, Belinda, La Flor de Jose Otero, Eden, Hoyo de Monterey, El Rey del Mundo, Flor El Todo, and C. E. Beck & Company.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Abe Haas, the only American tobacco planter in the Santa Clara province, and whose plantations are located at "Ojo de Agua" en el Purial, sold his first capaduras some time ago to the large manufacturing concern, The Deisel & Wemmer Company, of Lima, O. They gladly paid him $60 per qq., owing to the extra choice heavy quality, and its clean packing. The tobacco was weighed just previously to being put on the carts. Mr. Haas also sold his seconds to Otto Eisenlohr & Brothers, who only buy the very finest qualities of Remedios.

Leslie Pantin, who is our biggest commission merchant in town, had 6000 bales of different kinds of tobacco purchased for account of his customers at the beginning of this month, upon cable orders, and owing to the weather had been prevented from the registry and the receipt of the same. During the last fortnight he had examined 2716 bales, and which are counted only as actual sales. The verbal contracts are liable to change occasionally, for one reason or another, therefore, we take no account of them until they are completed by the delivery of the goods.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez were sellers of 1510 bales of all kinds of leaf, during the past fortnight to their customers.

Victor K. Ettlinger bought 1750 bales of leaf for their firm of Emanuel Hoffman & Son, of New York, all choice goods, as this firm only handles the prime styles.

Herrera, Calmet & Company were sellers of 947 bales of Remedios from their escogidas and vegas purchased in the country.

Maximilian Stern received 2554 bales of leaf, purchased partly previously, and partly new purchases during the last two weeks.

Mark A. Pollack was also a buyer for account of his clients, not in town, by cable orders, to the extent of 872 bales.

Jose C. Puente & Company disposed of 800 bales of Remedios and Partido to their customers during the past fortnight.

Manuel Suarez bought for account of his clients, by cable, 500 bales of leaf.

A. Bijur only came here to inspect their excellent packings in the Sancti Spiritus and other districts of the Santa Clara province.

Walter Sutter & Company acquired 800 bales of leaf for account of their customers, and we learned besides, that they were in treaty oh 1000 bales additionally.

M. A. Suarez & Company turned over 500 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios from their prime packings.

Mr. Adolph Loeb bought for his firm of Karl Straus & Company, between 500 to 600 bales of leaf.

F. Rocha & Company sold 500 bales of all kinds of leaf to their customers.

J. F. Berndes & Company were buyers of 317 bales of leaf for export to Europe.

I. Kaffenburgh & Sons disposed of 300 bales of Remedios to local buyers.

Allones, Limited, secured 265 bales of leaf for export to Montevideo.

Jose Menendez closed out 300 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido.

Arthur Loeb made some purchases during his stay here, but we have not been able to ascertain the exact quantity, when writing this report.

Gutierrez & Diehl sold 225 bales from their excellent holdings of Vuelta Abajo and Remedios. Mr. Hermann Diehl returned from his short trip to New York, in better health than ever. Don Miguel Gutierrez left for a short journey to the Santa Clara province to look after the large estates of Don Miguel Gutierrez, Sr.

Don Antero Prieto only went to New York to await the arrival of Mrs. Prieto and Miss Prieto, who were due to return from Europe by the French liner, and then returned here in their company, by the steamship "Saratoga." We welcome them home again.

SMOKERS WILLING TO PAY FOR VALUE

Member of Well-known Chicago House Says Consumer Will Pay Higher Price if Cigar Has Merit—"De Luxe" Brands Now Have Wide Sale

WBEST, Jr., of Best & Russell, the well-known Chicago distributors, recently talked in an interesting manner about the increasing tendency of Chicago smokers to buy high-grade goods.

"I have noticed for the past few years and more particularly in the past year," said Mr. Best, "that our trade is moving in the direction of better cigars. Smokers appear willing to pay more than five or even ten cents if they can be convinced that they are getting the additional value. The dealers, also, have come to see that it is better to pay a little more and get the right goods, which will please customers, than to follow a penny-wise policy and drive away trade by handing out 'ball bats' and 'ropes.' I attribute this certain movement in the direction of higher grade cigars first of all to the remarkable prosperity of Chicago, which enables the public to pay the price without feeling the loss.

"The dealers have also done considerable educational work. In the old days the sale of the 'de luxe' brands was confined to the loop, but in the past few years the rapidly growing trade centers in the residence sections many miles away have also been included. Chicago covers more ground than New York, and districts which were formerly prairie dotted by a few scattered houses have now become corners requiring traffic policemen and are busy day and night. This condition has caused us to take some pains to develop our sales system so as not to miss our chance to land new business.

"We have nine salesmen calling on local dealers. They are all live ones, and I think very little gets away from them. Each salesman has his own block of territory. He concentrates his attention on the dealers within its borders, and is known to them the minute he enters the stores. When we wish to introduce a new cigar or feature some brand, however, we send one or two general salesmen all over the city who talk nothing but the one thing. We then check up the territory and turn the list of misses over to the regular men for the various sections. We have found that this system works out in a most satisfactory manner."

Thompson-Jones & Co., Memphis, Tenn., are enjoying a large distribution on "Havana Ribbon" cigars; they only received control of the brand in July last, and since that time the large weekly shipments going forward amply illustrates just what can be done with a quality piece of goods, when in the hands of a reliable, up-to-date, hustling house.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Pennsylvania 1913 Crop Seems Equal of 1912—Connecticut Tobacco Delivered Early—Prices Slump Ohio Market—Wisconcin Buying Movement Slackens

PENNSYLVANIA

LANCASTER, PA.

Packers are now busy riding about the country looking over the crops, but do not appear to be anxious to buy until the tobacco has been stripped. Indications are that the 1913 crop is curing nicely, and that it will be almost as good, if not quite, as the 1912 crop.

On account of the amount of old goods on hand, the leaf dealers will not be in a position to go very heavily into the 1912 market. There has been very little call for this, but quite a lot of the 1911 as well as the 1909 is moving slowly.

The packers are hoping that the big manufacturers will keep out of the market and give them a chance to buy in at a reasonable figure. On account of the short crop, if the big fellows start to buy it up, prices will be bound to soar.

From the reports of the packers, it is likely that there will be a still smaller acreage in Pennsylvania next year, as many of the farmers are looking for crops that will not be as likely to heavy losses as tobacco.

CONNECTICUT

SUFFIELD, CONN.

Through Karl C. Kulle bringing his tobacco business here from Windsor Locks, about 150 to 175 more people will be added to the winter population.

Since the opening of the warehouses between 200 and 300 more people have been brought into the town. All the available help that could be obtained has been busy getting the tobacco down after the last damp. It is being rushed to the warehouses for the sorting and sweating process.

WINDSOR, CONN.

The delivery of the tobacco crop here this year has been the earliest on record. This is said to be due to the scarcity of tobacco on the market. Most of the growers have had their orders from the buyers to deliver their crops as soon as possible. This has not been an unwelcome order to the farmers, as it means quicker returns for their work; heretofore it has been necessary in many cases to hold the crops until spring.

The influx of tobacco has caused the warehouses to run full time and most of them are now working their full complement of employees.

Walter and Lewis Newberry have begun assorting their crops of tobacco. They have raised both Havana and broadleaf, and both crops are reported to be unusually fine.

OHIO

TROY, O.

While the crop is short here, it is reported to be unusually good. The tobacco that was rescued and properly cured is being stripped out in excellent condition and buyers are eager to snap it up at reasonable prices.

Farmers and growers appreciate the situation and are holding out for a price. The brokers are jockeying about trying to get leaf at somewhere near a reasonable figure, but up to date the grower seems to have the advantage. Up until a short time ago buyers were extremely active, but the high prices asked have caused a slump in the market.

Two factories have entered into the situation which has caused the increase in price—reduced acreage and the early season frost, the frost nipping thousands of plants that were still standing in the fields. The beginning and the end of the growing season militated against the successful growing of normal crops.

Seed leaf is selling at about 8 cents, while Spanish is worth from 10 to 11 cents a pound. Last year Spanish brought 9 and 10 cents.

THE CAROLINAS

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

The recent crop reports show that while South Carolina is behind in production, it has beaten us nearly 100 pounds to the acre in weight. However, the tobacco yield has been about 50 pounds per acre heavier in the State this year than last, so that we show improvement.

This city broke all North Carolina leaf tobacco sale records in October, having sold 8,681,182 pounds for $1,403,899.05. The figures for October this year are the biggest ever recorded for a single month in the State.

WISCONSIN

EDGERTON, WIS.

During the past few weeks the tobacco growers hereabouts have had splendid weather for casing, and they have had an exceptional opportunity for removing their tobacco and starting their stripping work. When there has been a chance to carry on this work much of the tobacco has been taken from the curing sheds. It is, however, difficult to estimate how much has been taken down as there were many growers who were not in a position to begin stripping.

In the fields, a few of the buyers for large operators have been found, but only a moderate number of transactions have been recorded. There is a noticeable slackening in the buying movement. Binder goods is in demand as is indicated by the number of inquiries for it.

KENTUCKY

PADUCAH, KY.

Attention has now centered in the new crop and buyers are inspecting it in barns. Buyers are looking for selection in light styles or wrappers. Prices have ruled rather high, and the quality of the tobacco that has been selling has ruled rather high. Owing to the unfavorable weather there has been no movement of tobacco of any consequence.

There has been very little activity in the loose leaf market generally, but the present damp season has permitted handling and things will no doubt soon be on the move.

SHELBYVILLE, KY.

The local warehousemen are inclined to take an optimistic view of the situation and express the opinion that there will be more and better tobacco on the market here than was first indicated. The sales here last season reached 10,500,000 pounds, making this the third largest loose leaf market in the world.

The Shelbyville Tobacco Exchange has fixed Monday, December 1st, for the opening of the market for the season. All of the warehousemen agreed to advance money without interest on all crops received prior to that time, and to store the weed without charge until that date.

The American Tobacco Co., Liggett & Myers, R. J. Reynolds & Co., J. P. Taylor & Co., Ross-Vaughn Co. and many others have announced that they will be represented here by resident buyers.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The final crop report for the year indicates that the total yield of dark tobacco will be about 75,000,000 pounds. The yield has been about 503 pounds to the acre with about 150,000 acres to draw from.

The Burley crop will yield about 115,000,000 pounds according to the latest figures. There was an acreage of about 175,000 and it is reported that it averaged about 655 pounds to the acre.

Under these conditions Burley should sell very high. It is apparent that the manufacturers are consuming Burley as fast as it is grown. This being true, the rule of supply and demand must run its course.

Imperial Tobacco Company's Suit Begun

MORGANFIELD, KY., November 27.

Testimony for the defense in the trial of the Imperial Tobacco Company on the charge of the violation of Kentucky's Anti-Trust law, was begun here today. After the commonwealth rested, the defendant's counsel sought dismissal of the indictment, arguing that the state has not proved that the acts complained of have been committed within the jurisdiction of the trial court. The motion was overruled.

Kentucky Growers Object to New Schedule

The Kentucky committee has decided to object to the new tobacco schedule formulated by the Kentucky State Board, holding that the rates fixed are inadequate to the hazard. It will be asked that a date be set for the hearing within the limit specified by law.

Heard Among Leaf Men

It is understood that the Carlisle (Ky.) loose leaf tobacco market will open December 2.

Southern California within the next few years hopes to cut down fully 10 per cent. of its annual import of tobacco from the other states.

Committeemen of the Consolidated Tobacco Association, Henderson, Ky., met in conference a short time since, for the purpose of perfecting their organization.

Henry Rogers, said to be the oldest tobacco buyer in Connecticut, celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday on November 16, at his home in Suffield.

John Kiblin sustained a loss of $1500 in the burning down of his tobacco sheds, located near Brooklyn, Wis., about a fortnight or so ago.

The buyers at Rocky Mount, N. C., seem anxious to procure wrapper goods and the prices are remaining firm at $60 and $70, with plenty of ready sales.

W. C. McDowell has been appointed supervisor of sales for the Lexington (Ky.) tobacco market. The first tobacco sale on the Lexington market was held on November 20.

Despite the fact that Petersburg (Va.) has been a dark market, sales thus far indicate that the total for bright leaf this season will be more than 1,000,000 pounds.

The National Farmers' Loose Leaf Tobacco Company has purchased a new scrap tobacco machine that will put the poorer grades in such condition that they will sell for almost as much as the best grades.

Manager William Elliott, of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, states that already 600 of the 5000 hogsheads of pooled tobacco have been shipped to buyers across the Atlantic. It is now practically certain that the poolers will get their 85 per cent. before Christmas.

Forty sorters in the employ of Huntting Brothers, at East Hartford, Conn., recently went on a strike because of a reduction of five cents a hundred. Later, however, most of them returned to their work. On the basis of ninety cents a hundred pounds they would average $3.50 a day. The cut was made to eighty-five cents a hundred.

The Burley Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, at Mt. Sterling (Ky.), opened on November 21. The house will alternate with the Farmers' Tobacco Warehouse, which has just finished its new rooms. These houses give Mt. Sterling floor space to handle half a million pounds daily.

The leaf tobacco trade will be interested in the appointment of William T. Spalding as auctioneer for the loose leaf sales in Falmouth, Ky. He is the son of R. Y. Spalding, auctioneer for the Globe and Bodmann warehouses in Cincinnati, and grandson of W. D. Spalding, one of the prominent local buyers of that city. Thus three generations become identified with the tobacco industry.

Trade Changes

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—John Stewart has taken over the cigar factory of C. E. Finch, and will continue to manufacture the same line of goods.

Danville, Ill.—Frank D. Brandt, cigar manufacturer, 306-308 East Main Street, has admitted Ernest F. Brown into partnership, having recently sold him a half-interest. The new firm will be known as Brandt & Brown, and will manufacture a high grade of cigars.

Bluffton, Ind.—George W. King has taken over the cigar store formerly controlled by George E. Newlin, and has placed Walter Fields in charge.

Mason City, Ia.—A recent opening was the Pleazol Cigar Club, Leon Liesenberg and L. G. Ferguson, proprietors.

Cherryvale, Kas.—A cigar and tobacco stand has been opened by Leo C. Veeder, who has placed Ed Randle in charge.

Bridgeton, N. J.—J. Gardner Turner, Jr., recently opened a cigar store in this place.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The G. J. Johnson Cigar Company, having secured control of the lease of premises 342 Monroe Avenue, will remodel the store and utilize the new location for a cigar store.

Pendleton, Ore.—The Welch Cigar Store is being remodeled.

Camden, Me.—During alterations to their old quarters, the Camden Cigar Company are using the store in the Stevenson Building, until recently occupied by J. Dodge.

Fire in Fashion Cigar Factory

An overheated stove caused serious damage to the fixtures and stock of the Fashion Cigar Factory, in Coeur D'Alene, Ida., when a fire broke out in the evening and spread rapidly to the stock. The damage was estimated at $600, which was covered by insurance.

New Offices for Connecticut Tobacco Corporation

It was announced that on November 19 the Connecticut Tobacco Corporation removed its principal offices from Tariffville to Silver Lane, Conn. The new office is located in its Silver Lane warehouse on the Silver Lane plantation, in the town of West Hartford.

It is believed that this office will be more accessible to customers and all parties interested. It is reached by Glastonbury trolley cars from Hartford, going to Station Eighteen at Willow Street. The postoffice address is Silver Lane, Conn.; telegraph address, Hartford, Conn.

It is announced by the South Georgia Truck and Tobacco Growers' Association that fully one thousand acres of tobacco will be under cultivation by their members next season.

Guardsman May Serve Despite His Employer

Under the law making a refusal to take back an employee because he had absented himself to serve as a guardsman, liable to conviction and fine, Municipal Judge Dolan, of Chicago, recently imposed a fine of $25 each on the firm of Rosenau & Strippleman, cigar distributors, because they refused to take back into their employ Charles Brown, a member of the Illinois National Guard, who went to Springfield last July for a week's encampment.

The case against the firm was prosecuted by Colonel N. W. MacChesney, Judge Advocate General of the Illinois National Guard. This is the first conviction under the new law. Prosecutions were started against several firms, but about the time they were in danger of being fined they announced their willingness to take back the young men.

When Brown returned to his employers he was told that his place had been taken by another clerk.

Only Thirty-five Cigarmakers in Dubuque, Ia.

According to a recent announcement the city of Dubuque, Ia., could use more than 250 additional cigarmakers. At present the city can boast of only 35. This question was given much attention at a meeting held a short time ago by the local cigarmakers' union, which is at a loss to comprehend the inactivity in this line. Ways and means for the expansion of the manufacture of home-made cigars were discussed, but no definite action was decided upon. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that inasmuch as the cigarmakers had been of assistance to the saloonkeepers of Dubuque in the signing of a petition of consent, that they in turn should co-operate with the local cigarmakers by boosting local cigars, rather than ordering their supplies from the East. However, the question is still open, and the outcome will be awaited with interest.

SUMATRA ANNOUNCEMENT

The fall inscriptions just held in Amsterdam provided only a small quantity of light tobacco for the American market, which was practically purchased exclusively by our house.

Our total purchases this year for the American market are upwards of 7500 bales, and we are in a position to offer the trade the best stock of

LA TONIA

The Original "Longfellow Shape" 10 Cent Cigar

There is an interesting incident in connection with the use of the shape name "Longfellow" with the La Tonia Cigar. After it is related you will understand why the names "La Tonia" and "Longfellow" are synonymous.

One day back in 1895, a jobber called at the offices of the company and wanted a case of "La Tonia". As the cigar is made in several sizes and shapes, the salesman inquired as to what particular shape the customer desired. "Oh you know; those long fellows, that's what my customers call them."

This incident was repeated to members of the firm and the result was that the name of "Big Panatela" was discontinued, and the boxes stamped "Longfellow" instead. The fact that the "La Tonia" is the biggest selling cigar in the "Longfellow" shape on the market to-day, is proof of the quality of this cigar.

Do not forget, "La Tonia" is the cigar they mean when they ask for a "Longfellow".

By the way, you might be interested to know that the firm has been incorporated with capable and efficient management whose experience is sufficient to guarantee the same high quality and standard of this cigar, and they have an attractive proposition to offer.

We also make the "La Tonia" cigar in the following shapes:

"La Tonia Imperiales", 15 cents
"La Tonia Perfectos", 10 cents

Savarona Spirit of Christmas

AT THIS holiday time, which is the season of good cheer and good will toward all, we wish to extend to our customers our best wishes and thanks for the support they have given us in bringing our business to its present happy condition.

We also extend to our confreres in the Cigar Trade and especially in the Porto Rican line, our best wishes and hopes for the coming year. Surely no other industry contributes so much to the good cheer of man as the tobacco trade, and no branch gives so much good cheer for so little as the Porto Rican end.

A merry Christmas to all of us!

Bold Outlook for 1914

Judging from past performance, the outlook for BOLD cigars is most promising for 1914.

The quality of BOLD cigars has firmly established beyond question of doubt, the fact that to-day, BOLD cigars know no rival, recognize no superior; but stand solely on their own merit. That BOLD cigars will be THE NATIONAL seller, is a prediction we feel we can conscientiously and safely assume.

For the opportunity and able assistance in bringing BOLD cigars to the front, we are thankful to our many distributors and their friends, the dealers.

To all, we extend our earnest wish for a pleasant Christmas and a New Year of success and personal happiness.

TO THE TRADE

We take this opportunity of extending our sincere thanks and appreciation to the TRADE, both wholesale and retail, for their many favors received and co-operation, which has been of material assistance in making the year 1913 the BANNER YEAR of the Company.

We wish to extend to the TRADE our sincere wishes for a most prosperous ensuing year, and for many years to come.

Respectfully yours,

"44" Cigar Company.

Savarona Spirit of Christmas

AT THIS holiday time, which is the season of good cheer and good will toward all, we wish to extend to our customers our best wishes and thanks for the support they have given us in bringing our business to its present happy condition.

We also extend to our confreres in the Cigar Trade and especially in the Porto Rican line, our best wishes and hopes for the coming year. Surely no other industry contributes so much to the good cheer of man as the tobacco trade, and no branch gives so much good cheer for so little as the Porto Rican end.

A merry Christmas to all of us!

Bold Outlook for 1914

Judging from past performance, the outlook for BOLD cigars is most promising for 1914.

The quality of BOLD cigars has firmly established beyond question of doubt, the fact that to-day, BOLD cigars know no rival, recognize no superior; but stand solely on their own merit. That BOLD cigars will be THE NATIONAL seller, is a prediction we feel we can conscientiously and safely assume.

For the opportunity and able assistance in bringing BOLD cigars to the front, we are thankful to our many distributors and their friends, the dealers.

To all, we extend our earnest wish for a pleasant Christmas and a New Year of success and personal happiness.

What you can't get in grown binder at any price, you get at a 100% saving in

STANDARD PURE TOBACCO BINDER

There's no dodging the fact that a tobacco leaf makes a better leaf than binder. Just glance at your casing, stripping and cutting expenses. Standard Pure Tobacco Binder is made by men for men's uses, not by tobacco plants for their uses.

No Inequalities in "Standard"

The stems, veins and natural inequalities of the grown leaf all make for trouble in a binder—make the irregular burn of the typical cheap cigar. Standard Pure Tobacco Binder meets the difficulty with a pure tobacco tissue absolutely uniform in texture, and of sufficient substance to regulate the burning, even of a coarse and oily wrapper.

Standard Binder of Superior Stock

Tobacco stems, and the cuttings and clippings of high-grade leaf, are the sole constituents of Standard Binders. By an intricate, patented process, the full-bodied aroma of the original stock is preserved in this binding-tissue.

Assures a Unit Blend

Being soft and succulent, these Standard Binders absorb the flavor of filler and wrapper, blending them uniformly and enriching the blend with its own fine quality.

About 2 lbs. of the new—6 or 7 of the old

Two pounds of Standard Binders cover 1,000 cigars, where six or seven pounds of grown binders are needed. The cost of Standard Binder is 40c. a thousand as against $1.00 a thousand for the cheapest grown leaf. Here is at least a 100% saving on material alone. A 40% saving on the time, space and labor occupied in casing, stripping and cutting completes the count.

See For Yourself.

There are six standard sizes of Standard Binders, accommodating 30 sizes of cigars. Also five stogie sizes. The Standard is the new way, the economical way. If you believe the principle is right, do you believe in the justice of trying it out in practice? Send us the word—we will send you free samples—and gladly.

Classified by the U. S. Internal Revenue Dept. as "Tobacco in process of manufacture." U. S. Patents issued Feb. 6, 1912, proclaim Standard Pure Tobacco Binder to be manufactured only of tobacco stems, cuttings and scraps.

"UNITED" WOULD RESTRAIN USE OF "UNTIED CIGAR STORE"

G. F. Logue Temporarily Restrained—Final Hearing Later —"United" Wins Florida Suit Against J. B. Lucy

ATTORNEYS FOX & ROTHCHILD, representing the United Cigar Stores Company of America, recently obtained a preliminary injunction in Common Pleas Court No. 5, in Philadelphia, to restrain George F. Logue, the proprietor of a cigar store at No. 3808 North Broad Street, from using an alleged infringement of the plaintiff's trade-mark. Logue had painted on the cigar store window, "Untied Cigar Store," as he claims for the purpose of denoting his independence of all other firms, corporations and dealers.

It is alleged that the defendant used the same red band and lettering as employed by the United Cigar Stores Company. The court was also asked to enjoin the use of the word "Untied," on the ground that it was intended to be taken for "United."

The plaintiff declares that the trademark adopted by the defendant is one to which they have exclusive right, and that its use by the defendant diverts trade from their stores.

A final hearing will be held to determine the respective rights of the parties.

"United" Gets Permanent Injunction

J. B. Lucy, of Jacksonville, Fla., is perpetually restrained from using the word "United," or "United Cigars Stores Company," in his business as a dealer in cigars, tobacco, etc. This is according to a consent decree filed in the office of the Clerk of the United States Court for the Southern District of Florida.

This ends the case of United Cigar Stores Company vs. United Cigar Stores Company, in which J. B. Lucy was the defendant.

Lucy, after his adoption of the name "United" for the firm name of his store, had passed in the Florida Legislature a bill prohibiting the use of profit-sharing or gift coupons, without the payment of a heavy license, and this case was threshed out in the United States Court lately, and ended in the declaration by the Federal judges that the act is unconstitutional.

New Collector for Ninth District

Fred C. Kirkendall, of Wilkes-Barre, has been informed by Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer of his appointment as collector of internal revenue for the Ninth Pennsylvania district, whose headquarters are in Lancaster. He will succeed H. L. Hershey, of Harrisburg, who is the present collector, and will assume his duties on January 1. The office carries with it a salary of $4500 per year. Mr. Kirkendall is editor of the Wilkes-Barre "Times-Leader."

Collector Hershey has held the office since June 1, 1898. He was appointed by President McKinley and succeeded R. E. Shearer, of Cumberland County.

AUTO ACCIDENT KILLS CIGAR SALESMAN AND COMPANION

Delaware Representative of A. B. Cunningham & Company Meets Death—Widow of Former Man on Territory Found Dead Under Machine.

WITH no witnesses to tell how the accident occurred, Levin J. Moore, Delaware representative of the cigar and tobacco jobbing house of A. B. Cunningham & Company, of this city, and Mrs. Lillian M. Pearce, widow of Harry Pearce, former salesman on that territory, were found dead under an overturned automobile on the Delaware State Road about one mile south of Newark, Del., on Friday, December 12.

An auto truck driver coming slowly down the road found the overturned machine and the bodies of Mrs. Pearce and Mr. Moore beneath it. Physicians from Newark hurried to the scene, but they found that both had been dead for some time.

When the bodies were found the car, which was a small runabout, was resting upon the neck of Moore and he had evidently choked to death. One of his arms was broken, but there were no other injuries. The body of Mrs. Pearce was cut and bruised, but it is supposed that she was injured internally and died from shock. The place where the accident occurred is a smooth, level piece of road and no reason for a machine to overturn could be found. Though the road is one of the most traveled in the county no one saw the accident and nothing was known of it until the driver of the truck found the bodies.

All that is known of the matter is that in the morning Moore started out on a short trip and was accompanied by Mrs. Pearce. They went to Newark, where he made some business calls and then the couple started south. This was the last seen of them.

Customers of Moore in Wilmington say they cannot account for Mrs. Pearce having been in the car unless it happened that Moore became acquainted with her while her husband was showing him over the district he had to cover and invited her to ride with him.

Levin J. Moore was a well-known business man of Bridgeville, Del., where he had served three terms as postmaster. He comes of a prominent family and his wife is related to the family of William Cannon, the famous "War Governor."

Mr. Moore had lately made his home at 302 Newton Street, Salisbury, Md. He was forty-five years old and is survived by a wife and one daughter, Madeline.

Mrs. Pearce was the widow of Harry Pearce, a well-known man of Wilmington, who was also employed as a cigar salesman, and was Moore's predecessor. Pearce died from inhaling gas on August 14 last. Mrs. Pearce is survived by one son, Harry, twenty-one years old.

Tobacco Monopoly for Uruguay

It is stated that the Uruguayan Government has arranged with Paris and London bankers for a loan of $10,000,000. With this sum it is said that the Uruguayan Government will create a tobacco monopoly.

Speed Goodloe Returns to Old Firm

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made that Speed S. Goodloe, formerly of Dusel, Goodloe & Company, 112-114 North Seventh Street, and more recently located at 1203 Cuthbert Street, under his own name, will return to the old firm on January 1, and will probably be elected its president.

Mr. Goodloe will succeed P. F. Alberty as local manager for Dusel, Goodloe & Company. The latter will become connected with the American Cigar Company, but in what capacity has not as yet been made public.

Paul L. Brogan will remain as secretary and treasurer, and should afford the incoming manager valuable assistance in the routine and office work.

It has not yet been decided whether the "Goodloe" cigar, which has formed the basis of Mr. Goodloe's work for the past months, will become the property of Dusel, Goodloe & Company, or not.

"Havana Ribbon" President Back From Cuba

Samuel Bayuk, president of the widely known firm of Bayuk Brothers, makers of the "Havana Ribbon" cigar, has recently returned from Cuba, where he purchased some 1200 bales of leaf.

Mr. Bayuk, in conversation with a WORLD representative, said that conditions in Cuba were very good at this time for purchasing leaf. He states that prices are much more reasonable than two months ago, and that he was able to purchase considerably under the market price.

Attention was called to the fact that the dealers in Havana are heavily loaded down with leaf and that they are very anxious to get it moving in order to loosen up some of the money tied up in it.

"Havana Ribbons" have had a tremendous sale this year and the firm is well satisfied with the way their products are being distributed in all parts of the United States.

Finley Acker Company Busy

The cigar department of the Finley Acker Company, at Twelfth and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, will distribute souvenirs of leather cigar cases, during the holiday season.

These cases are stamped with the well-known shield of Acker Quality, and will prove beneficial to smokers who carry cigars in their pocket.

The several stores are showing Christmas packings of their "Wissahickon," "La Belle Cubana" and "Foremost" cigars, made by Jeitles & Blumenthal, Limited.

An attractive line of weathered oak and mahogany humidors are also on sale, with capacity ranging from twenty-five to two hundred and fifty cigars.

President Hill's Father Dies

George W. Hill, ex-president of the Seventh National Bank, and father of Percival S. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company, died on December 13th at his home in Haverford, Pa. He was in his eighty-second year.

Mr. Hill was the head of the American Life Insurance Company from 1871 until 1887. He was born in Hulmeville, Bucks County, December 27, 1831, of English parents, his father, John Hill, having come to this country only a short time before his son's birth.

He was a zealous member of the Methodist Church, and at one time manager of the American Sunday School Union. He was a member of the Royal Historical Society of England, and was identified with the Masonic order, his membership dating back forty-six years.

Mr. Hill is survived by a widow, one son, Percival S. Hill, of New York, and two daughters, Mrs. Charles B. Hart and Mrs. Benjamin Bullock. The funeral took place from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Bullock, in Ardmore.

Holiday Goods at Atherholt's

J. G. Atherholt, 111 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, is showing an attractive line of humidors for the holiday trade, which are manufactured by the Jewett Company, of Buffalo, N. Y.

These humidors range in capacity from twenty-five to four hundred cigars, and are finished in oak and mahogany, making an ideal Christmas gift.

Cigarette humidors holding one hundred and two hundred and fifty round out a line that is adapted for practically every class of purchaser.

One of the surprises of the year is the heavy Christmas call for "Discriminator" cigars, made by Bobrow Brothers. Although the firm had not anticipated the unusual heavy orders for that brand, their splendid facilities enabled them to take care of their shipments promptly and thus satisfy many anxious jobbers. Indications are that the "Discriminator" will be among the big sellers in 1914.

A pleasant holiday surprise is in store for Miss Ernestine Riesenberg, who is now studying Art and Music in Paris, in the form of a visit from her father, Henry Riesenberg, the Western representative of Bobrow Brothers, who has made such a phenomenal success with "Bold" cigars. Mr. Riesenberg sailed on December 11 for Paris via Cherbourg on the "Kaiserin Auguste Victoria." Among those at the pier to say "Bon voyage," was Charles Bobrow, of the firm.

When the Burley Tobacco Company decided to market its own brand of smoking tobacco, "City Club," it started its campaign in the trade papers. The history of the marketing of their product is concisely told in an illuminating article appearing in the current issue of Printers' Ink, and there is one paragraph which every non-advertiser, as well as every advertiser, should read.

The Power of Advertising

The reader is told in this paragraph how the campaign was begun by using THE TOBACCO WORLD and other trade papers, and concludes with this sentence:

"The selling campaign started simultaneously in many parts of the country, and assisted by the trade papers, which produced inquiries from dealers in many sections where the company's salesmen had not yet been, excellent distribution was secured."

There are many large firms in the country who do not appreciate that trade paper advertising gives them an introduction to the retailer that cannot be secured in any other way. They forget that the retailer reads his trade journal as closely, and more seriously, than he does his newspaper. The advertising contained in a journal of the trade, is read and re-read. Finally the reader gets in a receptive mood; the salesman happens to call and goes away with an order. Nine times out of ten the salesman does not know that it is the trade paper that has done the hardest part of the work for him.

The Little Schoolmaster, in Printers' Ink, in sizing up the situation of the sales manager who cannot be converted to advertising, says:

"He does not realize that advertisements can be put before prospective buyers at a cost of a few cents each, often for less, and that these sales messages, like the seed of the sower, are falling gently and constantly in some places where the salesman could not break in with a crowbar. Some of the seed, naturally, falls on stony ground. ground and others in shallow soil. But many fall on good ground to bear fruit manyfold. A great many goods are bought on impressions made prior to the time when the goods were needed."

A successful business, to continue prosperous, must advertise. The history of every rapidly growing concern is based on the fact that they have realized the truth of this statement. No matter how excellent the quality of the goods, to secure a general distribution the facts must first be put up to the jobber and retailer before the consumer can be reached. THE TOBACCO WORLD is a medium long known to the tobacco trade, reaching the highest class of jobbers and retailers in the United States. In planning an advertising campaign for 1914 do not overlook THE TOBACCO WORLD; it will save you money, and place the merits of your brands before many possible purchasers that your salesmen would never reach.

* * *

It has been noticeable for several years past, that the consumer is getting away from the special Christmas packings, says a large retailer. He says that the reason for this is that the smoker wants his money's worth in cigars instead of pretty boxes and labels.

Less Demand for Special Packings

Most men nowadays buy their favorite brands in the ordinary packings, and prefer to buy them that way because they are sure that they are getting the quality in the cigars.

Some years back it was the habit for many of the imported cigars, arriving for the holidays, to be sumptuously packed and wrapped; this was also true of domestic cigars. But somehow the consumer has shown no preference for these special boxes of late, and the manufacturers have breathed a sigh of relief.

The special packings cost the manufacturer much more than the ordinary boxes and when he figured up his profit on the holiday goods, he found that he had very little left to come under that head.

Details of the Big Merger

Application has been made on behalf of the syndicate headed by George J. Whelan for a charter under the laws of the State of Delaware for a new corporation to be known as the Corporation of Riker & Hegeman Stock, with an authorized capital of $5,000,000, and it is expected that a charter will be granted for the new concern within a few days. This is the corporate name of the company which takes over the Riker & Hegeman Company's business, and it is stated that H. S. Collins, who has done so much in the successful management of the United Cigar Stores Company, will be elected president of the new concern.

In an interview George J. Whelan is quoted as saying that he had acquired $3,600,000 worth of the common stock of the old Riker-Hegeman Company, which gives him a comfortable majority ownership and this will be turned over to the corporation now forming.

His Opportunity

By William J. Rigney, Jr.

AS young Carter walked quickly up the street, he thought over the incident of the afternoon that had sent him on this errand. Having transcribed the most important dictation of the day for the wholesale leather house of Keller & Company, where he was employed as a stenographer, he had taken his mind from things material and had begun to build "castles in the air," when the genial manager of the office had scattered them to the winds with his kindly inquiry: "Is there anything wrong, Carter?" And then it was that he summoned the courage to pour out the story of his discontent.

The conversation had burned itself into Carter's brain, and as he walked along, thinking about it, he repeated the words that had followed his declaration, "Yes, Mr. Appleton, there is something wrong."

He had added, "In the first place this deadly routine is grating on my nerves. There seems to be nothing in this world to do but write letters. And such letters! It seems as if the whole world is immersed in a sea of leather. And the worst of it all is that there seems to be no desire on the part of the management to reward my services, which I am not vain in regarding as being well and carefully executed."

Mr. Appleton had listened attentively, and as Carter stopped talking, he had said: "Go on, Carter; tell me all of it. Perhaps I can help you."

And he had continued: "Here it is Christmas time; I am not well paid, and thirteen dollars a week is not sufficient to enable me to lay anything by, to enable me to take advantage of many pleasures that I feel I should be able to enjoy at this season of the year.

"I am fond of decorating, as you know, Mr. Appleton," he had gone on, "and if it were not Christmas time, there would be no hesitation as to my course. You have offered to give me a chance at selling later on, but I do not care for that work, and I feel that I am holding back my natural development by staying longer with you."

And Mr. Appleton had said: "What you say is true, Carter; but do not mistake the fact that we appreciate your services and would like to reward them. However, the tariff, trade and financial conditions have brought about a retrenchment policy, and I can get nothing for you at present. I have a thought, though, that may help you." And then Mr. Appleton had gone in the telephone booth. He had come back a few minutes later and told him that he thought he could give him an opportunity to make some Christmas money, and perhaps he might be able to secure a permanent position in a line that he liked.

He remembered how Mr. Appleton had given him an unsealed envelope addressed to "George K. Rider, No. — Delancey Place," and told him to call there and present it at 7.30 this very evening. On his way home he peeped in the envelope and found Mr. Appleton's personal card, with the simple inscription written in ink above his name, "Introducing Herbert Carter."

He had stopped in the corner drug store and looked up Mr. Rider in the directory and found that he was general manager of the chain of retail cigar stores of G. S. Hill & Company. Now, Carter was pondering as to the connection between himself and a position that Mr. Rider might have open. He certainly did not feel equipped to stand up behind a counter and dilate to consumers on the merit of this or that brand of cigars or cigarettes. And he felt sure that this could not be what Mr. Appleton had in mind; but what was it? His curiosity was aroused to a state of suspense. But his musings were cut short as he found himself in front of a big brown-stone-front house with the number that he was looking for marked over the transom.

He rang the bell, and a maid shortly appeared to answer it. She took his card and invited him to a seat in the reception room. And in the dim light, the maid's reappearance seemed like a vision as she said in a soft voice: "Mr. Rider says you are to come up in his study. You will find it at the head of the stairs." As if in a dream he slowly ascended the stairs and a moment later found himself in a richly-furnished room in which comfort was combined with elegance. And as his glance took in the surroundings, he beheld a well-groomed man, probably turning fifty, rise from a Turkish rocker to greet him.

"So you are Mr. Carter, eh?" said Mr. Rider, as he extended his hand. "I am Mr. Rider. Have a seat and let us talk things over."

Carter seated himself and Mr. Rider went on, "Well, Carter, Mr. Appleton called me on the telephone this afternoon and told me he had a young man with a taste for decorating that he thought I could use. He gave you a splendid record, and although I did not promise anything, I told him to send you around. Now, I want to find out if you think you could handle a proposition to assist in the decorating of a number of windows. As you probably know, I am the general manager of the chain cigar and tobacco stores of G. S. Hill & Company, and a series of misfortunes has made an opening for a young man with ability in this line. Would you like to try it if I think you have the right ideas?"

It seemed as if Carter's heart was so far up in his throat that he could not talk, but he managed to reply, "I certainly would, and I know I can make good, Mr. Rider, if you give me the chance."

So this was the favor Mr. Appleton had done for him! He felt like jumping with joy. If he only could get the chance he just knew he would make good.

But Mr. Rider interrupted his thoughts with an inquiry as to his age.

"I am twenty-two, sir," replied Carter.

"Very good," said Mr. Rider. "Now, I must have a man at once to assist our chief decorator with the holiday displays for our stores. His assistant is down with typhoid fever, and although I did not tell Mr. Appleton, you will prove very valuable to the company if you can do the work."

"Now then," continued Mr. Rider, "the man to fit this position must first have a natural taste for decorating, then he must be able to develop ideas and above all, must not be afraid of work—hard work. He must also have adaptability, and if he combined these elementary things with common sense, he will succeed. You can do all this work at nights, and if we find that you are suitable there will be a nice little sum waiting for you when you get through., Now are you prepared to start at once?"

Carter replied that he was.

"In that case," said Mr. Rider, "we may as well put on our coats and run over to the big downtown store. I will introduce you to Edmonds, the chief decorator, who is working there tonight. Come along."

Carter followed Mr. Rider downstairs where they quickly donned their hats and coats, and a moment later were out in the brisk air. He was on the way to meet "His Opportunity," said Carter to himself as he walked along.

In about twenty minutes they were in the attractively-furnished downtown store of G. S. Hill & Company, where introductions followed. Briefly, Mr. Rider outlined to Edmonds what he proposed doing, and Edmonds, always genial, was quick to respond. "Very well, Carter. I'll give you all the pointers you want. I'm going to dress this window tonight, and if you wish, you may help." Mr. Rider then bade them good night, and in a few moments was gone.

"Did you ever do any of this sort of work, Carter?" said Edmonds, lighting a cigarette.

"Oh, I have done some decorative work, but nothing of this kind," said Carter. "When I was a youngster at school, we used to give plays around the holidays, and I was always chief decorator if there was any draping or work of that nature to be done. Then, there was another time, when I tried my hand at dressing the window of a candy store, kept by an old lady, a friend of my mother's."

"Then, according to that, you have some idea of what is required. My idea of decoration, and I've been at it for some time, is to concentrate on one article. We'll say, cigars for this window, cigarettes for that. Of course, some few incidentals may be added, but the more restricted the number, the better. The least you have to distract your customer's eye from your main feature, the better for all concerned. Of course, originality is a thing which must be considered. Get away from the hackneyed idea of tiers upon tiers of cigar boxes. Try and have a central design from which the surrounding scheme is to radiate. Once you have your main idea in mind, you will find that other suggestions easily follow. Here's another thing. Each season has its own distinctive feature, which, when elaborated on to a greater or lesser extent, should give you ideas the year 'round. The color scheme is another important feature, and should be given the most careful attention. Under all circumstances, see that you create harmony. This is a telling point on which many window dressers fail. They have not studied harmony, and consequently, their colors clash. The result—a poor display, which otherwise, would have attracted much attention.

"The Christmas season is a fine one for display work. This window which I am going to do tonight, is to be given over to one brand only, our 'El Vicosa.' It's a special ten-cent cigar on which we have built up a big business, and when we get through with this window, I feel that the receipts from 'El Vicosas' are going to jump higher than they ever did before." Flecking the ash from his cigarette Edmonds began rolling up his sleeves, continuing in the meanwhile: "I've decided upon red and green as my color combination. That red ribbon is for the holly. It's a mighty cheery looking shade, I think. Now, if you'll take off your coat, we'll get busy." Carter did as he was directed and the work proceeded.

The lower half of the back of the window, being finished in mahogany panels, it was arranged to attach a narrow brass rod across the entire length of the upper portion of the woodwork, from which a curtain of dull green China silk was to be suspended. So much for the background. The floor of the window was covered with red crepe paper, tastefully arranged. Suspended from the ceiling by invisible wires, on either side, were great bunches of holly tied with attractive bows of red ribbon. In the centre of the window was a medium-sized dais, also covered with red crepe, on which reposed the Christmas package of "El Vicosas" in three different stages. The first showed the box neatly wrapped in white paper, tied with narrow red ribbon and topped by sprigs of holly and mistletoe. The second package showed the box of "El Vicosas," partly opened, and the third, fully opened, displayed the famous cigars in their attractive Christmas packings. Flanked on either side of the central design were "El Vicosas" attractively wrapped in white paper, tied with the red ribbon, each package bearing sprigs of holly and mistletoe, a dozen packages being in each group. Centered above the dais was an inviting-looking placard, reading:

HIS APPRECIATION WILL BE SINCERE, IF YOU MAKE IT A BOX OF "EL VICOSAS"
DO SO AND BE CONVINCED

Smaller display cards were placed in advantageous positions adjoining the package on either side of the window.

Carter seemed to grasp the idea, almost immediately, pleasing Edmonds by the interest which he evinced. The latter saw that with some coaching, this was just the youngster whom he wanted, and he made up his mind to put in a good word with Mr. Rider for him. When they had finished, it was nearly eleven o'clock. Before separating for the night, however, Edmonds told Carter that if he was disengaged, he could use him two or three evenings of the following week, and Carter decidedly interested in the new field, expressed a willingness to come just so long as he was needed.

* * * * * *

It was the day of New Year's Eve. Entering the dining room for breakfast, Carter discovered among other mail, a letter bearing the imprint of the house of G. S. Hill & Company, the cigar firm for whom he had done the extra work before Christmas, assisting the chief decorator with their holiday displays.

Hastily opening the envelope, he withdrew the enclosure which informed him that the ability displayed in the work done with Mr. Edmonds, had pleased to such an extent that the position of assistant to Edmonds was open at eighteen dollars per week, if he cared to accept.

"Cared to accept! Eighteen dollars per week! Why the was only getting thirteen dollars at Kellers." Grabbing the telephone, he called Mr. Rider, and was connected immediately.

"Mr. Rider? This is Carter. I received your letter this morning, Mr. Rider, and it certainly is one big surprise."

"When can I start?"

"Next week! All right, January ninth. Happy New Year, Mr. Rider. Thank you!"

"Oh! I'll be there. Good-by."

(The End.)

CUSTOMS HOUSE SCALES ANTIQUED

Expert Reports Average Loss by Government of One-Tenth of One Per Cent.—Loss on Tobacco Consignments Estimated at $50,000 Yearly

E. A. CLEVELAND, expert in charge of the special staff of the Collector of the Port of New York, who has made a critical study of the weighing methods there, has come to the conclusion that the apparatus used by the customs authorities for weighing merchandise is antiquated and inaccurate. It is understood that his recommendations have already been transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, but so far no action has been taken. The result of the tests conducted by the special staff shows, according to a statement made, an average error of one-tenth of one per cent. constantly acting against the Government.

In some cases it was found that the error was much greater than the percentage mentioned.

A recent small consignment of Sumatra tobacco was taken for example, and it was found that the loss to the Government in this particular case was $18.95.

On a basis of the total imports at New York of wrapper tobacco, which in the year 1912 amounted to 4,685,456 pounds, it appears that the total loss must have reached $12,000, figuring an average loss of four ounces to the bale. On filler and leaf tobaccos, paying a duty of 35 cents per pound, the loss to the Government last year is estimated at $45,000, making a total loss of over $50,000 on underweighing of all tobaccos.

Mayor Gets First Box of "Made in Bond" Cigars—Diaz Havana Company to Open in West Tampa—Gasparilla Carnival to Be Held in February

TAMPA, FLA., December 11.

THE first box of "made in bond" cigars from Bonded Factory No. 1, was presented to Mayor McKay by Berriman Brothers. The Mayor is not quite sure whether he would like to keep the whole box intact as a souvenir, or pass the cigars out among his friends.

The first "made in bond" cigars which were the "Jose Vila" brand, from the Berriman factory, were placed on sale on Monday, December 8th, by Eli Witt, the well-known dealer.

A. L. Cuesta, Sr., who is constantly moving about, after a trip to Atlanta, took a run over to Havana. He returned to town last night.

E. L. Curry, who formerly had a factory in Plant City, has moved it to Arcadia and will be one of the new enterprises to open up there shortly. He will make clear Havana goods and will confine himself to his leading brands, "Boosters," "Havana Fives" and "Curry's Panatelas."

The Diaz Havana Company, which took over the old firm of Antonio Fernandez y Gonzalez of Havana, will remove its entire force to Tampa. A factory will be secured as soon as possible and operations will be started at once. Ernest Berger, who organized the Diaz Havana Company, will have associated with him in this new company Emilio Pons, Florentino Diaz and Antonio La Paz.

While the experiment of Berriman Brothers is being watched very closely, as a whole the new method is not receiving very favorable consideration. As one manufacturer recently said "In taking the matter up with New York headquarters, I found that it took about ten lines to elucidate the merits of the 'made in bond' method and about fourteen pages to note the objections."

John W. Ross, Florida manager of the Reynolds Tobacco Company, is making his headquarters in Tampa for a few days.

J. M. Carlisle, district manager of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, who makes his headquarters in Gainesville, has been looking over the situation in this city.

P. Lorillard & Co. has its district manager, George L. Harris, Jr., sizing up trade conditions here. Mr. Harris is accompanied by Frank Folsom, a Tampa boy, now a salesman for that firm.

A. L. Cuesta, Jr., is in Atlanta at the present and will probably be there until the end of the month. He is chairman of West Tampa's committee for representation in the Gasparilla Carnival, but during his absence Jimmy Keggin is acting in his place. Other members of the committee include Alfredo Pendas, M. Bustillo, Ygnacio Rey, Arturo Blanco and B. Campillo.

The West Tampa Commercial Club is fighting for better car service, better telephone service and better street lighting, and as a result, they have appointed several committees of "live wires" to take these matters up with the respective corporations.

The committee to look into the street car service is composed of A. L. Cuesta, Sr., Celestino Vega, M. Bustillo, Alfredo Pendas and T. D. Fisher.

The big Gasparilla Carnival is slated for February 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th.

A campaign on "Chesterfield" cigarettes has been started in this city by R. S. Tatum, Florida manager for Liggett & Myers. He came over Saturday night from Jacksonville with a crew of five men.

Up to the first of the month there had been 251,640,000 cigars shipped out of the city this year. In this time there were 279 working days and it is easy to figure an output of more than 900,000 cigars a day.

Among the visitors of the week was Jose Diaz, president of the Preferred-Havana Tobacco Company.

Sanchez & Haya factory is now practically caught up with its orders, and they are now expecting a falling off in their output. Their business has run very strong through the year, and they expect to round out 1913 with a splendid average.

1912 "Fancy B's" Sold

A Western manufacturer recently purchased from Ephraim N. Hershey, a grower and packer of Marietta, Pa., a choice lot of "Fancy B's" of the 1912 packing of the following: Garber Brothers & Company, Bendert Musser and John Eby. There were only fifteen repackings in the entire lot. The price was not revealed.

Mr. Hershey also sold more than one hundred cases of the same crop to local manufacturers.

Western Retailers to Meet

The Western Association of Retail Cigar Dealers will hold a convention in Seattle, January 13 and 14, 1914.

President Ike Ochs, of the New York Association, is expected to be present to deliver an address.

JOBBERS & DISTRIBUTORS DEPARTMENT

Fire Does Not Deter Glaser Brothers

THE burning of Glaser Brothers' wholesale establishment a week ago was the most serious fire loss that occurred in the San Francisco trade for a long time. The loss is placed at between twenty-five and thirty thousand dollars. This was largely covered by insurance, but was a serious loss just the same. The firm has earned a lot of favorable comment by reason of the small amount of time spent in useless regrets and the extraordinary speed manifested in getting ready for business.

The fire occurred early in the morning and by noon the company was doing business in a new location with a certain amount of stock on hand. Telegraphic orders had already been sent in to the factories represented; and arrangements had been made to get enough immediate stock to keep the business going without interruption.

The salesmen were kept out in the field as if nothing had happened, and if there has been any delay in deliveries, nobody seems conscious of it. The new quarters of the house are now located at 505-511 Montgomery Street, only a short distance from the former location at the corner of Montgomery and Merchant Streets.

The company makes a leader of the "John Drew," its other lines being the "Pinzon," "Tuxedo Club" and "Boston Mail."

Last of Stickneys Leaves Cigar Trade

With the new year, the last of the well-known Stickney family will retire from the cigar trade. In 1872 William Stickney came to St. Louis and established the William A. Stickney Cigar Company; later it opened branches in Denver, Kansas City and Salt Lake City, and ranked among the largest jobbing houses in the country. With the death of William Stickney, Albert Taylor Stickney became the head of the firm, until the sale of the business to Niles & Moser and Rothenberg & Sloss, of Kansas City.

When the business was taken over, Mr. Stickney agreed to remain as manager for one year, if necessary. His time is about up and he has decided to withdraw January 1. In a statement, Mr. Stickney said that he had not made up his mind yet as to his future plans, but that the Stickney family will no longer be identified with the cigar business.

"The new owners of the business will continue the name of the William A. Stickney Cigar Company," said Mr. Stickney, "the only change being that I will step out and a new man will assume the managerial duties."

W. W. Goldsmith, formerly with the Federal Cigar Company, will succeed Mr. Stickney. Mr. Goldsmith has been in the business many years, mostly in the East.

William Stickney died shortly after the sale of the business to the Kansas City concern, which are separate, except that they jointly own the business of the William A. Stickney Cigar Company, and have a similar alliance in Texas.

Edward Moser, of the firm of Niles & Moser, was in St. Louis at the time of Mr. Stickney's announcement of withdrawal.

"Havana Ribbon" Boosters

THE above illustrations show Mr. Samuels and Oscar Frank, city salesmen for Franklin MacVeagh & Co., Chicago, Ill., ready for the trail. The house of Franklin MacVeagh & Co. is distributor for "Havana Ribbons" and are keeping the factory busy with their orders. Needless to say, many of the orders are due to the untiring efforts put forth by these two salesmen in behalf of the "Havana Ribbon."

W. L. Bucher Company Incorporates

The W. L. Bucher Company, which recently passed into the bankruptcy courts, has been incorporated with a capital of $20,000. The incorporators are W. L. Bucher, J. H. Bucher, F. J. Bucher, Gregory Federer and George J. Ozias.

The company will operate the W. L. Bucher factory on East Fifth Street, which was acquired by Frank Bucher at the sale conducted recently by Attorney P. N. Zeigler, trustee in bankruptcy.

Quality in "Savaronas" Brings Big "Repeat" Orders

A WELL-KNOWN shoe house has for its slogan: "Keep the Quality Up," but the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company is going them one better by making extraordinary effort to continually improve the quality and workmanship in their "Savarona" and other Porto Rican cigars. The careful, intelligent and systematic work of the Plantation department has succeeded in producing a wonderful improvement in the tobacco used in the "Savaronas"; as might be expected, this has had a telling effect upon the business of the company, and as a result, there have been an unusual number of repeat orders from the jobbers of the brand. As President Hoisington recently said: "The work of the Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company in trying to improve on the 'Savarona,' has resulted in the nicest fall business that the company has ever had."

The Cayey-Caguas Tobacco Company, as is probably well known, does more business on the high-grade cigars in the Porto Rican line than any other concern, and this year, it has enjoyed filling a larger number of orders for cigars that retail for 25 cents apiece, or 20 cents apiece in quantities. This business has not only come from first orders, but a great many "repeat" orders have come in by mail on these fine sizes. The persistent purpose of the "Savarona" people has won out and has demonstrated beyond a doubt, that the better class of Porto Rican tobacco pleases the finer type of smokers and the most discriminating tobacco connoisseurs in the country.

Demand for Upper Broadway Stores

The demand for stores along upper Broadway, near subway stations is proven by the fact that from the plans of two twelve-story apartments to be erected between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets, on the west side of Broadway, three stores have already been leased.

The Davis & Klein Agency, dealers in cigars and stationary, have taken the second store from Seventy-ninth Street, for ten years at a rental of $3000.

Composition Confirmed on O'Brien Credazzi

Judge Holt has confirmed a composition of O'Brien-Credazzi Company, importers of Italian products and leaf tobacco, at 74 Cortlandt Street, Manhattan. The composition is at seventeen and one-half cents on the dollar, cash. The liabilities were $11,365.

The company had six retail grocery stores. Hamilton M. Dawes was receiver.

Gunst & Company Will Redeem Stock

Notice has been given to stockholders of M. A. Gunst & Company, Incorporated, that sealed offers will be received by the New York Trust Company, 26 Broad Street, New York, until three o'clock, Wednesday, December 17, for the sale to the corporation of 200 shares of its preferred stock on January 1, 1914.

The corporation is prepared to pay a price not exceeding $102.50 and accrued dividends, and if no stock is offered they will take advantage of their charter rights and select the 200 shares by lot.

Larger Quarters for American Sumatra Tobacco Company

THE rapid growth of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company has caused the removal of that firm from 144 Water Street to more commodious quarters at 131 Water Street, where there are quarters for the especial use and comfort of visitors and customers.

The sample rooms in the new quarters are on the top floor and are reached by elevator. Every convenience is provided in the sample rooms for the most favorable inspection of the stock.

It will no doubt be of interest to many to learn that the Amsterdam products of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company are harvested from 16,686 acres of the finest tobacco land for wrapper purposes in the United States. Here, in Georgia, it requires five big warehouses to care for the crops. In Florida the company gathers its stock from 25,000 acres of tobacco. A third section in which the American Sumatra Tobacco Company grows its much-demanded leaf, is in Connecticut. The accumulated acres of this company rank it as one of the largest tobacco-growing corporations in the world.

Julius Lichtenstein, who became a national figure in the leaf trade, is the head of this immense enterprise, and the rapid growth of the corporation is due, in a large measure, to his industry and indefatigable efforts.

The Camp Importation Company

Articles of incorporation have been taken out for the Camp Importation Company, Incorporated, to engage in the general cigar and cigarette business. Those interested include T. J. Canty and J. J. Canty, of New Rochelle, and J. E. Hayes, of New York City. The company starts out with an authorized capital of $400,000.

It is understood that they will specialize in the manufacture of the "Camp" brand of Turkish cigarettes, which were widely distributed and quite popular in the New York market several years ago, when they had their headquarters on Thirty-fourth Street near Fifth Avenue. William C. Camp is to be the general distributing agent for the new corporation's product.

Zieling Owes $9500

The schedules filed a few days ago in the bankruptcy case of Alex. Zieling, who conducted two retail stores at 1552 Broadway and 589 Ninth Avenue, disclosed that the bankrupt owes debts amounting to $549, with nominal assets of $4943, of which amount $2700 is scheduled as stock on hand, and $1500 as accounts due.

Waitt & Bond Open in New York

William E. Waterman, president of the Waitt & Bond Corporation, operating one of the largest union cigar manufacturing plants in New England, has been in New York and made arrangements for opening a factory at 333 Bowery.

It has been rumored for some time that this company, which makes its headquarters in Boston, Mass., has had trouble with its labor, but it would appear that this new move is a direct denial of such a statement.

A Window Suggestion for "56" Dealers

The Splendid Holiday packing of "56" Cigarettes, put out by the Cado Company.

A Present for the Man

"A present that will please the man
Just puzzles you," you say?
Then step inside
It is our pride
To help you choose today.

"He Smokes!" Then cigarettes you want,
A handsome Xmas pack,
A fragrant prize,
From Turkish skies,
He'll pat you on the back.

Most men prefer the "56,"
The finest in the land.
You give him these,
They're sure to please,
We know it is his brand.

(This handsome Xmas box of "56" Cigarettes, accompanied by the jingle, with the title prominently displayed, should prove a trade booster.)

J. B. Moos Cigar Company Robbed

A salesman for the J. B. Moos Cigar Company walked over to the cashier's desk and put down $87 in cash, a check for $12.95, and a receipt for $16. He walked away expecting the bookkeeper to take care of it immediately. It happened that the bookkeeper's attention was diverted to something else at that moment. So it proved a propitious moment for someone to try and get away with some loose change.

Just a few minutes before seven o'clock, on the morning of December 1, after the above action took place, two men rushed into the office, snatched everything in sight, and made a quick getaway. Before the clerks came to, the robbers were out of sight. Not knowing what the receipt was, the robbers took that, too.

All Poolers Released

At a meeting of the executive board of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, held at Henderson, Ky., on December 4, a resolution was adopted by which all poolers pledged with the association were released, and I. J. Sellers, chairman of the Henderson county district, issued a similar statement to all the poolers of the Consolidated Tobacco Growers' Association, by which they were released from their pledges to that association. This practically eliminates the Consolidated Tobacco Growers' Association from the Stemming district territory this year.

Blaze in a Cigar Store

The cigar store of Steven Raskus, of Brockton, Mass., was visited by fire about midnight on December 1. When the fire company arrived, the cigars and tobacco were exhaling huge volumes of smoke. The blaze was finally extinguished, but Mr. Raskus found next morning that practically all his stock was ruined. Mr. Raskus cannot find any reason for the cigars and tobacco smoking in his absence. He expected many of them to go up in smoke about Christmas, but thinks this date premature.

"Fifty Six" Cigarettes to the Front

REPORTS from all parts of the country indicate that the well-known "Fifty Six" cigarette is becoming popular in practically all of the cities where it has been placed. This rapidly-growing 25-cent brand is made of the best grades of Turkish tobacco and cannot fail to please the connoisseur.

The handsome Christmas package which we have illustrated upon another page is an example of the way the cigarette is taking hold. A recent report from the office of the Cado Company, which manufactures these cigarettes states that the demand for these goods has exceeded their expectation and that their output in this packing is oversold.

Still another item of interest from the Cado Company is the announcement made by Charles Drucklieb, the president, that Constantin Contopoulo has been made vice-president and director of that corporation and that he will take an active interest in its management.

Mr. Contopoulo is thoroughly familiar with the best grades of Turkish tobacco, having spent many years of his life in the districts where this is grown, and is regarded as one of the leading experts in this line of goods. A feature of the "Fifty Six" cigarette is that all tobacco used in its manufacture in the future will be bought and packed under the personal supervision of Mr. Contopoulo.

The merit of "Fifty Six" cigarettes is further proven by the fact that the United Cigar Stores has taken hold of the line and is pushing them in all their stores. The standard price of 25 cents is maintained everywhere.

Palmyra Cigar Factory Busy

The Palmyra Cigar Company, recently started at Palmyra, Pa., by A. S. Stauffer and Alfred Yeiser, is meeting with success and their orders are on the increase.

Frank Snyder, a hustling young man of Palmyra, has been started on the road as their salesman, and from all accounts, has turned in some very nice business.

Their popular nickel smoke is the "Londonderry," while in the ten-cent goods the "John Palm" is making friends.

CURTAILMENT FEARED IN TOBACCO WORK

Probable Reduction in U. S. Appropriation Resented—Congressman Griest, of Lancaster, Takes Matter up with Authorities

CURTAILMENT in the appropriation for tobacco experiments conducted by the Department of Agriculture has caused many of the representatives in Congress from tobacco-growing districts to fear a reduction in the good work that has been done in that line. More than $6000 is chopped off of the already small appropriation, and it is feared that this sum will hamper the work of the experimental stations considerably.

Congressman W. W. Griest, of Lancaster, who represents a large tobacco district, is reported to have discovered the change in the estimate, and it is known that the congressman has taken the matter up with the Agricultural Department authorities.

Fears are expressed that the Federal Government will reduce the work which it has been doing for several years in co-operation with the agricultural authorities of Pennsylvania and other tobacco producing States. Last year the Federal appropriation for this work was $31,630. This year $25,000 is asked.

Nearly all estimates for other lines of plant research work are increased, and the fact is being cited as giving color to the charge made by tobacco growers that there is bias in some form against the tobacco people.

The decrease in the funds for experimental work in tobacco sections, following so close after the enactment of the Democratic tariff law, which authorizes the free and unlimited entry into the United States of cigars and tobacco from the Philippine Islands, has prompted intimations that the Administration may intend to show its resentment for the campaign which the cigarmakers and tobacco growers waged against the Democratic plan for free trade in cigars from the Philippines.

CIGARMAKERS TO VOTE ON STRIKE

Manufacturers Unable to Grant Increase—Injustice of Demands at This Time Evident

ACCORDING to a report from Lancaster, Pa., the cigarmakers of the First and Ninth revenue districts have ordered a strike vote. It is said that the reason for this is that the majority of the manufacturers have refused to allow the increase of one dollar a thousand, which has been requested by the cigarmakers.

We treated this subject editorially in the issue of the WORLD of November 1. Since that time we have talked with many manufacturers in both the First and the Ninth districts, and the general reply has been: "If we were making a dollar a thousand ourselves we would be glad to split with the cigarmakers." One manufacturer added: "The demand for quality in nickel goods, together with the price of the tobaccos at the present time, has already cut into our profits to such an extent that an increase in the cost of labor is not to be considered."

Another manufacturer said: "Here is another thing that cuts down our profits; we give a hand sufficient binder, we think, in fact we know by experience, to make one hundred cigars. The hand makes seventy and wants more binders. We remonstrate and say that surely more than seventy cigars should be made out of the last supply. The retort comes that if we do not like the work we can turn over the money due him, or her, as the case may be, and he, or she, will leave. Well, hands are too scarce at this time of year for us to want to get rid of them. So, in many cases, we say nothing. Yet you can readily see that with the present cost of binders, we suffer a considerable loss on a hundred thousand cigars. And look at the reduction in profit per thousand! Yet, in the face of this, comes the demand for an increase!"

A member of a firm in the First district said: "In our case, I would feel justified in granting the raise, if we were making a profit that would allow it. We are not making a dollar a thousand ourselves; only our heavy production pulls us through. If action is taken against us, we will close and sell our factories in this section and start new ones in distant places."

A strike now will be only a glancing blow, as the holiday rush is over, and only an ordinary demand will come in for the next two or three months. The cigarmakers, by striking, have much to lose and nothing to gain. To raise wages under present conditions would mean ruin to many small manufacturers, and the closing of the smaller factories would force hundreds of cigarmakers to go elsewhere for work.

It is unnecessary to point out that if there ever was an unfavorable time for a strike, regardless of the justice in it, it is now. The army of unemployed is increasing just at this time, and the cigarmakers, by leaving their benches would bring much misery into their homes. The winter has begun in earnest, and from now to spring, without work, is a long walk over a trail beset with suffering.

The consumer, at this time, will not stand for a raise in the price of his nickel smoke, and he is the fellow that eventually pays for the increased cost in the production. It is evident that the manufacturer cannot stand the raise out of his own pocket.

It is to be hoped that wise judgment will prevail and that the prosperity of the industry will not be threatened by such an inconsiderate act as the precipitation of a strike.

Fire May Cost Ozier & McCready $20,000

The fire which destroyed the building in the Woods Block, Akron, O., may cost the Bull Dog Cigar Store a considerable sum in addition to the loss on their stock.

The Bull Dog Cigar Store, which is owned by the firm of Ozier & McCready, sustained a loss by smoke and water of about $5000, according to an estimate recently made.

The question has now arisen as to whether the building is a total loss or not. This is being arbitrated by the insurance companies and the owners; neither having been able to agree, it has been left to a third party. The architect representing the owners claims the building to be a total loss; the insurance companies do not agree that such is the case.

Should it be decided that the building is a total loss, leases, valued at thousands of dollars, will be void.

Under such a decision Ozier & McCready stand to lose about $20,000. This is based upon the fact that this is the sum they were offered just a few days before the fire for their lease, which has fourteen years to run. They have notified their attorney to make a determined fight for them to re-occupy their old quarters.

Ozier & McCready Will Carry Case to Courts.

AKRON, O.

Building Inspector Goodwin has ordered the Realty Benefit Company to tear down the walls of the Woods Block building at once.

Attorneys Francis Seiberling and George M. Anderson, acting for C. P. McCready, of the firm of Ozier & McCready, of the Bull Dog Cigar Store, have noted an exception and filed it with the Board of Appeals. This enjoins the Realty Benefit Company from proceeding with the demolition of the building until the affair is settled.

VERDICT RETURNED AGAINST IMPERIAL TOBACCO CO.

Loss of Suit Causes Forfeiture of Charter—Fine of $3500 Imposed on Each Company—Appeal to be Heard in March

ON December 2d a verdict against the Imperial Tobacco Co., of Kentucky, and the Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., of Great Britain and Ireland, was returned by the jury at Morganfield, Ky. The verdict followed a trial which lasted for ten days and the conviction automatically puts the two companies out of business in Kentucky and forfeits their charter. The verdict carries a fine of $3500 for each company.

Following the judge's charge to the jury a verdict was reached in thirty minutes, which was a surprise to all in attendance.

A feature of the trial was the action of Judge Hansberry, who had his seat in the midst of the jury. He privately informed the attorneys for both sides that he had received information that there were attempts being made at jury tampering, and that he would take immediate action if he found such to be the case.

Immediately following the verdict a motion for a new trial was made. The motion was continued until the March term of court. It is understood that this motion acts as a stay, and that until the motion is finally decided, the Imperial Tobacco Company can do business in Kentucky without forfeiture of their charter.

The counsel for the Imperial Tobacco Co. gave fourteen reasons in their motion for a new trial. One of the attorneys for the Imperial says they have the right to buy tobacco in Kentucky pending the final decision. An attorney for the complainants says they have no right to buy pending the motion, and, if they do, they are liable to indictment for buying pending a decision for a new trial.

It is claimed that the Imperial bought only one-fourth of the tobacco in the district in which they purchased, which proves that they cannot be classed as a trust, and that a petition was signed by a thousand farmers asking that they would not be convicted the day before the trial.

Chicago

"Flor de Moss" has Heavy Sales—Box Trade Below Average This Year—Trade Hit Hard by Loss of "26" Game—Steady Call for High-Grade Pipes—Collections Bad Say Leaf Dealers

CHICAGO, ILL., December 8, 1913.

DESPITE the closing down of the lid on the old army game, otherwise known as "26" dice, local cigar stores are doing a holiday business which in the end will equal or exceed in volume that done for many years. While the "26" game is under the counter for the present, dealers with few exceptions are willing to take a chance with the police on shaking Indian dice, best two horses out of three. No case of interference has come to the ear of the writer and it is his prediction that it will not be many weeks before the "26" game returns. In the meantime, however, dealers will suffer a loss, for they will be unable to move hundreds of dollars worth of cigars which they would have been able to move over the holidays if they had been permitted to retain the "26" game. Nevertheless they are inclined to make the best of the situation and will no doubt find some other means of stimulating trade, as the law is so indefinite that anything will go which is not hit by a special ordinance, such as was the "26" game.

Woodlawn business men are planning to compete for prizes offered by the Woodlawn Business Men's Association for the best window display in the week of December 8 to 13. Three prizes of fifty, twenty-five and fifteen dollars are being offered. The judges will consider the selling value, artistic arrangement, light effect and effort in making the awards. The association has named a special committee on window displays, which will award the prizes. Woodlawn has a number of first-class cigar stores, in charge of brisk dealers, and they will put one over in this contest if they can. In case a cigar man wins a prize the picture of the winning window will be reproduced in THE TOBACCO WORLD with spangles.

It will be just as much of an offense to give or sell children the makings as it is now to sell or give them cigarettes if an amendment to the municipal code approved by the judiciary committee is passed by the City Council. On the motion of Alderman Irwin R. Hazen the committee voted to include the words "cigarette papers or wrappers." This will compel the local dealers to exercise more care in dealing with minors, in order to escape the penalty of this latest blue law which threatents to be dumped on the city.

Harry M. Vreeland, who is the new Western sales agent for Benson & Hedges, is making great progress with "Benson & Hedges" cigarettes and says that he is going to make next year a banner one in the distribution of that firm's goods in this territory.

"Cake Box Mixture," of Leavitt & Pierce, is one of the articles which is being featured by most of the local cigar stores. It makes an attractive accessory to a pipe when given for a Christmas present, and dealers report that many pipes are going to be given this year.

David Lamont, local manager and Western representative of the S. R. Moss Cigar Co., has returned from an extended business trip in the West, where he had unusual success. He will devote the rest of this year to developing the account of Many Blanc & Co., the large liquor and cigar dealers on the North Side. This account has already shown some excellent results, and Mr. Lamont hopes to have it in even better shape when he prepares to turn his energies into another channel. He will spend the holidays in Milwaukee, visiting customers and friends. He reports an increasing trade on "Flor de Moss" cigars both in Chicago and in the territory north and west of here. The company is planning a monster advertising campaign on "Peter Pan," their new five-cent seller. This campaign will be national in scope, and will include the use of the usual mediums for informing the public of the good qualities of a new cigar.

"H. Upmann" and "Partagas" cigars were featured by C. Jevne & Co., the big loop retail grocery, in an attractive window display this week. C. Jevne & Co. import both of these brands direct and are building up a fine trade on them. In addition to the regular sizes they have a number of holiday packages, which are neat, but which do not seem to appeal to the trade as well as the regular sizes. In fact, it may be said that the holiday trade on package goods this year has fallen off to a considerable degree and that with the coming of another Yuletide season there will be few, if any, package goods offered in the stores here. The dealers seem to feel that fifty or one hundred cigars is not too many for a man to buy if he wants them at all, and the packages of five and ten look too cheap to make good presents. If a man wants to give a friend a box of cigars he will get a regular box, and he is going to make sure of the quality, too. He is suspicious of the cigars which come in packages, for he does not like to run the risk either of appearing cheap or of losing his friend by presenting him with a package of "ropes." This, according to several local dealers who were interviewed on the subject, is the frame of mind of the average buyer when it comes to package goods, and the manufacturer is coming to take much the same attitude.

Franklin MacVeagh & Co., wholesale grocers, announce that beginning with the first of the year they will become exclusive distributors in Cook County for the "American" Havana cigar, made by E. Regensburg & Sons. They intend to advertise this brand and to feature it in all the stores possible, as it will be a big addition to the already heavy line of excellent cigars carried by this firm. In order to conduct this work in a thorough manner the cigar department will add twelve new salesmen to the force, beginning the first of the year.

The two new stores of Stroud & Jackman, located at 124 South Fifth Avenue and at Monroe and Clark Streets, respectively, are doing a holiday business which is wonderful when it is considered that they have hardly been in business long enough to expect them to build up a regular trade. Nevertheless this seems to be what has been accomplished by this enterprising firm. Things happen in a hurry in the business world of Chicago when a couple of hustlers get their hands at the head of things. The leaders of this successful firm are "La Docilla, of Quiros, Villazon & Co.; "Pinzon," "Flor de Bolano" and "El Talento" of Alphonso Rios & Co. These are all excellent cigars and are being featured for all they are worth by Stroud & Jackman.

It is to be regretted that the strike among the local cigarmakers and bosses cannot be settled by arbitration in a manner which will at least be satisfactory for the present to both parties. This is a bad time of the year for troubles of this sort, both for the cigarmakers and for the firms which employ them. Wohl & Comstock's men have now walked out and the factory is idle. Spector Bros. have come to an understanding with their cigarmakers and the wheels are moving once more over there. There seems to be a general unrest among the cigarmakers, however, which would indicate that the end of the trouble was not yet come.

The new package of "Nebo" plain foil with which the dealer gets fifty trophies free with every thousand, is taking great in this town. The demand is heavy and dealers are having trouble keeping them in stock.

Some of the local jobbers of leaf tobacco are complaining that collections in the country are slow at the present time, although why this should be is hard to understand. The trouble is not serious, but there seems to be a general hanging back on the part of customers who heretofore have discounted their bills with pleasing regularity. The leaf men are united, regardless of politics, in the opinion that business will not be as good as it should until the currency bill is developed into some sort of law which will please the big business interests of the country, including the bankers.

Trade has been excellent during the present holiday season, and there is every reason to believe that it is going to continue so until long after the first of the year. The indications all point that way. Of course, it would have been better if the lid could have been kept off the "26" dice game until a few months later. This game is not being mentioned too much by any means in the present letter, for the reader who is not familiar with the sales methods of the retailers in Chicago can have no idea what an important part the game had come to play in the cigar store. Since the lid went on, orders from jobbers have been cancelled right and left and not a few of the larger stores have been compelled to discharge clerks because of the loss of business.

One paragraph at least of this news letter should be devoted to the window displays which are appearing in stores all over the city. Of course not all the dealers have taken the time or trouble to fit out a window especially for the holiday season, but a good many of them have done so and it is plain that not a few of the ideas represented have been hatched by the genius of the men who frequent the back of the store and know what good tobacco is, and what is not. The windows for the most part aim to impress upon the spectator the quality of the goods displayed and also give a suggestion of the pleasure of smoking good stock under proper conditions. In many places they are featured along with fine wines and other liquors. Holly and other symbols of Christmas are being used extensively all of which gives a seasonable and attractive appearance to the windows.

William Taussig, head of the leaf tobacco house of Taussig & Co. in West Randolph Street, has returned to his desk after a brief illness, during which time, however, he was in constant touch with the office.

Enos Ashley, cigar salesman for the Minneapolis Drug Co., has been in Chicago in the company of his wife. While here they are the guests of J. G. Whitaker, of Celestina, Vega & Co., handlers of "La Venga" Havana cigars. Mr. Ashley is one of the boosters for this brand, which is getting to have a great sale in this territory.

"Plantista" cigars, made by the Compeer Cigar Co., of Indianapolis, is another brand which is getting a great trade in this territory, and is doing so strictly on its merit. The cigar is distributed in this market by O. Schrader & Co., who are now featuring it in a number of stores on the South Side.

Charles L. Miller, who runs a store at 225 West Jackson Boulevard, is now engaged in featuring several standard factory brands of high grade cigars. His place has won a reputation for the excellent quality of the imported goods which he carries.

Display of "44" Cigars Wins Pensacola Prize

The display was arranged by Charles F. Clark, specialty man for Tillman Funk, Southern representative of the "44" Cigar Company.

Salesmen Keep "44" Factories Busy

Orders continue to pile into the office of the "44" Cigar Company at a heavy rate and the plants are operating at full capacity night and day, to fill orders. Due to the heavy demands of the trade, many of the salesmen will be busy on their territory longer than usual this year.

M. A. Funk, salesmanager and secretary of the company, is at the factory after a successful season in New York and Chicago, where he has directed successful campaigns on "44." After the New Year, Mr. Funk looks forward to meeting many of his old friends in New Jersey and Pennsylvania territory.

F. D. Crawford is now taking a well-earned rest in and around his home town, Binghamton, N. Y. He has had a strenuous, as well as very successful, year.

Southwestern representative M. Zander has had a tip-top year and the demands of the trade will make it necessary for him to keep on his territory longer than usual, carrying him well up to the first of January. His splendid record speaks for itself regarding the merits of "44" cigars.

W. H. Nicholson, middle South representative, is spending a few weeks with his family at his home, Littleton, N. C., after a very successful year on "44's" in his territory. Mr. Nicholson will leave for the Philadelphia office the latter part of December, when he will meet the large sales force of the company.

Tillman Funk, Southern representative, continues his successful placing of "44's" in his territory and his work will carry him close to January 1. Mr. Funk has had a very successful year on "44's" in his territory and has made many friends through his congenial disposition and his ever readiness to serve his customers.

James F. Cormany, Western representative, expected to stop at his home about the fifteenth of December, but finds that the heavy demand for "44's" in the territory in which he is now working will compel him to remain and continue his work with the very many friends that he has made in Sioux City, Ia., and vicinity.

Association Refuses Bid for Remainder of Crop

At a meeting of the Stemming District Tobacco Association, in Henderson, Ky., Manager William Elliott presented a bid made him for the remainder of the pooled 1912 crop.

The board refused the offer as they considered it too low. It was stated that the tobacco would keep and that they did not intend to sell it unless they received a bid as good as the price paid for the other portion of the crop.

The remainder of the 1912 crop is composed of about 1000 hogsheads, prized last winter in association factories.

Bankruptcy Petition for Richland Cigar Box Company

L. E. Hart, of Mansfield, O., trading under the name of the Richland Cigar Box Company, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

The assets are listed at $2052.05, with liabilities amounting to $1632.91.

The total number of creditors is twenty-two. R. H. Brenner Company, of Cincinnati, O., heads the list with a claim of $255.15. A hearing will be held at 1 P. M., on December 15, at the office of the referee.

Chicago Letter

The Oppenheimer Cigar Co. is having a big sale on pipes in all its stores around the town, and is unloading a big stock of excellent buzzards at lowest possible prices. There has been more activity than usual in pipes and all the local pipe manufacturing houses report that business is remaining good with them and that they expect next year to be one of the banner years. At Francis Edler & Co.'s place on Lake Street it was said that never before had the holiday trade in pipes been better. There seems to be an increasing demand for quality on the part of pipe users, and they are not satisfied with any old thing any more. They want the best and appear willing to pay the higher price without protest if they can get what they want.

A. J. Meyers, of the Salvador Sanchez Co., has just returned from a successful western trip. While in the West in addition to visiting the trade he saw a large number of interesting places and things, and also did a little hunting, with more or less luck.

CLEVELAND, O., December 10, 1913.

THINGS are taking on a holiday aspect, and all the stores are showing a variety of cigars and smokers' articles. Many new novelties have appeared on the market in the shape of igar lighters, stands and humidors. The assortment is both varied and novel.

Conditions previous to this time were not very bright as the weather was entirely against it, being more like spring than winter, but at this time there is snow on the ground and it is turning considerably colder and things are taking on the holiday appearance.

All of the local manufacturers are extremely busy trying to turn out their holiday orders. All the salesmen of the Shields-Wertheim Company are coming in from all over the states to the annual convention held here. The main topic of conversation is to find flaws in the previous campaign on "La Saramitas" and "Saramita Fives" and to perfect the comng campaign on these brands.

Pyle & Allen opened their new store, and it appears to be a very fine location and should add another link to their long chain of stores.

A new cigar just being placed on the market, namely, the "Percy Haswell," is put out by the Stace & Vincent Cigar Company. The appearance of this package certainly points to a huge success, as the dealers claim, it is the most beautiful package that has ever been put on the local market. The color scheme and the style is right up to the minute and should make a howling success.

Stace & Vincent are operating two retail stores, one at Fifty-seventh and Euclid, and the other at 105th and Euclid. Both are enjoying an enormous business. These boys were previously with the R. W. Jenkinson Company, and for the past year they branched out for themselves and are not only retaining their own trade, but are constantly working up new.

Mr. Unger, who has taken over the Polster Cigar Company's stand at East 105th and Euclid, is building up this business and putting it on a firm basis. He is gradually getting all the trade back of the old concern. With his genial personality he is certainly making friends with all of the boys, and should be a leading factor in the East End cigar business.

Grover Mendelsohn, of the Mendelsohn Cigar Company, reports business as extremely good. They are constantly taxed to their capacity in turning out their many orders.

George Bassatt, located at 826 Prospect Avenue, in an arcade through to Huron Road, is steadily increasing his business. He is constantly getting trade passing through the store to the Empire Theatre. This is a big item and makes his store one of the most prominent in this location.

The Joseph T. Snyder Cigar Company were forced to give up their location on lower Superior Street, as their lease expired and could not be renewed.

A new phase of the cigar business of this city has loomed up, namely the auctioning off of cigars in the Sincere Building at Prospect Avenue and East Fourth Street. This is attracting a great many people and is selling a lot of merchandise.

DRAWBACK ALLOWED TURKO-AMERICAN TOBACCO CO.

May Equal Quantity Used in Manufacture of the Exported Tobacco—Sworn Abstract of Manufacturing Record Must Be Filed With Each Drawback Entry

(Special Correspondence to "The Tobacco World.")

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 11.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY HAMLIN has allowed a drawback under paragraph O of Section 4 of the Tariff Act of October 3, 1913, on smoking tobacco manufactured by the Turko-American Tobacco Company, of New York, N. Y., with the use of imported Turkish tobacco in combination with domestic tobacco.

In his letter to the collector at New York, Mr. Hamlin explained:

"The process of producing smoking tobacco consists of mixing the imported and domestic tobacco and cutting the mixed tobacco into thin layers suitable for smoking purposes.

"A manufacturing record shall be kept which shall show, in addition to the usual data, the lot, number and date of manufacture of each lot of smoking tobacco manufactured for exportation with benefit of drawback, the customs house weight and value of the imported tobacco and the weight of the domestic tobacco after stemming used, the quantity of moisture added, the quantity of smoking tobacco produced and the quantity and value of the waste incurred.

"A sworn abstract of such manufacturing record shall be filed with each drawback entry.

"The quantity of imported Turkish tobacco which may be taken as a basis for estimating the drawback may equal the quantity used in the manufacture of the exported smoking tobacco, as shown by the abstract from the manufacturing record, the allowance to be reduced according to the quantity of the imported tobacco which will be replaced by the value of the waste."

Cigar Company Sues Railroad

The Parker-Gordon Cigar Company, of St. Joseph, Mo., has sued the Rock Island Railroad for $1575, the value of 22,500 cigars which the railroad company is alleged to have lost in transit.

The Cuban Market

From our Exclusive Havana Bureau, 74 Virtudes Street, Havana, Cuba.

HAVANA, December 8, 1913.

TRANSPLANTING of the seedlings has been progressing in the Vuelta Abajo in good shape, as well as in the Semi-Vuelta and Partido districts, although now there are already some complaints about drought in a good many places of the Vuelta Abajo, and which if continued would retard the growth of the young plants materially. Nevertheless we know by experience that the nicotine plant can stand dry weather for some time, and that one good rainfall in the nick of time has worked wonders in its further development, so it is too early to be too pessimistic at the moment. Seedlings, while not abundant yet, are however not excessive in price, and will be cheaper before long, so the poorer farmers will be able to plant this month. The Remedios crop is usually a little later, but the setting out of the seedlings is also taking place this month, upon a good scale, as the vegueros are encouraged by the high prices they obtained this year, and therefore will try to raise a large crop, if possible. We can only repeat, however, that the future chances of the coming crop depend entirely upon the state of the weather for the next two months to come.

As an isolated case we may mention that Don Manuel Rodriguez, owner of the "La Sirena" cigar factory here, is also the owner of two vegas, called "El Santico" and "La Catalina," near Artemisa, where he commenced transplanting on the twentieth of last October. These seedlings took such a firm hold of the ground that the heavy rains the end of October and the beginning of November did not destroy them to any extent; on the contrary they were benefited by them in their growth, so that they are now so far developed to be ready for cutting around the twentieth of this month. Nevertheless if the owner had not had an artificial irrigation plant to give the plants water in the meantime he might not have obtained this result, as after the rains there has been a continuous drought. This tobacco will not come upon the market, as the owner uses all of it in the manufacture of his cigars. There might be a few more isolated cases, although we have heard of none up to this moment, and in any event the quantity could be only of a trifling nature.

Our leaf market has been rather quiet, owing to the small number of buyers in town. The sales reported lower down consisted to a large extent of deliveries of leaf upon previous old contracts, therefore they do not constitute new business. Prices are maintained, as our dealers believe that we shall see a heavy influx of buyers here during the coming month. Our stocks are sufficiently large to make selections from them, although they are by no means excessive. Our holders of leaf are anxious to reduce their stocks, but are not disposed to lose any money, as the fate of the next crop is too uncertain to influence the scale either one way or the other for the present.

Remedios tobacco remains in good demand, and we have heard it said by good judges that the stocks in first hands in the open market shall not exceed about 15,000 bales of first capaduras and between 4000 and 5000 bales of seconds. This is no great quantity for the moment, if we consider that they will have to suffice to the manufacturers for the next twelve months to come before they will be able to work the coming crop under favorable circumstances.

Vuelta Abajo colas are still solicited and command high prices, while factory vegas have been less inquired for, but the time will come when all good vegas will be actively looked for.

Partido has been rather neglected, excepting wrappers.

A shipment of eight sample bales of leaf to Tokio has been somewhat commented upon as being possibly the precursor of a new market for us in the future. That England should have ordered more heavily (the purchases during the last fortnight reaching about 900 bales) is taken also as a good sign for our vegueros and leaf dealers, although the extremely heavy duty on the leaf is handicapping her cigar industry.

Recent Leaf Sales.

Sales during the past two weeks totaled 15,103 bales, or split up into: Vuelta Abajo, 4867; Partido, 592, and Remedios, 9644 bales.

Buyers were: Americans, 11,247; Canadians, 206; exporters to Europe, 1345, and our local manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes, 2305 bales.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the port of Havana for the last two weeks, ending November 29, were: To all ports of the United States, 8215; to Canada, 367; to Lisbon, 411; to Bremen, 528; to London and Liverpool, 373; to Gibraltar, 25, and to Tokio, Japan, 8 bales; thus making a total of 9927 bales.

To Boston: B. A. Kaiser.

To Tampa: Angel L. Cuesta and José Lovera.

To Chicago: Quinto Fernandez.

Cigars.

The month of November has been a disappointment again to our cigar manufacturers, as can be seen by the following statistics of our exports, according to the official returns from our custom house:

Exports from November 1 to November 30, 1913,	14,338,921 cigars
Exports from November 1 to November 30, 1912,	16,439,735 "
Decrease during November, 1913,	2,100,814 "

The decreases by countries during the month were:

Great Britain and Ireland	1,332,299 cigars
Germany	456,201 "
Canada	355,887 "
Spain	341,566 "
Spanish Africa	146,000 "
Argentine Republic	97,390 "
Netherlands	50,125 "
French Africa	41,500 "

The United States	234,719 cigars
Italy	183,500 "
Australia	172,674 "
Chile	102,515 "

The total exports from the port of Havana since January 1, 1913, and the comparison with the previous year are now as follows, viz:

From January 1 to November 30, 1913,	164,969,777 cigars
From January 1 to November 30, 1912,	161,330,221 "
Increase during the eleven months of 1913	3,639,556 "

As the Christmas orders have been filled now, business has slackened up a little, although the majority of our factories have still orders for the regular, steady trade from European countries, particularly from France and England, which latter country seems to show a revival in the demand for our cigars, and from the South American republics, as well as from Australia. A few factories have, however, discharged some cigarmakers as usual at this time of the year.

Romeo y Julieta is as busy as heretofore.

H. Upmann & Co. still have plenty of orders on hand for their H. Upmann factory.

Partagas states it could even seat more cigarmakers as far as orders are concerned, only it did not have the room where to seat them in their buildings.

Mr. W. B. Houston, one of the sales agents of the Henry Clay and Bock & Co., Ltd., arrived with his family from New York in order to occupy his winter quarters at Guantanamo and attend to the supplying of cigars to the American fleet. Mr. L. S. Houston, his brother, and who is the chief manager here of the company, stated they had received more orders of late.

Por Larrañaga has dispatched its Xmas orders on time, as was promised by Don Eustaquio Alonso to their customers, but continues to be busy in nearly all directions.

Castañeda & Fonseca told us that they had enough orders on hand to keep them as busy as they are now for the next three months to come.

Sol reports no change, as orders continue to arrive in good shape, principally from Europe at present.

Flor del Fumar is working with undiminished forces under the able management of Don Francisco Herrero, as Don Felipe Rodriguez needed a rest from the exacting work all through the summer, and left for a month's rest per S. S. "Saratoga" on the 6th inst. for New York.

Other factories that are still busy are: Punch, La Flor de José Otero, Eden, La Flor de Tomas Gutierrez, La Flor de A. Fernandez Garcia, Belinda, El Rey del Mundo and C. E. Beck & Co.

Buying, Selling and Other Notes of Interest.

Sobrinos de A. Gonzalez were sellers of 1410 bales of all kinds of leaf during the last two weeks.

Otto Eisenlohr & Bros.' purchases during the stay of Louis H. Eisenlohr in our city have been finally all registered and amounted to 3559 bales of Remedios.

F. Rocha & Co. disposed of 718 bales of Vuelta Abajo and Partido to their customers during the last fortnight.

Maximilian Stern was a buyer of 1598 bales of leaf for account of his customers.

José C. Puente & Co. closed out 525 bales of Remedios and Partido.

M. A. Suarez & Co. sold 400 bales of Vuelta Abajo during the last fortnight.

Walter Sutter & Co. were buyers of 794 bales of leaf for account of their customers, just previous to the leaving of Quinto Fernandez on a month's vacation to Chicago.

Cardenas & Co. were sellers of 300 bales of Vuelta Abajo to one of their customers.

D. Emil Klein secured 510 bales of leaf for their firm of E. M. Schwarz & Co.

I. Kaffenburgh & Sons sold 175 bales of Remedios to local buyers.

Adolfo Moeller was a buyer of 350 bales of leaf for export to Bremen.

Shippers Above 200 Bales of Leaf Tobacco From the Port of Havana During the Last Two Weeks, Ending November 29, were:

Maximilian Stern	1,102 bales
Virgilio Suarez	944 "
Leslie Pantin	731 "
Selgas & Co.	638 "
Mark A. Pollack	587 "
Michaelsen & Prasse	524 "
Adolfo Moeller	513 "
H. Upmann & Co.	452 "
Cardenas & Co.	410 "
J. Bernheim & Son	384 "
C. E. Beck & Co.	367 "
Garcia & Co.	294 "
Manuel Suarez	284 "
Sidney Rothschild	264 "
M. A. Suarez & Co.	226 "
Diaz, Herrera & Co.	209 "

Another Factory for Deisel-Wemmer

Following the announcement of the opening of their ninth factory in Fostoria, word has been received that the heavy call for the "San Felice" brand necessitates the opening by the Deisel-Wemmer Company of a tenth factory, to be located in St. Mary's. A building has been leased and as soon as it is renovated, the manufacture of "San Felice" cigars will be begun.

The new factory will accommodate between three and four hundred hands, and it is said that the firm will be prepared to employ that number if they can be obtained.

The Deisel-Wemmer Company now has two factories in Lima, O., and one each in each of the following locations: Delphos, Van Wert, Wapakoneta, Sidney, Toledo, Findlay, Fostoria and St. Mary's.

CUBAN MANUFACTURERS DOUBT SUCCESS OF "MANUFACTURING IN BOND"

Believe That Output Will Be Reduced and That Cigars Will Cost More—Claim That Good Cigars Do Not Need Guarantee Stamp

HAVANA, CUBA, December 8, 1913.

THE experiment of manufacturing in bond of the Tampa clear Havana cigar manufacturers is watched here with a great deal of interest, and one of our manufacturers told me the other day, that he did not believe it would prove to be a success. He pointed out that besides the increased cost of paying the custom house officer his wages, (and the latter will not work more than nine hours a day) as he opens and shuts the factory, the cigarmakers may be unable to work more than eight hours daily. Some allowance has to be made for the loss of time in distributing the raw material to them, and in the afternoon they will have to stop earlier, in order to collect the finished cigars.

The question therefore is, will the cigarmakers be satisfied to work less time for the same wages? In any event, if the output is less in a bonded factory, the intrinsic cost of manufacturing will be increased, and it seems very doubtful, whether the jobbers and smokers would be willing to pay more money, just for the sake of seeing a Government stamp affixed to the cigar boxes, stating that the cigars contained therein are made of Cuban tobacco exclusively.

Cuban tobacco alone after all does not signify anything, as we do not deny that some poor tobacco is grown upon the Island of Cuba, not excepting our famous Vuelta Abajo even. The fame of Havana cigars has been created by our renowned factories, the owners of which are taking special care to purchase only the very finest vegas, and making their blends of different vegas, acquired through a long number of years of practice.

The clear Havana cigar manufacturers in the United States, that have acquired a reputation of making good cigars, do not need any protective Government stamp; they can sell their product without it, for without the least doubt they would lose their trade very quickly if they should deteriorate their product, even if the Government stamp should be affixed to the boxes.

New Quarters for I. M. Strasser

I. M. Strasser, successor to M. Strasser's Sons, one of the oldest wholesale leaf houses in the State of New York, will soon remove from 17 and 19 Green Street, Albany, to more commodious quarters at 344-346-348-350 Broadway. The firm has occupied the Green Street quarters for more than thirty years.

The history of the Strasser leaf tobacco concern is one of the most interesting in this city. The firm was established by Moses Strasser in 1852, then having quarters in the old Globe Hotel building, at 4 and 5 Howard Street. After being there for thirty years, Mr. Strasser removed to the present quarters.

When Mr. Strasser went into the new quarters his four sons, Messrs. Benjamin, Solomon, David and Isaac M., were taken into the business. Since occupying the present quarters on Green Street the father and two sons, Benjamin and Solomon, have died and David has given up the business and is now in New York, leaving Isaac M. Strasser the sole proprietor of the business.

The quarters on Broadway are more commodious for the leaf tobacco business, but it is with regret that Mr. Strasser leaves the Green Street place of business, so long has he had his place of business there. The building at 17 and 19 Green Street is now being entirely renovated.

San Francisco

Revival of Demand for Pipes and Smoking Tobaccos—Advertising Has Influenced Consumer—"Hebra" Cigarettes Being Placed by Edward Wolf Company

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5, 1913.

THE San Francisco cigar trade is closing up the year in pretty good shape. The city retail trade has been pretty busy all year, notwithstanding a certain feeling of tightness in money matters. The dealers have handled their business carefully, have been carrying lighter stocks than in former years; but on the whole have done almost as much business as heretofore, or at least, have come to the last end of the year with about as good a showing as to profits. The growth in the demand for cigarettes and for pipe tobacco have been features of the year, as have also the revival in the demand for Porto Rico and Manila cigars. To offset these increases there has of course been a certain falling off in other lines; but dealers are not ready to admit that there has been any notable change in the actual tastes of San Francisco smokers. They are more inclined to think that the changes are due to increases and decreases of advertising effort on the part of manufacturers in this territory, and possibly to the financial situation, which may have led a good many tobacco consumers to seek their smokes in less costly forms than heretofore.

The manufacturers' representatives and traveling men for the local jobbing houses are now out on their final trips before the holidays. Country orders, which began to pick up immediately after the rains of a month ago, continue good; and the wind-up trips are bringing in a good deal of special holiday business as well as some little in the way of advance orders for the coming year.

The Bank Cigar Store at the corner of Clay and Leidesdorf Streets was entered by robbers a few nights ago. No cash was taken, but cigars valued at about one hundred dollars were missing. The thief has not yet been located.

The Webb-Scott Cigar Co. has been incorporated at Seattle, Wash., with a capital stock of $20,000. The incorporators are M. V. B. Webb, F. M. Scott, Jr., and E. Stotts.

L. H. Umstead, of Exeter, Cal., who is engaged in growing Turkish tobacco in that section and who has taken a great interest in the promotion of the tobacco growing industry in California, reports that there are now about one thousand acres planted in tobacco in Tulare County, and that this year's yield will amount to 300,000 pounds.

John Slininger, a cigar man of Bakersfield who does a good jobbing business in the surrounding district, has just concluded an automobile trip through some of the oil producing country of Kern County. He reports a good business.

The "Hebra" cigarettes are a new line just being placed on the local market by the Edward Wolf Company, Front and California Streets. This company has had good success with both the "La Insular" cigars and the "La Insular" cigarettes, of the "La Insular" factory at Manila; and it is believed that the new cigarette from the same factory will take well. It is a five-cent cigarette and is intended to supplement the "La Insular" line. Mr. Wolf returned a few days ago from Southern California, where he placed the "La Prueba" Manila cigar line with Klauber, Wangenheim & Co., of San Diego and Los Angeles, Cal.

Henry W. Peabody & Co., San Francisco importers of Manila cigars, report that the past year has shown great progress in the placing of their Manila lines. Mr. Eisenschimmel, manager of their cigar importing department, left for the North a few days ago for a final visit to the company's connections. He is now in Spokane, but is expected back in San Francisco before the end of the year.

J. D. Carpenter, head of J. D. Carpenter & Co., cigar dealers of Spokane, Wash., died at his home in that city a few days ago.

Edward Schiller, of the Schiller Cigar Company, of Portland, Ore., has sold one of his retail stores in that city to S. S. Rich, who is also well known in the cigar trade of the Pacific Northwest.

A. E. Preston, a dealer of Oakland, Cal., has sold out his business to Roy O. Long.

H. Bier, formerly of the Bier-Saalburg Company, on California Street, who has been out of business for a couple of months, is again in the trade, having opened headquarters for Berriman Brothers' "Jose Vila" line, at 418 Sacremento Street.

Sam Caro, Pacific Coast representative of Mendel Brothers, is again in San Francisco after a two weeks' visit to Los Angeles and other Southern California points.

Joe Kingsley, a well-known dealer of lower Market Street, has secured a new location just across the street at East and Market Streets. The store will be opened as soon as a new building now under construction is completed.

ALLEN.

Albert Falk, of the Falk Tobacco Company, New York City, was in Philadelphia last week, taking care of some orders for delivery about the end of the month.

Pittsburgh

Salesman Reports Big Business on "Rocky Fords"—"Stag" Getting Big Displays—"Pera" Cigarettes on Many Stands

PITTSBURGH, PA., December 8, 1913.

THE weather in Pittsburgh is cold and clear and very good for the holiday business. I find, after talking with several of the large dealers of fine grade cigars, that they all expect a large business. Orders are coming in very good.

F. W. Clark, who represents A. Roig & Langsdorf, in Detroit, stopped off on his way to Philadelphia to visit friends.

Wm. Mendel, of the Union-American Cigar Company, who covers the territory from Pennsylvania to Tennessee, is working on their "Rocky Ford" and "Beechwood" cigars and their "Pittsburgh Smokes." He reports big business.

H. J. Harper, of the Products Company, is putting out a new red plush box on "Milo" cigarettes. Is the best box ever seen here for the holidays.

Mr. Massingham just returned from Jacksonville, Fla. While there Mr. Massingham attended the Wholesale Druggists' Convention, which has a membership of 128. The members and their wives took a trip to Havana, Cuba, returning in a special coach along the east coast of Florida. They stopped off at Miami, Daytona and St. Augustine. At all of these points there were a delegation of the Chamber of Commerce who entertained them with automobile rides through the different cities. While in Havana they visited the Bock factory, where they gave cigars to the druggists.

There were several excursions to Tampa and Key West. Most of the druggists carry a big cigar line.

Acker, Merrall & Condit have taken on the "El Verso" cigars at the Duquesne Club.

H. A. Hamman has taken over the wholesale cigar business of H. A. Rice & Son, of Greenville, Pa.

J. H. Oberly Company, of Oil City, Pa., are remodelling their cigar store. This firm has one of the best stands in Oil City. They report the "El Verso" cigar one of their largest sellers.

C. A. Gibbs Company have added several new clerks to help them out.

The Seventh Avenue Hotel cigar stand has a large display of imported cigars.

P. Hanm, of the C. J. Moye Company, is the proud father of a baby boy, who he has named after the popular cigar man, Leo Julius Spuhler.

Ed Sutton, one of the old time cigarette boys, and well remembered by the old guard, was a visitor in Pittsburgh this week. Ed is now in the electrical business and is looking fine.

P. Lorillard Company are doing some special work in Pittsburgh and vicinity on "Stag" tobacco. They are featuring the 90c. humidor. The work is in charge of Mr. Hamilton and a special crew of five men from Philadelphia.

"Chas. Denby" cigars, in tin cans, are selling well in and around McKeesport.

Louis Engleman, of McKeesport, has an elegant display of "Saramita" cigars in all sizes.

O. M. Bosworth, of the "Denby" factory, is in town.

Mr. Sharpless is calling on the trade with "Saramitas" in neat holiday packages.

J. I. Stein, representing the "Pera" cigarettes, has placed this brand in the following well-known stands: Fort Pitt Hotel, Seventh Avenue Hotel, Henry Hotel, Schenley Hotel, Monongahela House, Newell's Hotel, Duquesne Club, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, University Club and Union Club.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Seth R. Marshall, of New Castle, Pa. Mr. Marshall was forty-seven years of age and leaves his wife and one son. He was a cigar dealer in New Castle for the past twenty years.

The following visitors were in town: E. N. Ackerman and Allen G. Lutt, of Y. Pendas & Alvarez; C. L. Staples, of Park & Tilford; John A. Collins, of the Shaffner-Collins Company, Chicago.

W. S. Burger Celebrates Anniversary

Having occupied the same stand for thirty-three years, W. S. Burger, the well-known cigar dealer, of 107 South High Street, Columbus, O., celebrated the anniversary on December 4. Flowers were given to the women and souvenirs in the shape of leather match cases were distributed to the men.

Hundreds of visitors dropped in the store on that day to offer their congratulations to Mr. Burger.

Introducing Mr. Stanley De Lisser

STANLEY DE LISSER
President, De Lisser-Schneider Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

THE morning that a reporter for the WORLD called upon the president of the De Lisser-Schneider Company, he found him laboring under the delusion that he was living within a few degrees of the Arctic Circle. "In fact," said Mr. De Lisser, "if I had no previous knowledge of the location of Philadelphia, I would think that it would be less than a day's ride on the sleds to the supposed location of 'Doc' Cook's buried records."

"Oh, this is just nice brisk weather, Mr. De Lisser," said the reporter, "I guess you are not used to it. Where were you born?"

"Not in this confounded climate," he replied. "I was born on the sun-kissed shores of Jamaica, and have spent most of my life there. In fact, if it were not for 'Lord Colbeck' I would be there now."

"Entertaining the nobility?" impertinently inquired the reporter.

"Yes," replied Mr. De Lisser, "one of the nobility of the cigar kingdom. A royal peer that I am introducing in your democratic country to men who appreciate a high-grade cigar. And by the way, one of your best Philadelphia jobbing houses has agreed to put it on their list January first."

"Pardon my stupidity," said the reporter with due humility. "The fact is," he continued, "I came down here to get a short biographical sketch of you and your partner; how about it?"

"Really not much to say, old chap," replied the president. "My great-grandfather was a French Admiral who settled in Kingston, Jamaica, about 1760. The family has been there ever since. I came along and was reared in the tobacco business and have followed it."

"Er—— when did you say you were born?" asked the WORLD representative, as if he were walking on thin ice.

"As I was saying," continued Mr. De Lisser, "in 1897 I took up the Kingston agency for the Lambert & Butler branch of the Imperial Tobacco——"

"Did you say you were born in——?" interrupted the interviewer.

"Really, I quite forget," he replied, "earthquakes and things quite upset one's memory. I think somewhere between 1850 and 1900. But, as I was saying, I retained the Kingston agency until 1905, when I amalgamated with the British-American Tobacco Company and formed the Jamaica Tobacco Company and was elected its president."

"Well, don't you think, Mr. De Lisser, you were born about——?" continued the reporter.

"As I was saying, I retained the presidency of the Jamaica Tobacco Company until June, 1913, when I resigned to associate myself with Mr. Robert Schneider, to form the De Lisser-Schneider Company. I was elected president of the corporation, and Mr. Schneider was made vice-president. That is about all, I think."

"Well," said the reporter in despair, "you really overlooked one important event, your birthday."

"Unimportant; say I am as old as I look with my glasses off."

"Then I'll put you down for about thirty-five. Now can I see the vice-president?" added the interviewer, waiting for a protest.

"If you're quick," said Mr. De Lisser.

But, as the reporter turned around, Mr. Schneider's coat-tail was disappearing through the doorway at a rate of speed that must have warmed him up considerably, even in the Polar temperature of Eighth Street.

Mr. De Lisser, seeing the look of amazement on the face of the news-seeker, said genially: "He's very bashful, and very modest about his age. So much so, in fact, that he is using hair-tonic to hurry along his mustache."

"Well, anyway, Mr. De Lisser, you will loan me his picture, won't you?" earnestly begged the reporter.

"Really, old chap; I would be glad to oblige," said the president, "but he is actually afraid to have one taken. Hasn't interviewed a photographer since he had his first pair of long trousers. You see, the ladies make such demands on him that he is afraid to have a photograph of himself made. Honest, it would cost him hundreds of dollars to supply the demand. It is almost as heavy as the call for 'Lord Colbecks.' Hope you won't put all this in the paper; really, it would make him blush to read it."

"But you can say for me," he added, "that he is a splendid chap and that the tobacco trade will find him a 'live wire' through and through. Have a smoke? All right, call again."

The reporter wanted to ask for the picture showing Mr. Schneider in long trousers, but he lost his nerve, and rode back to the office trying to figure out whether or not Jamaica might contain Ponce de Leon's long-sought Fountain of Eternal Youth.

Good Record for Aged Cigarmaker

Jacob Compton, the oldest workingman in New Egypt, N. J., and a cigarmaker, goes to his bench six days in the week and rolls about two hundred cigars a day. Mr. Compton is eighty-seven years old and believes that his daily average is as good as many cigarmakers, with younger and more active hands, can do. Here is another bang for "Doc" Osler. We hope Mr. Compton will be able to continue at his trade for many years to come.

Detroit

"Flor de Portuondo" Going Well—"Fifty Six" Growing Extremely Popular With High-Grade Smokers—Novel Advertising Scheme for the "Dutch Master"

DETROIT, MICH., December 9.

AS we draw towards the close of the year 1913, a word or two about Detroit may not be amiss at this time. Building operations in any community can generally be taken as a barometer of its financial soundness, and with this as a basis, little can be found to show Detroit suffering from any serious financial depression at present, or that any difficulties are looked forward to in the near future.

Detroit cigar manufacturers are now closing up their books for the year, and all of them, without exception, are more than pleased with the results for the twelve months. While there may have been one or two months when sales were not ahead of the previous year, the business in the aggregate is away ahead of all other years, so that they have every reason to feel jubilant. And business today is good. Practically none of the large factories have abandoned any of their help and continue to pile up orders for delivery after the first of the year.

Retail trade is sure to be brisk from now until the end of the year. Windows have started to be filled with holiday and fancy packages, and all sorts of suggestions for smokers. All that remains now is for the real buying to start. As one dealer said: "Well, we're stocked with the best stuff there is, and all that remains now is for the people to come in."

Here are the figures taken from the books of the internal revenue office, showing the receipts and cigars made for November:

Cigar receipts were $79,683.10 as compared with $80,380.26 the same month in 1912, showing a decrease of several hundred dollars. The number of cigars made for the month were 26,560,033 as compared with 26,793,420 the same month in 1912, showing that less cigars by more than 200.000 were made in November of this year. However, the receipts for tobacco show a gain, as the amount for November of 1913 was $17,728.29 as compared with $154,288.97 last year. These figures are better than had been expected and show that November practically held its own, although it was the dullest month ever experienced by manufacturers and merchants in other lines. November of 1912 had ideal fall weather, while November of this year had about five days when the sun shone, the balance being rainy, foggy and cloudy. Of course, the banner month of the year was October, when more than 30,000,000 cigars were made. It is not likely that this record will be equaled in some time.

T. C. Gales, of Henry Clay and Bock & Co., dropped into town on December 9th, coming here directly from New York on special business. Mr. Gales said his firm was enjoying a big trade and was exceedingly busy expressing holiday shipments. He said in fact that all of the New York importing houses were working twenty-four hours a day to properly handle their orders and not disappoint customers.

E. A. Vanderlip, of the Juan F. Purtuondo Cigar Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, was in town this week on a flying trip. Other visitors were Tom Bannigan, representing Jose Escalante, who is just finishing his trip for the year; Mr. Loomis, of Butler & Butler; Gordon Bailey, of the Surbrug Company, and Sidney Cohen, of E. Regensburg & Sons. The Regensburg line is showing splendid progress in Detroit among Havana smokers. It is featured very strongly by the four stores of the Central Cigar Company.

Willis Andruss was in town the early part of the week in the interests of "Fifty-Six" cigarettes. There is no use denying the fact that this brand of cigarettes is getting extremely popular among the 25-cent smokers. There is not a single dealer in the city who is handling the "Fifty-Six" who will not report increasing sales every week. The package is certainly very unique and unusually attractive, but behind all this is the quality of the goods themselves; which is the real selling point.

The Central Cigar Company are sending out personal letters to prospective customers, advising them of their complete line of Havana and domestic cigars for the holidays. The letters look as if they were actually written by hand, although they were made from an original letter written by H. L. Lieberman, general manager. The circular reads: "You ought to see our fine line of Havana and domestics, just in, and ready for your holiday wants. Visit our stores and make your selection early. If you can't come, telephone Cherry 2887, and we will gladly call. New pipes, humidors, cigarette cases and smoker sets." It is signed at the bottom by President Coombs and Mr. Lieberman. Not one in a thousand could tell it was anything but a personal letter. It cannot fail to bring results.

All records were broken one day last week at the Hotel Ponchartrain cigar stand when inside of twenty minutes there were ten calls for "Webster" cigars. It looked at first as if some agent of the company was in town on the quiet boosting the brand, but the fact is that they were all genuine sales from regular "Webster" customers, who smoke nothing else.

A sign on one of the store windows in the Priscilla Inn Building announces the fact that a cigar and confectionery store will be opened there some time this month. The location is at Cass and Ledyard Streets. The Priscilla Inn was erected by public subscription and will be operated as a home and club for working girls who are strangers in the city.

One of the latest and most up-to-date show cases in the city was installed recently in the Ye Old Mission Billard Parlors in Battle Creek. The case is composed of two sections, one for cigars and tobacco and the other for candy. The two sections together are twenty-three feet long and six feet high, having two shelves. The case is made of marble. Automatic water chambers are installed.

Charles Spinney has opened a cigar store in Grand Ledge, Mich. on North Bridge Street, and operates a restaurant in connection with the same.

C. H. Vedder has opened a cigar store at 110 South Mechanic Street, Jackson, Mich.

C. L. Marley has opened a cigar store in the Dowd Building, Ontonagon, Mich.

Robinson & Co., who now operate two cigar stores, have opened a third store on Randolph Street, near Macomb Street, which was opened last summer as a cigar store by Rube Walters, who for years was connected with the Wayne Hotel cigar department.

The Helmer-Goodale drug store, in Battle Creek, which suffered such a disastrous fire September 1st, has been entirely remodelled and redecorated at a large expense and will be ready for occupancy about the middle of December. It will be one of the handsomest in the country. A feature is made of the cigar department.

A novel advertising car has been in Detroit for the past week, representing "The Dutch Master" cigar, made by the G. J. Johnson Company, of Grand Rapids. The car is in the form of a huge wooden shoe, twelve feet long, mounted on a Ford runabout. The car was stripped before the shoe was put on, so the weight is about the same as an ordinary Ford roadster. The shoe is made of white pine, covered with canvas and is so painted that it looks as if it had actually been hewn out of a gigantic log. The car was manufactured and decorated in Detroit, and as a whole it is one of the cleverest advertising stunts seen in Detroit for a long while. In the past four weeks the car has been in Lansing, Grand Ledge, Ionia, Muskegon, Ludington, Holland, Battle Creek and Kalamazoo.

Ben Bloch, manager of Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, for the Phillip Morris cigarettes, blew in town last week to take up a lot of matters with his Michigan representative, Mr. Edward Lichtig. Mr. Bloch told THE TOBACCO WORLD reporter that business for the current year will show an enormous increase over 1912, and that it will be a difficult record to beat in 1914. However, he believes he can do it. Philip Morris cigarettes have been used almost exclusively at all of the society dances given so far this fall, to say nothing of the many banquets, such as given by the Bankers' Club of Detroit the large automobile companies, and at dozens of small dinner parties. Eddie Lichtig is on the lookout for all of these events and never loses an opportunity to get his goods represented.

A new cigar store has been started in the Boston Hotel Building on West Fort Street, opposite the Union Depot.

A few weeks ago three of the leading cigar stores in Owosso, Mich., were plundered and cigars, cigarettes and cash stolen. The biggest loss was felt at the Brunswick Billiard Parlors, where the thieves obtained about ten dollars in cash and a quantity of tobacco, cigars and pipes, to exceed twenty-five dollars.

Ben Williams who operates a cigar store and billiard room at 812 Woodward Avenue, is having a dandy business. Mr. Williams is very popular among the young men of that section and probably has as clean a set of young men as his patrons as any of the downtown billiard rooms, who cater to the high-class trade. Mr. Williams will not permit anything but the best of gentlemanly conduct in his emporium, and as a result, has never had any trouble with disorderly persons. He handles a good line of cigars and cigarettes and feels well pleased with trade since he has been located there.

The "Robert Burns" cigar is proving to be a big seller at the Best & Russell store, corner of Woodward and Jefferson Avenues. This is a very popular "drop in" store, being a great center of traffic, especially among the people going to and from Windsor, or the foot of Woodward Avenue, where ferries are taken for the Canadian side.

Alfred Penner, of E. Rosenwald & Bro., was in town most of last week and closed up some nice orders for Sumatra.

The new Liggett drug store at Gratiot and Farmer Streets, is now open for business. The official opening will not take place until the entire building is completed. One of the features of the new store is the cigar department, which is complete in every detail. At present only the domestic cigars are handled, but it is the intention of Manager Scott to put in an imported line before the end of the month. On the first day he made a strong window display of "Black and White" cigars, small shape, and sold ten thousand. He also displayed a window of fancy pipes and sold quite a few. Such brands as "Cinco," "San Felice" and "William Penn" are handled being large sellers at the other branch stores.

To the many Detroit and Michigan subscribers and friends of THE TOBACCO WORLD, here's wishing you a Merry Christmas.

AL U. THORNBURG.

Premiums and Novelties Spokes in the Wheels of Business

THE rapidly-growing struggle among the manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, for the supremacy of their respective brands, has led to the use of novelties and premiums in quantities, and to an extent, never before known in the history of the trade.

The retailer has found the use of smokers' articles a most productive method of popularizing his shop and boosting his brands. Competition is stronger than ever before and the use of alluring articles for the "den" or smoking room, given as premiums or as advertising novelties, is proving a most healthy way of encouraging trade and making new friends for the store.

We believe that our readers will be specially interested in a series of brief descriptions of articles that may be used in the tobacco trade in one way or another. We have secured the co-operation of many of the manufacturers in giving their products an introduction to the tobacco manufacturers and retailers, who desire to stimulate the sale of their goods.

There are some articles that may prove too expensive for premium use, but they will be found to be popular with the consumer if offered over the counter at retail. No "smokeshop," today, is complete without a good line of smokers' accessories.

Full information as to prices and quantities may be secured from the manufacturers, whose addresses are given in every case. We will consider it a favor if, when writing, you mention that your attention has been directed to the articles by THE TOBACCO WORLD.

And now we have the wind shield match box!

How many times have smokers tried to light their pipe, cigar or cigarette on a windy day, and use about half a box of "safeties" in the unsuccessful attempt? We do not attempt to compute the sum; nor can we estimate the number of times men have lost their tempers as a result of their failure to "catch a light." We do know however, that thousands will welcome the innovation of the wind shield attachment for the safety match box.

Retailers will find this novelty a very useful advertising medium and one that will win favor for them with old customers, as well as readily make new ones for them.

It is ornamental as well as useful, and will last many years. But don't take our word for it; write the manufacturers and get their claims and a sample. You can afford to advertise with this innovation, because it will bring you a real benefit and make the customer an everlasting friend. A letter sent today to the Metal Specialties Manufacturing Company, 736 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill., will bring you full details.

The cleanliness of clear cut glass, the capacious comfort of bigness and the smart appearance of elegance are all combined in the tobacco jar shown herewith.

The cover may be had in solid brass, copper or heavy quadruple silver plate, and is fitted inside with sponge receptacle.

This is but one number of a large family of cigar and tobacco humidors made by the largest manufacturers of smokers' articles in the United States, the K. & O. Company, of New York. Others, solid metal throughout, come either plain or full cedar lined, at prices that seem hardly consistent with the fineness of finish and devotion to detail that distinguish this line.

An innovation that will appeal to all smokers, both from a standpoint of appearance and practicability is the new "Sanitary" line of brass-mounted glass trays illustrated herewith.

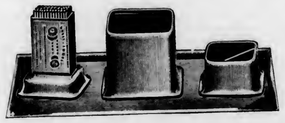
The particular feature of these goods is, that by a simple twist of the wrist all the brass mountings may be removed and the glass receptacle cleaned.

Nests of two, three or four trays are mounted with solid brass cigar rests and match holders, and, while reasonable in price, are elegant enough to meet the approval of the most fastidious.

The moisture-proof cedar-lined cigarette case shown in the accompanying illustration is fitted with lock and key and made of handsome solid brass throughout. For the particular man, there has never been a more serviceable or ornate receptacle for the fragrant short smoke.

An addition to any den, desk or library table, your favorite brand always in plentiful supply and prime condition within easy reach.

To the inveterate smoker, the man who puffs all day long, or the more ascetic devotee of nicotine who limits his indulgence to one after-dinner cigar, no enjoyment quite equals the evening's home-smoke.



Stretched out in his favorite arm chair, at peace with himself and the world, what nicer than to find within easy reach cigars, ash receiver and match holder.

So the smoking set—the last word in smoking luxury.

The K. & O. Company, of New York, have for years made this a particular feature of their line of brass and copper wares, showing today a range of designs from the severely plain to the highly artistic hand-etched. Some are cunningly ornamented with twisted pipes of the old "long stem" pattern from the days when everyone traveled stage-coach and every inn had its rack of clays and shelf of steins.

For further details regarding this splendid line a letter should be addressed to the K. & O. Company, 366 Butler Street, New York City.

Key West

M. Perez Company Apply to "Manufacture in Bond"—Key West Cigar Box Factory Busy—"Mi Favorita" Factory Has Heavy Call for January and February Deliveries—Bonded Warehouse to Close at 4 P. M.

KEY WEST, FLA., December 10, 1913.

THE winter season has opened up with our cigar factories, under better conditions than for many years past. While at a few shops there has been a cut in forces, the additions which the other concerns have made to their pay rolls has more than counterbalanced this. There are very bright prospects that the majority of our factories will be busy right up to stocktaking time, December 31st.

All goods intended for the Christmas holidays have been marketed and all of our factories are now at work on regular lines. Heavy calls by wire and mail continue to pour in and there is every indication that the present forces will be carried into February, 1914.

The most important trade items since last writing is the application of the M. Perez Co., through their local manager Rafael Menendez for a permit to manufacture their cigars in bond. Customs Collector Delaney and Underwriters Agent Porter have inspected the factory premises, and the M. Perez Co. will very shortly receive their bond and be enabled to commence the new year under the new rules and regulations.

The making of cigars in bond in the M. Perez Co.'s factory will be closely observed by other local manufacturers who would like to bond their factories but who will wait to see results before doing so.

If the experiment is O. K. they will all bond, otherwise the M. Perez Co. will be the only concern to take advantage of the law.

Max Gans, of Max Gans & Son, the New York leaf dealers, accompanied by his wife, spent a few hours in the city last week while en route to Cuba. During his sojourn in Havana he will visit the leaf markets and make purchases for his house. Mr. Gans and wife will go direct from Cuba to New York via. Ward Line.

Norberg Thompson, vice-president Key West Cigar Box Co., returned last week from a business trip to Honduras. At the factory business is in fine shape and they are rapidly turning out large lots of boxes.

George Robinson, of the Key West Cigar Factory and secretary Key West Cigar Manufacturers' Association, received a telegram last week from the New York office calling him north for a business conference. He will spend about two weeks at New York headquarters. During his absence the factory is under the able management of Edward Phillips, who is working a full force and on long hours, in order to catch up with the orders.

The Ruy Lopez Ca. is one of the busiest of local concerns and they made a large addition to their force last week. Mail and telegraphic calls are coming to hand at a lively rate and the company will be on this basis until the close of the year. They also have a filed demand for orders to be filled in the early part of 1914.

Moreda & Co. are working at full capacity and are making heavy shipments of their famous "La Diligencia" brand in its many fine sizes and shapes.

The Martinez Havana Co. is working on a healthy basis and have orders on file for January delivery. Eladio Martinez, accompanied by his sister Miss Aurora left for Havana on Saturday. The company will soon launch a new fine size of their "Flor De Louis Martinez" brand which will be known as "Conquerors" and will be largely distributed on the Pacific Coast. It will also be introduced to their trade in other territories.

At the big factory of the Mi Favorita Cigar Co. trade is in excellent shape and they are carrying a full force in every department. Heavy shipments is the rule at this factory and they will take but a short recess at the end of the year for stock taking purposes as they have orders on file running into February of next year.

The E. H. Gato Cigar Co. is another busy local concern and they are carrying a full force. The company last week closed a contract with S. Bachman & Co., of San Francisco, Cal., to furnish them with cigars during 1914. A visitor at the office on Saturday was Nestor Myras, a son-in-law of Edwardo H. Gato, Sr., who was en route to Cuba from a trip to northern Florida. Ed. and Frank, sons of Edwardo H. Gato, Jr., will arrive this week from Georgia where they have been attending the Military Academy and will spend the Christmas holidays with their parents.

A cablegram received at the Customs House on Saturday from the Secretary of the Treasury conveyed the information that the department had acceded to the request of the Key West Cigar Manufacturers' Association in regard to having the bonded warehouse closed at 4 P. M. with no recess, instead of 5.30 P. M. and an hour's recess, as has been the rule since the advent of the new administration at Washington. The extra hour and a half in the afternoon was practically of no use to the cigar manufacturer and leaf dealer as the light at that time in the afternoon is not suitable for the examination and selection of leaf and the request was also made on the ground that the building was too freely ventilated and that it was far better to have it closed sooner.

Trade is on the rush at the Homerica factory of S. & F. Fleitas and a large force is being carried in every department. Recruiting in the picking and packing rooms is still going on, and there are indications that these conditions will prevail for some time to come.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to THE TOBACCO WORLD and all its readers!

INGLACITA.

LEAF TOBACCO MARKET

Connecticut Growers Pinched by Short Crop—Ohio 1913 Tobacco in Strong Hands—Threatened Strike Effects Pennsylvania Market—Inferior Grades of Wisconsin Below Usual Price

CONNECTICUT

SUFFIELD, CONN.

While the prices have been very satisfactory, the year has not been as prosperous for the growers as some would suppose, because the drouth in the Connecticut Valley reduced the crops to a smaller average than last year. With the crop beyond the curing stage and the warehouses opening up, growers have had an opportunity to figure out where they stand on the season. It seems obvious that there will only be a bare profit, as the crop is not more than a seventy per cent. one.

The situation is helped, however, by the binder shortage in Wisconsin. This has sent the buyers to the New England States to try and find a substitute in Havana seed "seconds." These have been bought at a big advance over last year. Had it not been for the situation in Wisconsin, 1913 would have proved a disastrous year for Connecticut growers.

Taken as a whole the shaded tobacco grown in the Connecticut Valley is equal to any crop yet raised. It narrowly escaped ruin by the drouth, but outside of the first primings there is evidence of an unusual proportion of high-grade wrappers.

The limited acreage of broadleaf which was centered about Hartford received rain that did not fall in any other parts of the state, and so that crop has come through in a satisfactory manner. For that reason the broadleaf grower feels very well satisfied with the season's crop.

The warehouse of the late L. P. Bissell has been taken charge of by Karl C. Kulle, and sixty-five men are busy sorting the crops of C. H. Spitzner & Sons, of New York. After the crops are put through the sweating process they will be shipped to the warehouses in New York City.

OHIO

TROY, O.

While the buying of the 1913 Zimmer is not so active, now that thirteen cents is being paid the grower instead of nine or ten cents at the outside, as last year, still good crops are being picked up wherever possible. Those in a position to know say that only a very small proportion of the crop remains unpurchased.

The Seed and Dutch varieties are being bought very slowly, although top prices, ranging from eight to ten cents, have been paid so far.

All the 1913 tobacco that has been bought thus far has gone into strong hands, the smaller packers having been afraid to touch it at such high prices.

PENNSYLVANIA

LANCASTER, PA.

There has been no buying of the 1913 tobacco, and there is not likely to be until after the holidays, when the tobacco will be stripped and ready for inspection. This crop is causing much comment, but so far as can be learned it is curing nicely. Some of the packers say that it will be as good as 1912; there are others who go to the far extreme and claim that its only equal is the much maligned 1909 leaf. Examination shows that there has been very little burning; in fact, perhaps not as much as in other years.

Leaf buyers are taking only enough for their immediate needs. The threatened cigarmakers strike is keeping the leaf market down many believe. But there is a general feeling that most of the manufacturers know what they are talking about when they say they cannot grant a raise and stay in business.

WISCONSIN

EDGERTON, WIS.

Weather that has been warm and unseasonable has caused some apprehension among the growers, as mold has been found on the soft stems, and it is feared that if this weather keeps up there will be considerable damage as a result. The weather has also been responsible for a slackening in the buying movement. Our roads have been no "Lincoln Highway," and consequently the buyers, not being able to navigate seas of mud, have stayed indoors awaiting the change that must come.

It is reported that those growers who have not taken down their crops from the curing sheds are in the best position. It is stated that the tobacco which has been delivered is not in the best of condition. Not much will be done by the packers until after the holidays.

Numerous conditions that have arisen make it doubtful if the low grades of Wisconsin will bring their accustomed figures. This interesting statement makes it look as if the growers will not be much better off than in former years. The little extra they have received for fillers and binders will be lost on the low price of the inferior grades.

KENTUCKY.

LEXINGTON, KY.

Much surprise had been caused in the market here by the falling off of prices on colory grades. This year they are rated at least three cents lower than last season. On the other hand, there is an advance in red leaf prices.

Buyers are short on red leaf, but are loaded up with colory stocks, is the explanation offered. It is noticeable, however, that big buyers have not yet shown up in the market, and it is believed that when they do, colory stocks will go up. No fancy stock has made an appearance yet.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

Prices in the Black Patch, as predicted, are generally higher and stronger than last year. The sales last week showed an increase, and still higher figures are expected when the real competition begins. And there is no doubt that some splendid prices will be realized when the really fine tobacco comes in.

The average price on all tobacco sold on the opening day was $7.45 per 100. Compared with the opening sale last year this is an increase of $1.19. Better quality is largely responsible for this, of course, but the short crop and resultant stronger demand figures largely also.

Buyers are taking to the country in numbers and as the farmers are disposed to sell direct from the barn, quite a good deal of tobacco is reported as having been contracted for during the past week, though no deliveries have yet been made on account of the weather. Rumors of all sorts of prices that are being paid are afloat, according to these reports some crops bringing as high as $12.50 per hundred around. But such figures are probably exaggerated, except possibly in a few isolated cases of exceptionally fine tobacco, and the general range is from $9 to $10. So far the buyers are especially anxious for the best crops and have skimmed the country looking for them. The close canvass and more complete roundup is yet to come.

The rehandling houses are all ready and waiting for deliveries to begin and as soon as sufficient stocks are on hand they will start up. They expect to put up from two to five million pounds a piece during the coming season.

PADUCAH, KY.

The loose leaf market has been very quiet. Occasional sales of the better crops are reported at prices ranging from 9 to 12 cents for leaf and 3 to 5 cents for lugs. There is little activity to be expected in loose leaf circles until the Italian Regie and snuff concerns begin buying.

Farmers throughout the district are a trifle more conservative in their ideas of prices than a week ago, and exhibit a disposition to bargain where they formerly held out for a top price. While it is true that the better part of the crop is unusually good, with strong body and excellent finish, there is mixed in with it a good deal of common and low grade tobacco.

THE CAROLINAS

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

The local tobacco market has picked up a bit, but nothing like what was expected. It was thought that the favorable weather would bring some heavy breaks.

Prices dropped a fraction, perhaps due to the increased weight, owing to the humidity of the atmosphere; or to the fact that there were some poor grades running through the breaks; and maybe it was due to a natural decline in prices. However, it is probably safe to say that the quality has had much to do with the price.

The weather conditions have been favorable to the handling of the weed, and there is no reason why there should not be some big breaks.

Agree on Sale of Tobacco

An agreement has been reached between the Green River Tobacco Growers' Association and the American Society of Equity of the Owensboro district, whereby the two organizations will act jointly in the sampling and sale of the crop. The poolers of each organization must ratify the sales. Samples will be taken immediately, and it is believed that a sale will be effected by December 10.

The Green River pool controls 10,000,000 pounds of tobacco in Daviess, McLean, Ohio and Hancock Counties, Kentucky, and Spencer County, Indiana. The Equity Society controls 1,000,000 pounds. The quality is much better this year and the price will be higher.

Heard Among Leaf Men

T. S. Hamilton, of Cincinnati, well-known tobacco man, has recently returned from Korea, where he has been visiting his daughter. While abroad Mr. Hamilton witnessed some of the so-called leaf sales in Japan. He says they resemble in some ways the loose leaf system used in the rural districts of this country.

The Board of City Commissioners of Lexington, Ky., by a vote of three to two, exempted the Burley Tobacco Society from the payment of $18,000 for back taxes, due the city on pooled tobacco and cash in banks during 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913.

The opening day of the market at Mt. Sterling, Ky., resulted in the sale of 180,000 pounds of tobacco at prices ranging from three cents to twenty-five and one-half cents. The market opened December 1.

The estimates of appropriations by the Secretary of the Treasury that Congress should make for the next fiscal year included an item of $25,000 "for investigating and improving tobacco and the methods of tobacco production." This sum last year was $31,630.

Short talks to Dealers

It is just as essential to use good cigarettes in order to build up a substantial cigarette business as to use good building material for a home. With you have a good, dependable foundation. Good, because the mild, mellow Turkish flavor of Fatimas is the flavor most desired by cigarette smokers. Dependable, because our process of manufacture insures the same uniform quality in each cigarette in every package.

FATIMA
TURKISH BLEND
CIGARETTES

And to increase the already enormous sale of Fatimas and to make it easy for you to build up a big, substantial trade with them, we are advertising them very heavily during 1913. More Fatima cigarettes are sold than any other brand in this country.

In fact, the 1913 Fatima advertising campaign will be one of the very biggest ever known for cigarettes.

And back of every ad—every cigarette and every dealer—stands the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.
